Chapter 1361 Power or Life?!

"There were only a few buildings, and a dozen or so young people with the same goals rolled up their sleeves and got to work."

"Your grandmother had received an education, and she knew a lot, so she became our leader."

"At that time, every day you could read from the newspapers which city was bombed, and how many people had died.

Your grandmother would cry when she saw it, then run back to study day and night."

"From nuclear weapons to viruses, water conservancy projects, chemical engineering, she was responsible for everything..."

"Your grandfather pitied her and wanted to take her for a break, but this woman who had been elegant all her life picked up a broom and chased your grandfather down several streets."

The old man spoke slowly, his face carrying a nostalgic smile. "Those who didn't see it with their own eyes wouldn't understand how great she was."

Selena said with a smile, "God did not treat such a good woman unfairly. Grandfather loved her all his life, and she had three very good and outstanding sons."

Mr. Chambers looked at the resilience in the girl's eyes and his smile became even gentler. "Later on, things gradually got better. The research institute grew larger, and more talents joined. Your grandmother finally had time to enjoy her own life."

"Your grandfather was a rascal, and he even made her give birth to three sons in one go!"

Selena touched her nose and resisted the urge to turn and look at Oscar. As far as she knew, Oscar was two years older than Callum. And Callum was five years older than the youngest uncle, so it was probably an accident in the end.

Mr. Chambers's voice suddenly lowered, "Not long after she gave birth to the youngest son, news suddenly came from the north that someone had discovered an enemy virus laboratory buried underground."

Selena's eyes suddenly widened.

"Your grandfather led the team and accompanied her there."

"However, during the process of destroying the laboratory, she was unfortunately infected."

"Your grandfather tried everything he could, but couldn't save his beloved wife's life," the old man's voice became low,

"She died in his arms."

"Before she passed away, she held your grandfather's hand and asked if the virus had been destroyed."

"Your grandfather said yes, and then she closed her eyes."

"She passed away with a smile on her face."

The conference room fell silent.

Selena's voice was cold and firm, "Grandmother was very happy, and the Turner family was proud of her achievements."

"My father and I won't let her down."

Mr. Chambers patted the girl's shoulder, pushed away his student who wanted to help him, and walked up to the podium with his crutch.

No one said anything to stop him.

The old man picked up a pen and wrote twenty-two heavy strokes under Selena's name.

These were all the founding members of the research institute.

With the addition of the Academy of Sciences, Selena's votes had already surpassed those of the Poole and Shaw families.

Vivian was unwilling to accept this and wanted to argue, but someone suddenly stood up inside the institute.

"I am Flynn, represent all the members of the engineering department and supports Miss Turner to become the next dean!"

Someone nodded, and the members of the research department followed suit. "The entire research department supports

Miss Turner to succeed as the dean!"

"Mr. Matthews, if it weren't for us old folks supporting the research institute all these years, can the institute still survive today with only you high-level leaders who have forgotten your original intentions?"

"The research institute is for scientific research, not a place for vile individuals to form factions and pursue personal gain.

Please give up your selfishness and keep the field of scientific research in H Country pure!"

More and more people stood up.

The dozens of high-level members of the research institute listened to the voices begging them to spare the field of scientific research in H Country and their faces turned ashen.

In this dead silence, a loud noise suddenly came from the door, and a man in black walked in.

Selena was surprised to see the man she had just sent away return, and she looked at him in astonishment.

"What are you..."

Osvaldo stopped in front of her and stared at her eyes with an inexplicably pale face.

Selena noticed that his skin was abnormally cold and thought he was worried. She said with a smile, "Don't worry, I'll succeed soon..."

Before she finished speaking, the man in front of her suddenly turned his head and stared at the high-level members of the research institute. He threw the sword in his hand onto the table.

There was no expression on his face, as if he were wearing a mask.

"Do you want power or life?!"

All the high-level members of the research institute, including Freddie, felt an indescribable chill when they heard this.

Almost without hesitation, several high-level members changed their minds.

"Miss Turner is outstanding and it is the general desire for her to succeed as the dean of the research institute!"

"The voting results are out, congratulations to Miss Turner!"

Henry looked at Osvaldo's eyes full of anger, thought of Christ who had left, and didn't hesitate anymore. He walked up to the stage and declared loudly, "I announce that the next dean of the academy will be Miss Turner!"

His urgent pace seemed as if he was being chased by a ghost.

After getting the answer he wanted to hear, the man turned around and pinched Selena's chin, bringing her close to his face, his eyes full of tenderness and indulgence. "Did they bully you?" he asked.

Selena was surprised to see this unfamiliar man.

Although she had already secured the position, was her boyfriend's intimidation too much? Curious, Selena replied, "No, they didn't."

Osvaldo turned his head and stared at Oscar and Patrick with his deep, dark eyes. Oscar showed no particular emotion, while Patrick frowned and said, "You scared her."

Once he confirmed that no harm had come to his girl from the Turner family, Osvaldo lowered his dark eyelashes and the anger in his eyes dissipated.

He didn't say anything else, picked Selena up and strode towards the door. Selena sensed the man's unusual emotions and didn't resist, obediently following him out.

Under the scrutiny of the crowd, the newly appointed dean of the academy was taken away by a man. It wasn't until Selena and Osvaldo had been gone for a while that the people in the meeting room gradually regained their senses.

Principal Marshall and the Union University students were the first to leave. The judges and the people from the Academy of Sciences also left quickly.

Selena had just taken over as dean and there were many procedures to follow, so she wasn't present and the Turner family had to take care of everything.

In addition, since Selena had become the dean, the Turner family would inevitably reorganize various departments.

With many tasks at hand, the Turner family stayed behind to help.

Christ sneered and left without any reluctance or nostalgia.

Freddie watched his back and gritted his teeth, "Just because of Selena?"

Christ turned his head and gave Freddie a glance. "The biggest difference between you and me is that I have never cared about taking things from others' hands."

Because it was well known...

Revenge On Love Rats After Rebirth by Olivia Marsh Chapter 1362 Change Of Ownership In The Research Institute!

Chapter 1362 Change of Ownership in the Research Institute!

What's taken by force will eventually be returned.

Freddie sneered, "Including women?"

It was no secret that Christ wanted to take Osvaldo's woman from him.

Christ's eyes turned cold, "She was originally mine!"

He had taken her from Osvaldo!

Irony appeared in Freddie's eyes.

No matter how noble the reasons might sound, it couldn't change the fact that it was all because the woman was Selena.

If it had been someone else, even if Christ didn't care, it didn't mean he could sit back and watch the other person take her back!

Christ was hit in his heart where it hurt the most, and he left with the Poole family.

Before getting into the car, Winnie looked back at the familiar research institute behind her.

She knew that soon, both the Poole family and the Shaw family's influence would disappear from this research institute.

The Turner family wouldn't let their people stay there anymore.

And she and Christ had a part in it.

Winnie thought she would regret it and be sad.

But in the end, she found that she didn't feel sad at all.

Let alone regret.

She even felt relieved.

Because even she had to admit that the research institute under the control of the Turner family was much better than the one controlled by the Poole and Shaw families.

The Poole and Shaw families only cared about fame and profit, and few of them truly cared about scientific research.

But the Turner family did.

Meredith, Callum, Selena, generation after generation... they would make this research institute better and better.

Fortunately.

