Chapter 117 Stellar's Transformation

[Half an Hour Later.]

"Huff, Huff, Huff."

Stellar sat on the ground breathing heavily. Mountains of dead monsters pile all over her.

Her mother walked up to her with a beautiful smile on her face.

"My Love, You were great."

She said, crouching down before Stellar.

"You made us proud."

Stellar gave her a weak smile, her mind and body still weak from the battle. She looked around, seeing her father walking towards them.

"Dad?" She was stunned.

"You did good, Child."

"Yeah."

More people appeared around Stellar with smiles on their faces... She moved her gaze on every one of them, none familiar to her.

"You did good." An old man walked towards her with a smile on his face.

"Baby, this is your grandfather, my father."

Her mother introduced everyone to her with a happy smile on her face. After a whole ten minutes of introduction, Stellar asked:

"Greetings everyone. Mum, So what now?"

"Fufufu... So impatient, well, now... We're going to unlock your powers."

"My powers? But you sealed it, while need all of them."

"Ha.Ha.Ha."

Her mother chuckled nervously. Seeing the frown on her daughter's face, she sighed helplessly:

"I sealed it, but I alone can't release it. In all our race, you're the only one with our goddess's soul, so we all need to combine our powers."

Stellar moved her gaze on the group and slowly nodded her head, although she was confused by her mother's word, she knew it'll all make sense with time.

"Ok, I'm ready."

"Good!!"

Her mother stood up, and turned to her father.

"Ok, Dear. We can start."

He nodded with a small smile.

"Yes, Everyone."

Stellar stood up, as the group of people walked towards her, they created a circle, placing her in the center.

"Prepare yourself, dear. You must work with Aaron, and save your world from Skull, and the Powers behind it, you must help Aaron, Michael, and others in the multi-realms war... You'll be one of the strongest in your realm, but you can't do it alone."

Stellar listened to every single word, and nodded in understanding.

Her mother smiled, and held her father's hand, then her father held her grandfather's hand, and so on.

Whizzed!

They all channeled all their energies from their bodies to Stellar.

BAM!!

"Ahhh."

Stellar moaned feeling the wave of energies entering her body, she smiled closing her eyes. Moment next:

"Augh!"

Her eyes snapped opened, instantly turning blood-red, an unknown amount of energy burst out from her.

Her family smiled, and increase the dosage.

---

[Land of the Living.]

Aaron and his group were still at Mott's home, still outside, with Stellar's body on Mott's arms.

"What happen after this, Master?" Protean, who stood on Aaron's shoulder asked.

"What happen? The Monster Raid, but first, let's visit Kara, and the academy... The news of the Emperor's Brother death will be good to watch."

"But, what If Kara refused not sending you on any mission?" Protean asked in mild confusion.

"Oh, she will agree... That's why we'll be there." Aaron smirked.

"Aaron!! Something is happening to Stellar!!"

Hearing Emily, Aaron turned around, and walked towards the group.

Stellar's hair was now silver, her bunny ears changed into fox ears, which stunned the group.

Her body changed dramatically, her boobs grew in size, she got taller... By two inches, and her skin got even smoother... Mott who held her way stunned speechless.

"Wow, I'm impressed!"

Aaron brought out the heart, removed it from the orb, and slowly placed it in her open chest.

In less than a second, the hole closed up, and before everyone, Stellar's eyes shot open.

"Auu!!"

She gasped, sitting up.

"Huh?"

Stellar moved her gaze around everyone, she raised an eyebrow seeing they were all frozen in shock, jaws dropped... Only Aaron seems to be ok. Even Mott was stunned.

Noticing she has been in his arms, her face instantly heated.

"Don't worry about these guys, they're just shock." Aaron said.

"Stellar!!"

Emily got herself, and hugged Stellar:

"I thought I lost you!"

"You'll never... Don't forget our promise, together forever." Stellar smiled, hugging her back... Now out from Mott's arms.

The two separated, and Stellar turned to Mott, also hugging him.

"I miss you too!"

Hearing these words, Mott finally got himself, and hugged her back.

"Stellar, what happened? You--"

"--Yeah, I feel refreshed." She separated, and added jokingly:

"Just got excited, don't think anything funny because I hug you."

