

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4051

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4051-Hutchin could also sense that Bruce had forcibly increased his cultivation rank and strength. He laughed mockingly and said, "Did you think you'd be able to save them from the Hopeless City with your unreliable Quasi Acme Rank?"

Bruce raised his big knife, and the blade gleamed brightly.

'Til do whatever it takes. I'll flood the streets with blood if you don't release them. Even if you take me down, I'll drag as many of you as I can with me. I know the Hopeless City has many powerhouses, but I won't let you kill me that easily. I'll have enough time to kill at least a few of your people."

Bruce slowly approached them, step by step, as his body exuded an intense pressure. As he passed, the ground beneath him cracked and the space surrounding him warped.

He roared, "Ahh!!!"

Bruce waved his big knife, flinging out Sword Light. His attack instantly killed a few of the guards surrounding him. Although the guards were strong, they were no match for Bruce who was a Quasi Acmean.

Four beams of light shone down from the sky and appeared around Bruce, gradually taking the form of four people.

These four were the Hopeless City's powerhouses. Three of them were Quasi Acmeans, and the remaining one was a peak Nine-Power Macrocosm Ancestral God.

They immediately enclosed Bruce.

James watched from afar and shook his head, saying, "He sure is brash. He's taking on the Hopeless City on his own. Even if he were to exhaust the energy from his soul to temporarily enter the Quasi Acme Rank, he's deluded to think he could rescue his kin on his own."

Outside the city, a fierce battle broke out. The four powerhouses attacked Bruce in unison.

James knew that Bruce was fighting a losing battle.

Even if he managed to kill a few guards, he would ultimately be captured or killed.

James did not intend to save him since he would likewise be charging to his own death.

However, Bruce's sudden arrival gave him an opportunity. It was chaotic outside the city, and many guards rushed out to join the fight. Thus, he could take advantage of the chaos and sneak into the Hopeless City.

Although the soul-detecting treasure was still outside the city gate, most guards had left their posts to join the fight, and no one was watching over it.

James hid his aura, went invisible, and quietly approached the city gate. At the same time, he also closely observed the battle outside the city.

The battle was intense. Bruce fought against the four powerhouses and countless guards. Although he was a Quasi Acmean, he could not overpower them and was injured briefly after the fight began.

James quietly unleashed a hidden beam of light toward the soul-detecting treasure, blasting it away. The moment the treasure was removed, James quickly snuck in.

The Soul Race's thought nothing of the soul-detecting treasure being blown away and assumed the aftershock from the distant battle was the cause behind it.

After entering the city, James released his Divine Sense to survey the surroundings. Some important places in the city also housed similar treasures that could detect human auras. It was evident that the Soul Race was frightened by the Heaven-Eradicating Sect. Even though they wielded such amazing power, they were still afraid of humans.

After entering the city, James heaved a sigh of relief.

As long as he stayed away from the places guarded by soul detecting treasures, he would be fine. He practiced a special cultivation method, which prevented even those with a higher cultivation rank than him from detecting his soul aura.

The most important task was to find Dahlia's inside men and understand the situation better. Only then could he rescue Karglain and the others.

Outside the city, the battle continued to destroy their surroundings.

Bruce had come to the city resolved to die. He was determined to bring some Soul Race fighters down with him.

Things like this were a common occurrence since the Primordial Realm Era.

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4052

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4052-Bruce was incredibly strong. In the Twelfth Universe, he would be considered practically invincible. Even the injured Ursa stood no match against him. However, his strength was unremarkable in the Greater Realms. He could not even overpower a city under the jurisdiction of the Soul Race.

The powerhouses from the Soul Race attacked him together, and a fierce battle broke out outside of the city, causing massive destruction to the surroundings.

While the battle raged on, James had snuck into the Hopeless City. Unfortunately, the city was still heavily guarded inside. Thus, he moved carefully and found a place to lay low for the time being.

James found a manor that had been abandoned for a long time. The manor's yard was relatively small and only spanned a little over 1,000 square meters. The former owner of the place was a rogue cultivator who had no sect or family. He lived in the Hopeless City but died at the hands of his enemies. After his death, the Hopeless City repossessed the manor.