The Poole family not only had a research institute, but also controlled the Inspection Institute.

At worst, there was...

Her brother, as the current head of the Poole family, would never let the Poole family fall out of the four major families.

Winnie took one last look before turning and getting into the car.

The car started and drove away from the research institute.

Winnie glanced at Christ sitting next to her.

The man was smoking and had a frustrated expression. Usually at this time, Winnie wouldn't dare to provoke him, but today for some reason, Winnie suddenly wanted to know the story between him and Selena.

Why did Christ say that Selena was originally his?

Unable to resist her curiosity, Winnie asked softly, "Brother, what's the story between you and Selena?"

Christ's deep gaze suddenly looked over.

Winnie was startled but forced herself not to look away.

Because she suddenly remembered that if it was Selena, she would certainly not look away out of fear. That woman would become stronger when faced with strength!

Perhaps because she had helped Selena by chance today, Christ rarely softened his cold expression and asked, "Do you want to know?"

Winnie gathered her courage and nodded, "Yes."

Looking at Winnie's sincere eyes, perhaps because he had been rejected by Selena too many times, even a heart of steel would be hurt. He suddenly had the desire to confide.

"Because without her, I would have died long ago."

Winnie widened her eyes in shock.

Without Selena, Christ would have died long ago?

How was that possible?

In Winnie's impression, this elder brother was extremely cold-blooded, and only he was the one making others beg for mercy on their knees.

She had never seen, or never thought, that Christ would also have a time when he was downwind and his life was at stake...

Christ saw her thoughts and sneered.

He pinched Winnie's chin and warned coldly,

"Remember, my life was given by her!"

"Don't ever have any crooked ideas towards her, do you understand?!"

Winnie's face turned pale, she nodded in a panic, indicating that she remembered.

Christ let her go, turned his head and looked out the window, clearly not intending to continue.

Winnie bit her lip and lowered her head, not daring to ask further.

If the Poole family was only regretful, then the Shaw family was in complete despair.

The Poole family had an inspection institute. Except for the research institute, the other forces of the Shaw family were not enough to support them as one of the four major families.

Osvaldo took Selena away for a long time, and Vivian finally came to her senses from the sudden disaster. She finally realized that she had caused a great disaster today!

If she had not trusted Selena and Oscar, and not allowed the people of the Shaw family to agree to the voting system, Selena would not have been able to take over the position no matter what!

Freddie probably knew early on that the voting system was advantageous to the Turner family, so he gave that deadly order.

And all of this was ruined by her own hands.

She had personally destroyed the foundation on which the Shaw family stood...

Vivian finally felt the overwhelming fear.

She sat slumped in the chair, hugging her arms and trembling. "Brother, save me, save me..." If anyone from the Shaw family found out, they would definitely kill her.

Freddie sat next to her, not turning to look at her, and simply said, "I'll send someone to take you out of the country soon. Don't come back in a short time."

Vivian's heart sank heavily.

Now that she, the culprit, had left, what would Freddie do?

Vivian finally regretted it and cried, "Brother, I'm sorry, I'm sorry..."

If only she hadn't foolishly believed Selena or recognized her terribleness earlier, and hadn't taken the initiative to secretly initiate a vote without Freddie's knowledge, the Shaw family wouldn't have reached this point.

Once the news of Selena taking over spread back to the Shaw family, they would definitely tear them apart limb by limb.

Freddie didn't pay attention to Vivian's tears and stood up, turning to leave.

Vivian panicked and followed, grabbing his sleeve.

"Brother, I know I was wrong, don't leave me alone..."

Freddie looked ahead and asked, "Vivian, do you see that?" Vivian followed his gaze and saw the Turner family people taking over the research institute in an orderly manner.

Some were looking at data, some were talking to people inside the institute, and some were counting something... But the most eye-catching was Oscar, surrounded by a large group of scientists, all of them the institute's heroes, old men who had supported it for most of the past twenty years since the Turner family left.

Despite being mostly elderly, they were all excited and beaming with joy. Even the young people standing not far away were looking at the Turner family people with admiration and excitement.

Vivian had never seen this scene before.

When the Shaw family was in charge of the institute, these people barely showed them any respect, let alone any kindness.

Without comparison, Vivian wouldn't have noticed the difference, but with it, she suddenly realized an even more heartwrenching fact: the Shaw family had never been welcome at the institute!

Meanwhile, on the stage, Patrick was taking over from Henry...

Revenge On Love Rats After Rebirth by Olivia Marsh Chapter 1363 I Like You

Chapter 1363 I Like You

On the high platform, Patrick took the seal from Henry's hands and helped Selena receive it from the dean.

Given Selena's methods and the feud between her and the Shaw family, the Shaw family's power within the research institute would surely be uprooted by her.

Vivian felt a pervasive chill and fear.

She stared at the researchers surrounding Oscar, unable to control the trembling of her teeth.

Freddie spoke in a low voice, "That is the failure of the Shaw family. Remember this scene well and never forget it!"

After speaking, Freddie walked out the door. Vivian stood in the back, watching her brother's retreating figure and suddenly burst into tears.

Osvaldo took Selena back to the villa.

Knowing that Selena was participating in the research institute election today, the servants in the villa were also not in the mood to work and waited at the door for news.

When they heard movement, the butler immediately led a group of people to greet them.

They saw their Madam Selena being held in the young master's arms and getting out of the car.

The butler frowned upon seeing this scene.

Osvaldo was the child he had watched grow up, so he naturally knew him better than anyone else.

Only when Selena was likely to be harmed would Osvaldo be so careful that he would not even let her walk by herself.

With Osvaldo around, Selena could not possibly be denied the position of the research institute's dean.

There was only one possibility left.

Had their Madam Selena suffered any grievances in the research institute?

The butler carefully studied Selena's expression, seeing the young girl's sweet and shy smile, which did not seem like she was sad or upset.

Selena tugged on Osvaldo's sleeve as she looked at the group of people at the door.

Osvaldo lowered his gaze to look at her.

Selena gave a soft cough, "I can walk by myself."

"Do you have anything to say to me?" he asked with a smile, his deep black eyes fixed on her without moving.

Selena smiled and whispered in his ear, "Thank you, honey."

In an instant, the man's dark emotions were smoothed over.

He listened to the sweet voice of Selena, and his eyes grew warmer, with a gentle tone as if he were coaxing a child, "Say it again."

Selena smiled, looked up at him, and said again, "Thank you, honey."

Osvaldo hugged her and kissed her forehead, "Good girl."

Selena could hear the joy in his voice and suddenly realized how to soothe an angry man.

She leaned over and kissed him, suppressing her shyness, "I like you."

Osvaldo's thin lips curved up, "What?"

Selena hugged his slender neck with both hands and said again, "I like you..."

The last trace of anger in Osvaldo's heart was smoothed out, and he finally let go of her without force. He raised the corners of his mouth and gently released Selena.

Selena finally got her freedom and breathed a sigh of relief.

The breath that Osvaldo had just taken was obviously provoked by something, and she didn't dare to provoke him much.

Selena didn't know what had happened, but she was sure it had something to do with her.

She looked up at the man standing beside her.

Osvaldo's eyes were too cold and too black, beautiful and elusive, as if they could pierce a person's soul.

Selena wanted to ask something, but it got stuck in her throat. Out of some intuition, she moved her gaze away and looked at the butler standing at the door, smiling and saying, "Noah, I did it."

