The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2554—Brielle chased after Thea.

She was apprehensive about where to start her search for James.

Fortunately, Thea showed up at the right time.

Now, as long as she followed Thea she would eventually find James.

Thea frowned at Brielle's words.

She did not want Brielle to follow her around.

After thinking about it for a while, Thea said, "Don't you think its slightly inappropriate for you to be following me around?" Brielle replied with a smile.

"There's nothing inappropriate about it.

James and I have already exchanged vows.

I'm officially his wife.

[heard about you from him.

I already told him you'd be the first wife, and I'll be his second wife." Since Brielle kept insisting, Thea stopped refusing her.

She nodded and said, "Do whatever you want." After speaking, Thea swiftly departed.

Brielle followed behind her.

Meanwhile, James was still in the unknown world.

Even Sophie was unable to identify the place.

All she knew was there was a strong formation around the planet and it was too incomprehensible for her.

Putting the pieces together, it must have been a formation laid down by a Grand Emperor or an even stronger cultivator.

James wandered through the desolate desert, but all he could see was a never ending sea of sand.

Tornadoes swept through the area, causing golden sand to fly throughout the sky.

After traveling for several days in the desert, James was still unable to find a way out.

Throughout this entire time, he did not meet even a single living being and it frustrated him.

James sat down on the sand and rested.

He brought out drinking water from the Celestial Abode and quenched his thirst.

“Damn it.

What kind of place is this? Why isn’t there anyone around?” Despite traveling for days, there were no signs of other lifeforms, and he was getting restless.

“Henrik! Qusai! Where are you guys?! Are you here?!” James took a deep breath.

He stood up from the ground and chose a direction to travel in.

Then, he mobilized his True Essence and began advancing at full speed.

Although he was not yet a Sage, he could kill powerhouses at the Sage Rank.

James quickly made his way through the desert, traveling at lightning speed.

With one step, he would appear thousands of meters away.

He would have completely moved away from his original location in a few more steps.

It was a vast desert, and there was no end within sight.

Moreover, James had no idea where he was sent to.

His priority was to leave the desert as soon as possible to find other living beings so he could ask about his current location.

He continued traversing the desert for the next few days.

However, James was still unable to get out of the desert.

He suspected he had gotten lost and stopped to survey his surroundings to determine his direction of travel once more.

After rerouting, he was off again.

A month passed by in the blink of an eye.

James had been stranded in the vast desert for over a month.

Fortunately, he eventually made it out of the desert.

Ahead of him was a montane forest.

At first, there were only a few trees, but as he advanced deeper and deeper, the trees also got denser.

When he was deep inside the forest, he ran into some monsters.

The monsters were at a relatively low rank.

Most were only around the Mage Rank.

He did not even encounter one above the Tribulation Rank.

Through these deductions, James inferred that the planet was not very advanced.

Otherwise, the monsters he encountered would be much stronger.

After spending the last month continuously wandering the desert, James was exhausted.

The moment he stumbled upon a river in the deep forest, he immediately jumped into it.

The clear and cool river water flowed over his body, soothing his weary soul.

Boom! While he was cleaning himself in the river, the sound of a fierce fight reached him from a distance.

Right after the sound, a terrifyingly strong shockwave spread from the area.

A number of trees that over a few hundred meters tall were uprooted, and a few mountains nearby crumbled into dust and rubble.

James got out of the water and stood on the river bank.

He picked up his clothes and got dressed.

Then, he activated his True Essence and leaped 100 meters into the air, looking into the distance.

Since he reached the Mage Rank's First Stage, he could see things from a great distance away.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2555—A fierce fight had ensued in a closeby canyon within the forest.

Two armies were at war and Millions of people were engaged in battle.

The soldiers on both sides were not particularly strong.

Most were around the Immortal Ascension rank.

Only a few generals were slightly above the rest and had reached the Tribulation Rank.

At the moment, two people at the Tribulation Rank were locked in battle.

“A war?” James hovered in the sky and looked into the distance.

When he saw the scene of the battlefield, his brows furrowed.

After spending a moment to consider carefully, he mobilized his True Essence and propelled himself into the sky.

With one step, he appeared right outside the canyon.

The war raged on and countless soldiers fought against each other.

The sound of aggressive and violent screams filled the air as blades clashed against one another.

It was an extremely gruesome sight.

A vicious battle took place in the skies between the two generals.

One of the generals was a man while his opponent was a woman.

