The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 3721-Yermolai yelled.

Thoth, who was concealed in the shadows, kept catalyzing the Formation and tried to kill James. However, Henrik seemed to have used a mysterious Forbidden Art. The surface of his skin glimmered a faint glow that negated all attacks of the Formation. Withstanding the pressure, Henrik walked toward Yermolai and raised the Demon-Slayer Sword.

“N-No...” Fearful, Yermolai begged, “Henrik, this is a battle between me and James. What are you getting yourself involved in this conflict? Don’t kill me, please. If you spare my life, I will reward you handsomely.”

Henrik said coldly, “This is a battle between the First and Twelfth Universe. You should have expected an outcome like this when you ganged up on James.”

Henrik’s sword fell, and Yermolai collapsed in a pool of blood. He was dead.

Henrik did not stop there. Instead, he walked to his next enemy.

The powerful figures of the First Universe were horrified. They could no longer put up a fight. Even as their lives were in peril, they could not summon any strength. Henrik was like the god of death, who took the lives of the powerful figures of the First Universe. In just a short period of time, everyone except for Thoth was dead.

Thoth who was concealed in the shadows was afraid. He knew he could not do anything against Henrik even with the Formation. At that moment, he hurriedly made his escape from the Juda Realm. As Thoth fled, the Formation lost its support and weakened.

Holding the Demon-Slayer Sword and the Staff of Destruction, Henrik destroyed the Formation of the Juda Realm. After doing all this, he walked toward the pile of rubble on which James’ corpse lay. Upon seeing James who was no longer breathing, tears trickled down his cheeks, and he collapsed to the ground, falling unconscious.

The battle that lasted several months had finally come to an end. James fought against nine opponents on his own and managed to annihilate three of them. The rest, meanwhile, were gravely injured. However, he paid with his own life. In the end, Henrik appeared and used the Forbidden Art to annihilate the remaining powerful figures of the First Universe. Meanwhile, upon seeing that all hope was lost, Thoth fled from the scene.

Peace returned to the Juda Realm. On a pile of rubble lay two people—James’ corpse and Henrik. Henrik was not yet dead. However, his life was hanging by a thread. Though there many Chaotic Treasures on the ground, no one dared enter the Juda Realm and picked them up.

Outside the universe, the Macrocosm Ancestral Gods of the First Universe all wore grim expressions. They never expected such an outcome. All of their disciples had Chaotic Treasures. Even so, all of them perished on the battlefield despite having banded together against James, not to mention preparing the Superformation in advance. Now, some Macrocosm Ancestral Gods of the First Universe casually waved their hands and retrieved their Chaotic Treasures—even James' Demon-Slayer Sword, the Infinity Steles, and the Time Capsule.

“What do you think you're doing?” Kallinikos Yoav, the Lord of the Ninth Universe appeared before the Lord of the First Universe and reached out, saying, “I have nothing against you taking what belongs to the First Universe. However, you can't take what belongs to James.”

The Lord of the First Universe—also called the Lord of all Ancestral Gods—said coldly, “James is dead. These spoils of war now belong to the First Universe.”

“What a joke!” Kallinikos said coldly, “Even if James is dead, his ally is still alive. On the other hand, everyone from the First Universe has been completely wiped out, and the sole survivor has escaped. How can there be spoils of war without a victory? James and his ally have won, but I don't need any spoils of war from the First Universe. I just need you to return James' Chaotic Treasures and allow Henrik to bring them back to the Twelfth Universe.”

Yekaterina Larkspur, the Lord of the Tenth Universe, stepped forward and said, “He's right. It's unreasonable for you to take James' Chaotic Treasures.”

The Macrocosm Ancestral Gods of the other universes were fearful of the First Universe. So, despite being displeased, they remained silent. However, some brave ones stepped forward and demanded the Lord of all Ancestral Gods to return the Chaotic Treasures. That was because they knew that the First Universe's strength would drastically increase if they simply allowed them to take what they want. It would be a threat to them in the future.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 3722-There were twelve universes in this world, and each universe was an independent entity. However, these universes were not in harmony with each other. The First Universe would occasionally head to the other universes and harvest all resources there. Due to the disparity in power, the other universes did not dare to speak up against the First Universe.

