The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2713-Fortunately, he had sufficient physical strength.

Otherwise, Lachlan's move could have ended his life.

Even so, he suffered grave injuries.

He hurriedly catalyzed the Demonic Energy inside his body and use them to rejuvenate his damaged body.

Then, he slowly stood up.

By the time he stood up, everyone in the main hall had been subdued by Lachlan's men with swords being pressed against their necks.

James' face darkened as he entered the main hall.

Upon seeing even Walganus being subdued as he scanned his surroundings, he said, "Stop fooling around, Walganus.

I'm relying on you." Walganus smiled and said, "I really don't wish to intervene in this, James.

However, since you're relying on me now, I can't just ignore your plea for help now, can I?" After he spoke, he moved.

Everyone could only see a figure flash by, and Walganus disappeared without a trace.

In the next instant, Lachlan who was sitting on the throne collapsed heavily to the ground.

Walganus appeared before him and stomped on his chest before he could stand and said nonchalantly, 'What do you think this place is? Do you seriously think you can come and go as you please?' "Y-You..." Lachlan was stunned.

He had reached the Sage Rank's Twentieth Stage.

With such strength, he was invincible in the whole of Galileo.

Now, however, he was no match for a stranger.

He was overwhelmed by fear and shock.

Who was this? What rank was he at? Lachlan's men were completely dumbfounded and completely rooted to the ground.

Lachlan tried to stand.

However, no matter how much strength he summoned, he could not break free.

At that moment, he was truly scared for the very first time.

Forgetting about even the providence, he hurriedly begged for clemency, saying, "I'm sorry, I shouldn't have come here.

Please let me go.

I won't repeat my mistakes." Lachlan began to beg.

That was because he knew that the man who stomped him would be able to annihilate him with ease.

"Let you go?" James said coldly, "You broke into Sangria Palace and killed so many of my guards.

How am I supposed to answer the families of the deceased if I let you go?" "I-I can provide compensation," Lachlan hurriedly said, "I-I'm the Grand Patriarch of the Kingdom of Korinth.

I can compensate you using spiritual crystals and even territories.

As long as you're willing to let me go, anything is negotiable!" When they saw this, everyone in the main hall remained silent.

James, on the other hand, was stunned.

He never thought that this elderly man would be the Grand Patriarch of the Kingdom of Korinth.

Walganus did not waste his breath with him.

He raised his palm, and powerful energy materialized in his palm.

"N-No..." Lachlan was scared.

His pupils contracted, and fear was evident in his expression as he pleaded, "I promise I won't do this again.

Please spare my life..." Before he could finish his words, Walganus' palm landed on his head, instantly crushing it into minced meat.

He lifted his foot and looked at his bloodstained clothes, then frowned." I'll go change my clothing.

I'll leave the rest to you." After killing Lachlan, Walganus turned to leave.

He knew that James could handle the rest of the situation.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2714—Upon witnessing Lachlan's death, his men were horrified.

They knew about Lachlan's strength —the Sage Rank's Twentieth Stage.

Yet he was annihilated with such ease.

Looking at these black-robed men, James said coldly, "Do you wish to continue the battle?" The black-robed men shivered in fear as they staggered backward.

"Drop your weapons and you'll be spared!" James said.

Clank! One of them tossed his sword to the ground.

Then, another one followed suit.

Soon, everyone had thrown their swords to the ground.

James walked toward them and sealed away their cultivation bases before ordering, "Men, take them to the dungeon." Soon, a few guards rushed over to them and brought them to the dungeon.

Everyone else in the main hall breathed a sigh of relief.

Upon remembering the event that unfolded a moment ago, they could not help but be stunned.

They never expected Walganus to be so formidable that even the Grand Patriarch of the Kingdom of Korinth was annihilated in just a single move.

James glanced at Xianna and said, "Clean up the mess.

I'll be taking my leave." Then, he turned to leave.

Meanwhile, Xianna began cleaning up the mess.

After returning to the courtyard, James continued to wait for Winnie and Delainey's return.

The arrival of Lachlan was merely an inconsequential interlude that did not affect James' plan.

As he sat in a lotus position and meditated with great concentration, Walganus approached him.

Hearing the sound of footsteps, he lifted his head before standing up and pointing to a gazebo by the side.

Walganus took a seat at the gazebo.

"What do you plan to do next, James?" Walganus asked.

Without any hesitation, James said, "I'm planning to leave as soon as possible.

The Third Calamity on Earth is about to appear.

I have to return and help humanity overcome the tribulation." Walganus asked, "When will you be leaving?" James said, "In a few days, probably." Walganus was hesitant.

James glanced at him and asked, "Is something the matter?" After a brief moment of hesitation, Walganus said, "Could you lend me the Crepe Myrtle Divine Sword and the Imperial Jade Seal a few days before you leave? I promise I'll return them to you." Hearing this, James was hesitant.

Walganus hurriedly said, "Do you not trust me?" In truth, James had never trusted Walganus since the very beginning.

Unable to read his true intentions, he never expected Walganus to possess so many secrets.

He also knew that Walganus came to Planet Galileo for the swordsmanship inheritance and the Curse Magic.

That was the reason why he wholeheartedly assisted him.

Walganus continued, "I only wish to have a look at the records of swordsmanship inheritance on the Divine Sword and the culmination of Curse Magic recorded on the Imperial Jade Seal.

Rest assured, I'll definitely return them to you before you leave." Walganus had thought this through.

Initially, he had planned to steal the Divine Sword and the Imperial Jade Seal from James and even seize his treasures-the Infinity Steles and the Five Elements of Genesis.

However, after contemplating for several days, he had a change of heart.

He believed that these incredible treasures needed to be possessed by a fated one.

As the saying went, the greater one's power, the greater one's responsibilities.

Therefore, he decided to give up on James' providences.

There were two reasons.
