The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2899-Hearing this, the alchemists were all confused.

Choosing herbs to create an elixir? They had gone to great lengths to prepare an elixir formula and herbs of their own for this Alchemy Tournament.

Yet, here was Myrddin stating that they had to choose from the herbs prepared for them.

It would be extremely challenging as there might be herbs that were not necessarily needed for their formulas among the selection presented.

This tested their accumulation of alchemy knowledge.

The more formulas they studied, the easier it would be to create a combination of these herbs.

Every alchemist was wearing a grim expression, except for James.

There was nothing for him to prepare in advance.

After all, what he learned was an inheritance of an Emperor Rank alchemist.

There were countless formulas inside his head.

He was also familiar with all sorts of Empyrean herbs.

Not only did he know the effects of these herbs, but he could even concoct a new elixir by randomly mixing any of these herbs.

Myrddin continued, "Each alchemist will have three chances to concoct an elixir. If all three attempts fail, you'll lose the right to continue. Now, please choose the herbs you need."

The moment Myrddin finished his sentence, a woman wearing a pink dress stepped forward.

Leaving her seat, she began to choose the herbs she needed.

James glanced at her and recognized her immediately. She was the second one to ascend Mount Inclining Moon.

The woman was choosing from the herbs.

Soon, she decided on a herb that was at the Sage Rank's Eighteenth Grade.

Upon seeing this, James furrowed his eyebrows.

"A Sage Rank's Eighteenth Grade herb...Is she trying to concoct an elixir at the Eighteenth Grade?" He murmured.

Under normal circumstances, the elixir one concocted would be equivalent to the grade of the herbs used.

Of course, there were exceptions to the norm.

Say, for example, an Eighteenth Grade herb.

If an alchemist of ordinary caliber failed to properly concoct the elixir, the final quality of the elixir would not be too high and would only remain around the Twelfth or Fifteenth Grade.

There were exceptions too.

One could also concoct an elixir at the Sage Rank's Twentieth Grade by using an Eighteenth Grade herb.

This could only happen at the hands of a professional alchemist.

An Emperor Rank alchemist, for example, would certainly create an elixir that greatly surpassed the original level of the herbs used.

That was because he would have precise control of the concoction process and could accurately use the power of the herbs.

As the woman began choosing her herbs, the other alchemists gradually headed to the cabinets and chose their herbs.

James was not the exception.

He stood up and walked toward the cabinet.

There were all sorts of herbs in the cabinets, and there was an abundance of each type of herb.

There was certainly enough herb for every alchemist there.

Seeing this, James could not help but sigh.

As expected of the Lord of a realm, he had so many herbs in his possession.

During the process of selecting herbs, James watched the others choose.

He noticed that the herbs the alchemists chose were all at least at the Fifteenth Grade and above.

This meant that the elixir they would concoct would be at least at the Fifteenth Grade.

Even if they made some mistakes along the way and caused the concocted elixir to be flawed, the elixirs would still be above the Tenth Grade.

James, on the other hand, could only concoct a Sage Rank's Tenth Grade elixir at his best.

'I never thought that the alchemists here would be this powerful. I really want to emerge victorious in this tournament. To do that, I have to concoct an elixir at the Sage Rank's Fifteenth Grade or above. Not only that, but the elixir must be perfect with no flaws'

James silently murmured in his heart.

Then, he observed the herbs.

The herbs flashed through his mind one by one.

Then, he began mixing them together to see what sort of elixir he could concoct.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2900-There were many types of Empyrean herbs in the Alchemy Tournament organized in the Stardust Realm.

There were at least a thousand of them, and each type had at least ten or more samples.

However, they were all common herbs.

Even so, these herbs would cost a fortune.

No ordinary person would be able to present so many herbs at once.

James scanned the herbs one by one, pondering what sort of elixir he could concoct.

At the same time, he observed the other alchemists.

From the herbs they chose, he could roughly guess what sort of elixir they wished to concoct.

Those present were no pushovers.

James realized that the elixirs they were concocting were at least at the Sage Rank's Fifteenth Grade and above.

Though these were all high-quality herbs, they only acquired them so that the final product would be of certain quality even if there were slight mistakes during the concoction process.

It appeared that the Spirit Tool was right.

To emerge victorious, he would have to concoct an elixir at least at the Sage Rank's Fifteenth Stage.

However, the most James could concoct was that at the Tenth Grade.

Back when he was in the Celestial Abode, he had tried concocting an elixir at the Eleventh Grade.

However, he only succeeded once out of ten attempts.

"How troublesome..."

James rubbed his temples gently. He never thought that joining the Medicine Pavilion would be this difficult.

"Now, I can only rely on the Emperor – Ranked alchemy furnace. I hope that the Martial Alchemy Furnace can bring about a miracle to compensate for my lack of experience." James took a deep breath.

