The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4041-1 “T landed inside Soren Plamen’s formation when I came to the Greater Realms.

I don’t know who left the passage.

I’m also unsure if it was by coincidence or planned by progenitors.

Nevertheless, I ended up meeting Soren.” Everyone in the room became excited after hearing about Soren Plamen.

The elderly man took a few steps forward and asked, “Really?” “T speak nothing but the truth.” James nodded, then took out the key he obtained from the Cloud Race.

“Soren asked me to find the keys guarded by the Ten Great Races.

As long as I gather all ten keys, I can free him from the formation.

“When I arrived at the formation at the Cloud Race’s back mountain, the Cloud Race was under attack by the Bug Race.

I disguised myself as the Doom Race’s Great Elder, Youri Dalibor, and gained the Cloud Race’s trust.

I drove away the Bug Race and obtained the Cloud Race’s key.” James explained what happened when he appeared in the Greater Realms.

Everyone present was human, so they were trustworthy.

Moreover, it would be hard for James to act alone.

He needed the help of the Heaven-Eradicating Sect to speed up his plans.

Although still doubtful, the elderly man was slightly convinced by James’ testimony.

He issued an order, “Put away your weapons.” Everyone in the cottage complied with the order.

Those stationed outside the door also put away their weapons, and the village formation disappeared.

The elderly man pointed to a chair beside him and said, "Sit down before we continue." James withdrew his aura and sat down.

The elderly man asked, "How is the Primordial Realm doing now?" James truthfully explained the situation in the Primordial Realm and the new universe.

His stories were well organized and easy to follow.

After speaking for a while, he had convinced the others in the room.

Someone in the room asked, "Is Madam Thea really still alive?" James nodded and said, "Of course.

She has reincarnated in the Greater Realms.

However, I haven't found her yet." "Thank goodness." "If Madam Thea is alive, then there is still hope for the Human Race." Everyone in the cottage rejoiced.

In the Greater Realms, humans were second-rate citizens and were forced into hiding.

They did not dare to roam around freely.

After learning that Thea was still alive, they obtained a glimmer of hope.

Thea was the hope of the Human Race.

As long as she lived, they could rebuild and become the strongest race in the Greater Realms.

James lightly waved his hand and the noisy cottage suddenly fell silent.

James said, "My task is crucial and will determine whether the Human Race can overcome their situation before the Ten Great Races take notice.

Therefore, I must meet the Heaven-Eradicating Sect for a more detailed discussion." The elderly man nodded lightly and said, "Understood.

The Soul Realm is very dangerous now.

We plan to abandon this base and return to our headquarters.

We'll have to bide our time until the Soul Race's wrath ceases." After speaking, the elderly man stood up and ordered, " Everyone's dismissed.

Pack up your belongings, and prepare to leave.

Before we depart, destroy everything in this base and eliminate any trace of our presence." "Understood!" The people in the cottage nodded.

Then, they quickly left to pack their things and prepared to flee the Soul Realm.

Dahlia stayed inside the room, her eyes fixating on James.

The elderly man smiled and asked, "My name is Karglain Laoise, and this is my granddaughter, Dahlia.

What is your name, Young Man?" James replied, "I'm James Caden."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4042-After their conversation, James learned more about the elderly man.

Karglain was a human that had survived the Primordial Realm Era.

Back then, he was only at the Sage Rank and was extremely weak.

Although the Ten Great Races did not completely wipe out the humans in the Greater Realms during the Primordial Realm Era, humanity was at its lowest point.

As a result, the other major races ruthlessly hunted down humans.

The humans that survived banded together and secretly established the Heaven-Eradicating Sect.

The Heaven- Eradicating Sect's members were scattered across every major territory in the Greater Realms.

This village was one of the Heaven-Eradicating Sect's bases in the Soul Realm and Karglain was the village chief.

Karglain said solemnly, "Bruce Jensen is the strongest man in our village.

His parents served a family of the Soul Race.

Unfortunately, they were tortured to death, and he lost his home.

I found him and took him in.

He holds great potential in cultivation and also bears intense hatred toward the Soul Race.

