The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2701-James looked at Walganus and said, "Let's get going, then."

Walganus nodded.

They hurriedly left the area. After leaving the Barren Wasteland, they met up with the Blademaster of Mount Grinch and left for Sangria through the airship.

Shortly, they arrived at the border of Sangria.

The Blademaster stopped and said, "Since there's a curse in Sangria, I won't be following you two from here. I hope you can remove Sangria and this world's curses. By then, you'll be the saviors of this world, and everyone will be eternally grateful for your deeds."

James clasped his fists and said, "No trouble at all."

He saved the formalities and turned to leave.

The moment he arrived at Sangria, he was immediately spotted by Korinth's scouts.

At that moment, in the courtyard of the Korinthian Palace, Xandalous appeared before a simple wooden house and greeted respectfully, "Grand Patriarch..."

Creak...

The door opened, and an elderly man walked out. Wearing a grey robe, the elderly man's hair was completely white, and he looked very old indeed. He was Lachlan Korinth, the Grand Patriarch of the Kingdom of Korinth. He was a prodigy, and though he was not the first Emperor of the kingdom, Korinth was only established with his help.

Lachlan possessed immense power and was the most powerful figure within the Kingdom of Korinth. However, he had been living in seclusion and rarely showed himself in public, so not many had heard of him.

Lachlan sat on a chair outside and asked, "What's the situation?"

Xandalous said, "I just received news that James Caden has returned to Sangria. If everything went as planned, he must have found the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword and the Imperial Jade Seal."

Wearing a composed expression, Lachlan said, "No need to be hasty. James is the fated one, and only he can remove the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion's seal and Sangria's Curse. Let's wait for him to obtain these providences before making a move."

Then, he stood up and stretched his muscles.

“I haven’t been out and about for many years. The world seems to have forgotten about my existence. I believe the time has come for me to show myself. Once the seal of this world and the lifespan limit are removed, I’ll be the most powerful figure in this world. I’ll reign supreme on Planet Galileo!”

Lachlan was fully assured of his strength.

James had no idea that many people were secretly waiting for him to remove the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion’s seal and Sangria’s Curse, including the Grand Patriarch of Korinth and the Seafolk’s Blade Sect.

James could not care less. Now, he only wished to head to the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion, remove the seal and Sangria’s Curse at the same time, and remove the curse placed upon this world. He did this not to obtain providence. Instead, he wanted to leave Planet Galileo as soon as possible because the Third Calamity would soon arrive. He needed to return to Earth to lead the humans into overcoming the Third Calamity before it arrived.

The Third Calamity would be a Curse Calamity. James wondered what it would be.

The First Calamity annihilated many ordinary people but had no effect on cultivators.

The Second Calamity, which was deemed as an apocalypse, was resolved by James.

However, James was unable to remove the seals within humanity’s bodies. To achieve a breakthrough, humans needed to break the seals. It could only be accomplished by reaching the pinnacle of each rank. Meanwhile, there was only a handful of humans who could accomplish such a feat.

The Third Calamity would be a Curse Calamity.

Though James had no idea what a Curse Calamity would be, he could imagine that it would be far more terrifying than the previous ones.

After returning to Sangria, James, and Walganus hurriedly made their way toward the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion. They arrived in just a few short days.

At the main hall of the Sword Pavilion's main peak, James asked, "I have brought the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword here. How do we break the Sword Pavilion's seal? Where is the seal located?"

Yanina, the new Sword Master who was sitting in the main seat, shook her head slightly and said, "I don't know either. Perhaps only the previous Sword Master knows."

However, Sword Master Xanthe and Empress Xiana left long ago. We have no idea where they are at the moment."

Walganus hurriedly stepped forward and said, "Why the hurry? We should wait for them to return."

"I guess that's the only way." James nodded.

Then, he headed to rest.

Walganus glanced at Yanina and asked, "Are they still in the dungeon?"

Yanina nodded and said, "Yes."

Walganus did not linger long and left the main peak immediately. Then, he headed to the mountain where Yanina was once based and entered the dungeon.