Then, he began choosing the herbs.

Each alchemist had three chances to concoct an elixir.

For the first attempt, James planned to concoct an elixir at the Fifteenth Grade. He was hoping that the Martial Alchemy Furnace would be able to compensate for his lack of experience.

The elixir he concocted was called the Elixir of Reversal.

It was a formula that Emperor Jabari found in an abandoned ruin.

Though the Elixir of Reversal was only an elixir at the Sage Rank's Fifteenth Grade, its effects were impressive.

Upon consumption, the power of one's body would increase, and one's battle prowess would be further enhanced along with the duration of the battle.

Throughout a battle, one's strength would be able to increase nine times.

It was an indispensable elixir in battle.

James found the herbs needed to concoct the Elixir of Reversal from among the herbs.

Though one of the main ingredients could not be found, James realized he could rely on other alternatives.

Though the effects might not be as effective, he could at least create the elixir.

Soon, James gathered all the herbs he needed to concoct the Elixir of Reversal.

In the meantime, Myrddin was observing the alchemists.

These herbs were specially prepared by him.

From the herbs the alchemists chose, he could tell what sort of elixir they wished to concoct.

However, upon seeing the herbs James chose, he froze.

"That guy...What elixir does he plan to concoct with those herbs?"

As a Divine Rank alchemist, Myrddin was extremely knowledgeable in the field of alchemy.

However, he had no idea what James was going to concoct.

James was quick to select the herbs he needed and was the first to finish doing so.
He then returned to his seat.

However, he did not begin concocting immediately.

Instead, he waited for the others to begin.

That was because his Emperor- Ranked alchemy furnace was too terrifying.

He was afraid of creating a commotion.

Time passed.

In the blink of an eye, three hours passed.

Three hours later, the woman in the pink dress was also done selecting her herbs.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2902-It was undeniable that the woman had some good stuff in her possession.

No matter the Divine Rank alchemy furnace or the unique True Fire, these were objects coveted by all alchemists.

Even Myrddin could not suppress the urge and had to ask her who her master was.

Since the master was able to give such a high- quality object to his disciple, the master must be a well-renowned alchemist.

However, the woman's lips remained tightly sealed.

Dismayed, Myrddin glanced at her and said, "Good luck, I'm rooting for you. Whether or not the Stardust Realm averts the current crisis will depend on you."

The woman nodded slightly and said, "I'll do my best to emerge victorious in this tournament and represent the Stardust Realm in participating in the discipleship examination of the Medicine Pavilion."

"Very good."

Myrddin nodded with satisfaction and turned to leave. He returned to his seat.

Daley asked, "Myrddin, how did it go? Who is she?"

Myrddin shook his head slightly and said, "She refuses to reveal anything. However, I can tell that she's no ordinary person. Maybe her master isn't even a cultivator of the Stardust Realm. Perhaps she came here just to secure the spot to join the Medicine Pavilion."

Hearing this, Daley fell silent.

Since she was not a cultivator of the Stardust Realm, would she fight for the realm and help them avert the current crisis? In the meantime, more and more alchemists had selected the herbs they needed and began concocting the elixir.

James was not in a hurry because there was no time limit for the competition. So, he stood by the sidelines and observed the other alchemists. He was interested to know more about the others' skills. He first looked at the woman in a pink dress.

Then, he realized that her alchemy skills were only mediocre. Her extraction technique was coarse, and she did not extract the herbs' essences at all.

Moreover, her control of the flames was imprecise.

As James looked at the others, he was delighted.

They were even worse off.

Though their rank was higher than his, the same could not be said about their skills.

Take, for example, two students in the third and first year of Senior High.

The student in the third year was a mediocre student with an average grade of thirty points, whereas the first-year student was a top student with perfect scores.

Upon seeing them concocting their elixir, James could not help but shake his head and sigh.

"Why hasn't he begun?"

"I remember that he was the first to pass through the Magic Circle. Why is he looking around? Did he pass the preliminary round only because he has a powerful Soul Power and not because he's an alchemist? If so, that would be a shame. He possesses an immense Soul Power after all."

In the distance, many alchemists gathered to watch the tournament.

Seeing that James had not begun concocting his elixir, they were puzzled.

James, on the other hand, was not in a hurry. He was currently regulating his condition.

One's condition was the most crucial of all when it came to concocting an elixir, so being in a good condition would facilitate the process.

In his surroundings, the other alchemists had begun concocting their elixir.

All sorts of alchemy furnaces and flames appeared around him.

The crowd was dazzled and stunned by the myriad performances of the alchemists.

James remained in his seat.

He closed his eyes and tried his best to regulate his condition.

This confused not just the crowd, but even Daley.

Puzzled, he glanced at Myrddin and asked, "Myrddin, what is that youngster doing? The others have already begun. So why hasn't he?"

