

Chapter 43

Everyone was astonished!

Only Angelina and Yvonne remained calm.

Elena was especially shocked. Her eyes were wide open, full of disbelief at that moment.

"How... how is this possible?"

However, the next moment, she sneered again as if she had realized something. "Could it be that there's money in your card, so you deliberately got a black-colored one?"

Angelina was rendered speechless.

What an idiot!

Angelina took the black card back casually. The staff at the counter was skilled and had deft hands. She wrapped up the watches in less than a minute and handed them to Angelina with both hands.

"Ma'am, here are your watches."

At that moment, the staff at the counter no longer had a disdainful impression of Angelina, eager to please her instead.

Yvonne had a slight smirk on her lips. She stroked her hair and looked at Elena with sarcasm. "Do you think everyone is as boring as you? You..."

Before she could finish her words, Angelina grabbed Yvonne's hand.

She smiled at Yvonne, who was full of disapproval. "Hey, Yvonne, I still need to buy gifts for the elders. The stores might close soon if we delay any longer."

Yvonne responded quickly, "Alright then. After all, you need to choose them well. Let's go now."

The two soon headed to the other counters.

Lilian had a sudden change of expression upon hearing Angelina's words, and she quickly followed them.

Buying gifts for the elders? She definitely couldn't be referring to the Jones family. So, she had to be talking about the Lewis family!

Was she going to the Lewis Manor already?

Lilian couldn't care less, instantly grabbing Angelina's arm.

"Hold up."

Angelina stopped with a smile in her eyes.

She had done it on purpose just then, deliberately informing Lilian about her intentions.

Well, she had to make a comeback after all that had happened in her previous life, right?

Angelina looked at Lilian, puzzled. "What's wrong?"

Lilian kept her gaze fixed on Angelina's face, afraid to miss even the slightest expression. She once again showed her iconic, kind sisterly smile.

"Angelina, are you... are you heading to the Lewis Manor soon?"

Her voice was incredibly quiet.

Yvonne frowned and quickly pinched Angelina's hand, not intending to let her tell the truth.

Angelina, on the other hand, nodded as if completely unguarded. She took a few steps closer to Lilian in lieu and whispered, "Yeah, I have to go over tomorrow night. He forced me to buy gifts for his family and promised me a monthly allowance of five hundred thousand dollars. I have no choice..."

The corner of Yvonne's mouth twitched. Angelina really was the best at spouting lies with a straight face.

It seemed that she was overthinking things. Fortunately, Angelina was already wary of Lillian. Phew, after such a long time, her efforts finally didn't go to waste.

Lilian's eyes lit up. Sure enough, Angelina was an idiot. How could she suddenly fall in love with Quentin?

So, she had bought the items because of the five hundred thousand dollar monthly allowance.

With that being said, things were indeed different.

Lilian was delighted. Since they were going to Lewis Manor the next day, she also had to pay them a visit.

However, when she thought of the matching watches that Angelina had just bought, Lilian could not help but ask again to resolve her doubts, "What about the watches?"

Angelina looked still a little distressed just then, but at the moment, she frowned and took two steps back.

Lilian was surprised. Why was Angelina suddenly getting angry?

Before she could think about it, she saw Angelina looking at her unhappily and saying coldly, "Lilian, if you really see me as your sister, then don't hold me back and help me fulfill my wishes instead!"