The old butler immediately breathed a sigh of relief, "Congratulations, Madam Selena."

Selena smiled and took Osvaldo's hand, leading him into the gate.

...

The news of the change of ownership of the research institute spread throughout the capital in a very short time, causing a huge sensation.

Instantly, it caused a huge uproar.

Under the huge advantages of the Shaw family and the Poole family, the Turner family could actually crush them and take over the institute in broad daylight.

This result greatly exceeded everyone's expectations.

The Shaw family and the Poole family, among the four major families...

They had been working hard for almost twenty years to gain control of the research institute, while the Turner family had been in decline for twenty years.

Even with Oscar's return and Selena's sudden emergence, it was impossible to overturn the entire research institute in such a short period of time.

How could this be possible?!

But the fact was, the Turner family succeeded!

Selena became the new dean of the research institute!

This meant that from now on, the research institute would be back in the hands of the Turner family!

It also meant that the entire capital was about to experience a major change!

For a while, those families that had a grudge against the Turner family acted like headless flies, shocked and angry.

Even the Shaw family and the Poole family were defeated. Was it far from the Turner family's turn to deal with them?!

In the quiet study, Leon picked up the phone on the table and heard the voice inside. He said, "Got it," and hung up the phone.

He stood in front of the French window and stared at the scenery outside for a long time.

There was a sound of pushing the door behind him. Leon didn't turn around.

There were only a few people who could freely enter and exit his study.

Maddox walked to Leon's side with a crutch and said in a flat tone, "The institute has just changed hands."

Leon turned his head and looked at the gray-haired old woman next to him.

For some reason, he sneered, "Are you regretting it now?"

If they had treated that child better so many years ago, how could it have come to this point between the Riddle family and Selena?

Maddox said indifferently, "It's meaningless to bring up things that have already passed at this point."

Leon looked at his grandfather's cold face and remembered the dead girl. He smirked, "Grandma must be unable to sleep again..."

Since Penelope was locked up, Selena had become the person Daphne hated the most.

Maddox ignored his grandson's ridicule and asked, "Will she spare the Riddle family?"

Leon lowered his eyes and gave a positive answer, "No."

If she was the real Selena, there might still be a chance.

But that woman... she was obviously not her!

Maddox turned his head and stared at Leon, "Leon, will you watch her destroy the Riddle family?"

As expected, an old fox is still sly.

Maddox had been watching the situation from the sidelines for so long, but he finally couldn't help it.

The Riddle family had not raised Selena, so they couldn't use their blood ties against her.

But Leon was the next heir to the Riddle family.

He shared their honor and disgrace.

Leon didn't answer the question. He loosened the tie around his neck and turned to walk out of the door.

"Grandpa, if you have any means, use them on me. But please don't go after Hattie."

The door was closed again, leaving only a cold warning, "You have already lost your granddaughter.

You shouldn't want to lose your only grandson and granddaughter too!"

Revenge On Love Rats After Rebirth by Olivia Marsh Chapter
1364 Will You
Trust Me Once?
Chapter 1364 Will you trust me
once?

This is a clear warning.

Daphne was confused and was harming the bloodline of the Riddle family like a madman for Penelope.

And that woman who stayed in the Riddle family, along with the dragon and phoenix twins...

Everyone will bring danger to Hattie.

Leon didn't believe it, and Maddox didn't notice anything unusual about the Riddle family.

The Riddle family has already lost Selena. If Hattie is in trouble again, Leon, their grandson, will no longer be wanted.

The door was completely closed from the outside, leaving a dead silence.

After leaving the study, Leon went straight to Hattie's villa.

Hattie was getting ready to go out.

Seeing her like this, Leon knew she was going to congratulate Selena.

He laughed and rubbed her hair. "If you like her so much, then stay by her side for a while, okay?"

The conflict between the Riddle family was almost at a breaking point.

It would be dangerous for Hattie to stay in the Riddle family.

Sending her to Selena would be safer.

Unexpectedly, Hattie refused. "No, Selena is busy, I can't keep bothering her."

Leon raised an eyebrow and looked at Hattie in surprise.

Hattie was intelligent, and Leon didn't believe she didn't understand what he meant.

Not liking being treated like a doll, Hattie pulled Leon's hand off her head and said unhappily, "Brother, I'm thirteen, not a child anymore."

Leon frowned. "It will be dangerous to stay in the Riddle family."

Hattie looked up at him coldly. "Staying by Selena's side will distract her."

After dealing with the Poole family and the Shaw family, Selena would definitely go after the Riddle family next. If Hattie stayed by Selena's side, Selena might not have the heart to go after the Riddle family.

Facing Hattie's condemnation in her eyes, Leon smiled wryly. "That's not what I meant..."

Hattie snorted, "I know you are very difficult, but the Riddle family is deserved to have the revenge from Selena."

"I'm already doing my best by not helping Selena hurt anyone. It's impossible for me to go and plead for the Riddle family!"

she looked up at him, firmly sticking to her position.

Leon sighed, "But you can't stay in the Riddle's"

Hattie was still too young.

Maddox and Daphne are unreliable. If they can't protect her in case of danger, it will be very dangerous.

Hattie seemed to see something in Leon's eyes, but she refused again, "Brother, I'm not a kid anymore."
"If I don't go through those things, I'll never grow up, let alone avenge Mom."

"Brother, don't worry, I will be strong and obedient, and will never cause trouble for you and Selena again."

In the last sentence, she's voice was full of self-blame and loss. Obviously, she felt sorry for herself for causing trouble for Selena multiple times.

Leon looked at her innocent eyes and the deep sorrow that didn't match her age, feeling a bit heartbroken. "I understand."

Hattie knew that she wouldn't be sent away by her kind brother. She waved goodbye to him and left with her backpack to find Selena.

Watching Hattie's back as she left, Leon lit a cigarette with annoyance. His assistant came out from behind him and said,

"Miss Hattie is smart and always knows what's important. Why did she insist on this?"

Leon's annoyance deepened. "Hattie must know that those people will come after her."

Last time, those people made him witness his mother's death.

If they wanted to provoke her again this time, they would have to release even more information. Only when they come after her again can she find evidence and reveal the truth of her mother's death to the public. Only then can she avenge her mother in a dignified manner.

The assistant was shocked and looked at Hattie's gradually disappearing figure, but could only sigh,

"Young Master, what should we do?"

The Riddle family has so many dangerous people. It's not wise for Hattie to stay there.

After a moment of silence, Leon said, "Call Fraser and tell him I need to borrow a few people." Fraser is a special forces veteran and surely has friends he knows.

Besides, he wouldn't mind helping Selena's face and protecting Hattie.

After making arrangements, Leon left the Riddle family.

As soon as the car stopped, Hattie jumped out of the back seat. She walked into the garden with her backpack and saw Selena brewing tea on the wicker chair.

Hattie ran over happily, "Selena, congratulations."

Selena looked up, smiled at she, and poured her a cup of tea. "Seems like everyone knows already?" She opened her phone, and the page was almost flooded with congratulations.

Hattie held her chin with her hands, "Yes, you becoming the dean of the research institute is a popular choice."

She pouted, "If it were someone from the Poole or Shaw family taking the position, they would be criticized and condemned."