He gathered Xanthe and Xianna, who were sitting in a lotus position on the ground.

Xanthe glanced at Walganus and asked coldly, "Is something the matter?"

Walagnus said smilingly, "James and I have found the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword and the Imperial Jade Seal."

"What?" they exclaimed at the same time.

Xianna stared at Walganus in disbelief and asked, "Are you saying that you've found the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword and the Imperial Jade Seal?"

"Yes." Walganus nodded and said, "We have found them. However, we have no idea how to release the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion's seal nor how to break Sangria's Curse. I'll release you from imprisonment. However, you're forbidden from blabbering, is that understood? If James asks, just tell him that you went searching for the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword and the Imperial Jade Seal. Say anything unnecessary and you know the consequences."

Walganus' face darkened as he threatened the two.

Xianna nodded and said, "Don't worry, I won't tell a single soul. After Sangria's Curse is removed, I'll leave Sangria and travel the world."

Xanthe said as well, "I'm tired of having to guard the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion for so many years. Now that someone has taken my position, I'm going to take this opportunity to rest and travel the world alongside Xianna."

Hearing this, Walganus released their seals.

"Follow me."

After he spoke, he turned to leave.

The two looked at each other. Without uttering a single word, they hurriedly followed after Walganus.

After returning to his accommodation, James took out the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword and the Imperial Jade Seal, placed them on the table, and scrutinized them. Soon, a knock came on the door, and Walganus walked in afterward.

"What are you looking at?"

James turned around and looked at Walganus, saying, "I'm investigating the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword and the Imperial Jade Seal."

Walganus took a seat beside him and said, "James, I made significant contributions to the search for the Imperial Jade Seal and the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword, so I can't let you take everything. We should each be given one of the items. I'll give you the privilege to make the first choice."

Hearing this, James glanced at Walganus. In truth, he had no plans to keep these two items for himself.

However, Walagnus had no idea what was on his mind.

"Don't tell me that you plan on taking them for yourself, James. The Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword is an Ancestral God Weapon that is unrivaled even in the Primordial Age, let alone the contemporary age. By possessing the weapon, the cultivation journey will be a breeze. Meanwhile, the Imperial Jade Seal is closely connected with Curse Magic. Its power is comparable to an Ancestral God Weapon. I'm now giving you the privilege to choose one for yourself."

Walganus looked at James.

However, James seemed to be daydreaming, unwilling to make a decision. Guessing that James wanted everything for himself, Walganus smiled and said, "Do you seriously wish to have everything for yourself?"

James said, 'The Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword belongs to the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion, while the Imperial Jade Seal belongs to Sangria. I'm only borrowing these objects for now. Once everything's resolved, I'll return them to their respective owners. I will not take a single one of them."

James knew that these treasures were rare, and each of them would create a frenzy in the outside world, compelling many to seize them for themselves. However, to him, steadily building up his own strength was a surer way than possessing a treasure.

Once his strength increased, even an ordinary iron sword would bring about cataclysmic damage.

Hearing this, Walganus froze momentarily before saying with a smile, "I thought you wanted both for yourself. Since you wish to return them, I have no right to ask for them. In that case, we'll discuss more once everything's resolved."

"Mhm." James nodded. Then, he put away the Imperial Jade Seal and the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword.

Walganus did not linger long and turned to leave. After walking out of the room, the smile on his face froze, and his expression darkened. He would not give up just because James did not wish to possess the treasures. However, now was not the time to seize them and end James' life. He had to wait patiently for everything to be resolved.

James then stayed in the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion.

However, the next day, just as he was meditating while sitting in a lotus position on the ground, a knock came on the door. James stopped and answered it. Walganus was standing outside.

"What's wrong?" James asked.

Walganus said, "Xanthe and Xianna have returned."

"Oh?" Delighted, James asked, "Where are they?"

"In the foyer."

"Good, let's get going."

James hurriedly walked out of his room and followed Walganus to the main hall of the main peak. As he arrived at the main hall, he noticed Xanthe Hailey, the previous Sword Master of the Sword Pavilion, and Empress Xianna.

"James."

