

Chapter 29

Angelina was going to continue speaking, but Sebastian didn't want to listen to her ramblings anymore. The veins on his forehead seemed to bulge a little when he roared, "Enough!"

Angelina immediately fell silent. Her parting lips seemed like she was about to retaliate, but ultimately, she merely smiled sadly at him and said, "Well, I think you've put in a lot of effort to make me do these things for you, but eventually, you're still not willing to waste any more time on me. I just hope you treat her well and don't... don't let her down....."

Angelina seemed to be unable to stand up anymore. Her body began to stagger, and she was starting to struggle to speak.

There was neither hatred nor affection in her eyes. All that was left was relief.

She laughed softly and gradually fell to the ground, but she still managed to mutter her last words, "I only hope to never see you again in our next lives..."

And that was the whole process of Angelina's character falling and dying.

She didn't fall to the ground, but her acting and performance were good enough.

Sebastian was astonished to find Angelina wiping her tears as she pulled herself out of her character.

He rubbed his nose, feeling both frustrated and surprised.

"This is the first time I've been so immersed in a screen test."

Director Gail was even more dumbfounded when he came back to his senses and heard Sebastian's words.

Angelina managed to make the scene immersive?

She was his perfect third female lead!

She fit the role perfectly!

He was also incredibly satisfied with her appearance!

Director Gail was over the moon.

Angelina's lips twitched slightly, but she still smiled modestly. "You're too kind, Mr. Alston. It's clearly your outstanding acting that immersed me into the role," said Angelina.

"Tsk."

Sebastian went back to his seat without saying anything after that.

As for the people outside, they were all puzzled as no sound of yelling or scolding could be heard the whole time Angelina was there.

"Why was she inside there for so long? Could it be that she performed well and caught the director's attention?"

The person standing beside her immediately retorted, "How is that possible? Don't you know who she is?"

"I don't..."

"That's Angelina Jones! The one who has skipped eight out of ten classes! She's poor at academics and even failed a subject. How can someone like that perform well?"

Lilian frowned slightly, feeling a sense of unease in her heart. Did Angelina actually pass the audition?

However, based on what she had heard before, the female lead and the male lead had already been decided.

It was impossible for Angelina to be chosen by Director Gail.

Did she audition for another role?

That couldn't be!

Angelina has always been bold, arrogant, and stubborn. If Director Gail didn't let her audition for the female lead, she would surely be discontent and insist on trying. Seeing such a personality, Director Gail might even kick her out. However, why was there no sound from inside?

Just when everyone was wondering what was going on, Angelina came out of the room.

Everyone focused their gaze on her face. They all let out a sigh of relief when they saw that her expression didn't look good.

That was what they expected!

If she had actually come out smiling, they'd feel like crying. If such a mediocre woman like her could pass the audition, how could the others be eliminated?

Angelina walked out slowly, ignoring everyone's gaze.

Lilian quickly stopped Angelina and asked, "What's wrong, Angelina?"

Angelina's eyes flashed, and she shook her head, "Maybe... my acting skills are not good enough."

It was common sense that Director Gail had a sharp tongue. Maybe he was exhausted from the previous yelling, so his voice wasn't as loud. While Lilian sighed in relief, she still felt that something was amiss, but she couldn't figure it out.

After thinking about it, she smiled at Angelina and comforted her, "Don't think too much about it. After all, you weren't planning to act seriously from the beginning anyway. Director Gail has a bad temper, so don't take his words to heart."

Send Gift

Comments

 Watch Ads to Get 8 Vouchers