The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 3849-Radomir answered wistfully. "True."

"I wanted to become a Macrocosm Ancestral God to give you enough fortune and opportunities to become the Twelfth Universe's second Macrocosm Ancestral God. I didn't expect you to have already become a Macrocosm Ancestral God without me noticing. Moreover, you've achieved so much at this rank. Now you've even grown into someone who can intimidate the First Universe's Lord."

Radomir never presumed Forty-nine to be James and vice-versa.

He spoke again, "I'll definitely come and listen to your lecture. I'll take my leave now and let you continue catching up with your loved ones."

After leaving a few words, Radomir left the hall.

The conversation left everyone in shock. They were unaware of the merging of the universes nor did they know that James went to the First Universe. Additionally, they knew nothing about James' current strength.

How high did his cultivation rank have to be to attract a Twelfth Universe's Lord who was a Macrocosm Ancestral God to his upcoming lecture?

Everyone could not help but stare at James as they attempted to determine his cultivation rank.

The whole event also made Jacopo curious. He asked, "Dad, Radomir said the First Universe's Lord fears you. Is that true?"

Everyone's gaze was pinned on James, waiting for his answer.

James replied lightheartedly. "The First Universe proposed to fuse the twelve universes together. I went to the First Universe to participate in a conference discussing this idea. I fought against the other universes' Macrocosm Ancestral Gods during the conference at the Chessboard of Heaven and Earth. I barely held my own against them."

After speaking, James glanced at Sienna. “Your Aunt Sienna is very strong. She’s a powerful Eighth Stage Lord in the Dark World and is as strong as the Omnipotent Lord.

“What?” Many people present listened in fright.

The Dark World? A Dark Lord?

The Illuminated World was fearful of the Dark World, and the words James spoke were ominous.

Many people inadvertently retreated slightly.

Sienna rolled her eyes and said, “Am I that scary? It’s not like I’m going to eat you guys.”

James stood up and said, “Alright. We’re done here, guys. You can return to your respective affairs. I’ll see everyone in Mount Bane five hundred years from now.”

Everyone got up and began to leave. Jacopo also left the hall and made an announcement as the Heavenly Court’s Lord.

“In five hundred years, my father will be giving a lecture on Mount Bane. Our Universe Lord will also be attending his lecture. Anyone who has reached the Ancestral God Rank can head to Mount Bane to hear his lecture.”

After Jacopo made the declaration, news of James’ lecture quickly spread throughout the universe.

“Isn’t James the father of the Heavenly Court’s Lord?”

“Wasn’t it rumored that he’s already dead? How could he still be alive?”

“Even our Universe Lord is going to attend his lecture. How high is this guy’s current cultivation rank?”

“I’d really love to attend his lecture but unfortunately, James set a condition. Don’t you think it’s rather unreasonable? How many Ancestral Gods are there in the Twelfth Universe?”

“There’s still five hundred years before his lecture. We should use this time efficiently and improve our cultivation rank. Perhaps we might reach the Ancestral God Rank by then.”

“That’s right. Don’t focus on cultivating more Paths. Instead, concentrate on mastering one for now, and that might just let us become Ancestral Gods in time. I really want to see how strong James has become.”

The news spread throughout the Twelfth Universe, and was the hot topic among powerhouses. Visitors from the other universes also heard about the news and informed their respective universes.

The news of James’ lecture gradually spread to the other universes. The other Universe Lords and Macrocosm Ancestral Gods rushed to the Twelfth Universe.

James had shown terrifying strength in the First Universe. Listening to his lecture was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity that might help them make the breakthrough they sought after.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 3850-In the Human Realm’s Heavenly Court, Jacopo sat in the highest seat of the Cumulus Palace’s hall. Many of the Human Race’s powerhouses gathered inside the hall. Each of them held important positions in the Heavenly Court.

“Your Majesty, according to intelligence from the different realms, many powerhouses from the other universes have appeared in the Human Realm are stationing themselves outside Mount Bane. It’s most likely they’ve come to hear James’ lecture.”

A powerhouse reported the current situation in the Human Realm.

Jacopo never expected that James’ name would be renowned throughout other universes as well. Only a hundred years had passed since the announcement, yet these powerhouses have already appeared within the Twelfth Universe.

As the Twelfth Universe’s Heavenly Court’s Lord, Jacopo did not want James’ lecture to be handled sloppily as it would affect the prestige of the Twelfth Universe’s Human Race.

After Jacopo announced that James would hold a lecture, he arranged for the Heavenly Court's powerhouses to build a hall for the occasion. Another hundred years passed, and the construction of the martial arts hall was already complete.

However, according to the current estimates, the constructed venue was not large enough to accommodate everyone.

"Pass down the order to expand the hall. It has to be large enough to accommodate at least one trillion attendees."

"Understood."

After receiving the order, the Heavenly Court's powerhouse immediately left to make arrangements. Meanwhile, James continued to pass time nonchalantly. He did not hang around the Heavenly Court but stayed in the Human Realm's Mortal Dimension.

The Mortal Dimension was where he was born. Sol and Wurmstead still stood today. However, they were no longer the same. Sol's landscape had undergone drastic changes.

James returned to Cansington.

Cansington used to be a modern metropolis but now adopted more historical and ancient traits. There were still some high-rise buildings in the city, but archaic modes of transportation like cars were long gone.

James wandered through Cansington and headed to the Callahans' former estate.

The area was different, but the site of the Callahans' villa still remained. The Callahans had a wider influence in the Human Realm and reserved the land.

"What's wrong? Are you feeling nostalgic?"

A voice came from behind him. Without even looking back, James recognized the voice as Quincy's. Although Quincy was already a powerful cultivator, she still dressed stylishly. She wore a red dress accentuated with bold red lipstick, making her look alluring and sexy.

"I'm bored so I'm just walking around."

James turned around and looked at Quincy, who was walking toward him. He smiled fondly. "It's already been so many years, but you still haven't changed at all."

Quincy approached and stood beside James. She looked at the former Callahans' villa site. The place had already been renovated into the Callahans' ancestral hall.

"Do you miss Thea?" Quincy looked at James.

"Mhm." James nodded lightly.

James did not want to stay on the topic any longer and quickly changed the subject. He remarked teasingly. "So much time has passed, yet you're still single. I already have three children. You should work harder to find someone."

Quincy glanced at James affectionately and said, "You should know that there's no room for anyone else in my heart."

James immediately felt awkward. He had practically stepped on a landmine.

He coughed dryly and changed the subject again, asking, "How have you been all these years? Were things good?"

Quincy said sentimentally, "What can I say? The Spiritual Energy on Earth was restored, and my lifespan was prolonged after I became a cultivator. Although my days are endless now, they're also very boring. Apart from cultivating, there seems to be nothing much to do."

"Before the Heavenly Court was established, I was still occupied with Wurmstead's management among other things. After the Heavenly Court was established, the Human Realm became much more organized, and there hasn't been much for me to deal with. I've been living my life aimlessly.

"I like how it was in the past. Life was short and only lasted a few decades. Yet, every day was much more interesting."

Quincy reminisced and spoke about the past, including when she took charge of Wurmstead, the Elysian Seal's opening, and the Heavenly Court's establishment.

“Thinking back, everything in the past feels like a dream.”