Selena laughed and observed Hattie's expression. After a moment, she spoke up, "Hattie, you can stay by my side lately."

She believed she understood what she meant.

Hattie shook her head and looked at Selena seriously, "Selena, can you trust me once?"

She couldn't keep hiding behind her and being her weakness. Anyone could use her to threaten Selena.

This powerlessness disgusted she!

Selena straightened her expression and looked at she's dark eyes, "But it will be dangerous..."

"I won't let them control me again!" Hattie shook her head with a determined expression. "Selena, I want to find evidence of their wrongdoing and seek revenge for my mother!"

"I promised you that I will live well and everyone around me will live well!" Listening to Hattie's determined voice, Selena sighed slightly, "I know."

Hattie was thirteen years old and should learn to grow up. And when she was thirteen years old...

Suddenly, a large amount of blood flashed in front of her eyes, and the crying and screaming of children echoed in her ears. The soldiers who were crying while shooting... Selena raised her hand and rubbed her forehead uncomfortably.

When she opened her eyes again, her expression had returned to calmness. "I will send someone to protect you, Hattie."

Hattie nodded, "Okay!"

She wanted to find evidence of the person who killed her mother, but that didn't mean she had to put herself in danger.

As long as she could ensure that those people couldn't use her mental illness to attack and control her, it was enough.

Selena gently touched her hair, "Go get the chessboard."

Hattie immediately turned around to get the chessboard.

It was obvious that Selena was going to teach her how to play chess.

Joke!

Chapter 1365 What a Joke!

When Osvaldo returned in the evening, he saw two girls with similar appearances sitting opposite each other in the garden.

Selena was speaking slowly, and Hattie was listening attentively, occasionally asking questions.

The chessboard between them was filled with black and white pieces, forming an extremely profound momentum as Selena moved them one by one.

The man stood quietly under the tree until it was late in the evening before he walked over, took Selena's hand, and led her back to the brightly lit hall.

The next morning, Selena drove back to the Turner family.

The butler was surprised to see the young lady returning alone and immediately welcomed her in, explaining in a low voice, "Master Oscar came back late last night and went to Zone Six early this morning."

"Master Patrick is in the research institute, and has not yet back. I'll call him."

Selena has too many important things to do now that she has become the director of the research institute.

The Turner family has cultivated many talents over the years, so Selena has already done the most important things, and the rest doesn't require her personal attention.

Selena shook her head.

Although she said that, the butler still called Patrick.

Selena rarely returned to the Turner family. Whenever Patrick received news that Selena was coming home, he would put down whatever he was doing and come back even if he was busy. But today, Oscar had already returned from Zone Six, and Patrick still hadn't come back even until evening.

Selena curled up in her room and read books all day.

When Oscar learned that the young lady had been waiting at home all day, he sent someone to invite her down for dinner.

Selena walked down and scanned the hall before sitting across from Oscar. "Will Patrick come back tonight?"

Oscar's tone was light. "The research institute has too much work, and he's been very busy these days."

"I see..." Selena's eyes darkened slightly, but she didn't press the matter. She accompanied Oscar for lunch and then drove back to her villa.

After Selena left, the butler looked in the direction she had left and muttered, "Young Master didn't even give Miss Selena a call today..."

Normally, if Patrick learned that Selena was waiting at the Turner family, even if he couldn't leave, he would certainly call her. But not today.

Oscar lowered his eyelids, hiding the expression in his eyes, "There are some things that she's better off knowing than not knowing."

Selena had come back today specifically to ask, and Freddie was using this as a condition to threaten Patrick.

Once this secret was exposed, their fake sibling relationship would no longer be sustainable.

The butler hesitated before speaking, "I'm afraid the young lady might overthink things..."

A child who grew up without parents and was all alone in the world, if even her elder brother was deliberately avoiding her, she would likely be hurt.

Oscar remained silent.

Compared to overthinking, the pain of finding out the truth was irreversible. Once Selena knew the truth, this child probably would never return to the Turner family again. Patrick didn't want to hurt Selena.

But...

Oscar turned his wheelchair and headed up the stairs.

Selena was driving in the evening breeze.

There was a hint of irritation in her eyes. Cassius knew she wasn't the real Selena and had told Freddie this secret. Freddie couldn't possibly not use this readymade leverage to threaten the Turner family. Patrick obviously knew something. But even if he knew her true identity, the research institute was a common goal for her and the Turner family, and Patrick couldn't persuade her to give up her bid for the position of the research institute's director to benefit the Shaw and Poole families. Clearly, besides this fact, the other side must have something else that could threaten the Turner family. Selena had come back to the Turner family today to get to the bottom of this matter. Unless necessary, she never avoided the worst possible outcomes. The research institute had already been regained, and once she wrapped up things in the other worlds, it wouldn't be so troublesome. The capital's affairs would soon be over. She would also soon return home. For both her and the Turner family, it might be a good thing to draw a clear line with them before contacting the federal authorities.

The only thing Selena hadn't expected was that Patrick would actually avoid her.

If Freddie really told Patrick about the fact that she was impersonating Selena and had a blood relationship with the

Turner family's enemies, there was no reason for him to tolerate her continuing to occupy the position of the Turner family's young miss.

So... what had she missed?

Selena was pondering a problem when she accidentally drove over the speed limit and was pulled over by traffic police at an intersection.

Looking at the two traffic police officers standing at the door and knocking on her car window, Selena hesitated for a moment.

One minute later, Selena obediently got out of the car wearing sunglasses, a mask, and a hat.

The two traffic police officers originally thought that the person who could drive at such a terrifying speed must be a very skilled man.

But they didn't expect that a young girl would come out of the driver's seat.

Although she lowered her head, her slender figure and childish breath made her look like a minor...

If the other party was an adult, they would be fined. But if she was a minor... this would be a big problem.

The traffic police frowned and asked for her ID. Selena lowered her voice and said she had forgotten to bring it. Half an hour later, Selena was forcibly taken to the traffic police department.

She sat on a chair, with her hair draped over her shoulders and wearing a cotton skirt, looking very cute and wellbehaved.

However, no matter how they asked, she refused to take off her mask and sunglasses.

The others in the traffic police department didn't really believe that she had violated any rules until they watched the surveillance footage and saw how fast she had been driving. They all looked at her in shock.

The police officer started questioning her as usual, "Are you an adult?"

Selena hesitated, wanting to say that she was already married.

But since she was not old enough to receive a marriage certificate according to her ID, she was afraid that her husband

Oswaldo would be under scrutiny if she said she was married. So she obediently said, "I am nineteen years old."

The interrogating officer looked her up and down for a while and said, "I don't think you're even eighteen. Do you have a driver's license?"

Selena didn't know what a driver's license was.

Although the traffic police couldn't see her face clearly, they could feel her bewildered expression and her lips twitching.

Not wanting to scold such a pretty girl, the officer decided to educate her parents when they arrived.

"Wait here. You can't leave until your parents arrive."

Selena thought it would be a big joke if she waited for someone to come and redeem her. "I have an urgent matter and I have to leave," she said.

But the traffic police officer glared at her, as if she was looking at a delinquent teenage girl, "Even if you have an urgent matter, you can't drive over the speed limit!"

Revenge On Love Rats After Rebirth by Olivia Marsh Chapter 1366 Where Is Selena?

Chapter 1366 Where is Selena?

