The staff opened the door of the dressing room.

Hannah followed Charles and walked towards the banquet hall.

At this moment, the guests were already seated and all the lights of the hall were focused on the carpet in the middle which was covered with flower petals.

Charles brought her into a pink castle made of flowers in the hall and went to the stage in the middle, waiting for her arrival.

The wedding march was played.

Hannah held her father's hand and was walking on the carpet full of flower petals.

The lights moved forward by following her every step.

Everyone looked at her with a smile as she was breath-taking.

"Dad," Hannah suddenly called out to him.

"Um," Miguel replied.

"Don't be surprised if whatever happens later."

"Hmm?" he frowned.

He knew that her daughter would break off the engagement in public today.

However, he and Michelle didn't know how it would take place and how far it would go.

Up to now, they had been thinking that their daughter had given up the plan.

"In short, everything is my arrangement."

"Okay." He nodded.

He unconditionally trusted her daughter.

She held her father's arm and finally walked in front of Charles.

Charles reached out his hand as a gentleman.

At this moment, he was still showing his most noble and elegant look, which made everyone to praise him.

Miguel placed her hand on Charles's hand and gently patted his shoulder.

Charles nodded.

It was a look that he would definitely treat her well.

Such a small act made the whole audience applaud.

He held Hannah's hand tightly and faced the priest.

The priest smiled benevolently at them.

He talked into the microphone, "I'm honored to be here and I will acknowledge the joint of this new couple in the unity of marriage in the name of God today. But before that, the bridegroom has a special message for our bride, so please give him a moment."

Again, there was an enthusiastic round of applause.

It was the same in her previous life.

Before the ceremony, he made a heartfelt confession in front of everyone, making everyone believe that he loved her so much that Hannah would be the envy of the world for her having such a wonderful husband.

She had also thought so back then and even shed tears of happiness because of his confession.

Yet at this moment, she just looked at him indifferently as he held the microphone with fondness and said in an extremely gentle voice, "Hannah, when I first saw you, you were ten years old and our grandfathers were playing chess inside the house. I saw you sitting obediently beside your grandpa and your face was red and looked cute. I thought ...I had fallen in love with you from that time on. Thus, when my grandfather told me that you would be my future bride, I was so excited that I tossed and turned. I couldn't fall asleep. Even though I was only thirteen years old. I've been looking forward to marrying you for twelve years and finally, I've got my most beautiful bride ...”

A shining smile lifted the corners of her mouth.

Susan Phillips who stood beside her was even touched by Charles's sincere confession at this moment.

In Susan's eyes, he loved her so much.

Why was Hannah still half-hearted?

She even felt unworthy for Charles.

“Those so-called vows of sickness and death, vows of poverty and wealth, couldn't express my love for you. Hannah, I only hope that I'll always take care of you and protect you in this life, in the every next life, forever.” His eyes turned red.

Everyone saw his deep devotion in that moment.

Hannah was also watching.

She stared fixedly at him.

She just realized that this so-called confession was what he paid for only when she was dying. How could he have written such touching sentences to her? The redness in his eyes was probably because he had pinched himself.

After all, at this moment, she saw that he was pinching his thigh with one hand at the position where the light was dim.

She had known all the facts, and she found the scene in front of her was funny.

It was so funny that she laughed suddenly.

The woman who should be crying the most was laughing with an innocent look now.

This made Charles failed to pretend anymore even though he had brewed his emotions hard.

His eyes couldn't get any redder.

He frowned.

She was supposed to be crying at this moment.

Once she cried, he would help her to wipe her tears, then hold her in his arms and brought this wedding to its climax.

However, what Hannah did made him a bit flustered.

He replaced the session by holding her hands again. He held her hands tightly and said, "I've prepared a surprise for you."

Hannah looked imperturbable and smiled.

Soon he would know whether it was a surprise or a shock.

He held her hand, turned his back on the guests and looked at the large HD screen in front of them.

Even from the farthest part of the hall, one could see the screen clearly.

She felt lucky that she had been reborn in a new life. At least everything was predictable for her.

She knew all the sessions of the wedding and knew the time when she could get him into a mess!

At this moment, everyone paid attention on the screen.

Charles kept smiling, waiting for everyone to be touched by him.

Indeed, he had done so in previous life.