"After learning that the Soul Race's prodigy, Saturio Hadeucus was out training, Bruce secretly followed them and set up a formation to kill them.

Unfortunately, Saturio was accompanied by a powerful follower.

Bruce was wounded and ended up missing.

James asked, "Why didn't he return to treat his injuries?" Dahlia spoke up from the side, "It's our sect's rule.

We can't return to our base after exposing ourselves when we fail our mission.

Otherwise, it'd provide an opportunity for the enemy to tail us, and would cause devastating damage to the headquarters.

Even if we risk dying outside, we must never endanger our comrades." There was a touch of sadness and worry on Dahlia's face.

"When I went to the Hopeless City, I was not only there to investigate deeper into the Soul Race, but also to look for information about Bruce.

However, I didn't hear anything about him.

We still have no clue where he could be." James comforted her, "If there is no news, then it means he's still alive.

He must be hiding somewhere to nurse his injuries.

After he recovers and the coast is clear, he will likely come back.” Dahlia sighed softly.

“I hope so.” Soon, everyone in the village was ready to set off.

Someone walked into the cottage and reported, “Sir, preparations are complete.” Karglain ordered, “Alright.

Evacuate the village now.” Afterward, thousands of people gathered outside the village entrance.

They were all from this branch of the Heaven- Eradicating Sect.

Karglain turned around and looked at the village behind him wistfully.

Then, he said, “We’ve stayed here for so long it makes me sad to leave.

After we leave, the intelligence network we’ve grown over the years will go to waste.” The Human Race had a large population.

Although the overall strength of the race was relatively weak, they were extremely prolific.

Throughout the Greater Realms, all major races possess slaves and servants.

Unfortunately, that’s the role humans occupy in this current age.

However, the Heaven -Eradicating Sect took advantage of this and created various connections throughout the Greater Realms to form a powerful intelligence network.

Through their networks, they could acquire news about the major races and first-hand information about the movements of their prodigies.

After acquiring this information, they would make plans and eliminate these prodigies.

Karglain had a sorrowful expression.

Although they had to move frequently, they had lived in the village for at least a thousand Epochs, and he was sad to have to abandon it.

After a while, he raised his hand, and a powerful force emerged from his palm.

The force swept forward and levelled the village.

Soon, nothing was left in place.

Then, Karglain said, "Let's go.

The Soul Realm is crawling with the Soul Race.

In order to lay low, we'll have to move separately and meet at our usual spot outside of the Soul Realm.

"Understood." With Karglain's order, everyone outside the village quickly departed and disappeared from sight.

James was left with Karglain and Dahlia.

"Let's go, Mr.

Caden."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4043- Karglain looked at James and said, "I'll bring you to our headquarters so you can discuss the rest with our sect leader." "Alright." James nodded.

"I'm afraid you won't be going anywhere." Suddenly, a voice interrupted their conversation.

Immediately afterward, black clouds loomed over the horizon.

Traveling on the densely packed clouds was a huge army with soldiers in human forms.

The soldiers wore black armor and wielded black spears.

Leading the army was an older man in a black robe.

He was none other than the Hopeless City's Lord.

He looked at the three people below him with his hands behind his back.

The fleeing villagers fell from the sky helplessly and slammed into the ground.

All of them sustained injuries from the ambush.

“You led them to us?!” Karglain’s wrinkled face contorted furiously as he pointed at James and immediately made a regretful expression.

“I was careless.

I’ve been so careful this whole time, yet I made a mistake.” A domineering force erupted from his body, and he summoned a long sword.

At that moment, his aura blazed powerfully like an inferno.

Puzzled, James said, “Sir, this has nothing to do with me...” James wanted to explain, but Karglain did not let him finish speaking and had already plunged his sword into James’ body.

The two were standing very close, and James was defenceless.

Karglain was very powerful, and he drew his sword at a blinding speed.

In just an instant, James had been impaled by the sharp blade.

The long sword pierced through his body, and a strange force rapidly began to destroy him from the inside.

James did not want to retaliate, but he had no other choice.

He called upon his strength but did not use pure Chaos Power.

Instead, he split the Chaos Power into a different kind of power.