The man wore black armor and brandished a long black sword.

He swung his sword down and powerful Sword Energy shot at the woman.

The woman, on the other hand, wore red battle armor.

However, her armor was cracked, and her helmet was shattered.

At that moment, her hair was disheveled and she looked incredibly beaten down.

James also realized that one of the armies fighting below him was comprised of only women.

The women's army seemed to be losing the battle.

James floated in the sky and silently watched millions of people partake in a bloody battle.

The battle between generals was the most intense.

The male general held a long sword and continuously advanced on the female general, forcing her back.

The female general was injured and her energy was gradually weakening.

Judging by the tide of the battle, she would be defeated very soon.

Swoosh! Thousands of Sword Energies materialized and descended from the sky.

The female general held up her long sword to block the burst of Sword Energies, but she was weaker than her opponent.

She was unable to deflect the attack, and her long sword broke.

The remaining Sword Energies homed in on her and struck her armor.

The Sword Energies shattered her armor and pierced through her body.

She spat a mouthful of blood, and her body plummeted from the sky.

Boom! Her body crashed into the rubble below.

"Your general has been defeated! Drop your weapons and surrender.

If you refuse, none of you will be spared!" Following the female general's defeat, a domineering voice echoed through the air.

The thousands of female soldiers were frightened by the declaration and tried to flee.

However, the opposing army was quick to pursue them.

James stood in the distance and observed the battle.

He had just arrived on this planet and was clueless about why they were fighting.

He also did not know which of the two armies started the battle.

Despite his lack of information on the situation, he felt that it was wrong for men to fight against women.

At that moment, he instinctively wanted to help the women soldiers.

After some brief pondering, James' body flickered and he rushed toward the male general at lightning speed.

He appeared before the male general the very next moment.

The male general was watching his army chase and subdue the opponent's army when suddenly an unexpected person appeared before.

He gave James a wary and stern look.

"who are you?" James looked at the male general.

He could sense that the general was at the Tribulation Rank's Second Stage and was close to becoming a Sage.

James said calmly, "Why do you insist on killing them? Your army is already victorious.

You can just withdraw and let them retreat."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2556—James had come to defuse the situation.

Many lives were sacrificed in the war between the two armies, especially the women's army.

Hundreds of thousands of their soldiers were killed, and only a few hundred thousand were left.

All of them would be wiped out if the war continued.

The male general looked at James and said coldly, "This war concerns the national affairs between our two countries.

It has nothing to do with you.

If you know what's smart, then get out of the way.

Otherwise, I'm not going to go easy on you." James asked calmly, "You're not going to withdraw?" "What are you going to do if we withdraw?"

The male general replied coldly, "Our army will conquer Sangria and take over the country in preparation to unify the world." From his remark, James could tell that this man's army initiated the war, and that the women were from a country called Sangria.

James asked, "What's the name of your country?" The male general leered at James disdainfully and replied, "Listen carefully.

I'm the Grand Marshal of Korinth.

My mission today is to lead an army of one million soldiers down south to conquer Sangria." James lowered his gaze to the battlefield.

Under the relentless attacks of the Korinth's soldiers, the Sangria's soldiers had no choice but to flee.

Many of their soldiers were slaughtered and fell to the ground, flooding it with blood.

The canyon was littered with piles of corpses and pools of blood.

James was well aware of the brutality of war.

He was Sol's Dragon King on Earth.

He once commanded the Black Dragon Army which had an army of millions through countless battles.

"If you don't issue an order to stop the attack, I'm not going to go easy on you." James gave the male general an ultimatum.

"Haha! With your strength?" The Grand Marshal of Korinth sneered, "You're merely at the Mage Rank's First Stage." Seeing that his requests were falling on deaf ears, James immediately unleashed oppressive energy from his body.

His True Essence stimulated the dragon bone, allowing its power to flow through his whole body.

It provided him with great strength, and his energy was substantially amplified.

"You must have a death wish." The Grand Marshal of Korinth sensed James' rising energy, and his face darkened.

He immediately swung his sword, sending out terrifying Sword Energy.

James remained motionless and allowed the Sword Energy to strike him.

The Sword Energy made contact his body, yet James was unscathed.

“You? How is this possible?!” The Grand Marshal of Korinth was rooted in his place in shock.

James smiled faintly.

He had a Sword Body.

In order to awaken the invincible Sword Energy, James had no choice but to cultivate a Sword Body.

He planted a sword seed in his body, finally awakening the invincible Sword Energy.