"How many traffic safety issues are caused by speeding? Haven't you heard that saying?" The traffic police lifted his hand and pounded the table loudly, "There are a thousand rules for the road, but safety comes first!"

After lecturing for a while, the traffic police took out his phone and asked for the parents' phone number.

Selena hesitated.

Finally, Selena reluctantly gave Osvaldo's phone number to the traffic police.

After making the call, the traffic police looked at the girl who was tightly covering herself and laughed, "Are you embarrassed now? When you were speeding, did you ever think about the consequences of getting caught?" Selena remained silent.

Perhaps noticing the girl's despair, the traffic police waved his hand and said, "Sit tight and wait for your parents. When they come, I'll have a good talk with them..."

After waiting for about ten minutes, Osvaldo walked in. He immediately saw his wife sitting obediently on a chair and walked over to her.

"Shh," Osvaldo's eyes flashed with a hint of a smile as he ran his slender fingers through her hair. "I received a call from the traffic police. They said you were driving at almost the speed of a plane and needed to be taught a lesson. Be good and sit over there for a while."

As he spoke, he placed the milk tea he had just bought on Selena's hand and patted her head. "Go to sleep if you're tired."

The traffic police was probably too old and his eyesight was not good. In addition, Osvaldo deliberately restrained his momentum, so the police officer didn't notice anything wrong and shook his head. "Isn't this the truth?"

Nowadays, young people completely ignore safety in pursuit of excitement. Most car accidents in recent years involve young people. While you're still young, you can still be molded. Today, you must accept some ideological education..."

The traffic police rambled on, discussing everything from driving rules to traffic laws to juvenile education laws.

Selena wanted to ask Osvaldo to take her away several times, but every time she saw the man's engrossed expression as he listened to the "education," she couldn't bring herself to speak. In the end, it was all her fault.

Selena had originally thought that Osvaldo, being such a busy man, would be impatient to listen to all of this.

But she didn't expect him to lean there, listening with relish.

Osvaldo is not a person who likes to listen to people talk.

However, for her, he is willing to stand here and listen to people lecture him, even though he is uncomfortable.

Selena feels guilty and timid, so she sits on the sofa with her milk tea, waiting with wide eyes for the lecture to end.

But even after she finishes her milk tea, the police officer's lecture continues.

Selena turns to look at Osvaldo, who still has a lazy and smiling expression, and seems very interested in the underage education law.

After listening for a while, Selena falls asleep on the sofa.

She was already in a bad mood today, and it was difficult not to fall asleep with this hypnotic education. At the moment Selena falls asleep, Osvaldo's gaze falls on her, with a hint of a smile.

What a naive girl, so easy to fool.

Osvaldo walks over to Selena, takes off his coat and covers her with it, then turns to look at the police officer and points to the door.

The police officer had already figured out that the two were in a romantic relationship.

They were both good-looking.

Osvaldo stands at the door, ensuring that Selena does not leave his line of sight and that she is not disturbed while sleeping.

The police officer looks at the man's caring and gentle expression and smiles, "Is she your girlfriend?"

Osvaldo smiles, "No."

The police officer is surprised. Did he see it wrong? Impossible, the way this man looks at she, he almost melts.

Oswaldo smiles, with a hint of joy in his eyes, "She's my wife."

The police officer was stunned.

After a few seconds, the police officer looks at the girl sleeping on the sofa, covered by the man's coat, and frowns, "Is she legal age?"

Oswaldo's lips curl up slightly in blood red, "She's nineteen."

"No wonder," the police officer murmurs, "But wait... she's not old enough to get married yet, so how can she be your wife?"

Oswaldo seems to be pleased with that title and a warm hue flashes in his eyes, "We're engaged. As soon as she's older, we'll have the wedding."

The police officer looks at the girl, then back at Oswaldo, with doubt in his eyes, "Are her parents okay with her getting married so young?"

If a family had such a beautiful daughter, they would surely be very protective and wouldn't easily agree to let her be whisked away by an outsider before she was officially of age.

Oswaldo's lips curl up, "She doesn't have parents."

The police officer is stunned for a moment, then laughs, "Well, you'd better secure her quickly. With her looks, someone might try to steal her away..."

After Selena had a nap, Osvaldo's verbal scolding finally ended.

Selena was finally successfully escorted by the "parents" to the traffic police brigade.

She stood at the door, looked up at the sign, and said softly, "I will never speed again in the future!"

Osvaldo's lips curled slightly. It's no secret that Selena likes to drive like a fighter jet.

He hadn't found a chance to rectify her behavior for so long.

Giving her a lesson would fix it, right?

Osvaldo held Selena's hand and took her to the car. When they returned to the villa, it was already nine o'clock in the evening.

The dining table was set with carefully cooked late-night snacks, and the butler asked, "Madam Selena, where did you go? Why did you come back so late?"

Selena rarely stayed overnight at the Turner family's place, and Leia didn't follow her today.

Before it got dark, they called the Turner family to inquire.

The Turner family said that Selena would come back later, but didn't say what she was doing. They only said that their young master was with her and that nothing would happen.

Selena wished she could just forget about today's embarrassment and coughed, "It's okay, Noah, I just... went out to have fun." She glanced at Osvaldo and whispered.

The butler didn't ask any more questions.

After supper, Selena went to the basement to train with Osvaldo until 11 o'clock before the man carried her back to the room.

One hour earlier, Patrick finally got away from the research institute and returned to the Turner family.

Before entering the house, he stopped for a moment and then pushed the door open.

The butler had been waiting and greeted him, "Young Master, you're back."

Patrick looked around and his voice was hoarse.

"Where's Selena?"

The butler's expression became strange, and he hesitated before saying, "She should be at the traffic police brigade now."

Patrick asked, "What?"

Chapter 1367 Shameless Old Man!

The butler coughed, "Miss Selena was caught speeding while driving today and was stopped by the police."

Oscar was worried about Selena and had someone secretly follow her.

The Turner family was the first to receive the news of Selena being taken to the traffic police station, but Selena clearly had no intention of letting anyone know about this embarrassing incident, so the Turner family pretended not to know.

Patrick turned around to go and rescue Selena, but the butler spoke up again, "Mr. Anderson has already gone."

Patrick paused in his steps.

As he looked at the dark night outside the door, his eyes conveyed an indescribable meaning.

Whenever Selena encountered something, she always sought out that man.

Deep down in her heart, perhaps she never really considered the Turner family as her own family.

After a long time, Patrick spoke up, "It's all right, Tom. Go rest."

The butler probably sensed the awkwardness between the siblings and sighed, "Young Master has asked you to go find him."

Patrick went upstairs and into Oscar's room.

...

The next morning, Selena took Leia to the research institute early.

The Turner family acted quickly, and with the support of the researchers who wanted Selena to take charge, the handover was completed in just one day.

As someone who never wasted time, Selena's first task in office was to settle accounts.

In just a few days, the backbone forces of the Shaw family and the Poole family within the research institute were completely uprooted.

The remaining minor forces were only a matter of time before they were cleared out as well.

This was the first time that people from the major families had witnessed Selena's methods as a leader.

Her actions were quick and ruthless, striking at the heart of the matter, and what was even more frightening was that she left no room for anyone to find fault.

The Shaw family, which had been in business for so many years, was completely crushed and fell out of the four major families without any surprise.