The powerful force emerged and forced out the sword in his body.

“I know you won’t believe whatever I say now, Sir.

Just evacuate first while I hold them back.” A black light shone in front of James and materialized into a black sword.

James had summoned a reforged Malevolent Sword.

It was no longer a Chaotic Treasure but had evolved into a more advanced form.

James grabbed the Malevolent Sword and immediately entered the Omniscience Path's Sixth Stage.

His aura skyrocketed, and he teleported into the sky to fight the tens of thousands Soul Race soldiers.

However, a powerful formation appeared, and a crushing pressure countered James' momentum.

Unable to withstand it, James plummeted from the sky and crashed into the ground.

Then, he spat out a mouthful of blood.

"Karglain!" The old man in the black robe shouted from the sky, "For more than a thousand Epochs, countless of our prodigies have died in your hands.

Today, you'll bear the consequences for your actions." Karglain did not intend to escape since he knew it was futile.

He turned to the injured humans that plummeted from the sky and shouted, "Stand up! Even if you have to die, fight until your very last breaths!" One after another, the humans got up and summoned their weapons.

Although they were injured, they bravely faced death.

James looked on grimly.

"Kill him first!" Karglain pointed at James.

Veins bulged angrily out of his face and made him look horrifying.

At that moment, he was absolutely livid.

Dahlia said apologetically, "I'm sorry, Grandpa.

It's all my fault.

I was careless and doomed us all." After speaking, she immediately summoned all her strength and attacked James.

The Hopeless City's Lord watched from the sky in surprise.

He murmured, "What's going on? Why are they suddenly fighting each other?"

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4044-Their City Lord is Hutchin Halpin and he holds a high rank among the Soul Race denizens.

Not only was he the Hopeless City's Lord, but he was also an Elder of the Soul Race.

His cultivation had surpassed Macrocosm Ancestral God Rank and was at the Quasi Acme Rank.

The Quasi Acme Rank was extraordinary.

Reaching this rank was considered one's first step into the Acme Rank.

Hutchin observed the battle happening below him in surprise.

James was under attack by the villages.

All of those attacking him were very powerful cultivators.

Karglain was a peak Nine- Power Macrocosm Ancestral God.

Meanwhile, the others were Seven- Power Macrocosm Ancestral Gods.

Defeating them should not have been a problem for James, but he did not want to hurt them.

Thus, he was forced to go on the defensive.

"Capture them alive!" ordered Hutchin.

He could not care less about the petty squabble going on beneath him.

On his command, a formation was activated.

Clouds filled the sky, and Sword Energies formed within them.

Shortly after, the Sword Energies fell from the sky like a deluge.

Everyone underneath the clouds immediately fled in different directions.

Rumble!!! The Sword Energies crashed into the ground, causing the surrounding mountains to shake violently.

James cursed loudly, "Damn it!" The surrounding area was affected by the powerful formation.

Even he was struggling to withstand the formation's crushing pressure.

Swoosh! A beam of light streaked toward them and caught one of the villagers in its path.

He was immobilized and lifted into the sky.

Swoosh! Whoosh! Beams of light moved through the air toward them.

The villagers quickly dodged them.

However, there were too many light beams, and those that could not escape were captured and transported to the sky.

In just a short instant, dozens of humans were captured.

James could sense the power that formed the light.

Anyone caught by it would be immobilized, and their cultivation base would be sealed.

James also desperately evaded being captured by the beams of light.

Seeing the others being captured, he grew unnerved.

At this rate, It would not be long before everyone was captured.

If they also captured him, how would he complete the task that Thea had entrusted to him? He could not cause havoc and upturn the Greater Realms if he was captured.

His biggest priority was to escape the formation as soon as possible.

Just as James decided on his next course of action, thousands of light beams shot toward Karglain.

Karglain waved his long sword, deflecting a number of beams.

Unfortunately, he was still caught up in the remainder that homed in towards him.

His cultivation base was immediately sealed, and he lost the ability to use his power.

Eventually, he was abducted into the sky.

“Grandpa!!!” Dahlia shouted, and rushed to his rescue.

She leaped into the sky and flew toward Karglain.