Ordinary Sword Energy was unable to harm him.

James’ activated his Yogacara telepathically.

Countless strands of energy emerged from his pores and gathered together to form white Sword Energy.

The Sword Energy hovered above his head like a white lightning bolt.

Since the planet was not advanced, James’ powerful Sword Energy had affected the surrounding space, causing subtle cracks to form in the space around him.

From a distance, the scene looked otherworldly.

As soon as James’ Yogacara Sword Energy appeared, the Grand Marshal of Korinth felt a dangerous chill.

Although he was at the Tribulation Rank’s Second Stage, it still intimidated him.

He feared that he would die instantly if James attacked with the Sword Energy.

At that moment, James long black hair fluttered in the air.

He looked indescribably handsome as he looked at the Grand Marshal of Korinth with a calm and confident expression.

“I’ll give you one last chance.

Issue an order to withdraw your troops immediately.

Otherwise, you've got no right to complain about what I'm going to do.

Also, don't question my strength.

"I'll wipe out your million-soldier army instantly with a single move." James was not exaggerating.

He did have the strength to achieve it.

The Grand Marshal of Korinth balked at James' threat.

However, he regained some confidence after remembering his station.

"who are you? Do you really want to stand against Korinth?"

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2557—"Haah!" James sent out gleaming Sword Energy in response to the general's taunts.

The Sword Energy rushed toward the Grand Marshal and was in front of him in an instant.

His sturdy armor was unable to withstand the might of the Sword Energy and had started to wear down.

Crack! His armor crumbled to pieces in a mere second.

Before the Sword Energy even touched his body, the force had already injured him.

The Grand Marshal wanted to retreat but was thoroughly subdued by the Sword Energy's force.

He felt like he had been pinned down and that any movement he made would allow the Sword Energy's force to tear his body apart.

He was drenched in a nervous sweat and quickly surrendered to James.

"Wait! Don't do it! I'll give the order! I'll immediately order my troops to withdraw." Hearing these words, James dissipated his Sword Energy.

The Grand Marshal of Korinth heaved a sigh in relief.

He reached out his hand to wipe the sweat on his forehead.

Then, he glanced at James and instructed his troops.

“Withdraw!” His voice boomed through the sky.

Following his order, the soldiers below them chasing down the Sangrian Army immediately stopped their pursuit and withdrew.

Seeing this scene, James heaved a sigh of relief.

Stopping war and saving countless lives was something he felt proud about.

“Who the hell are you? Do you understand you’ll be offending Korinth with this? There are Sages within my country.” The Grand Marshal of Korinth stared at James and questioned him.

James replied indifferently, “My identity doesn’t matter.

Return to your country now, and leave Sangria alone.

Of course, your country can come after me for revenge.

However, make sure you guys have the strength to fight me.” “Of course.

With the withdrawal of the Korinthian Army, the war came to an end.

The defeated Sangria army remained in the area.

Almost all the soldiers that survived were injured.

They sat on the ground and began to heal their injuries.

James descended from the sky and appeared in the vast canyon.

The canyon was full of corpses and pools of blood.

The air was rank with the stench of blood.

James looked at the mountain in the distance, recalling that Sangria’s general had crashed there.

In the next moment, he appeared where she fell.

He used his Divine Sense and pulled her out of the ruins.

Her battle armor was completely wrecked, and her body was covered in wounds.

Not a portion of her body was unblemished by blood.

At that moment, she had already lost consciousness but was still faintly breathing.

James placed her on a boulder and murmured, "You're lucky to have met me today.

Otherwise, you'd die very soon." He immediately took out Crucifier and activated his True Essence, transfusing it into the needles.

The silver needles glowed brightly and began to emit a low hum.

James quickly inserted the needles into the Sangria's general, using Crucifier's power to heal her wounds.

Crucifier had an extensive history.

It was left behind by an Ancestral God from the Primeval Age and had magical abilities that could heal injuries.

Soon, he finished inserting the needles all over her body.

The general's internal injuries recovered rapidly.

About ten minutes later, she regained consciousness.

The first thing she saw was an unfamiliar face.

She asked feebly, "W-Who are you?" James withdrew the needles from her and sat down on another boulder.

He took out a cigarette and lit it, then took a deep breath.

She asked again, "D-Did you save me?" James leisurely blew out a cloud of smoke and replied, "I was just passing by could not help but interfere because I couldn't bear seeing so many people die so tragically."
