

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2089 –

Chapter 2089

James did not expect to need 400,000 soldiers.

His initial plan was to send all these 100,000 soldiers to the Time Chamber to speed up their cultivation.

Now that they needed 300,000 more people, the Time Chamber would not have enough space. “Ms. Sophie, I wanted the soldiers to practice in the Time Chamber. Now that we have three hundred thousand more people, would it be possible for all of them to train in there?”

James expressed his concerns.

Sophie said with a smile, “Nothing is impossible. I read from Time Avenue’s Inscription and roughly understood some of the rules. I can probably arrange a Time Formation. Although I can’t adjust the passage for one month within the formation to be a day outside, I can at least achieve a few days in the formation to be one day outside.

“Roughly understood?”

James was rendered speechless.

Somehow, he felt like Sophie was slightly unreliable.

“Don’t worry. It’ll be fine.” Sophie reassured him.

For now, James could only place his trust in Sophie.

He personally sent Delainey out of the Celestial Abode so that she could select another 300,000 soldiers from the Black Dragon Army.

Afterward, James returned to the Celestial Abode.

Sophie said 400,000 people had to be divided into four teams, and each needed one team leader, which was four leaders in total.

According to James, the Blithe King, Henry, and Delainey would be great leaders.

The Blithe King and Henry used to be generals capable of leading troops on a battlefield.

Meanwhile, Delainey was a talented martial artist from the Mount Thunder Sect. She had been training the Black Dragon Army all these years and had high prestige in the army. Thus, she was also very suitable for the position. Now, he was one person short.

James became worried.

He needed one more person. Who would fit the role?

It would be inappropriate for him to fill the position.

Suddenly, he thought of Thea.

Thea would be the most suitable person to fill the last position. She was powerful and would not need much training. All she had to do was enter the Celestial Abode and learn the formation from Sophie.

Delainey acted very quickly and selected 300,000 people in just a few days.

A total of 400,000 soldiers gathered in the Celestial Abode.

All of them were shocked when they entered the Celestial Abode.

James did not interfere in the following training.

After he brought all the soldiers into the Celestial Abode, he transformed the place back into a ring and returned to Wurmstead with it.

James met up with Quincy in a restaurant in Dragonville.

Quincy wore large sunglasses and a hat, whereas James wore a mask to cover up half of his face.

The two were prominent figures and disguised themselves as they did not want to cause a commotion among the citizens.

“Thank you for working hard all these years.”

James picked up his wine glass and said, “Here’s a toast to you.”

Quincy picked up her wine glass, toasted with James, and chuckled. “I didn’t really do much. It’s an honor that I could participate in Wurmstead’s establishment. I’ve lived a pretty good life all these years and have been immersed in work. When I’m busy with work, I don’t have the time to think about other things or a certain person. So, I didn’t have the time to feel sad or cry about anything.”

Although she spoke calmly, her words were full of sorrow.

James immediately understood the meaning behind her words.

He did not comfort her and just smiled awkwardly. Then, he changed the subject. "I'll find a way to get enough funds as soon as possible. We don't have much time left and must complete Wrymstead's developments quickly. By the way, how's the food reserves going?"

Quincy sighed softly.

After she sorted out her emotions, she said, "Everything is still under preparation. In the past few years, Wrymstead has united with Sol to promote agriculture. With the recovery of Empyrean Spiritual Energy on the earth, agricultural products of all kinds have been grown in large quantities. Our country's current grain reserves will be enough to feed three hundred million people for ten years."

"That's not enough. It's far from enough."

James said, "Food is the basics for humanity's survival. No one knows what will happen in the future. We must have enough reserves to get through unexpected crises."

Quincy nodded. "Alright, I'll pay more attention to this matter."

James was relieved by her words.

Quincy suddenly thought of something and asked, "By the way, I've heard rumors that Thea, who disappeared many years ago, reappeared in Mount Bane and killed the strongest person on Earth, Tristen. Is it true? Is she that strong now?"

Thinking about it, Quincy's pretty face was full of disbelief.

James smiled and said, "Yeah. Thea has been working hard in the past few years."

Hearing this, Quincy felt slightly dejected.

She and Thea were classmates in high school and remained as best friends. She knew Thea very well. To her, Thea had always been a very soft person. She never expected for her to become humanity's hero after so many years."

"I also want to fight by your side, James."

Quincy looked at James pleadingly.

She really did not want to continue helping James behind the scenes. Instead, she yearned to fight by James' side.

“What?”

James was stunned by Quincy's words and did not know how to reply.

Quincy quickly recomposed herself and said with a smile, “I'm just joking. I think things are pretty good right now. Plus, I'm weak and can't fight by your side. I can only help you from behind the scenes.”

James was pleased to hear that Quincy thought like that.

At the same time, he also felt slightly guilty toward her.

He ate his meal in silence.

On the other hand, Quincy enjoyed the meal.

It was the happiest she had been after so many years because she could dine with James. At that moment, she felt her hard work in the past few years was worth it.

After the meal, the two walked side by side on the bustling street.

Quincy asked, “Where do you plan to get the money? Over the years, the changes in the Earth's environment and the increase of Outsiders have caused the currencies to decrease in value. Many countries' economies have collapsed, and even Sol is almost unable to sustain itself. Many countries have abandoned their currency and adopted gold as their new currency.” James listened carefully.

Quincy continued, “After the Earth's seal opens, gold will also become worthless. When that time comes, the most valuable thing would be food. I've slightly investigated Hazed City's situation and learned they use spiritual crystals as currency.”

James had heard of spiritual crystals before but was unsure of where they came from.

Quincy seemed to have read James' mind and explained, “Spiritual crystals are a scarce kind of crystal. They're energy stones formed by concentrated Empyrean Spiritual Energy and can be consumed to be refined. I learned that many Sealed Realms use spiritual crystals as their currency.”

James stopped and looked at Quincy, asking, “What's the reason for you telling me this? I don't think I understand your intention.”

Quincy said, "What I'm trying to say is some of the Earth's rules and currencies will no longer be applicable. We'll have to follow the pace of these other worlds eventually. For now, we must do as much as possible while money is still valuable. At the same time, we need to search the world for spiritual crystals, as they'll be the main currency after the seal opens. The more spiritual crystals we have stored, the greater our country will be."

Hearing her explanation, James came to a realization.

He nodded slightly and said, "Alright. I understand."

Quincy took off her sunglasses and revealed her beautiful face. She leaned into James and took advantage of a moment when he was not paying attention and planted a kiss on his cheek.

Then, she said with a mischievous smile, "I enjoyed this dinner tonight. You should get back to work. I'll be heading home to rest."

After speaking, she turned and left.