The Hopeless City was huge and was built between a few spiritual mountains. The city also had several spiritual mountains within it, and the manor sat right between two mountains. Its location was not very ideal, so nobody wanted it.

When James infiltrated the Hopeless City, he used a few rare materials to purchase the manor. James looked at the city from his yard. The battle outside was tumultuous, and its intensity could be felt all the way from the yard.

Bruce practically sacrificed his life force to acquire tremendous strength. Unfortunately, his opponents were still too strong for him. Under the heavy onslaught, he was gradually pushed into a corner.

It did not take long for exhaustion to overtake him. Ultimately, he was captured by his enemies.

“What a foolhardy person.”

Seeing Bruce being dragged away, James shook his head disapprovingly. He would never have acted so carelessly if he were in the same position. Bruce came to the Hopeless City and demanded his comrades’ release. Not only did he fail to save them, but he endangered himself too.

“Now that idiot’s been captured, another person has been added to the list of people I need to rescue. How annoying.”

James pinched the bridge of his nose. One fortunate thing from this outcome was that the soul-detecting treasure at the city gate had been removed after Bruce was taken away.

It seemed that the Hopeless City had brought it out specifically to capture Bruce. They were afraid that he would sneak into the city and carry out his revenge. Now that Bruce was captured, they saw no reason to keep the treasure there.

After the soul-detecting treasure was taken away, Dahlia, who had been waiting outside the city, also found an opportunity to sneak into the city. Then, she followed the trail James left behind to reunite with him.

Inside a room in the manor, Dahlia grasped James’ hand and said pleadingly, “Please save Bruce. I’m begging you, please.”

Dahlia had witnessed the battle from outside the city.

However, she did not dare to interfere. She would have been captured instantly if she were to show up. She could only watch helplessly as Bruce was detained.

James said helplessly, “He charged in blindly on his own. How am I going to save him now that everyone has been detained by the Soul Race? Are you expecting me to follow his footsteps and grab a weapon to challenge them up front? I'd be dead before I reached their headquarters."

Dahlia calmed down, looked at James tearily, and asked, "Then what should we do?"

James sat down and said, "We'll have to gather as much information as we can for now. Contact your spies and get as much information as possible about Bruce, Karglain, and the others' whereabouts."

"Alright! I'll get in touch with them right away." Dahlia nodded immediately.

James lightly waved his hand and said, "Okay. You better get going. I'll be waiting here for some good news."

Dahlia quickly left without a moment's delay.

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4053

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4053-Dahlia changed her appearance, and used the cultivation method she learned from James to hide her soul aura. As long as she stayed away from places with soul-detecting treasures, her identity as a human would be hidden.

Dahlia left the courtyard house, while James waited for her return in the room.

He began to ponder everything that happened. In the Twelfth Universe, he was considered the pinnacle of strength. However, he was insignificant in the Greater Realms and could not even defeat an elder from the Soul Race. He wanted to sow discord in the Greater Realms, but that proved to be harder than he thought.

James began to devise plans. His priority for the moment was to raise his cultivation rank as much as possible and reach the Omniscience Path's Seventh Stage. He also weighed whether to continue cultivating his Chaos Power and get it to the Quasi Acme Rank.

Unfortunately, Thea was the one who knew the most about Chaos Power. Until now, he still had not figured out how to properly cultivate it. All he could do was use his other Path Powers to enhance his Chaos Power and increase its strength accordingly.

However, James felt that Chaos Power was not meant to be cultivated this way.

“Huff.” He sighed worriedly.

“It seems I’ll have to meet the Doom Race to find out how to cultivate Chaos Power.”

Despite knowing what to do, James could not leave yet. He had to think of a way to rescue Karglain and the others first. Even if he could not save them alone, it was imperative he meet with the Heaven-Eradicating Sect for help.

James began planning his next step.

Meanwhile, Dahlia had been occupied with gathering intel. She returned just as quickly as she left. In three days, she returned to the courtyard house. James could tell from her solemn expression that she did not come with good tidings.