Upon seeing James, Xianna asked, "Have you found the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword and the Imperial Jade Seal?"

"Yes." James nodded.

Xanthe said, "Quick, let us have a look."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2704-The Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword and the Imperial Jade Seal had been long lost. For eons, the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion and Sangria had never once given up on searching for them. However, despite the long passage of time, they were unable to locate their whereabouts. However, after James arrived at Sangria and became the Emperor for a short period of time, he managed to find the Divine Sword and the Imperial Jade Seal, a feat Xanthe and Xianna found hard to believe.

Under their expectant gazes, James took out the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword and casually tossed it to Xanthe. Then, he took out the Imperial Jade Seal and threw it to Xianna.

"Are these the correct items?"

As Xanthe scrutinized the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword, she also imbued Sage Energy into the sword. At that moment, the sword emitted a dazzling purple light, and an immense power was awakened.

"Yes, this is the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword of the Sword Pavilion that has been long lost!" She exclaimed.

Xianna held the Imperial Jade Seal in her hand. Though she had never seen the Imperial Jade Seal, she had ways to determine its authenticity. At that moment, she could clearly sense a familiar yet unfamiliar power emanating from within. The power was familiar as it had the same origins as the power she cultivated. The power was unfamiliar as the Imperial Jade Seal shared the same origins as her own power despite her never once seeing the object.

“This is the real deal.”

Xianna nodded and said, ‘This is the Imperial Jade Seal of Sangria that has been long lost.’

Walganus stepped forward and said, “Since their authenticity has been determined, we should start from the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion. Sword Master Xanthe, as the previous Sword Master of the Sword Pavilion, you should know how to release the seal.”

“Mhm.”

Xanthe nodded. Then, she glanced at James before tossing the Divine Sword back to him.

James took the sword.

Xanthe said, “Based on the information passed down to me in the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion, there is a Magic Circle in the mountain the Sword Pavillion is located. The Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword is the key to opening the Magic Circle. However, not anyone can open the Magic Circle. Apart from the Divine Sword, there’s something else we need.”

Walganus asked, “What else do we need?”

Xanthe answered, “Back then, I said that only the fated one can open the Magic Circle. Not only that, but the fated one must possess a Sword Body, and there must be Sword Energy left behind by the Ancestral Sword Master in his body. The steps to open the Magic Circle are simple.

Holding the Divine Sword in your hand, you have to stand at the highest point of the Sword Pavilion’s main peak and catalyze the Divine Sword and the Sword Energy inside your body, thereby allowing Sword Energy to permeate the entire Sword Pavilion. Then, using the Divine Sword’s power, you have to forcibly catalyze the Magic Circle and open it.”

Xanthe described the method to open the Magic Circle and remove the seal.

Hearing this, Walganus glanced at James and said, “What are you standing there for, James? Hurry up and test things out.”

"Alright, I'll go give it a try." James nodded.

Then, holding the Divine Sword in hand, he left the main hall and headed to the highest point of the main peak.

Meanwhile, the others followed close behind.

Soon, they arrived at the highest point of the main peak.

Standing in this place, they could see the many majestic peaks of the Sword Pavilion.

These peaks were grand, magnificent, and surrounded by white mist, resembling a fairyland.

Holding the Divine Sword in his hand, James used the Sword Energy inside his body and catalyzed the Divine Sword. In an instant, it dazzled brightly. Mysterious characters were inscribed on the sword. They seemed to have come to life, detaching from the sword and slowly flying toward the empty air around them before disappearing into the void.

Walganus, Xanthe, Yanina, Xianna, and the others were watching silently from a distance.

Immediately, countless waves of Sword Energy poured out from his pores and scattered into the surroundings before disappearing into the mountains. At that moment, the entire Sword Pavilion shook, and some mountains began to move and undergo changes. Upon witnessing this, Walganus said delightedly, "It worked!"

Xanthe had a look of anticipation on her face.

Countless years had passed. Would the unparalleled sword technique seal within the Sword Pavilion finally be able to see the light of day?

Xianna, too, was looking at James in expectation.