As the Lord of the Ninth Universe, Kallinikos' strength was far weaker than the First Universe. However, he had long despised the actions of the First Universe. He stepped forward and demanded that the Omnipotent Lord return the Chaotic Treasures of the Twelfth Universe. Some Lords chose to remain silent, whereas those who were brave stepped forward and reprimanded the First Universe's actions.

The Omnipotent Lord's face darkened. However, upon remembering the plans he had formulated, he said smilingly, "But of course. I'm just temporarily keeping the Chaotic Treasures safe. Once that young lad awakes, I will return the Chaotic Treasures to him and allow him to return to the Twelfth Universe."

However, he then said, "But if he remains unconscious or simply dies, the treasures will belong to the First Universe."

As Kallinikos waved his hand, James and Henrik floated out of the Juda Realm and appeared before him. He started by inspecting James. James' body was utterly destroyed, and even some of his bones were turned to dust. At that moment, he no longer showed any signs of life. Besides that, Kallinikos could not detect the presence of a soul sigil inside his body. If there was a soul sigil, he should be able to save him.

"How strange..."

Furrowing his eyebrows, Kallinikos said, "He seems to have died long ago. There isn't a single fragment of his soul sigil inside his body. How am I supposed to return him to life?"

After he spoke, he sensed the Juda Realm. Theoretically speaking, the fragments of James' soul sigil would remain in the Juda Realm upon his death. However, none could be found.

"What a shame..."

A Macrocosm Ancestral God sighed.

"James' potential is huge, and he has cultivated many Path Seals and Macrocosm Powers. With time, he will become a terrifying Macrocosm Ancestral God."

"A genius is gone just like that. The Twelfth Universe has just suffered a terrible loss."

Many Macrocosm Ancestral Gods sighed.

Yekaterina looked at James and asked, "Can he be saved?"

Kallinikos shook his head and said, "It's no use. I can't sense the presence of any soul sigil. His soul sigil must have been destroyed when he was attacked by the Chaotic Treasures."

Then, he inspected Henrik's injuries.

Henrik still had a pulse, albeit a weak one. Regardless, he could still be saved. Kallinikos used a Supernatural Power and brought Henrik back to life. Henrik's injuries healed in an instant. The moment he regained consciousness, he saw James who was lying beside him, and the Macrocosm Ancestral Gods surrounding him. Unable to suppress his sadness any longer, he rushed toward James.

"James!"

He cried in grief.

Many Macrocosm Ancestral Gods were silent.

Kallinikos looked at the Omnipotent Lord and said, "He has regained consciousness. Return the Chaotic Treasures now. Let him take James' corpse and the Chaotic Treasures back to the Twelfth Universe."

The Omnipotent Lord did not hesitate and simply tossed James' Chaotic Treasures onto the ground.

Henrik soon calmed down.

Kallinikos looked at him and said, "James is dead. Since he came from the Twelfth Universe, take him home."

At Henrik's current strength, he could not traverse through the Chaos and return to the Twelfth Universe. So, he could only plead for Kallinikos to help.

Kallinikos nodded and said, "Fine, I will personally escort you back."

After speaking, he brought Henrik away from this space.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 3723-Under Kallinikos' protection, Henrik returned to the Twelfth Universe. Upon sensing the familiar aura of the Twelfth Universe, he could not help but sigh. Meanwhile, Kallinikos did not linger for long. After sending Henrik here, he immediately turned to leave.

Holding James in his embrace, Henrik traveled through the stars. As his speed was extraordinary, he took a step forward and disappeared without a trace before arriving at the next space. Soon, he arrived at the Mortal Realm's Divine Dimension and landed safely.

"Where is your home, James?"

Henrik was at a loss.

As he was not that familiar with James, he did not know James was acquainted with in the Twelfth Universe. He only knew that Hadad Theophanes was the one who sent James to the Thirteenth Universe.

After murmuring to himself, he planned to send James to Mount Heavenly Path. In the meantime, he was puzzled.