Myrddin said, "He's regulating his condition."

"Huh?"

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2903-Daley was confused.

Myrddin explained, "To ensure the quality of their elixirs, some powerful alchemists will regulate their condition before the concoction process. Some will even enter a closed-door meditation to ensure they are in peak form before concocting their elixir."

Hearing this, Daley asked, "Could he be a powerful alchemist?"

Myrddin shook his head and said, "I don't know."

James shut his eyes and relaxed his mind.

Time gradually passed.

Even though the others were close to completing their first elixir, he had not yet begun.

Meanwhile, not too far away, the woman had finished her first elixir. She carefully stored the concocted elixir away and returned to choose her herbs.

The woman was prepared to concoct elixirs of an even higher grade.

At that moment, James completely relaxed.

He stopped observing the other alchemists and summoned his Martial Alchemy Furnace.

Swoosh! A light materialized, and the Martial Alchemy Furnace appeared before him.

The alchemy furnace was huge, around a hundred meters in diameter and thirty meters in height.

There were mysterious linear characters inscribed on its bronze surface.

These mysterious characters seemed to have a life of their own, constantly flickering and flashing.

As soon as the Martial Alchemy Furnace appeared, a primordial power swept through, overwhelming everything in its path.

The surrounding alchemists all felt the immense power, and under its suppression, their bodies unconsciously staggered backward.

“What?”

All of them were stunned.

“what a powerful alchemy furnace!”

“What rank is that alchemy furnace?”

“I don’t know, but it must be above the Divine Rank.”

Everyone was shocked.

Though they knew about the Divine Rank alchemy furnace, they had not heard of an Emperor Rank alchemy furnace.

An Emperor Rank alchemy furnace represented an Emperor Rank alchemist.

To become an Emperor Rank alchemist, one would first have to become an Emperor.

However, not every Emperor would be an Emperor Rank alchemist, and not every Emperor Rank alchemist would have an Emperor Rank alchemy furnace.

Upon seeing James summon the alchemy furnace, Daley who was in his seat glanced at Myrddin and asked, “Myrddin, what rank is that alchemy furnace? Why do I sense the aura of an Emperor from that furnace?”

Myrddin stared at the alchemy furnace James summoned.

At that moment, he furrowed his eyebrows, his expression full of disbelief.

As a Divine Rank alchemist, he had witnessed many things.

Though he had never seen an Emperor Rank alchemy furnace, he could tell that the alchemy furnace James summoned was an Emperor Rank alchemy furnace.

“E-Emperor...”

He took a deep breath and uttered a single word.

An Emperor Rank alchemy furnace was simply too terrifying.

There were many Emperors and n.ovelebook Emperor Rank alchemists in the Boundless Realm.

However, never had an Emperor Rank alchemy furnace appeared before.

Even the Master of the Medicine Pavilion had a Quasi- Emperor alchemy furnace.

Myrddin never expected there to be an Emperor Rank alchemy furnace in the Stardust Realm.

At that moment, he had to suppress the urge to rush over to James' side and take a good look at the Emperor Rank alchemy furnace.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2904-James' Emperor Rank alchemy furnace had created a commotion, and even Myrddin, a Divine Rank alchemist, was stunned. He never expected there to be an Emperor Rank alchemy furnace in the Stardust Realm.

It was simply too terrifying.

After some time, he collected himself, stood up, and walked toward James.

Standing before James, he gazed at the levitating alchemy furnace before him.

As he gazed at the mysterious symbols and inscriptions on the bronze-colored alchemy furnace, his mind wandered off elsewhere as he drifted off to the world of the mysterious symbols.

After some time, he collected himself and praised, "What a mysterious Alchemy Way and inscription! This is unbelievable! With such an alchemy furnace, what elixir can you not concoct?"

Though he was a Divine Rank alchemist, he understood that the inscription and Alchemy Way inscribed on the alchemy furnace were simply too far beyond his reach.

He turned around and greeted James respectfully, "Master."

At that moment, tossing aside the pride of a Divine Rank alchemist, Myrddin greeted James respectfully.

James was momentarily taken aback.

After some time, he collected himself and said, "Please don't call me that, Sir. I wouldn't dare claim to be above you."

Myrddin smiled. He believed himself to be too abrupt. He looked at James and asked, "My friend, who's your master?"

"My master?" James froze.

Then, he smiled and said, "My master is called Jabari, Emperor Jabari."

"Jabari?"

Myrddin racked his brains but could not recall any person of this name.

There was no one called Jabari in the Boundless Realm if his memory served him right. He thought about it and said, "Perhaps I've been ignorant."

James smiled and asked, "Is something else the matter? If not, please leave this place for now. I'd like to begin the concoction process."

"Oh, sorry for interrupting you."

Unwilling to bother James any further, Myrddin turned to leave.