James and the Sword Pavilion's power slowly entered the mountains in the surroundings. As the mountains moved and underwent changes, they gathered to form a new mountain. As countless peaks formed into one, James' soul seemed to have been drawn by an immense power into an unknown space. In this space, there were no mountains, water, or earth, only a vast emptiness. The void was dotted with numerous stars, and James stood in the midst of it all.

“Where am I?”

James was puzzled.

Just as he was bewildered, a shadow appeared before him out of nowhere. The shadow gradually materialized to form a man. Wearing a white robe, the man had a somewhat handsome-looking appearance, and he exuded an extraordinary aura.

The man looked at James and said in a soft voice, “At long last... After countless years...”

“Y-You are...?” James looked at the man puzzledly.

“I do not have much time. You have to remember what I’m about to tell you.”

The man’s expression turned grim.

Hearing this, James did not ask any questions and listened intently.

“I’m a Sword Cultivator, and I have spent my entire life pursuing the ultimate path of swordsmanship. I have studied all the sword techniques in the world and created the Five Great Sword Realms. The Five Great Sword Realms are easy to comprehend, but truly reaching the pinnacle is as difficult as ascending to the heavens. I know that calamity is about to come, and in order to prevent my swordsmanship from being lost, I have divided it into three parts.

“One of them is inside the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword. Another one is in the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion, and the final one is in the Mound of Sabers. The one inside the Divine Sword is the most elementary and most suitable for those below the Divine Rank to cultivate. The one in the Sword Pavilion is considered more advanced and most suitable for those at or below the Grand Emperor Rank to cultivate. Meanwhile, the core of the swordsmanship is hidden in the Mound of Sabers. However, to truly gain insight, one would first need to comprehend the swordsmanship of the Divine Sword and the Sword Pavilion.”

James listened intently.

At that moment, he was certain of the identity of the person before him. This was the Ancestral Sword Master, a peerless powerhouse who shook the ground in the Primeval Age. His swordsmanship had influenced countless Sword Cultivators.

As the man in the white robe spoke, his body gradually became illusory. Then, a sigil appeared in James’ field of vision. The sigil was white and akin to a character. Flying toward James and entering his forehead, the mark of a sigil appeared faintly on his forehead.

Though the man had disappeared, his voice still reverberated throughout the area.

“The sigil contains records of my swordsmanship inheritance. Cultivate hard... When the sigil completely vanishes, it would mean that you have truly gained insight into the swordsmanship. By then, head to the Mound of Sabers with the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword. There, you’ll obtain the core of my swordsmanship.”

The voice grew weaker and weaker until it completely disappeared.

By the time James reacted, everything had vanished, and he was standing at the highest point of the Sword Pavilion’s main peak.

However, he knew that was not a hallucination, and he had truly obtained part of the inheritance of the Ancestral Sword Master. He could clearly sense a sigil in the middle of his forehead. Since the mark was faint and elusive, no one else could see it except for James, who could sense its presence. James took a deep breath.

“I never thought there’d truly be the Ancestral Sword Master’s inheritance in the Sword Pavilion. By obtaining these inheritances, I’ll reach the Grand Emperor Rank.”

He reabsorbed the Sword Energy he exuded and suppressed his aura before sheathing the Divine Sword. Immediately, many people rushed toward him.

Walagnus, who was the first to approach him, asked, “How did it go, James?”

James glanced at him and asked, “What do you mean?”

“The swordsmanship inheritance! Did you receive it?” Walagnus asked.

James was lost in thought. Initially, he planned to disclose the swordsmanship inheritance. Now, however, the swordsmanship inheritance had been transformed into a sigil. Besides, at his current rank, he did not have the right to cultivate in order to comprehend it yet.

After brief contemplation, he shook his head slightly and said, “Nope.”

“what?”

Walganus froze and asked, “How can this be?”

“How am I supposed to know?” James shook his head.

Unwilling to provide any explanations, he shifted the subject and said, “Now that the countless peaks of the Sword Pavilion have merged into one, I guess the Magic Circle has been opened and the seal removed. Next on the list is Sangria’s Curse.”