He put in effort in preparing their photos since childhood, including the first time they met, the first time they had crush on each other, the first time they held hands, the first time they kissed, the first time ...many beautiful moments recorded by him.

Who could believe a man could do this if he wasn't in love.

All of their memories were recorded perfectly, leaving no regret.

However, Charles did it.

He did it without loving her and he deceived everyone.

The big black screen was suddenly lit up.

He was full of confidence and he even had an undisguised smugness.

This wedding would make him the best man in the world, in the eyes of outsiders.

His face looked full of anticipation.

In the next second, his smile instantly froze at the moment which a scene was displayed on the screen.

It should show a love documentary of him and Hannah, but it suddenly turned into a scene of two bodies wildly entangled, followed by a coquettish sound of a man and woman. This straight away caused everyone at the spot to be in an uproar!

In the banquet hall, everyone's eyes were focused on the screen.

The scene of a man and woman entwining together was seen by all.

After a second of being surprised, some noticed that the man was Charles while the woman wasn't Hannah.

It didn't hit Charles until just now.

H became so panicked.

How could it be?

How did it turn into this scene suddenly?

It supposed to be their photos. How did it turn into a video of him having sex with Jane Cooper.

Charles hurriedly shouted at the staff, "Turn it off! Hurry up!"

The humble gentleman was now flustered and disoriented.

His yell made everyone frown as he shouted at an irascible tone. He had no courtesy at all and his behaviour was offensive.

At this moment, his parents also stood up from the main seat and scolded loudly at the staff, "Who played this video? Turn it off! I told you to turn it off immediately!"

There was some confusion.

The noisy voices were heard everywhere.

However, the video wasn't paused after a long time and the lustful screams echoed in the wedding hall.

"Who's in charge? Call out the person right now!" Lee Sawyer also revealed his true colors, shouting and screaming in the hall.

Loretta was yelling at the waiter, "Call out the person in charge! I want him to explain to me what the hell is going on! Turn off the video now!"

Her voice almost turned into an angry scream.

Obviously, it was a great shame to the Sawyer family that they could never imagine and accept in this lifetime.

On the other hand, Hannah who was on the stage seemed to be surprisingly calm.

In her previous life, he even deliberately let her to watch him having sex and frantically having affairs with other women when she was completely imprisoned by him.

At that time she didn't argue or make a fuss. She just endured everything and took in all of his disgust in silence.

That kind of pain, humiliation, disgust, emotional breakdown, despair and all the emotions had been constantly repressed in her mind, but she didn't vent out.

She was thinking that how good it would be if the nasty scene between Charles and that woman was seen by everyone and let people know how disgusting and hypocritical he was actually.

She wanted him to feel shamed and despairing in front of everyone.

Now it had finally come true.

She turned her eyes to him, watching him to lose control of himself.

He had no regard of his own image and was asking the staff to turn the video off crazily.

Finally, it was turned off.

What could be done if it was turned off? That scene had been seen!

Without the lustful screams, the hall became incomparably quiet that it kept reminding him what had just happened.

His agitation was calmed down now.

But at this moment, he didn't know how to deal with the situation at all.

He had never dreamed that such a scene would be exposed in public.

In front of so many people in his wedding venue, the fact which he had affairs was revealed!

No! His perfect life couldn't be ruined like this.

He couldn't be ruined by such a video, he thought.

The most important key was on Hannah now.

As long as Hannah didn't care about it, their wedding could still carry on and he could still possibly redeem his image.

After all, as long as the person involved didn't care about it, then it would be meddling for anyone else who cared about it.

He returned to Hannah and eagerly held her hands, "Hannah, listen to my explanation."

She looked at him, surprisingly calm.

Her air of calm made him feel more uneasy and guilty.

But somehow he firmly believed that she loved him very much.

As long as he said something nice to her, she would not take it into account.

He acted with a sad face and looked remorseful, "I was set up by Jane."

"Were you?" Hannah cast a glance around at that moment.

In the hall, all the lights were focused on the stage and the rest of the place was pitch-black.

She just wanted to check on Jane.

She wanted to see what expression Jane would show when she heard Charles say that.

"Yes. Didn't we have a drink together that night? I got drunk and was helped out by her. I was drunk and I didn't even know who that was. I didn't know how this happened. By the time I woke up, everything had already happened! I had thought of telling you, but I was too afraid of losing you and you would leave me if I told you. Hannah, I know I'm selfish and I've made a mistake, but please forgive me. I beg you to forgive me, okay?" he spoke quickly and urgently.