The downfall of the Shaw family also marked the beginning of a new round of reshuffling in the capital's power structure.

Those families that had never had any grudges against the Turner family no longer hesitated and immediately sought opportunities to align themselves with the Turner family.

With the fall of the Shaw family, the Poole family remained undecided, and those who had a grudge against the Turner family had no choice but to turn to the Soo family, who were related to Selena and the Riddle family.

While the Shaw family's downfall could be attributed to the victor and the vanquished, the Soo family's treacherous behavior was unacceptable to anyone.

Nicholas, ambitious as he was, would not let go of this opportunity, and he welcomed all defectors.

The Soo family, breaking from their past of being reserved and low-key for over two decades, openly became one of the four new major families in the capital.

However, Selena was unaffected by the external forces at the moment as she had been busy in the research institute, improving the discipline and atmosphere.

After she had established the proper workflow in each department, Selena's work finally came to an end.

Osvaldo brought her back to the villa, and after a good sleep, Selena finally had the mood to pay attention to other matters.

In the fragrant garden, Selena listened to Leia's detailed report about the latest developments in the capital, showing no surprise at all. She then asked about the Shaw family, "The Shaw family's siblings must be having a hard time lately, right?"

Leia sneered and replied, "The young master of the Shaw family has taken all the blame on himself. If he hadn't taken the fall for Vivian, she would have been beaten to death by the Shaw family's people long ago."

Selena raised her eyebrows slightly.

Although the Shaw family had declined, Freddie had been in power for many years, and he had not openly broken ties with Osvaldo.

The Shaw family could not act openly against him even if they hated him.

Moreover, there was still Diana in Freddie's grip.

Selena smirked, "The Shaw family's siblings may not have given up yet, so keep an eye on them!"

Osvaldo had already given orders for this, so there was no need to remind him.

Leia asked Selena, "Madam Selena, do we need to deal with the Soo family?"

The Soo family had been established for many years and was more powerful than the Shaw family, and with Nicholas' ambitious nature, they were sure to use any means necessary.

Selena put down her teacup and picked up a book. "It's just a matter of time, no need to make it so complicated," she said calmly. After speaking, Selena suddenly seemed to think of something and narrowed her eyes slightly.

The Turner family had just regained control of the research institute, so it was not advisable to make big moves for the time being. On the other hand, the Soo family was in the midst of recruiting human resources.

Except for the Poole family, almost all the families in the capital who had grudges with the Turner family would seek out the Soo family.

This included...

Selena's eyes flickered with a hint of playful cunning as she instructed Leia, "If Mr. Riddle calls in the next few days, please agree on my behalf."

Leia carefully interpreted Selena's words and then exclaimed in surprise, "Madam Selena, are you suggesting that the Soo family may cooperate with the Riddle family?!"

After all, Selena herself was a member of the Riddle family. If they teamed up with outsiders to target their own blood, such a thing...

But when Leia thought of the Riddle family's coldness towards Nevaeh in the past, she suddenly felt that they were indeed capable of such a thing when it came to family matters. Who would care about a granddaughter they had never cared about before when it came to their family's interests?

Moreover, Selena had publicly stated her intention to target the Riddle family in front of Maddox...

Leia looked at Selena's pure face and thought of her own young apprentice, feeling a bit sad. She whispered, "Mr. Riddle shouldn't be so heartless..."

Selena's expression remained indifferent. "Regardless of Leon's capabilities, he still has to call Maddox 'grandfather' in public. Besides, I've already said that I won't let the Riddle family off the hook. Just for this reason, the other members of the Riddle family cannot just sit back and watch the Turner family grow."

With the Turner family already engaged to the Anderson family, the probability of the Soo family cooperating with the Riddle family was high.

As for the ultimate outcome for the Riddle family...

It all depended on who was more skilled, Leon or Maddox.

Selena's eyes darkened as she coldly chuckled.

Leia was so angry that she could hardly contain herself.

"Those shameless old bastards!"

Selena reached out and gently stroked the young girl's hair to soothe her.

Leia looked at Selena's unchanging face and spoke softly, "Madam Selena, Madam Laurence called this morning and invited you to go out for tea this afternoon. Shall we bring Miss Hattie along?"

Selena said with a smile, "Sure, let's go."

Chapter 1368 Made Her Laugh!

Selena chuckled, "Let's go."

Leia immediately turned around and made a phone call. Soon, Lady Lauren's car stopped outside the villa to pick up Selena. Selena took Leia with her and went to the designated location to meet Hattie.

Hattie was standing by the roadside with a backpack. Leia opened the car door, and Selena thought she would jump up happily as usual. But she saw Hattie standing on the roadside, looking at her with a difficult expression. Selena raised her eyebrows and then saw someone open the car door behind Hattie. Leon walked out gracefully and smiled at her, "Lady Selena, do you have time to chat?" Selena's eyes flickered slightly, but her expression remained calm, "Of course."

Lady Lauren smiled and walked down to take Hattie's hand, "I'll take Hattie for a walk and pick you up later." Selena touched Hattie's hair, "Go ahead, nothing will happen."

Hattie frowned and glared at Leon warningly. If it weren't for Leon telling her that he had something important to discuss with Selena, she wouldn't have agreed to bring him to meet Selena.

After Lady Lauren and Hattie left, Selena turned and walked towards the café on the street. Leia looked at Leon strangely for a moment, then followed Selena.

Selena walked into the café and looked around before walking upstairs. Leon followed behind her and pushed open the door of a private room when Selena stopped.

Erica, who was sitting inside the room, immediately stood up when she heard the noise. She walked to the door and carefully looked at Selena for a moment. There was a hint of affection in her eyes as she said, "You've grown so much in the blink of an eye."

Selena looked at the gentle and elegant woman and showed no surprise on her face. Hearing her words, there was a faint glimmer in her eyes, "Mrs. Riddle."

"Don't call me that awkward name," Erica raised her chin, "you can call me Officer Erica!"

Selena smiled and readily complied, "Officer Erica."

Erica saw her smile and walked back to sit at the table, waving her hand at Leon, "I need to talk to Selena for a few moments. You can wait outside."

Leon glanced helplessly at his mother and eventually turned and walked out.

Erica personally poured a cup of tea for Selena and looked at the beautiful young girl in front of her, liking her more and more.

When she was young, she was injured while on a mission and after giving birth to Leon, she was not suitable to have any more children. So even though she always envied having a daughter, she couldn't have one of her own. It was inevitable that there was some regret.

And Selena bore some resemblance to Leon. If she had a daughter, she would surely be just as pretty and obedient as Selena.

"You look so much like Nevaeh..." Selena had become immune to people saying she looked like Nevaeh. After all, everyone who knew Nevaeh said the same thing.

Selena smiled faintly. "I'm different from my mother."

Erica nodded. "Your personality is indeed more like your father's."

Selena remained silent.

She could only comfort herself in secret. This was Selena's body. It was only natural that she was like her own parents.

Erica teased, "I've been wanting to meet you, but couldn't find the opportunity. Now I finally have."

Selena knew that this lady wouldn't want to meet her for no reason, but if Erica didn't bring it up, she wouldn't either.

"I'm pretty busy, so please don't mind, Officer Erica."

Erica chuckled at her serious face. "No need to be so formal."

"In terms of feelings, your mother and I were good friends."

"In terms of reason, I only stand for justice and righteousness," Selena said.