"Why won't I think anything funny? You look cuter than ever! Look at you."

"Huh?"

With confusion, Stellar stood up, and checked her body.

"I got taller?" She was stunned.

"There are more." Emily snapped her fingers, creating a mirror in front of Stellar.

"Ahhh!!"

Stellar's eyes widened in surprised, seeing the girl staring back at her.

"This? I saw this lady before gaining consciousness." She added, her face filled with confusion.

"That's the first goddess of the Beast folks, and I'm guessing you received all her Powers."

Aaron said, his gaze fixed on the horizon. Backing the group.

Stellar turned around in surprise, she thought for some seconds, and walked towards Aaron, then got down on one knee, lowering her head.

"Thank you, Emperor Aaron. Thank you for unlocking my bloodline."

"I only place you on the track. You ran the race and won, so there's no need to thank me." Aaron turned around to face her.

"Rise."

Stellar stood up.

"I just want to know one thing, what did you learn in there?"

Stellar tilted her head to the side, thinking about her mother's words.

"My Mum said something about Multi-realms War, she also mentioned something about other people who'll assist us... yes, she mentioned Michael."

"Michael?"

Aaron was surprised:

'Isn't this the name of the god of the abyssal?'

"What else did she say?" He asked.

"Well... That there's a power behind Skull."

"Power behind Skull, Hmm... This will be troublesome." Aaron said, lost in thought.

"Remember, she said we aren't doing this alone, that other people will assist us... So we can't lose."

"You have a point."

Mott who stood some Meters from the two, turned to Emily:

"Am I the only one lost?" He asked.

"Nope, but with Stellar's words, it's about the safety of our world."

"Another question, can you feel her Sid energy?" Mott asked.

"She doesn't have Sid energy... Before you ask, her Sid energy has been altered, and turned into a daemonic energy... Hmm... It means her bloodline has some traces of demons." Dolor asked, answering Mott's question. His sword held upward behind him.

"Huh?! You do know she's now higher than a Supreme Realm right? Even stronger than me." Emily said, still not believing what she's witnessing.

"That means, after Aaron, is now Stellar?" Mott was dumbfounded, he thought for some seconds, and asked:

"What If she's even stronger than Aaron?"

Hearing Mott, Aaron and Stellar turned their heads towards him, then looked at one another.

"What about you test your new strength on me?" Aaron asked with a small smile.

"Really?" Stellar blinked in surprise.

"Good! Go on, Stellar! Don't hold back, I'm in your team!!" Mott yelled.

"..."

Emily and Dolor were silent, watching the two.

"Ok."

Stellar took a deep breath, then clasped her palms together... And started muttering some unknown word.

'Hmm... She gained the blood affinity, and even become an All-class. I thought Emily is the strongest younger generation, but I'm now proven wrong... Are there kids out there that are even stronger than Stellar?'

{All Seeing Eyes.}

{Magic Spell translation: With the Powers of destruction, I call upon the hell guardian, I summoned you!}

'Wait a second! She can summon creatures?' Aaron was flabbergasted.

BOOM!!

Everyone stared at the golden circle, which appeared on the ground, a foot from Stellar.

BAM!!

A huge red hand, filled with claws burst out from the circle, then another.

"GRRRRRAAAA!!!!!"

Its head burst out from the ground, it was a hideous monster with two backwards curve horns, and standing frightening 3 meters tall.

"GRRRRRRRRRAAAAAAAAAA!!!!!"

"What's happening here? Why so ma--"

The Baron instantly froze, seeing the huge monster on his yard.

"What happened, Honey. Let continue counting the coin-- Ah! What's that?!" Her eyes widened in horror, seeing the huge monster.

"I have no idea." The Baron answered, staring at the Monster.

"Wow! Stellar is so cool!" Emily exclaimed in awe.

"True, I'm equally impressed." Dolor said with a slight nod.

"That's my girl!! Show Aaron who's the boss!!" Mott yelled.

"Do you really think she'll win Aaron?" Emily asked in mild confusion, not knowing why Mott was so happy.

"Nope! Aaron will crush her." He said in a low voice.

"Then why are you shouting?" She asked again.