At this moment, his tears fell.

Probably it was because he knew very well that he would be completely ruined if she didn't forgive him, so he was anxious and cried out!

Hannah spoke no words but watched his performance indifferently.

He hurriedly said again, "Hannah, I really feel bad. When I woke up and saw Jane beside me, I wanted to kill myself. But I can't die as I won't be able to take care of you if I die. Who will take care of you in the future? Hannah, you know that I've been loving you for many years and it's not easy for us to get married. We can stay together forever. I don't hope our relationship to be ruined by that woman."

She still didn't have any reaction.

Looking at him who was in a wretched state, she remembered everything.

In the previous life, he had tortured her to make her life worse than death.

In the previous life, he had stabbed her to death.

She had to pay back all of it bit by bit.

"Hannah, please forgive me, please, please. I swear, I'll treat you well in the future, I'll never do anything wrong to you again, I'll never drink outside again, I'll never let myself have any chance to make mistakes. Hannah, please give me one more chance to love you, okay?" The emotional and sincere words were almost touching.

And Hannah spoke, "Are you willing to get down your knees and beg me?"

Her voice was clear and crisp.

He didn't believe that she would say such words.

She was supposed to be just accepting his apology and give him an out even if he had cheated her as he had said a lot to this point.

She shouldn't let him kneel down in public.

Did she know kneeling hurt a man's pride?

His silence and anger were kept in her mind.

She remembered the time when she was completely imprisoned by him in her previous life.

She was locked up inside a dark room which was damp everywhere.

She was starved by him for three days and nights and she wasn't even allowed to drink water.

Human had the instinct to survive.

Even though she had been victimized by him to such an extent, she still wanted to live.

She wanted to live and took revenge for her family and all the cruelty she had suffered.

Thus, when he appeared in the cell, she would beg him to give her some water to drink.

What did he do at that time?

He stood in front of her in a condescending manner with the woman he loved the most, Sarah Collins and said, "You get down on your knees and beg me. Beg me to give you some water to drink."

She got back up from the floor.

Then she slowly knelt down in front of him.

She had only one belief at that moment.

She wanted to live.

If she was alive, she could take revenge on him and avenge her family.

However, he didn't take pity on her even if she had knelt down.

He even laughed wildly with contempt in his eyes.

That kind of look was still unforgettable to her.

He squatted down and pinched her chin.

His force was so strong that made her eyes to fill with tears uncontrollably.

He said, "Hannah, haven't you always been very noble? Haven't you always been very good at forbearing? Why didn't you present yourself as the princess of the Cooper family and show your nobleness and elegance? How come you've lost your dignity so quickly in order to survive? Do you know that you've taken away my pleasure in torturing you? Once I don't have that pleasure, you'll die even faster!"

She endured all of his cruelty as if it had just happened to her now.

At that time, he didn't even give her a drop of water in the end and even spat a mouthful of saliva on the ground, saying disgustingly, "If you want to live, just lick my saliva!"

She recovered her wits and looked coldly at him.

She looked at this man who had once treated her with unbelievable ferocity.

Hannah could exactly guess what he was still thinking right now.

After all, she was really easy to be soft-hearted and would easily compromise with him before, so she would believe him when he sweet-talked her.

She always thought that relationship was mutual which he would be good to her if she did it too.

How could she have been so stupid?

Luckily, God had given her a chance to reform herself.

She would definitely live up to this opportunity!

Her eyes glowed with a cold light.

She looked at him without emotion.

She remained stiff for a long time.

He also knew that she wouldn't compromise easily.

He thought that no one would accept the man she loved so much to have sex with other woman. Hannah was a woman after all and she would have her own emotions. She just loved him too much, that's why she made such a request.

He gritted his teeth and knelt down.

He knelt heavily in front of her.

In his mind, he thought he would make her life worse than death one day.

He would return her the humiliation twice over.

In the wedding hall where everyone was whispering, they were dumbfounded by him as he knelt down.

They probably didn't expect that he would do it.

On the spot, all of them were shocked.

They don't feel that he should be forgiven or deserved a sympathy even though he had knelt down, but they couldn't believe that he would do it as he always showed his superior attitude.

Everyone still looked at them.

They wanted to see whether she would forgive him or not.