Then, he looked at Xianna and asked, “Your Majesty, what is Sangria’s Curse exactly? What should we do to break the curse and obtain the Curse Magic?”

Xianna glanced at Walganus and said, “We need the fated one. As Walganus is the fated one, we need him to break Sangria’s Curse.”

Walganus smiled awkwardly and said, “I’m not the fated one, James is. I’m just an impostor.”

Now that it had come to this, James could no longer care less whether he was an impostor.

He looked at Xianna and asked, “What should we do next?”

Xianna said, “According to the legend passed down in Sangria, only those whose body holds a power that shares the same origins as the Imperial Jade Seal can break Sangria’s Curse. As the Empress of Sangria, I have that power, but it is too weak. I cannot break the seal. Hence, the key to removing the seal is the Imperial Jade Seal.

As for the location, it’s inside the palace.”

Walganus said, “Let’s get going.”

“Sure.” James nodded.

Then, they left the Sword Pavilion and headed to Sangria Palace.

A few days later, they arrived at their destination.

After returning to the palace, James searched for Cynthia and Tiara who were concealed in the palace, and brought them back to the Celestial Abode.

Then, everyone gathered in the palace’s courtyard.

With Xianna’s guidance, they headed in the direction of the courtyard. After approximately ten minutes, they arrived outside an ordinary-looking courtyard.

However, Xianna said, "The Curse Magic is hidden here, but no one has been able to enter this place since antiquity. Based on the information passed down from long ago, only the fated one who holds the Imperial Jade Seal in his hand can enter."

Unable to wait any longer, Walganus said, "Give it a try, James."

James looked at Xianna and asked, "How do I enter?"

James nodded after he heard this.

Holding the Imperial Jade Seal in hand, he walked toward the door. Under everyone's watchful gaze, he placed the Imperial Jade Seal in the slot. At that moment, he could feel an immense power coming from the other end of the door.

Meanwhile, the others could see a dark light materializing from the door, which poured out and enveloped James.

Meanwhile, an extremely powerful Demonic Energy materialized from James' body and entered the Imperial Jade Seal through his arm before being transported to the door. The door, which had remained firmly shut for God knows how long, slowly opened, and a crack appeared.

Seeing this, Walganus' heartbeat accelerated.

Soon, the wait would be over. As he was confident that James had already obtained the swordsmanship inheritance, he would make his move the moment James obtained the Curse Magic. Everything in James' possession would belong to him.

Xianna watched the event unfold before her eyes intently.

Under her watchful gaze, the door that had remained firmly closed all this time slowly opened to reveal an opening that increasingly grew in size. However, as the door opened, they could not see what was inside. At a glance, they could only see a dark mist.

After the door opened, James put away the Imperial Jade Seal and walked in. As he entered, the door slammed shut.

Walganus and the others waited patiently outside.

James entered the door. Before him was a dense black mist, because of which he had no choice but to navigate through the darkness. After walking for approximately ten minutes, the black mist gradually dissipated, and he found himself in an unfamiliar place. This was a mountain, and he was at the foot of the mountain. Standing there, he could hear chanting coming from the mountaintop, echoing throughout the area.

“Where am I?”

James was puzzled.

With doubts in his mind, he slowly walked up to the mountaintop.

At the mountaintop, there was an ancient building, from which the chanting sound could be heard. Just as he was about to enter, a seven-year-old boy opened the door and walked out. He walked toward James and greeted him respectfully, “You have arrived. My master has been waiting. Please come in.”

The child beckoned.

Puzzledly, James walked into the building and arrived at the main hall.

There were many people gathered in the main hall. Among them were men and women, young and old, all sitting in a lotus position with their eyes closed as if they had not noticed James’ arrival. At the forefront was an elderly man wearing a black robe and holding a fly-whisk in his hand. James could not see his face clearly at first glance, as it was blurry and impossible to make out.

“You have arrived.”

Just as James was puzzled, the elderly man spoke. His feeble voice reverberated in James’ ears as if it came from a faraway place. His voice was ethereal as if it had traveled through time and space.

James clasped his fists and bowed slightly, asking, “Who are you, Sir?”