'This shouldn't be. Master said that James is the hope of the future. So why would he die?'

Henrik simply could not understand. However, he firmly believed that his master was right.

Soon, he arrived outside the gates of Mount Heavenly Path. Immediately, his path was blocked by the disciples of Mount Heavenly Path.

"Non-authorized personnel are not allowed to enter. Please leave!"

They said coldly.

Henrik looked at them and said calmly, "I have sent James Caden back to Mount Heavenly Path. Hurry and report to your superiors."

"James Caden?"

They froze.

Upon seeing James who was not showing any signs of life, they hurriedly rushed into Mount Heavenly Path and reported the situation.

Soon, a glow of white light appeared, gathering to form a young lady. Upon seeing James, the young lady froze. A few seconds later, she rushed toward James. However, upon sensing the ice-cold body of James, she wept.

"Why?! You promised you would marry me when you cross into the Ancestral God Rank. Why have you abandoned me?" Melinda cried.

Soon, Winnie appeared. Upon seeing the state James was in, tears flowed down her cheeks uncontrollably.

Then, Hadad appeared. Upon seeing James, he immediately knew that James had fought to the death. However, his expression was composed as he asked Henrik, "What happened?"

Tear-stricken, Henrik said, “James fought against Yermolai Devereux, the number-one genius of the First Universe, and defeated him. After seizing his Chaotic Treasure, Yermolai held a grudge against him. To deal with James, nine powerful figures of the First Universe banded together and spent tens of thousands of years setting up a Superformation before luring James into the trap. James singlehandedly entered the Superformation and annihilated three of his enemies and gravely injured the remaining ones. However, he also paid a heavy price.”

Henrik blamed himself.

“If I had been more careful, I wouldn’t have been captured, and they wouldn’t be able to blackmail James. As long as James didn’t enter the Formation, he would be able to crush the most powerful figure of the First Universe easily.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 3724-Henrik blamed himself for James’ death. If he had been more careful, James would not have been lured into the trap.

Hadad’s expression was composed. After all, he sent James to the new universe so that he could die there. Now that James was dead, there was nothing else to be concerned about.

“Give him a proper burial.”

Saying that, Hadad disappeared from view.

Burials were the customs of the Twelfth Universe. All living beings would be buried upon death.

Outside Mount Heavenly Path, James’ body lay on the ground. Beside him were a man and two women. They were Henrik, Melinda, and Winnie.

Henrik said, “I don’t know much about James. I don’t know where to bury him.”

“We should bury him in the Human Realm.” Winnie said, “Find a spiritual mountain in the Human Realm’s Mortal Dimension and bury him there.”

Winnie understood James. Though she came from the future, she was also from the Mortal Dimension as well. So, she figured that her father would like to return to the Mortal Dimension.

“Alright.” Henrik nodded.

There was now an additional tombstone in the depths of a mountain range far beyond the reach of any living beings in the Human Realm’s Mortal Dimension. When Henrik buried James, he also buried the Chaotic Treasures that belonged to him alongside him.

“James, I will keep these Chaotic Treasures by your side. I believe that one day, a new fated one will be born, and the Chaotic Treasures will once again see the light of day.”

Three people stood before the tombstone.

Henrik said, “Though he’s dead, his name has spread far and wide. His fame will spread throughout the thirteen universes.”

Melinda looked at the tombstone and remained silent. Winnie also stared blankly at the tombstone. The three remained there for some time.

Many bizarre-looking plants began to grow before James’ tombstone. They contained a mysterious aura that even an Ancestral God like Henrik could not understand.

The living had to continue on with their lives. After guarding James’ tombstone for a long time, they left. Melinda and Winnie returned to Mount Heavenly Path, whereas Henrik simply disappeared without a trace.

Time passed. In the blink of an eye, the deadline the Dark Night Lord of the Dark World had given to Hadad was up. An Epoch passed, and the Dark Wellspring could not be found. Enraged, the Dark Night Lord chastised Hadad for his incompetence and launched an all-out invasion of the Twelfth Universe.