Dahlia sat down and took a sip of water. James looked at her, waiting for her to speak.

After a while, she sighed deeply.

“What’s wrong? Is there truly no good news?” asked James.

Dahlia nodded and said quietly, ‘Yeah. I found out how dire things were from a few of my networks. Grandpa, Bruce, and the villagers are imprisoned inside Mount Carslegh’s dungeon. A powerhouse named Waspen Jazred is guarding the dungeon. He’s not a creature of the Soul Race but is one of their officials.”

James looked at her and said, ‘You only gathered this much information despite leaving for a few days?’

Seeing James’ nonchalant expression, Dahlia felt her heart boil over in anger. She burst out at him. “We’re in Hopeless City! It’s the Soul Clan’s territory! Mount Carslegh is where the Hopeless City’s Lord stays. Even their own powerhouses aren’t permitted to enter the mountain, let alone a human like me. It wasn’t easy for me to gather this information. If you’re so great, how about you gather intel instead?”

“Hey, watch it! Right now, you’re the one asking me to save your villagers,” said James.

Hearing this, Dahlia quickly swallowed her anger and lowered her head.

“I-I’m sorry. I was just worried about their safety and got ahead of myself.”

Dahlia humbled herself. She looked at James and asked cautiously, “Then, how should we proceed?”

James shook his head lightly, unable to devise a feasible plan.

He thought for a while and said, “It stands to reason that the Soul Race is trying to use these captives to lure out more of your sect members, seeing that they aren’t in a hurry to kill them and are keeping them alive for now. Since they’re still useful, the Soul Race won’t be executing them anytime soon. We don’t have to rush and should slowly think of a solution.”

Dahlia shook her head in frustration and said, “Even if the Soul Race releases news of their capture, our sect members will never come to the rescue.”

“Why would your sect come up with such a stupid rule?”

James frowned.

Dahlia explained, “We, humans, are too weak compared to the other races. This is the only way we can preserve our strength. If we blindly rushed in to rescue every captured individual, the Human Race would have perished long ago.”

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4054

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4054-Dahlia had been out for three days acquiring information about her people’s whereabouts. She was discouraged to find out that they were held captive by their enemies. In these circumstances, she knew was nigh impossible to rescue Karglain, Bruce, and the others.

She fell silent, but sadness clouded her fair features.

James looked at her misty eyes, shook his head, and reassured her, “Don’t worry. I’m going to help and will try my best to save them.”

From Dahlia's sorrowful expression, James could tell how much suffering the humans had endured all this time. Dahlia looked at James earnestly, he was her only hope now.

'You should rest first. I'll head out for a walk.'

After James finished speaking, he got up and strode out of the courtyard house. He proceeded to head to the lively city streets. The Hopeless City was thriving and full of life. Many Soul Race families inhabited the spiritual mountains around the city. Aside from them were also other races who had chosen to move there. Usually, most powerhouses remained within the vicinity of their respective spiritual mountains and would only stroll around the city when they had free time.

James headed in the direction of where Mount Carslegh was located and eventually reached the gates of the mountain.

Mount Carslegh was the cornerstone of Hopeless City and was where the base camp of the City Lord, Hutchin, was located. Several Quasi Acmeans lived in the city alongside some other powerhouses at the peak of the Macrocosm Ancestral God Rank. On Mount Carslegh, besides Hutchin, there was another powerhouse named Waspen.

Despite Mount Carslegh only having two powerhouses situated there, if something were to happen, it would only take a short moment for all the powerhouses in the Hopeless City to rush their support.

James stood outside Mount Carslegh and looked at the guards patrolling outside. This was a troublesome turn of events for him. The only thing he could think of is to slip into Mount Carslegh and try to approach the dungeon. Next, he would have to gain Waspen's trust somehow and secretly sneak everyone out of the dungeon.

As long as James could free them, he was confident he could get them out of the city safely.

James wandered outside Mount Carslegh. After deciding on the rough details of his plan, he returned to the courtyard house.

"How did it go?" Dahlia anxiously questioned him after he returned.