Then, he turned around to look at the people sitting in a lotus position. Here came the shocking part. When he first entered, he could see these people clearly, but now, he could not see them clearly anymore. This sent a chill down his spine.

‘Where am I?

“Who is he?

“Why does he seem to be waiting for me?’

Many questions surfaced in James’ mind.

The elderly man spoke in a feeble voice, “It doesn’t matter who I am. What matters the most is that you’re here. Since you’re here, this means that you’re the destined one.”

“What do you mean?” James asked.

The elderly man sighed. “I never thought the Supernatural Power I cultivated would create such a great upheaval in the future, and even be used by the Heavenly Path to target humanity. Though they say that humans have brought this upon themselves, I can’t help but feel guilty in my heart.”

Hearing this, James was stunned.

Who was this? Could he be the Ancestral Talisman Master? Besides, what did he mean by humans have brought this upon themselves? Was this related to humans attempting to annihilate the Heavenly Path in the Primeval Age?

The elderly man continued, “To resolve the Third Calamity of humanity and completely eliminate it, one must practice the complete Curse Magic. However, it is extremely difficult to master the Curse Magic to its fullest extent. Even if one spends countless epochs, it may not be possible to master it completely. I have extrapolated that humanity will face a calamity caused by the curse in the future. However, separated by countless epochs, I cannot interfere with events that occur beyond my time.

Therefore, I have left a Space-Time Portal on Planet Galileo, which the destined one would be able to travel through and come to this place.”

James listened intently.

At that moment, he was sure that the elderly man before him was the well-renowned Ancestral Talisman Master of the Primeval Age. He was a figure at a comparable rank to the Ancestral Sword Master and an existence that greatly surpassed a Grand Emperor.

Learning about Earth's Third Calamity, James asked respectfully, "May I ask for your guidance on how to resolve the Third Calamity on Earth?"

"You have to lift the curse that befalls all of humanity with the power of a single individual," the man answered.

Hearing this, James furrowed his eyebrows, "Lift the curse that befalls all of humanity with the power of a single individual?"

"Yes."

Puzzled, James asked, "How?"

The elderly man spoke, "It's quite simple, actually. You just need to use the Imperial Jade Seal I left behind on Galileo. The Imperial Jade Seal has several general runes inscribed on it, which can gather the curses in the bodies of all humans onto one person."

Upon hearing this, James was shocked as he asked, "Are you saying that you want me to bear the curse for all of mankind?"

"Yes."

"Then wouldn't I be doomed?"

"Not necessarily. After bearing the curse, not only would it not be a disaster, but rather, it would be a providence. As the bearer of all curses, you'll have the prerequisite to practice the Curse Magic. Even I have not mastered the Curse Magic to its fullest extent. Perhaps you might be able to do so. However, the precondition is whether you can endure the Curse Magic. Otherwise, you will face eternal damnation," the elderly man spoke.

Upon hearing this, James fell into contemplation. After a while, he asked, "What will I face after bearing all the curses?"

"I have already told you everything you need to know."

As he spoke, his figure gradually became illusory, and then everything around him became illusory as well.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2709-James' vision blurred. When he reappeared, he was back in the ordinary-looking courtyard. The place was completely empty.

James scanned his surroundings and walked toward a stone chair of a gazebo nearby. As he sat on the chair, he recalled what he had experienced.

He knew he had not been hallucinating. After entering the courtyard, a powerful figure had been talking to him from countless epochs away. Or perhaps this was a message left behind by the Ancestral Talisman Master, which anyone would learn about upon entering the courtyard.

Once he recalled what had happened, James took a deep breath.

"How unbelievable... I never thought that the Ancestral Talisman Master had foreseen what would happen in this era from the Primeval Age. He even planned everything in advance."

James murmured.

Then, he fell into contemplation once more.

Though he received information left behind by the Ancestral Talisman Master, this had no direct connection to the seal on Galileo and Sangria's Curse.

However, at that moment, everyone in the outside world could clearly sense that the seal on Galileo was gradually disappearing. As the seal disappeared, they could feel some seals inside their bodies.

"Wh-What's going on?"