Thus began a universe-scale war. All powerful figures of the Twelfth Universe participated in the battle—the Ancestral Sword Master, the Ancestral Talisman Master, the Five Ancestral Masters of Heaven and Earth, the Ancestral Needle Master, the Grand Patriarchs of the Dragon Race, and even the Grand Patriarch of the Callahans who was in closed-door meditation.

Countless evil spirits invaded the Twelfth Universe, and the powerful figures of the Twelfth Universe fought back. This battle lasted for an Epoch. During that Epoch, many Ancestral Gods perished on the battlefield. Yet, the Twelfth Universe entered a golden age where many prodigies were born. These prodigies grew increasingly powerful and participated in the battle as well. At the same time, other universes also came under the attacks of the Dark World’s forces.

A new wave of Dark Strife swept through all twelve universes. Meanwhile, the Macrocosm Ancestral Gods of the various universes had no choice but to return home and defend against the Dark Army.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 3725-In the meantime, the First Universe began to exert control over the Thirteenth Universe. By the time the Macrocosm Ancestral Gods of the other universes had forced the Dark Army back, the Thirteenth Universe had been seized by the First Universe. The Lord of the First Universe banded together with many Macrocosm Ancestral Gods of the same universe and performed a Supernatural Power that merged the Thirteenth and First Universes in an effort to lengthen the lifespan of the First Universe.

Meanwhile, in the Twelfth Universe...

Hadad bitterly resisted the Dark Night Lord with the other powerful figures of the Twelfth Universe. After an Epoch of war, the Twelfth Universe had suffered tremendous losses. Meanwhile, the Dark Night Lord did not pursue them further. After annihilating many of the powerful figures of the Twelfth Universe, he chose to retreat, thus ending the Epoch-long war.

On the other hand, Hadad was gravely injured during the war. Immediately after the war ended, he hurriedly entered a closed-door meditation to heal his injuries.

Close to two Epochs had passed, and the once-mighty James had long been forgotten by all. Even if mentioned, he would only exist in the records of ancient texts.

In the meantime, Radomir did not appear. Even Hadad had no idea where he had gone off to. He only knew that he was in closed-door meditation but not the exact location. After the war of the Twelfth Universe subsided, Radomir returned. He had been to other universes to seek opportunities to make a breakthrough so that he could reach the Macrocosm Ancestral God Rank. At the same time, he knew about the appearance of the new universe, which he paid close attention to. After the powerful figures of the other universes returned, he heard about James' deeds. So, upon returning to the Twelfth Universe, he used the Heavenly Path to sense the location of James' tombstone.

As his body flashed, he appeared in the Human Realm's Mortal Dimension. In a mountain range in the Mortal Dimension, Radomir could sense the bizarreness of this place the moment he arrived. There was a powerful Formation here that contained many mysterious powers. Under his perception, he realized that there were the Five Great Paths, Yin and Yang, the Five Elements of Genesis, and even Karma.

"What's going on?"

Radomir furrowed his eyebrows and murmured, "Why is there such a mysterious Formation here?"

Though the Formation was mysterious, it did not possess any offensive capabilities. Now that Radomir was a Macrocosm Ancestral God, entering the Formation was not a hard thing to do. So, he passed through the Formation and arrived at a dilapidated tombstone, surrounding which were bizarre-looking plants.

Standing before James’ tombstone, Radomir’s expression was one of regret.

“I never thought that was the last time we would ever meet again. I have crossed into the Macrocosm Ancestral God Rank. With your potential, you can easily accomplish the same feat once the Twelfth Universe’s providence returns. That would be a sight to behold, indeed.”

“What a shame that that day would never come. Though you’re no longer here, I believe that someone as distinguished as you will one day emerge from the Human Race.”

“Hadad is too selfish. Even though he knew that your rank is low, he sent you to your death regardless. Such a man is not worthy of being the Lord of a universe.”

Radomir’s expression was full of rage.

After offering some wine to James, he turned to leave and headed for Mount Nothingness.

Radomir Theophanes originated from Mount Nothingness. This was his biggest secret. His father was the Lord of Nothingness, the previous Lord of the universe.