"Well... If she loses without a fan, she'll be sad, so even though she'll lose, I'll be with her, supporting all the way out!"

"...."

Emily was stunned.

"Attack him, don't hold back!"

Stellar said, pointing at Aaron.

"GRRRRRAAAA!!!"

The monster let out a roar, and shot towards Aaron, it appeared in front of him, and smashed down with its claws.

BAM!!!!

"....."

"...."

Chapter 118 Give him my regards

Everyone subconsciously turned their heads to the side, seeing the huge monster lying some meters away from them, smoke coming out from its burnt belly.

"This? Why did you attack, It was coming for me." Aaron asked, staring at Protean over his shoulder.

"Huh? But it looks like those claws were also coming for me... You said when something attack you, attack back."

"When the hell did I say that?!" Aaron was stunned.

Protean just rolled his eyes.

"....."

While the two were arguing, the rest of the group finally got themselves.

"Protean defeated it? That means Aaron can kill it with a single attack." Mott said, and turned to Emily.

"That's good, at least she won't feel back Aaron defeated her in a round."

Emily rolled her eyes at him, and walked away: "Is that how to support someone?" She muttered under her breath.

Emily stopped besides Stellar and placed her hand on her shoulder.

"Don't worry, One day, we'll defeat those two."

"Huh? I'll say yes with Protean, but I can't defeat Aaron." Stellar said.

"Hey! I can hear you! Why can't you him? But you can with me! Do you think I'm weak?"

"At the moment you are." Stellar said with a teasing smile.

Protean looked at himself, and realization struck him that he was still a Raven.

"So?! You can't still win me!" He quickly said.

"Stop you two, Now let's get to business." Aaron stopped the two, and waved his hand.

The smoke rising from the monster flew towards him and before everyone, it turned into a black eagle.

"Stellar." He called out.

"Oh. Yes!"

Stellar remembered and brought out the eye. Aaron took it from her hand with his energy, and moved it towards the eagle.

It took it with its beak and, and stared at Aaron.

"Deliver this to the human emperor, Let the show finally begin... With some investigation, the monsters raid is happening in a week time... So everyone have a week to prepare."

He said, looking at Mott's parents. The eagle nodded again, and flew away.

"Yeah, but there's a problem."

Stellar returned her summoned, her face laced with worries.

"What problem?" Emily asked.

"Look at me, If I go back to the Academy like this, won't everyone be suspicious? And I don't trust anyone there, only Mott."

"Aww..." Mott said with a dumb smile on his face.

Dolor looked at him with raised eyebrows, and thought:

'Hopeless.'

Aaron stared at her for some seconds, and sighed:

"She's right, we don't know those working for Skull, and if they discovered who she is... That's place her in danger, I suggest you come with us and leave the Academy... Let me ask; have you completed the plan?" Aaron stared at her, and Mott.

"Yes."

The two answer in unison.

"Good! Then Stellar won't go to the Academy anymore, she'll follow us to Terra." Emily said with a happy smile.

"What?! What about me?!" Mott asked, the feeling of not seeing Stellar didn't match well with him.

Why couldn't he join her?

"You'll stay in the Academy, make sure all the students trust me, give them everything they need, and what do they need? Gold coins... Make sure the thought of killing the Cursed Child removed from their heads. If it does they won't be able to kill their helper... They might be fighters, but they're still kids, give them what they want, and they'll love you... But, stay away from the Royal families, especially Angela and Andrew... Maybe Harold too."

"Don't worry, I'm sad Stellar won't be helping me, but I have our club members, We'll be ready on the day." Mott said.

"Good." Aaron nodded in satisfaction, and added:

"Good luck, Mott... We'll see in the Academy."

Aaron said, and before the group; he disappeared with the two girls, leaving Mott, and Dolor behind.

---

[Terra.]

Aurora stared at Mariel, who sat opposite her with a slight frown. She raised her cup and took a tea.

Mariel was nervous, tightly holding the teacup on the table with both hands, not knowing what to say... Or how to start.

"So, How is my best friend doing?"

Aurora asked, her voice emotionless, gaze cold.

"I... I--"

"--Stop, What do you want to say?" Aurora stared at her with a slight frown.