After he left, James took a deep breath.

Since this was the first time he was performing alchemy in front of so many alchemists, he would have to do his best.

With that thought in mind, he catalyzed a cultivation method, and the Fire Genesis inside his body created a flame.

The flame circulated throughout his body and materialized in his palm following the path of its meridians.

Then, a white flame appeared in the palm of his hand.

The flame was radiant and transparent.

Immediately, this puzzled many alchemists.

That was because they had never seen a white flame before.

"What is this flame?"

"It looks a little threatening."

"I don't know. I've never seen one like this before. But since he has such a mysterious alchemy furnace, his flames must be unique."

No one knew anything about James' flame, even Myrddin. He could only sense that James' flame was novel, pure and concentrated, and it carried an ancient power.

As he stared at it, he noticed mysterious inscriptions circulating throughout the flame. He took a deep breath once more.

"Unbelievable... This is unbelievable."

Myrddin was stunned.

Under normal circumstances, things that were related to inscriptions would not be anything ordinary. He could not believe there was such a mysterious person in the Stardust Realm.

Such a figure might not even be found even in the Medicine Pavilion, the largest force in the whole of the Boundless Realm.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2905-James paid no heed to the others' gazes and concentrated on the herbs he chose.

As he casually waved his hand, a herb flew into the alchemy furnace.

The moment the herb entered the alchemy furnace, the formation inscribed on the furnace was immediately activated.

Some mysterious inscriptions materialized to form threads of golden lines that enveloped the herb.

When the formation activated, the herb was enveloped by the mysterious inscription.

At that moment, James could clearly sense every component of the herb as he began catalyzing Genesis True Fire. He planned to use the flames of the Genesis True Fire to refine the herb.

Originally, he should not be able to concoct an elixir at the Sage Rank's Tenth Grade with his alchemy level.

However, with the Emperor Rank alchemy furnace, he could do so easily.

Soon, the components of the first herb were fully extracted.

“A piece of cake.”

James breathed a sigh of relief.

With the Emperor Rank alchemy furnace, there was nothing else he was afraid of. He began refining the second herb. His control of the flames was impeccable, and the entire process was smooth and without any flaws.

Soon, all the herbs had been fully refined.

Meanwhile, his extraction technique was so advanced that even Myrddin was dumbfounded.

The other alchemists also had their mouths agape.

James began the merging process of the elixir.

Through the burning of the Genesis True Fire, the extracted herb powder slowly merged.

At the same time, mysterious symbols materialized from the Formation on the alchemy furnace and merged with the elixir.

Soon, the process was complete.

A handful of golden elixirs appeared in the alchemy furnace.

They were the size of a thumb, and each of them glimmered a golden light.

There were even mysterious lines on the surface of the elixir.

At that moment, every alchemist stopped what they were doing and looked at James at the same time.

Under everyone's watchful gazes, James slowly retrieved the elixirs from the alchemy furnace.

Unable to suppress the urge any longer, Myrddin hurriedly rushed over to James' side and said, “My friend, may I have a look at the elixir?”

James casually handed him one.

Myrddin accepted the elixir and scrutinized it in his hand.

Upon seeing the lines on the surface of the elixir, he exclaimed, "As expected of an Emperor Rank alchemy furnace! To think that a mere herb at the Sage Rank's Fifteenth Grade can be concocted into a Divine Rank elixir. How magical! How unbelievable! Legend has it that the Emperor Rank alchemy furnace has magical powers. I never expected it to be true!"

At that moment, he looked at the surrounding alchemists and said, "Stop what you're doing right this instant. The tournament is over. He has won."

Then, he looked at James and asked, "My friend, what is your name?"

James said smilingly, "I'm James Caden."

Myrddin announced, "James Caden has won the Alchemy Tournament. Now, he'll represent the Stardust Realm to participate in the Medicine Pavilion's examination."

Since James was able to concoct a Divine Rank elixir just by using a herb at the Sage Rank's Fifteenth Grade, Myrddin had no need to look at the elixirs concocted by the other alchemists.

The others were dismayed.

The woman in a pink dress was frustrated, yet there was nothing she could do.

There was quite a huge gap between her and James.

Without an Emperor Rank alchemy furnace, she could not concoct a Divine Rank elixir by using a Sage Rank herb.

Daley walked over to James with a smile, "How impressive, James! I never thought that you'd be able to concoct a Divine Rank elixir. n.ovelebook As the representative of the Stardust Realm, you'll surely join the Medicine Pavilion and become a disciple there. Heck, you might even be held in high regard there."

"What do you know?"

Myrddin chided him, "With James' mastery of alchemy and the Emperor Rank alchemy furnace in his possession, even the Master of the Medicine Pavilion will have to welcome him respectfully."

"Yes, of course,"

Daley immediately said, "Please pardon my ignorance."