“You’re back, Young Master.”

Upon his appearance, many came out to greet him.

“James is dead.” Xosha said with a sigh, “He possesses huge potential and is acknowledged by the Lord of Nothingness. He would surely emerge as a force to be reckoned with in the future. By then, he will work with you and annihilate Mount Heavenly Path. What a shame...”

Radomir joined Mount Heavenly Path and concealed his identity for the sake of the Twelfth Universe. So, he understood everything about James. He looked at the powerful figures of Mount Nothingness and said, “Though His Holiness is dead, the plan must go on. After the attack of the Dark World, Hadad is now severely injured. This is the perfect opportunity to strike. Once Hadad is dead, things would be much smoother.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 3726-or the Twelfth Universe's peace and prosperity, Hadad must die. Though the price to pay would be heavy, everything would be worth it in the end.

Upon Radomir's return to Mount Nothingness, he banded together with the powerful figures there and executed the plan. Now that Hadad was injured after the war with the Dark World, his strength had greatly diminished. This was a perfect opportunity to strike.

Radomir arrived at a restricted area of Mount Nothingness alongside a group of powerful figures of Mount Nothingness.

"Young Master, are we using the Polaris Sword?" Karter asked.

"Mhm."

Radomir nodded and said, "Though Hadad is injured, he's still a Macrocosm Ancestral God, after all. Annihilating him won't be an easy feat. I should use the Chaotic Treasure left behind by my father. With the Polaris Sword's power, in combination with mine, even if I can't strike Hadad dead, I can gravely injure him. That way, killing him would be much easier."

"Alright. We will be assisting you from the shadows. If things go awry, we will intervene."

The powerful figures of Mount Nothingness said. Then, they opened a Forbidden Formation here. As the Forbidden Formation opened, a white sword materialized into being. Radomir instantly summoned a great force to suppress the chaotic aura the Polaris Sword exuded. Then, he stored the Polaris Sword away before returning to Mount Heavenly Path.

The holy site at the back of Mount Hadad, Mount Heavenly Path, was the closed-door meditation sanctuary of Hadad. Under normal circumstances, no one was allowed to enter the place. However, Radomir entered the place. After scanning his surroundings, he immediately found out where Hadad was in a closed-door meditation and strode forward.

There was a manor here. In the basement of the manor, Radomir pushed the door open. Hadad could be seen sitting in a lotus position on the ground. Dark Power was seeping out from his body. It was apparent that he was contaminated by Dark Power when he fought against the powerful figures of the Dark World.

"Master."

Looking at Hadad, Radomir knelt on one knee.

Hadad slowly opened his eyes. Upon seeing Radomir, he was enraged as he reprimanded him, "Where have you been all this while?! Didn't you know that the Dark World has invaded us?"

Radomir immediately said, "I have been in closed-door meditation all this while, so I couldn't sense what was going on outside. Apologies for returning late, Master."

Hadad took a deep breath and said, "Thank goodness the Dark Night Lord of the Dark World retreated. Otherwise, the Twelfth Universe would have been destroyed. I'm going to continue healing my injuries. While I'm gone, I will leave Mount Heavenly Path in your care."

Hearing this, Radomir was stunned as he said, "You're injured, Master? Let me have a look."

He stood up. Just as he was about to walk toward Hadad, Hadad waved slightly and stopped him, saying, "It's just a minor injury. I will be fine after cultivating for some time. You should leave."

"Understood."

Radomir did not retort and simply turned to leave. After he left, he closed the door shut.

Once Radomir left, Hadad could not endure any longer and collapsed to the ground, spurring out a mouthful of dark blood. He crawled up with great difficulty and wiped the blood trace off his lips. At that moment, his face was so pale that he might die the next instant. The Dark Night Lord was simply too powerful. A single move was enough to gravely injure him. If he had not used the providence of the entire universe to resist the attack, he would have been dead.

Enraged, Hadad cursed, "Damn it! Once I emerge as a force to be reckoned with, I will annihilate the Dark World."

Cough!

Then, he coughed a few more times and spurted out a mouthful of blood.