"Apologizes? Or how you joined my father and his commanders to track me? Or how you betrayed your own best friend? Even telling them where we were heading!"

"This? I... I'm sorry, I have no excuse... Please, please forgive me."

"You know."

Aurora took a deep breath, holding back her tears.

"Because you revealed our location, we had to escape into the Flesh Eaters' forest... If it hasn't been for Lilly, I would be dead!"

Mariel lowered her heads, as tears ran down her cheeks.

"I... I did it for your safety." She said looking up at Aurora.

"How is it for my Safety?!" Aurora yelled, placing down her cup.

"It is.... Listened." Mariel took a deep breath, and started:

"I don't know how, but your brothers already knew you were heading to your mother's secret house, and even sent Assassins, powerful Assassins, to kill the both of you. And you were heavily pregnant, so you won't be able to defend yourself, let alone Lilly."

He paused, and wiped away her tears with her hands.

"I don't know what to do? You already left, so the only way is to tell you father where you're going."

He sent me, Visco, and Mike to bring you back, Alive... But I tried to mislead them, but Visco was adamant, he always pushes my excuses to the side, and carry on--"

"--You know the route we took, why didn't you meet us on the way and told us this?!" Aurora asked.

"I was scared, and the first thought that came to my head was your father--"

"--Half Father." Aurora cut her off, and heaved a sigh.

"Please Aurora! I miss my friend... I regretted my actions, and there wasn't a day I won't dream of setting everything right. Furthermore, I should have looked for you after that, but I didn't, and I'm so sorry about that."

Aurora stared at Mariel for some seconds, and slowly placed down her cup.

"Those Commanders looked down on me, People who I took as family! You all hunted me down like an animal. I promise, each one of them will pay... Starting with you."

"Huh?" Mariel looked up at her, a little stunned.

"Do you think I'll easily forgive you? I know you aren't responsible for the chase, but you're responsible for my beloved son getting born in such a place."

"--I, Aurora--"

"--Calm down, Mum. Please forgive her."

The two turned to the door, seeing Lilly walking inside the garden.

"Lilly?" Mariel gave a small smile.

"Hello, Miss Mariel... I heard everything, and thank you." She turned to Aurora.

"Mum, I know you're angry, but think for a second. If she hadn't told the king, We won't be standing here... We would be dead, and because she did, we're here with baby brother. Safe and sound; isn't that what you ever wanted?"

Aurora silently stared at Lilly, then turned her head to Mariel.

"Please, Aurora." Mariel pleaded.

"Yes, Mum! Please!!" Lilly added.

Aurora stared at the two for some seconds, and sighed helplessly.

"Fine, but you'll have to do something, If you succeed, I'll forgive you." She said, her tone firm.

"Deal, what am I going to do?" Mariel asked, letting out a relief sigh.

"It's kind of easy." Aurora let out a mischievous smile.

Mariel and Lilly looked at one another, their faces paled, whenever that smile was plastered on Aurora's face... Something bad was about to happen, especially someone's death.

"Poison the other four Commanders, and soldiers. The Monster raid is hitting in a week, I need the Elves' kingdom to face terror, and beg for help, then we'll help, and used the opportunity to take over the throne... Take this."

She opened her palm, and a golden vial appeared on it.

"Put this in their food, that's all you have to do."

Aurora placed the vial on the table, and stood up with a smile on her face.

"This?"

Mariel took the golden vial, slowly observing it. "What is this?" She asked, raising her head to Aurora.

"A gift from me." Aurora smiled, and walked away.

"Oh!"

She stopped and looked at Mariel over her shoulder:

"Give my father my regards, tell him I'll be visiting, very soon."

With that said, she walked away, leaving the garden.

"She hasn't changed." Mariel smiled, then looked at Lilly.

"Thank you or your forgiveness, Lilly... I'll never fail any of you again."

"It's nothing, the forest played a crucial role in our lives, and it's all thanks to you... I'm not happy with your past decision, but it's all in the past, we can't let our past affect our future."

Lilly smiled, and waved her hand.

Whizzed!!!

Mariel looked over her shoulder, seeing a gateway opening.

"That'll lead you to the elves' kingdom."