James sat down and said, "I have an idea."

“What is it?” Dahlia looked at him.

James shared his thoughts and his plan so far.

‘This is our only option, and I’ll need your help to execute it. I need you to use your intelligence networks to find out who Waspen’s close contacts are. See if you can lure any one of them out of the city. We’ll need to trap them somehow.

Then, I’ll disguise myself as his acquaintance and infiltrate Mount Carslegh.”

“Is this what you came up with?” Dahlia asked solemnly, “Isn’t this plan too risky? If you fail, there’s no way out of it.”

James shrugged. ‘This is the only way I can think of to rescue them at the moment. You should hurry up and investigate. Let me know when you find anything.”

After speaking, James left and returned to his own room. Although hesitant, Dahlia quickly left to investigate.

It did not take long before she returned.

“I found something, James!”

James looked at her and urged her to speak, “Good. Go on.”

Dahlia said, “Waspen is a powerful Official in Mount Carslegh and has many disciples. His most trusted disciple is Balchae Kairis.”

Dahlia shared her findings.

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4055

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4055-“Balchae’s true form was of a Lernaean Hydra. Waspen highly valued him and passed on his cultivation inheritance to Balchae. Balchae also holds a certain amount of prestige within Mount Carslegh.”

James rubbed his temples and asked, “Where is Balchae right now?”

Dahlia replied, "According to the information I've gathered, he's currently not in Mount Carslegh and has gone to a small world called the Space Realm."

"Oh? What is he doing there?"

"My intel tells me that some kind of wonderful Empyrean herb has appeared in the Space Realm, inside of the Space Race's territory. Balchae went there in order to take it," answered Dahlia.

James immediately stood up and said, "Good! Then, we'll carry out our plans right away. Let's head to the Space Realm, find Balchae, and capture him. Then, I'll take on his identity and return to the Hopeless City to see if I'm able to release your villagers."

"Okay!" Dahlia nodded.

After hashing out the details, the two left the Hopeless City and headed straight for the Space Realm. On the way there, Dahlia briefed James on the Space Realm and the Space Race.

The Space Realm was a tiny world in the Greater Realms and was not very popular. The Space Race was also relatively weak compared to the other races in the Greater Realms. They were so underpowered that they did not even have a single Nine-Power Macrocosm Ancestral God.

"From my understanding, the Space Race used to be extremely powerful in the past."

"Oh, is that so?"

"Yeah. The Greater Realms had always competed among themselves for leadership over the rest. In the current age, none of the other races are able to take over the Greater Realms, not even the powerful Dooms nor the Ursas.

However, there was a certain period where the Space Race unified and ruled over the Greater Realms."

"Why are they so powerless now?" asked James.

Dahlia shook her head. She was unaware of the details since it was in the distant past. Most people had almost already forgotten about the Space Race.

James and Dahlia hastily traversed the Chaos. Soon, they appeared outside the Space Realm. Dahlia brought out a map of the Greater Realms and ascertained their location. Then, she put it away, pointed ahead of them, and said, "That's the Space Realm."

James asked, "In the information you gathered, does it state exactly Balchae came to get?"

"No. My intelligence personnel only told me this much. They only knew it had been almost a million years since Balchae left Hopeless City. There's no guarantee if he's even still here in the Space Realm."

"Let's go take a look."

James entered the Space Realm. He stepped forward, passed through the cosmic barrier, and appeared inside the planet. Dahlia followed him closely.

The Human Race's intelligence networks spanned a large part of the Greater Realms. Many humans hid themselves within smaller worlds to avoid being pursued by the Ten Great Races. Thus, they were especially informed about the situation in these places.

Dahlia knew a bit about the Space Realm.

The Space Race's base of operations was in a place called Yeimiz. The Space Races' Lord was Haestra Saberton, a Seven-Power Macrocosm Ancestral God.

The Space Race was on good terms with other races, especially humans. Even though the Human Race was reviled by all the other races of the Greater Realms, the Space Race maintained their peaceful relations.

The Heaven-Eradicating Sect and the Space Race's Lord used to share their cultivation knowledge with each other and discuss the Greater Realms together.