Selena smiled, "Well, I'm sure my mother will recognize you as a friend even if she doesn't recognize her sister-in-law."

Erica chuckled again. "Your mouth is so sweet."

Selena wondered why Daphne didn't want such a pretty and cute granddaughter and instead spoiled Penelope, who was sweet-faced but had a bad heart.

After a few words, Erica's smile faded. "Leon said you're planning to go after the Riddle family. Can you tell me why?"

Selena replied without revealing anything. "It's probably the same reason why you insisted on seeing me."

If Erica wasn't an experienced police officer with a sharp intuition, she might have been deceived by Selena. She looked into Selena's clear, dark eyes for a moment before showing surprise on her face. "You don't remember?"

Although it was a question, her tone was affirmative.

Selena remained calm. "I don't remember it very well. After all, I was young at the time and didn't remember much."

"But it's enough," Erica said.

She looked at Erica, her eyes with a hint of coldness.

"Would you help me recall something?"

Erica stared at Selena, but did not speak.

Clearly, she had not expected Selena to have forgotten everything. Even in her current state, Selena had no plans of letting the Riddle family go.

If Selena ever learned the truth...

After a long silence, Erica shook her head. "It's not that I don't want to help you. But if Nevaeh wants you to forget this memory, I cannot just tell you anything."

Selena picked up the teacup on the table and took a sip. She couldn't deny Erica's answer.

Looking at the girl's indifferent expression, Erica said, "If you ever remember and decide to seek revenge, I will help you."

"I will be a witness for you and Nevaeh, and I will help you expose the truth and send those criminals to court!"

This was exactly what Selena had been waiting for.

She raised her teacup, toasted Erica, and smiled.

"Thank you, Officer Erica."

Erica returned the gesture with a cup of her own.

The two of them made a promise over tea.

Before leaving, Erica said to Selena, "I know you want to retaliate against the Riddle family. The old lady and the old man got what they deserved, and the second family deserved their punishment too."

"But..." Erica glanced in the direction of the door and chuckled. "Be gentle with my son, especially his face. I'm still waiting to use his face to have my granddaughter."

After all, everyone in the capital knew that Miss Turner was the best at slapping faces.

Daphne and Maddox would not be spared.

Selena raised an eyebrow, smiling, and promised solemnly, "Don't worry, Officer Erica. As long as Mr. Riddle doesn't mess with me, I promise to give him back to you in one piece."

With the assurance, Erica stood up, graceful and confident, and walked out.

A few minutes later, Leon, dressed elegantly, walked in and sat opposite Selena.

"Has he told you about the recent developments in the capital?"

Selena did not look up, holding her teacup and sipping slowly.

Revenge On Love Rats After Rebirth by Olivia Marsh Chapter 1369 Meeting At A Narrow Road

Chapter 1369 Meeting at a Narrow Road

In the midst of the mist, Selena's expression was somewhat blurred. It wasn't until she finished drinking a cup of tea seriously and placed the teacup down that she looked up at Leon. "I only target those who have harmed my mother. As long as the Riddle family doesn't side with and protect them, I won't do anything to other members of the Riddle family."

After saying this, Selena nodded at Leon and stood up and walked out. Leon looked at the slender figure of the girl and lowered his eyelids. She was still as cold as ever...

...

Lady Lauren had not been shopping for long with Hattie when Selena arrived with Leia. As soon as Hattie saw her, she immediately ran up and asked, "Selena, did they bully you?!"

Selena looked at her eager eyes and smiled, "No."

Seeing that Selena didn't seem unhappy, Hattie put her heart at ease.

Lady Lauren walked over with a fan and sighed slightly.

"Selena, I was wondering... did you forget about the engagement between you and my son?"

Selena coughed guiltily. "No, I had planned to finish my work first and then prepare for it."

Please forgive her! As a warrior in daily life for over ten years, someone has always arranged everything for her. She really can't think that much about everyday life. Moreover, the Turner family has no female relatives, and no one reminds her deliberately, so Selena really didn't care about the engagement between her and Osvaldo.

Actually, she wasn't completely indifferent. It was just that she didn't know what she should do.

Lady Lauren sneered and probably saw the awkward situation of she. She waved her fan and said, "Follow me."

Selena held Hattie's hand and obediently followed.

Lady Lauren took Selena to a tastefully decorated shop. The shop was spacious, and the air was filled with the fragrance of precious sandalwood.

The female shopkeeper, dressed in a dark green cheongsam, was embroidering by the frame. She lifted her head when she heard footsteps and a faint surprise flashed in her eyes when she saw the beautiful ladies come in.

Standing up calmly, she said with a smile, "Madam, Miss Turner, Miss Riddle."

Lady Lauren took Selena to sit down, and then said with a smile, "Last time I came here, I ordered a batch of clothes for my daughter-in-law. Today, I happen to have some free time, so I brought her here to try on some clothes."

The news of the engagement between Miss Turner and the young master of the Anderson family had already spread in high society circles.

The cheongsam shopkeeper stared at Selena for a moment and said in a gentle voice, "Please wait a moment."

Then she turned and went upstairs.

Selena rarely came into contact with this style of things, and she was curious for a rare moment, looking around. Then she was amazed by the embroidery on the embroidery frame.

Indeed, anything valued by Lady Lauren must be good. Hattie looked for a moment and asked, "Madam Laurence, is this the shop opened by Lady Lola?" Lady Lauren pinched Hattie's cheeks and said, "You're very smart."

Seeing Selena's puzzled expression, Hattie explained to her, "Selena, Lady Lola is the top embroiderer in the capital. Her embroidery pieces are all fought over by those women in the capital."

"My mother has come here to order clothes a few times when she needs to perform on stage in the future."

While she was talking, Lady Lola came down from upstairs with a tray in her hand and walked up to Selena. There was a fiery red dress on the tray, "Madam Selena, please try it on."

Selena knew this was Lady Lauren's kindness, and there was no reason to refuse, so she took the dress into the fitting room.

"There are a few more upstairs. Madam, come upstairs with me to take a look."

Lady Lauren instructed Hattie for a few words and went upstairs with Lady Lola.

Hattie and Leia waited downstairs for Selena.

And during this gap, two people suddenly walked in from outside the door. A man and a woman.

The woman had a gentle appearance, with her hair tied up into an exquisite bun with a white jade hairpin, and was wearing a vintage white dress. Her skin was white, and her whole person exuded an obvious elegance.

As for the man...

Hattie frowned at the young man who walked in, and Leia looked unfriendly.

Obviously, the people who walked in from outside did not expect to see them.

After a moment of surprise, his gaze almost subconsciously swept around the shop, not seeing who he wanted to see,

before finally falling on Hattie's face.

He smiled slightly, "Hattie, did you come here alone?"

Hattie, although a bit unhappy, still politely greeted, "Hello, Alfie."

Alfie raised his hand and touched her hair.

This was something he used to do often.

Hattie pushed his hand away, wrinkling her nose, and dissatisfiedly said, "Alfie, I'm not a child anymore!"

The woman next to Alfie also looked at Hattie and smiled, "What a cute child, Mr. Soo, won't you introduce me?"

Alfie's tone was very plain, "This is Miss Riddle."

The woman hesitated for a moment, then nodded at Hattie and said in a gentle tone, "Hello, Miss Riddle, I'm Aurelia Bennett."