"It seems my student is now stronger and better than me with spells."

"You were the best teacher with Mum... And don't look surprise, a time will always come when the student will be a lot better than the teacher."

"True, true." Mariel smiled.

Chapter 119 Human Empire

Mariel stood up, looked around the garden for the last time, and walked towards the gateway.

"We'll see again, Lilly."

She smiled at Lilly over her shoulder, and entered the gateway, which closed up moment next.

"I know you're there, Mum." Lilly looked over her shoulder, seeing Aurora staring at her from the entrance.

"Hmm... I know." Aurora slowly nodded, and walked inside... Lilly quickly followed behind her.

"Mum, what did you give to Miss Mariel?" She asked, upon catching up with Aurora.

"Nothing serious, just a potion which will weakened the soldiers... And even made some weak ones fall asleep... Without strength and soldiers, the Elves will know what's feel to be helpless." She said in calm tone... Passing by countless maids and guards.

"Oh! Modena mentioned something about Hell Demons, or soldiers? Forgot the names, I want to know where they're being kept?"

"Well... The Hell Soldiers are forces baby Brother resurrected... They are his strongest fighters, you already know about the hidden blades... They are among... Where they're located? Only Modena, brother and Protean know where... The thought didn't occur to me, so I didn't ask."

"Same here... Come on, we'll ask her another time, let's go get something to eat." Aurora smiled.

"Yay!" Lilly jumped up in joy.

---

[Human Empire.]

King Hick sat on his throne, listening to the old men, and women before him.

The one with the longest white beard which stopped on his chest, opened his mouth:

"Emperor, You don't have more days to live, I say you give up the throne... There's no way a girl can take over the empire." He said.

"Yes."

The other four nodded in agreement.

"You all want me dead, so you can give the powers to my brother, right?" Hick asked with a frown.

"That's not what we meant, it's just... You don't have much time, at least a month, and your girls are still young to take over the throne... So while you're alive, you should give it to someone else." Another said.

"Yes, Emperor... If you're worried about your daughters, the next Emperor will take care of them... Your daughters won't lack anything."

Emperor Hick stared at them with narrowed eyes... What this old council of elders were saying all alone were filled with venom, and they were also mocking him... But the way they put it made him powerless to do anything.

"You're all correct, but what if I say my daughter already have someone who'll marry her and take the throne... He'll be the youngest emperor in history."

With his words, the five council elders were stunned, and the first quickly gave his disapproval.

"Emperor! Isn't a kid too young for the weight of the crown? And he's not even strong enough to protect the empire from monsters or other races."

"Oh? If it's about strength, he's stronger than five of you combined." Emperor Hick said with a proud smile.

"Huh?"

"..."

The five were stunned, while another, a woman looking her late 60s with gray said opened her mouth:

"Stronger than five of us? Are you saying he's a Supreme or Transcendent? If you had forgotten Emperor, Let me remind you... No child will enter the Supreme or Transcendent realm... Look at the princess, she practiced from the moment she could walk and understand things, and she's only a sky realm... And it'll take years for her to increase in realm." She sighed, and added:

"Emperor, these excuses might work for two or three months, but what then after you died?"

"SILENCE!!!"

Emperor Hick slammed his fist on the throne hand-rest, his cold gaze fixed on the five.

"I'm still alive, and you're already planning on giving my throne to someone else!!! What'll happen to my daughters if I'm dead?! You old fools will throw them on the streets?!!" He yelled, killing instinct emanating from his body.

The five looked at one another, and the first elder opened his mouth;

"We're just looking out for the safety of our empire... We're the council of elders, your senators, so we have the right to say our mind... And we are worried, that's why we're asking.... Something might suddenly happen to you, and you die; what will happened then? Because you haven't mentioned your successor, the whole powerhouses will try to take the throne, and a civil war might even break out... So we're doing it for our empire's Safety."

Emperor Hick stared at the old man for a long while, then sighed softly.

'You haven't changed first elder... Always so cunning with words, don't worry... But... I need to find a way to stall them.'

He thought for some seconds, and before he could think of anything, a huge raven flew into the hall from a window...

"..."

The King, and elders stared at it in mild confusion.