Suddenly, a Sword Energy shot toward her.

Seeing the Sword Energy about to hit Dahlia, James quickly dashed in front of her and blocked the attack at the last second.

He grabbed her away and channeled his strength into the Malevolent Sword.

He held his sword tightly and flew upwards.

The formation’s pressure increased as James got higher in the sky.

Although it felt like the weight of the world was crushing him, he endured it as injuries began to form on his body.

At that moment, thousands of Sword Energies intercepted him.

The Sword Energies struck him, causing his body to sustain heavy wounds. However, he had already closed in on the formation’s barrier.

“Break!!!”

James shouted, then called upon all his strength. He had no time to think about the consequences and used his Chaos Power. He also used the power from his Omniscience Path and the Malevolent Sword.

Combining the various powers he had, he forcefully broke through the formation.

James pulled Dahlia out of the formation and immediately vanished as he escaped.

“Get them! I want them back alive!”

After seeing James escape, Hutchin furiously screeched his order.

Countless Soul Race powerhouses quickly pursued James.

James had sustained severe injuries. It had been a long time since he was last injured.

Where he hailed from, he was practically invincible. However, his strength was unimpressive in the Greater Realms.

James did not dare to rest for a moment. He used all his strength to tear through space and speedily fled from the area.

Soon, he had properly escaped the Soul Realm and back in the Chaos.

While fleeing, James made sure not to leave traces of his presence behind. He wanted to make sure his pursuers could not track him down.

After flying through the Chaos for a while, James entered a small world. The world was unremarkable and not well regarded in the Greater Realms.

Despite being one of the weaker worlds, it was several times stronger than the Twelfth Universe.

After reaching a mountain range somewhere on the small world, James could no longer endure the strain of his injuries. He fell to the ground and spat out a mouthful of blood. He immediately got up and summoned his Life Path's power to treat his injuries. His once injured body was healed instantly.

However, his treatment only mended his external wounds. His severe internal injuries were not healed.

Dahlia was also injured, but James had shielded her from the brunt of the assault.

As such, her injuries were not as horrible as his. She looked at James sitting in a lotus position and noticed his pale face and the blood coating his lips. She could see that James was heavily wounded.

Dahlia raised her sword but could not strike James down.

James languidly opened his eyes and saw Dahlia gripping her long sword.

Seeing the hesitation on her face, he said, "If you want to, you can kill me right now. However, you'll definitely regret it."

"Why did you rescue me?"

Dahlia bit her lips, her eyes betraying her internal conflict. She was conflicted about killing James.

James responded, "I had nothing to do with the Soul Race raiding the village. If I hadn't saved you, it'd be hard for me to clear my name in the future. Everything I told you guys was the truth. I need you to help me lead to see the people of power in the Heaven-Eradicating Sect."

He explained the real reason he saved Dahlia. He would not know how to find the Heaven-Eradicating Sect's higher-ups if he did not take her with him.

That would leave him up a creek without a paddle, and he would have no idea how to proceed from that point.

Dahlia spat coldly.

"Do you think I'll trust you? You're the reason the Soul Race's army found us. My grandfather and our villagers were kidnapped because of you. I know you saved me only because you want to use me to find our headquarters! Once you get there, you'll wipe us out all at once."

"If I'm really in cahoots with the Soul Race, why would I risk myself to save you?" retorted James.

"Hmph! It's clearly because you have an elaborate scheme. You're trying to earn my trust to infiltrate the Heaven-Eradicating Sect's headquarters! Once you discover our location, the Ten Great Races will appear to wipe us out!"

"Your grandfather has already promised to bring me to the Heaven-Eradicating Sect's headquarters. If I truly was conspiring with the Soul Race, I could've just waited until you both brought me to the headquarters yourselves. Wouldn't that be more convenient?"

Dahlia was at a loss for words.

James' reasoning was solid.

If he were with the Soul Race, they would not have needed to intercept the fleeing villagers earlier. They could have waited until James arrived at their headquarters and wiped them all out in one fell swoop. Although the Heaven-Eradicating Sect was strong, they were no match against the Ten Great Races.