All this was what Dahlia knew. However, all this was from a long while back and she had no idea what the Space Race was like now in the present.

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4056

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4056-James and Dahlia quickly traveled toward the Space Realm.

The Greater Realms' structure was similar to the universe where James was from.

They also had universes, stars, and galaxies.

1 Eventually, they came across a spatial rift.

From a distance, it looked like the space around it was sliced open by a powerhouse's sword.

Dahlia pointed at the rift and said, "That's Yeimiz.

It's located in the centermost region of the Space Realm.

Its proper name is Starry Yeimiz." "T see." James took in her explanation.

The two advanced speedily.

As they got closer, the spatial rift began to largen.

Through the rift, James could see countless stars.

Each star was massive in size and stored an abundance of energy from heaven and earth.

It was a suitable place to live.

The two arrived outside Starry Yeimiz.

As he stood at its border, James could see thousands of galaxies.

The view was spectacular and mesmerizing.

Dahlia pointed to the centermost area and asked, "Do you see the biggest planet there? It's called tCosmos, named in honor of the Space Race.

It's also where the majority of the Space Race inhabits.

They rarely travel to other realms for two reasons.

The first is that most of them have low cultivation ranks, so they aren't capable of going to other worlds.

Secondly, it's also because they do not wish to leave the Space Realm." The two quickened their pace.

Soon, they reached Cosmos.

The planet looked very peaceful, with no signs of strife or conflict.

It was different from what James had expected.

From what he knew, Waspen's disciple, Balchae, had traveled here to acquire an extraordinary Empyrean herb.

If that news was correct, fights should be breaking out left and right in the Space Realm.

However, everything around them was calm and showed no signs of battle.

James rubbed his chin and asked, "Balchae came to Yeimiz a million years ago, right? Were we too late? Did he already take the herb and leave the Space Realm?" Dahlia gestured uncertainly.

"I don't know.

We'll have to see for ourselves." "Alright.

Let's go." The two proceeded into the Space Realm, appearing in Cosmos.

As soon as they entered the planet, James sensed a peculiar force.

"There's some mystical force in the air," he exclaimed in surprise.

Dahlia explained, "It's Stellar Power.

The Space Realm has the strongest Stellar Power.

However, Stellar Power is tough to cultivate and requires one to learn a unique cultivation method.

Most of these cultivation methods belong to the Space Race." "As expected from the Greater Realms.

Even a tiny world like this is countless times stronger than our universe.” James sighed.

Hearing this, Dahlia looked pensively at James and asked, “Were you really telling the truth? Did you come here from the Primordial Realm? Have the previous powerhouses of the Human Race died and turned into Universe Seeds to form new universes?” “You’ll find out in the future.” James did not elaborate and pressed on.

After the series of unfortunate events that led to her clan’s capture, Dahlia was wary of him and did not trust him.

He felt that his explanation would fall on deaf ears and thus kept his words to himself.

After appearing at the Space Race’s base, James noticed countless spiritual mountains and cities built everywhere.

A large number of creatures from the Space Race lived in these areas.

James did not know what the Space Race actually looked like, but as far as he could tell, most of them adopted human forms.

“I sense something.” At that moment, James sensed a battle somewhere.

His Divine Sense picked up a powerful shock wave from the battle coming from a spiritual mountain.

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4057

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4057-Chapter 4057 Soon, James arrived outside the spiritual mountain where a fierce battle had broken out.

Two large armies were fighting with each other, and hundreds of soldiers were engaged in the battle.

The surrounding area had been wrecked to bits.

Dahlia immediately recognized the area and said, “This is most likely the base of the Space Race.

Balchae brought an army from the Soul Realm to take the herb but couldn't break through the Space Race's mountain formation." "This makes things so much simpler." James rubbed his palms, and prepared to leap into battle.

Before he could make a move, Dahlia pulled him back and reminded him, "You shouldn't act recklessly." James answered her despondently, "What's wrong? Are you still doubting me? He's a mere peak Nine- Power Macrocosm Ancestral God.