The smokey bird hovered above them with the eye in his beak. Seeing the recording eye, the six frowned slightly.

Moment next, a holographic image appeared in front of the group, showing Aaron, and the kneeling Scar.

"This?"

Hick and his elders were stunned... They listened to Aaron's words, and watched in shock as he burnt Scar into ashes, and after the whole show... The holographic image disappeared, and the bird turned into smoke, which the wind blew away.

"This?? How barbarous!!! How dare Kara ask someone to kill the Emperor's brother?!! She'll have to pay for this!!" The old man said, his eyes cold

"Who was that kid?! He's so powerful that Scar was completely defenseless!! Emperor, do you know him?" The woman asked, staring at Emperor Hick.

"Yeah, I know him... He's called Jack... The strongest Student in the Protractor Academy, and my daughter's boyfriend... He's the one I was telling you about."

"...."

The five were stunned with emperor Hick's words, they looked at one another for some seconds, and turned to Emperor.

"Emperor, That kid killed your brother, will you let such a kid get your throne?"

"You heard what he said... Scar did something bad, which resulted to his death... But that didn't mean I'm happy... I'll have to speak to Kara, she doesn't have any right to act in my Empire... Let alone kill anyone in it!"

Emperor Hick stood up, staring at the four:

"Leave this to me... If you all really want to protect the Empire, go and prepare the soldiers, the monster raid is upon us."

"As the Emperor wishes." They said with a small bow.

[Elves' Kingdom.]

Whizzed!!!

Mariel walked out from the gateway, which then closed up behind her. She moved her gaze around, taking in her surroundings.

"Huh? What are you doing here? No... I should be asking, how did you get here?"

A young man in blue armor, with a bow in hand, on his armored white horse, stopped in front of Mariel.

"Commander Mike... What are you doing here?" Mariel asked In mild surprised, she quickly hid the vial, and plastered a smile on her face.

Mike stared at her for some seconds, and jumped down his horse... He walked towards her.

"You haven't yet answered my question, This is the western frontier, your territory is at the East... Wait, you should be in the academy, teaching some kids... So tell me, why are you really here?" He asked.

Mariel smiled:

"I was testing a new teleportation spell, and I end up here."

Mike raised his brows upon hearing her explanation. He smiled, and slowly started circling her:

"What? You... Learning a spell, and failed? That hasn't happened in years. Are you sure you teleported here because you mistook the spell, or you're here to see me?" He stopped in front of her.

Mariel knew Mike was the sensible one among the five commanders... But she can't just reveal her purpose... So she silently stared at him with a displeased frown.

Seeing Mariel's expression, Mike chuckled:

"Ok. Ok. Ok. No one is perfect, you might have mistaken the spell... It's a good thing you're here."

Mariel tilted her head in mild confusion: 'How was it a good thing?'

Mike walked back to his horse, and got on it... He looked down at Mariel with a smile.

"The two princes are planning on taking over the throne... They're hosting a meeting for the five commanders."

"Why?" Mariel asked, staring at Mike.

"What else? We're the iron claws of our soldiers and kingdom. They need our cooperation... To help Prince Orion take the throne." He said.

"But... What about Visco's ambitions? Or the monster raid?"

"Visco will surely try to get rid of those two, and I know Jasmine, and Ricky will follow him... Those two commanders are more evil than even me... And the Monster Raid isn't yet proven, no one knew if it's even real."

"Ok, what about you? Who will you choose?" Mariel asked again.

"Saying the truth... I don't know, well... We'll know then, won't we? Or aren't you coming?"

"I'll be there."

Mariel smiled: 'That way, I can easily use the vial.'

"Good, the day is next week... First day."

"Huh? Isn't that the day the Monster Raid is hitting our kingdom?" Mariel was stunned.

"As I said, the prince doesn't believe in all that... Come on, I'll help you back."

He stretched out his hand towards her:

"Thanks, I can fly." Mariel summoned her staff, and sat on it.

"We'll see later."

Before Mike could think of anything, she flew away from the field.

"Huh?... Why in such a rush?" He muttered in mild surprise.

Chapter 120 What Is My Name?

Somewhere around the flesh eaters' forest.