After all, there were rumors that she loved him so much that she had lost herself.

Now that he had gone this far, Hannah would compromise.

She wouldn't compromise.

For her, it was impossible to compromise in her life.

She just looked at him as he finally knelt down in front of her and looked embarrassed in front of everyone.

She said, "Charles, I've loved you for many years."

She started to speak.

He became a little agitated.

He knew that she couldn't have just abandoned him.

The reason she wanted him to go this far was because there was too much of love.

He would make this stupid woman's life worse than death sooner or later.

Of course, what showed on his face was still full of devotion.

He hurriedly said, "Me too, Hannah."

"But from now on, I don't love you anymore," Hannah said.

His face stiffened again for a while.

He simply couldn't believe that she would say such words.

How could she don't like him?

He had been attentive to her for so many years and she had been deceived by him. She was devoted to him and her love for him was extremely deep. It was absolutely impossible for her to say anything that she didn't love him.

He kept his eyes on her as he thought he had heard wrong.

She didn't care about his emotions at all and continued saying with a face full of indifference, "I can't stand it with your cheating."

"I did it because I was really drunk. Trust me, I won't drink again. I swear, I'll never betray you again!" he started to become panicked.

He clearly knew what kind of consequences he would get if she didn't forgive him.

She sneered and said, "There would only have no cheat and countless times to cheat."

"I swear, I swear I'll never cheat you again!" he kept promising.

"That's it. This is the end of our wedding." She was decisive.

That kind of resolute was that she didn't even look back at all.

At that moment, she just turned around and left.

He fiercely pulled her at once and stood up, "Please don't go. I beg you not to go. I can't lose you."

He was still pretending and trying to make her touched.

She didn't want to deal with him any longer.

Until this point, it was almost enough.

He had lost face and she had successfully broken off the engagement.

As for ...

As for Oscar Walker, since he wasn't coming, just forget him.

She struggled to break free from his shackles.

On the contrary, he just didn't let go and grabbed her hand harder.

If he let her go now, his wedding would be all over as well as his image!

How could he let her leave so easily?

Her face turned gloomy.

She turned around and looking at him.

Then, a stinging slap caught on Charles's face.

Read After Reborn, I Become a Billionaire novel Chapter 49 online free

Charles was dumbfounded by her slap on the spot.

He stared at her and was out of sorts.

'How dare this woman! Such a woman who had been educated by the upper class should only stick to the rules.'

How dare she hit him in front of everyone?

He looked at her in anger.

She directly shrugged off his hand in the second he was dazed, then turned around and left.

Charles clenched his fists, and he was still trying to figure out how to make her stay and how to continue their wedding.

Just at that moment, an old but stern voice suddenly rang out, "Stop!"

Everyone looked towards the stage. It was Lorie, who suddenly appeared on the stage.

She was supported by Roger and she walked to the centre of the stage in a furious manner, shouting at Hannah.

Hannah paused her movement.

It wasn't that she was afraid of Lorie; she just felt that she would make her lose face completely since she wanted to embarrass herself.

She turned back and faced Lorie.

Lorie didn't show any mercy to her and shouted in front of everyone, "Is marriage a child's play? You can't be so nonsensical!"

Before she could say anything, Lorie reprimanded again, "This marriage was promised by your grandfather personally. Now that the Sawyer family has come to marry you, do you regard your grandfather and elders in your eyes if you leave like this? Do you still know family discipline?"

She didn't expect that the Sawyer family had found a helper so quickly.

It was true that the Sawyer family shouldn't be underestimated as she had been cheated by them back then.

However, she wasn't who she had been in the past, who could be threatened with a few words and would obey the orders as she was told.

She looked at Lorie, "Is grandma thinking that as long as the elders have given me an engagement, I should get married even if he is a murderer?"

The sarcastic words caused Lorie's face to turn dark instantly.

She said fiercely to Hannah, “You don’t have to argue here! If he is a murderer, I’ll admit it, but he’s not! He just made a mistake that all men will make. When he is blaming himself and feeling bad, you not only didn’t stay with him through the difficult time, but left him behind! We Cooper family don’t have descendant who is ungrateful like you!”

“Ungrateful? So in your mind, is it that I’m wrong as he cheated me? Is it that if I cheat him, he should also forgive me unconditionally?”

“Hannah!” Lorie was livid, “How dare you say such words!”