"I'm about to make a breakthrough. So why do I feel there's a seal inside my body?"

"I can sense that the seal on Planet Galileo has disappeared. But why is there now a seal inside my body?"

Many cultivators were puzzled.

Meanwhile, James remained in the courtyard for some time before heading out.

Creak...

He opened the door.

Many people were standing outside. They had been staring at the door in anticipation.

When James pushed the door open, they hurriedly rushed over to him.

Walganus asked, "How did it go?"

Xanthe said, "I sense that the seal on Planet Galileo has completely disappeared.

James, did you receive the Curse Magic inheritance?"

Xianna looked at James and asked, "What did you experience after entering the courtyard? Did you receive the Curse Magic inheritance?"

James shook his head slightly and said, "I did not receive anything."

James was not lying. The Curse Magic had long been inscribed on the Imperial Jade Seal and the characters on which were the summary of the Curse Magic.

Hearing this, Walganus looked at him with a solemn expression on his face. No one knew what he was thinking at that moment.

"I'm tired... I need some rest."

James was exhausted. His mind was in chaos. There was too much information to process, so he needed to calm down and contemplate. After leaving a few words, he turned to leave.

Meanwhile, driven by curiosity, the others looked toward the courtyard straight ahead and walked in. However, the courtyard was no different from any other courtyard.

There was nothing there and certainly nothing out of the ordinary

As the seal on Planet Galileo disappeared, along with Sangria's Curse and the lifespan limit of this world, this caused a great commotion.

At that moment, the Grand Patriarch of the Kingdom of Korinth had arrived at the borders of Sangria with his confidants. Sensing something, Lachlan Korinth gazed at the sky. He could feel that the seal on Planet Galileo had disappeared.

"James has removed the curse of Sangria and Planet Galileo!

"Hahaha!"

Lachlan laughed maniacally.

"From today onward, I will reign supreme in this world."

At that moment, James was resting in a room.

After entering the courtyard of Sangria Palace, he received much information that was key to resolving the Third Calamity.

“Bear all the curses?”

James murmured.

As he took out the Imperial Jade Seal and scrutinized the mysterious characters engraved on it, he fell into deep contemplation. He had no idea how terrifying the curse of the Third Calamity would be, but he could imagine every curse could potentially be extremely lethal. Now, he was tasked with bearing all curses.

How many humans were there in the universe? James also had no idea what he would face after bearing the curses of all of humanity. He took a deep breath.

At the same time, Walganus and Yanina gathered in a room.

Yaninia said, “Walganus, James must have obtained the swordsmanship inheritance and the Curse Magic. Now’s the time to act.”

Walganus was deep in contemplation. After some time, he said, “There’s no need to rush things. We’ll wait for a few more days.”

He was not in a hurry to make a move because he could not be sure that James had obtained the swordsmanship inheritance and the Curse Magic. If James truly had not, he did not wish to make a move. After spending some time together, he felt that

James was a decent person and worth making acquaintances with. To confirm his thoughts, he decided to personally seek out James.

While James was in the midst of rest, a knock came on the door. Upon noticing Walganus as he opened the door, he asked, “Is something the matter?”

Walganus walked straight in and took a seat inside, saying smilingly, “Why? Can’t I have a chat with you?”

James walked toward him and sat opposite him, saying, "Ask away."

Walganus said, "I wish to know what you obtained after removing the Magic Circle on the Crepe Myrtle Sword Pavilion. I also want to know what you encountered and acquired in the courtyard."

James glanced at him.

After thinking for a moment, he answered him truthfully, "Indeed, I obtained the swordsmanship inheritance of the Ancestral Sword Master in the Sword Pavilion."

However, I did not obtain the Curse Magic in Sangria Palace. But I can tell you for certain that the mysterious inscriptions on the Imperial Jade Seal are the culmination of the Curse Magic."

Walganus smiled and said, "I'll say it again: you can choose either the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword or the Imperial Jade Seal."

At first, James did not want either of them. Now, however, he realized he needed both. He needed the Divine Sword to reach the pinnacle of swordsmanship and the Imperial Jade Seal to resolve the Third Calamity.