A young lady in a commoner's outfit sat on the shore, hugging her legs, jaw rested on her knees, while staring straight at the clear blue sea... Beside her lied a long sword.

"I miss you Mum, and Dad."

She placed her face in her laps, crying softly.

Whoosh!!

She raised her head to the ocean, seeing the waves rising more than five meters high, the lady narrowed her eyes.

Whoosh!!!

It moved, heading straight at her.

She quickly picked up her sword, stood up and got into defense.

The waves moved towards the shore, and instantly collapsed into the water.

The lady tilted her head in confusion, moving her gaze around the ocean.

Whoosh!!!

Her eyes widened as a figure shot out from the sea... She quickly threw a somersault, dodging the figure, who flew above her.

The lady got her to her feet, staring at the figure covered in light.

"Who are you?!" She asked with a slight frown.

The figure landed on the ground, and the surrounding light slowly disappeared, revealing a beautiful young lady looking her early 20s.

The lady stared at the blue hair attacker with raised eyebrows... This lady was a frightening Sky realm.

"Finally out!!"

The blue hair lady said with a beautiful smile, spinning around with her hands spread out.

"Finally out?" The lady was confused.

"Oh?!"

Noticing the lady, the blue hair lady stopped, and slowly observed the female before you.

"You... You're a fairy, right?" She asked.

The lady lowered her sword, her guard up:

"Yes--"

"--Wow!! I met my first fairy!! I told you dad, I know the races."

The lady blinked in confusion, not knowing why the blue hair lady suddenly became so ecstatic.

Seeing the gaze from the other party, she stopped spinning, and arranged her dress:

"Sorry, my name is Dylan. I'm the daughter of Mali, the immortal of the sea."

"Mali?" The name instantly planted a bad feeling in her mind.

"Who really is your father?"

She asked.

"The king of the sea, the Dead Sea."

The fairy moved back in fear, shakily pointing her sword at Dylan.

"Calm down, It was my mistake for our first encounter... I was just too excited to be finally let out, and you took it as an attack. But it's still my mistake, so I'm apologizing."

The lady remained silent, observing Dylan's expression for sign of lying.

Seeing the other person wasn't saying anything, Dylan asked:

"Can I know your name?"

The lady stared at her for some seconds. She walked towards her previous spot where she sat and picked up her sheath, and sheathed back her sword.

She looked at Dylan over her shoulder, sighed, and walked away.

"Come on, tell me your name!" Dylan asked with a pout.

"You can call me Katherina." With that said she continued waiting.

"Ok... Wait!!"

Dylan ran towards Katherina, who sighed and said:

"Don't follow me."

"So distance, fine then... But I need your help with something." Dylan said, stopping some meters from Katherina.

"Go on."

"Do you know where I can find Aaron?"

Katherina turned around in mild surprise.

"Aaron?"

---

[Terra.]

Whizzzd.

Lilly and Aurora stopped chatting, and turned their heads to the door, seeing Aaron, Emily, and...

"Who's this?" Lilly asked in mild confusion.

"Come on, let's find out." Aurora said, staring at Stellar.

"Mum, Sis, this is Stellar. She'll be staying with us from now onwards... I hope that's ok."

Aurora and Lilly looked at one another, then at Stellar, slowly scanning her with their energies.

'Mum? Sister? So these two are Aaron's family?' Stellar moved her gaze from Lilly to Aurora. Moment next, she froze feeling the amount of energy scanning her body.

"I have no objection, Son. But... Does she know..."

"Yes, my Queen... I know everything." Stellar said with a small bow.

"That's good... Come and have lunch with us." Aurora invited.

"Em..."

"Stellar, No one refuses the Queen, and besides, I know you're hungry... So come on." Emily whispered.

"Ok, My Queen." Stellar nodded.

"You guys should carry on... Got something to do."

Before the girls could say anything, Aaron disappeared from the dinning room.

Lilly shook her head with a small smile, and turned to Stellar:

"So Stellar, how do you know my brother?" She asked.

"Well... I know Aaron from Emily." Stellar said, as the maids place food on her plates.

"Ok, what about your family?" Aurora ask, picking up a cookie from a plate.

"There are no more." Stellar replied in a low voice.

"I'm so sorry, who are your parents."