“Yes. How dare you say this, grandma!” her voice was getting louder and her temper was getting stronger, “Marriage is mine and I choose the right path for my happiness. How could you stop me with your authority as elders?! Is it that it doesn’t matter whether if I’m fine in your mind and I can marry whoever you think is profitable?”

“Shut up!” Lorie scolded.

“What are you savage down here? You’re the one who should shut up!”

“Hannah, are you going to mess around?” Lorie was exasperated.

It was unexpected that Hannah would argue with her even in front of everyone.

Not to mention last time, which they argued at the Cooper family as there was no one else.

Now she dared to come at her in this way.

In her impression, Hannah wasn’t like this.

Ever since she was a kid, as long as she was slightly mean to her, Hannah would give in and admit her mistakes.

Now she wasn’t afraid of her, she even defied her in front of so many people and made her to lose face!

In the eyes of outsiders, she was the one who couldn’t control her granddaughter.

It might even be rumored that she had no status at all in the Cooper family.

Thinking of this, Lorie was angrier.

Hannah, on the other hand, didn't care anymore.

She didn't intend to be merciful towards her.

She said indifferently, "Now I finally know why grandpa dislikes grandma so much! It turns out that you have a strange set of values!"

"Hannah! What nonsense are you talking about! How could you be so rebellious? Do you want me to teach you a lesson?" Roger interrupted her

She turned her eyes to look at him, "I didn't intend to embarrass our family and I'm willing to let this go. Since you want to do justice for the Cooper family, why don't we talk about the trigger of this incident? The affair between Charles and your daughter, Jane!"

His expression changed instantly.

He had just been asked by the Sawyer family to force Hannah to complete the wedding. Since Roger had some dealings with them in private, and he intended to get Cooper Group back which he thought that should belong to him, by using the power of the other families, he straight away agreed to their request.

However, he neglected the fact that his daughter was the cause of this incident.

He was also embarrassing himself as he came to the stage.

Hannah was relentless and she said aggressively, "Uncle, just now Charles kept saying that it was Jane who seduced him. Is that true? Do you want to confront her? If it's true, I might still be able to forgive him."

"You!" Roger was so furious that he wanted to beat her to death.

As soon as Charles heard that she wanted to forgive her, he hurriedly spoke, "Where's Jane? I want to confront her!"

It had all been discovered anyway.

Since it had been revealed, he no longer had to worry that Jane would expose him.

He was simply playing around with Jane. In his opinion, she was inferior to Hannah.

At least Hannah was the authentic princess of the Cooper family.

Jane was born to a concubine. It was mercy enough to her as he pampered her.

Roger looked at Charles and his face changed abruptly.

Charles had come to help him out now, yet he was just a bastard who immediately turned against him.

At this moment, Jane was forced onto the stage by the Sawyer family.

Her starry gown shone brightly under the lights of the banquet hall.

She had thought that she was extremely beautiful, while she was now ashamed of herself due to this sudden incident.

She was somewhat nervous as she faced everyone on the stage.

Looking at Charles, she thought although he had flatly asserted that she had taken the initiative, Charles must have no choice to do this for his big things.”

Until now, she still felt that Charles could save her and protect her when she was forced to face this matter.

She made herself look vulnerable.

However, the next second, Charles said, “Jane, why did you drug me and use such a despicable and shameless way to make me do something wrong to Hannah?”

Read After Reborn, I Become a Billionaire novel Chapter 50 online free

Jane looked at him in disbelief.

What did he say?

Did he say that she had drugged him?

Obviously he was the one who took more initiative that night.

He took her to a strange flat, then eagerly had sex with her.

Her eyes turned red as she kept shaking her head, "I didn't."

"You don't have to deny!" Charles said in an unpleasant tone, "Hannah was absent that night, and you added drugs into my wine. As I was drunk, you offered to bring me back, and you brought me to a strange place and forcibly had sex with me! Jane, you are younger than me and I have always treated you as a sister since I'm Hannah's boyfriend, but you did such things to me..."

The more he said, the more miserable he looked.

He wanted to make everyone feel that he was suffering.

Jane stared at him as he insulted her in public.

With a sobbing voice, she appeared to be agitated, "You were the one who said that you had noticed me a long time ago and said you liked me. That's why I had sex with you and now you're saying that I drugged you. Charles, I was pure before that and now you're framing me!"