Although Hattie didn't like to interact with strangers, she still said, "Hello," then turned and ran away.

Leia had been pretending not to see the two people from beginning to end.

Aurelia chuckled, "This child is really lively."

Alfie's expression was warm, and it was impossible to tell what he was thinking. "What do you want to buy?"

Aurelia looked around the store.

The clothes on the shelves were good, but there were many exquisite jewelry items on display that would catch the eye of any girl who loves beauty.

Aurelia was no exception. She walked in front of the shelves and occasionally picked up an item to play with, but didn't choose any.

Leia stood shoulder to shoulder with Hattie outside the fitting room, with synchronized expressions, staring at the two people opposite as if they were facing a great enemy. Alfie stood at the door patiently waiting for Aurelia to make a selection.

After looking for a moment, Aurelia soon picked up an ancient-looking and delicate wooden hairpin and walked up to Alfie, asking softly, "Mr. Soo, how about this one?"

Alfie glanced at it and his tone was still plain, "If you like it, then it's good."

Aurelia's expression dimmed for a moment, but her tone still carried a smile. "Mr. Soo, you're mistaken.

This is for men,
it's not suitable for girls."

Alfie's expression didn't show any embarrassment. "I was mistaken."

Aurelia's face changed.

The atmosphere became awkward for a moment.

And in this silence, the bead curtain of the fitting room was suddenly lifted from inside.

Dress!

Chapter 1370 Wedding Dress!

Selena, dressed in a fiery red gown, walked out from inside. She probably didn't bother to style her hair, and her jet-black long hair hung loosely behind her.

However, it didn't diminish her beauty at all.

Selena rarely wore such bright colors, but it complemented her fair complexion and made her look even more stunning.

Most importantly, it was clearly a wedding dress.

The phoenix embroidered in fiery red on the dress looked lifelike, as if it could come alive at any moment.

When she walked out, the entire space seemed to brighten up.

"Leia, help me with my hair," Selena said crisply, but her voice stopped abruptly when she saw two more people in the room.

Selena's lips, painted in a seductive red, tightened slightly, and she nodded at Alfie to acknowledge his presence. Then she walked towards Leia and asked, "Where is my mother-in-law?"

Leia and Hattie were both staring at Selena in a daze, but when they heard her question, they snapped out of it.

Leia looked at Selena's stunning wedding dress and couldn't help but think of what Osvaldo would do if he found out that his wife was wearing a wedding dress for another man to see.

Hattie, on the other hand, was simply awed and exclaimed, "Selena, you look so beautiful!"

Selena touched her hair gently and said, "When you grow up, Hattie, you'll be just as beautiful as me!"

Although Hattie didn't understand Leia's thoughts, she noticed that Alfie was staring at Selena without blinking and sensed that something was off.

She held Selena's hand and said, "Madam Laurence is upstairs. Let's go find her and help you with your hair."

As Selena was being led away by Hattie, a voice suddenly called out from behind her, "Excuse me, miss!"

Selena turned around when she heard the unfamiliar voice.

Aurelia was walking towards her, still holding the jade hairpin, and bowed to Selena, saying in a gentle voice, "Excuse me, miss, my name is Aurelia Bennett. I apologize for intruding, but I have a request for you."

Selena watched Aurelia's every move and heard her soft words. She asked calmly, "What can I do for you, Miss Bennett?"

Aurelia bit her lip, seeming hesitant to speak. Finally, she said, "I have an unusual request, and I hope that you can help me with it."

Selena's dark eyes didn't reveal any emotion. "Oh?" Aurelia's gaze fell on Selena's red wedding dress, and a hint of obsession and fondness flashed in her eyes.

"I've been deeply influenced by a person since childhood, and I especially love this type of object. The wedding dress you're wearing is exquisitely crafted, and I've never seen anything like it. I wonder if you can bear to part with it and give it to me?"

After finishing her sentence, as if afraid of Selena getting angry, she hurriedly added, "Rest assured, I'm definitely not trying to snatch your love for no reason. The price is up to you!"

Looking at the other person's anxious expression, Selena seemed to feel that her request was impolite, and her eyes turned red with anxiety. But the gaze clinging to her was so intense, as if the person really liked the dress very, very much.

Selena lowered her head and looked at the dress on her body - a fiery red wedding dress. The fabric was delicate and the embroidery was extremely rare. It was indeed a rare find.

However...

Selena smiled slightly, "Miss, since you can tell that this is a wedding dress, you naturally should know its significance."

"How could a girl's engagement dress be given away?"

Aurelia seemed not to have expected to be rejected directly, and her expression instantly became more anxious, "I... I can exchange it with you..."

"Whether you want a wedding dress or any other type, I can help you find it."

"I only ask that you give me this wedding dress..."

Selena's lips curled up in a cold smile, "Since you can get anything you want, why insist on this dress of mine?"

"If you really like it, find someone to make you one."

Aurelia laughed bitterly and shook her head, "Miss, do you not know?"

Selena raised an eyebrow.

Aurelia said, "Lola only makes one of each item, and there will never be another identical one."

"Before you wear this dress, there will never be a second one in the world."

"That's why I'm so anxious and implore you to grant my request..."

Selena looked at her sincere expression, her lips curled up in a smile without warmth, and she did not speak.

Leia, who had seen Aurelia force Selena several times, became angry, "Lady Selena has already refused you.

Did you not hear her?"

"Your liking it is your business. What does it have to do with my lady?"

"This dress was specially customized for Lady Selena, for her engagement. It cannot be given away."

"If you like it, you can go find one yourself."

After finishing speaking, he said to Selena, "Madam Selena, Madam Laurence must be anxious upstairs, let's go up."

Selena didn't want to argue anymore, turned around and headed upstairs.

Aurelia really seemed to love that wedding dress very much. When she saw Selena leaving, her eyes turned red with urgency. Subconsciously, she looked back and gazed at Alfie behind her.

Alfie's gaze was firmly fixed on Selena, his eyes were hazy and distant, as if he was trapped in some distant dream and unable to snap out of it.

Aurelia whispered, "Mr. Soo, can you help me..."

Alfie was brought back to reality by Aurelia's call, and as he watched Selena's back leaving, his eyes flickered, but he finally spoke, "Miss Turner, please wait."

Selena stopped on the stairs and turned her head to look down at Alfie. Her tone was indifferent, "Mr. Soo, is there something you need?"

Alfie met her cold and distant gaze, and for some unknown reason, he said, "Would you be willing to part with the wedding dress on you?"

Upon hearing Alfie speak up, Aurelia's face lit up with joy. Leia, on the other hand, was furious. She had already let this man see Selena wearing the wedding dress for the first time, but he still shamelessly wanted Selena to give him the dress.

"Mr. Soo, are you planning to openly steal Madam Selena's dress?!" Leia exclaimed.

Alfie kept his gaze fixed on Selena, his expression unclear, "I can trade something with you."

"Whatever you ask for, as long as you let me have the dress," he added.

Aurelia never expected that Alfie could go this far just for her small request. Her expression burst into joy, but then turned into worry. What if Selena made an unreasonable request from the Soo family...

Selena looked at the picturesque man with a smile that lacked warmth, "Mr. Soo, are you trying to threaten me?"

Alfie didn't deny it, but he looked into her eyes as if he wanted to say something...