"Mr and Mrs Bloodred."

Aurora instantly froze with the cookie some inches from her mouth.

[Dark Castle.]

Aaron appeared on his throne, moving his gaze on his lords, who were all kneeling before him.

"What happened?!" He asked, his tone cold.

Protean moved his gaze around and stepped forward:

"Kara, and her soldiers are in the Forest... They're searching for cores, Beast-Rulers' cores."

Aaron moved his gaze on his elder, and scoffed:

"She is looking down on me... How surprising, Let's show her why these Forest is now called Terra."

The five in the room nodded... Before they could do anything, a loud thunderous sound exploded in the sky, stunning Aaron.

Aaron instantly disappeared, and appeared above his castle, staring at the red crack in the sky.

{Abyssal god just entered the Immortal Realm.}

Aaron raised an eyebrow.

Whizzed.

He looked over his shoulder, seeing Emily walking towards him... He smiled at her, and looked up at the crack, which was getting more distance, slowly disappearing.

"What was that?" Emily asked, stopping beside him.

"Michael, I'm waiting." Aaron said, staring at the crack, which finally disappeared.

"Michael?" Emily turned to Aaron's side profile, a little confused.

"Yeah, You'll know in time... The great war is upon us." Aaron said.

"Great War? What's that? Is it about the monster raid?" Emily was getting even more confused.

"In face of the Great war, the monster raid is a child play... Just get ready." Aaron said.

Emily was even more confused by Aaron's words, but still nodded.

"Master, why did you disappear without giving us any order? Or ways to stop Kara."

"Didn't you hear anything?" Aaron asked with a slight frown.

"No, Did something happen?" Protean asked in mild confusion, moving his gaze all over the place.

"Forget it, about Kara and her soldiers, let's go."

Aaron shot into the air, flying towards Kara's location.

"What about Backup?" Protean asked in mild confusion.

"You seem to have forgotten, Aaron never needs back up." Emily smiled, and shot into the air, following Aaron.

"This? Do I always have to be the sensible one?" Protean asked.

Somewhere in the Forest.

"Elder Kara, we have been looking around for half an hour now, there isn't any single Beast-Ruler in this forest." The Dean said.

"There are two Beast-Rulers in this Forest, I can sense them." Kara opened her eyes, and stood up from the log she was sitting on.

BOOOOOM!!!

She looked up at the crack in the sky, and smiled brightly:

"Finally, My second fragment is found, Michael can just lead her to me." Kara said, and looked down at The confused Dean.

"Second fragment? You mean your main body?"

Kara nodded. She moved her gaze on the soldiers 20 meters from their location, and heaved a relief sigh.

"Michael is coming, and with my fragment... I won't need the core anymore, I just have to wait."

The Dean scratched his head in confusion, not understanding why the cores were now useless.

"Can you explain to me, I'm confused."

Kara looked at the Dean for some seconds, turned around, and looked at the distance...

"Dean, what's my name?" She asked.

"Elder Kara."

"My other name." Kara clarified.

The Dean stared at her in surprised: "You said I should never call you by that name, why are you now asking me to mention it?"

"You're dying to know about my origins, so answer my question if you really want to know."

The Dean rethink her words, and after some seconds, he opened his mouth:

"Your other name is known as Sword Saint, Third Lord of Typhon."

Kara smiled, and with a flick of her wrist, a long sword appeared... Instantly, the wind picked up, an unknown amount of pressure descended on the whole forest.

"A Divine-class weapon!" The Dean exclaimed, taking a step back in fear.

"Don't be afraid, My other fragment is with the main weapon, this is just a manifestation... Can't wait to be reunited, and Michael will make that possible, then we all will see how powerful Aaron is."

The Dean smiled, although he was confused, he understood Kara's happiness.

"Elder Kara, I don't know you have such a powerful weapon."

Kara dispersed the sword phantom, and turned to Angela, and Jenny, who were both in their armor.

"It's nothing Angela. Come on, there's no need to continue searching... Let's head back." Kara said with a smile.

"Oh? I don't think that'll be possible."

The four, and soldiers, all raised their heads to the figure hovering high above them, with folded hands.

"Huh?"

They were stunned.