"Aren't I?" I've kept my innocence for Hannah for so many years, isn't it all spoiled to you?! Jane, if I had known that you're such a woman, I would never let you have the chance to approach me! Now I'm regretful. When I think of me having sex with you... I longed to die."

"Charles!" she couldn't control herself anymore and screamed out loud, "You're a hypocrite! You're a beast! I was blind to fall for you!"

"If I had known that you liked me, I would never get closer to you half-step!"
He spoke in a righteous manner.

His look was a kind of disdain to Jane.

She was so angry and her body was trembling. She pointed at him, "How can you turn against me just like that! You're the one who gave me this dress! You said it's a new style from Celina which wasn't yet released to the market and you got it with many connections. You even said that you wanted me to be more standout than Hannah in front of everyone."

“That gown isn’t ours. In the darkness, a woman voice rang out suddenly, “Don’t smear our brand. Our chief designer has taken a leave of absence this term and will not be able to launch any new style.”

Her voice drew everyone’s attention.

“I’m James, the design director of Celina. I’m here to tell all for you that this dress wasn’t introduced by our brand.” James said it clearly word by word.

For a first-tier brand, it was impossible to be allowed from being confused with any other brand.

Jane glared at Charles and at that moment, she completely freaked out and roared, “Charles, you lied to me! You lied to me that this dress is from Celina! You made me to wear a fake dress so that I would be laughed by everyone!”

“That’s enough!” his face looked extremely awful, “What nonsense are you talking about? When did I give you a dress? Moreover, where did you get the confidence to think that you’re more outstanding than Hannah? You can’t even compare to one of her hair!”

“Charles!” she was freaking out.

She rushed towards him completely out of control, frantically grabbing his clothes and hair. She was about to fight him to the death.

It was no wonder she was so angry until she lost her mind.

She was narcissistic, always thinking that all the men in the world should like her and she would be the focus, but now, she was being framed of seducing Charles and wearing a fake dress which she thought was beautiful. Probably she would just die.

At the thought of this, embarrassment was not her concern.

Hannah looked at Jane’s madness and took a step back.

Soon Jane was pulled away by Roger with brute force.

He looked awful also.

What a disgrace today!

In the past, no matter how ignorant and arrogant she was, she had never been so uncontrollable.

Now she was acting like a lunatic and he nearly couldn't wait to slap her, Roger thought.

She was still resisting under his father's shackles, "Charles, I want to die with you! I want to die with you!"

Charles also looked bad at this moment.

Although she had just scratched him a few times, the scratches of her nails had been left on his face and neck. A few buttons from his clothes had been ripped off by her and his hair was in a mess. He looked discomfiting and didn't seem like a gentleman.

"Let go of me! Let go of me, dad!" she shouted frantically and unable to calm down herself at all.

"That's enough!" Lorie roared.

Jane was afraid of her grandmother. Once she showed her temper, no one in this family dared to make a sound.

"Isn't it embarrassing enough? Bring her back and lock her up!" she commanded in a stern voice.

Roger knew that it was a disgrace to stay here now and he gave Charles a fierce look, suppressing his anger and gritting his teeth as he led her away.

Jane was still resisting and making a lot of noise until her voice completely disappeared.

Hannah looked at the direction where Jane left and turned her eyes to look at Mary Cooper who had been accompanying Jane just now. Mary smiled viciously.

The moment she felt Hannah was looking at her, she hurriedly reverted to her pitiful appearance.

At that moment, she felt a little frightened in her mind.

She felt that Hannah seemed to know everything and see through her true colors.

Mary tried to keep herself from showing too much emotion.

“Hannah.” On the stage, Charles seemed to have calmed down himself and faced her with a loving and affectionate look again.

However, his wretchedness made her difficult to relate to the atmosphere.

If Charles himself saw his current miserable state, he would probably go crazy.

“You saw it just now. She’s crazy and will do anything. You’ve to believe me, okay?” he reached out his hand and tried to hold her hand once again.

Hannah’s hand moved slightly and she took her hand away.

He was a bit awkward as his hand stiffened in air. She didn’t give him any face in front of so many people.

He held back his anger and said, “Hannah, didn’t you say that you would forgive me?”

As he said, he lowered his arm.

He was giving himself an out.

The corners of her mouth lifted lightly and said, “But I didn’t say that I would still marry you.”