I can destroy him in a matter of minutes." Although James stood no chance of winning against a Quasi Acmean, he was confident he could quickly put an end to a Nine- Power Macrocosm Ancestral God.

Dahlia hurriedly explained herself, "Of course, I believe you.

However, the army here is led by Balchae.

He's Waspen's Inner Disciple.

If something happened to him, he would definitely send a message back home.

If that happens, Waspen would check in on him from the Soul Realm.

Our goal isn't to kill him, but to capture him alive and have you take on his identity to infiltrate the Soul Race." "Yes, I know.

Anyway, just sit back and watch what I can do." James was confident in himself.

Back when James was in the Ecclesiastical Restricted Zone, he was able to seal away Quiomars.

Balchae's strength was about the same as Quiomars.

If he could stop Quiomars, it would not be difficult to do the same to Balchae.

However, James wanted to take precautions and decided it would be more appropriate to disguise himself as Youri.

In the next moment, he had disappeared from plain sight.

Meanwhile, many of the Space Race's powerhouses gathered on the highest peak of Mount Celestial, located in the Space Realm.

"My Lord, we can't carry on like this.

Our enemies are relentless.

We've been trying to fend them off for such a long time, and we're barely holding on now.

At most, we can only resist them for a thousand more years before they eventually break through our formation." An elderly man voiced his concerns.

The man standing in front of the group was a middle-aged man.

With a sorrowful expression, he sighed in resignation.

"Is it the will of the heavens for our race to be destroyed?" Swoosh! At that moment, a ray of light descended from the sky and became an old man dressed in a blue robe.

The old man was actually James disguising himself as the Doom Race's Great Elder, Yuri.

The Space Realm was located in a remote part of the Chaos, and no prominent powerhouses were in the area.

Thus, James could easily borrow the identity of the Doom Race's Great Elder.

As soon as James appeared on the battlefield, he immediately unleashed his Chaos Power.

His Chaos Power spread out and the display terrified the two clashing armies.

The battle immediately stopped.

"Isn't that the Doom Race's Great Elder?" "What is Yuri doing here?" The powerhouses from both sides were startled at the visitor's appearance.

Yuri's reputation preceded him in the Greater Realms.

Even if they had never seen him before personally, his name was well known among those who cultivate.

James, disguised as Youri, stood on the battlefield and demanded, “wWhat’s going on?” His voice was like booming thunder and it carried to the far ends of the battlefield.

“why is there an army from the Soul Race in the Space Realm? Who’s leading this army? Show yourself immediately.” At James’ order, an unkempt man immediately stepped forward.

He wore black armor, and held a snake sword in his hand.

“I’m Balchae Kairis from the Soul Race’s Hopeless City on Mount Carslegh.

It’s an honor to meet you, Sir.” Balchae conducted himself with the utmost respect in front of Youri.

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4058

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4058-James wore a stern expression and said tersely, “The Soul Race sure are overstepping their boundaries.

Are you guys trying to take control of the Space Realm?” Flustered, Balchae answered hastily, “Sir, please let me explain.

It’s not what you think.

We discovered that the Space Race has been secretly conspiring with the Human Race, so we gathered an army to retaliate.” “PII investigate this matter myself.

Seal your cultivation base immediately.

I’ll bring you back to the Soul Race and ask their Lord for an explanation,” said James.

“y-Yes, Sir.” Balchae did not dare to refuse Youri’s order.

Youri was the Doom Race’s Great Elder, even his master would tremble before him.

Although Waspen had ordered him to grab a treasure, he could not care less about it now.

Balchae immediately sealed his cultivation base.

As soon as he complied, James smiled faintly.

Masquerading as the Doom Race's Great Elder was very useful, and he disarmed Balchae effortlessly.

After Balchae sealed his cultivation base, James strengthened the binding.

Then, he summoned the Malevolent Sword, waved it around a few times, and unleashed bright Sword Energy.

The Sword Energy swept across the battlefield, instantly killing and injuring many of the Soul Race's soldiers.

Balchae's expression shifted immediately, and he shrieked furiously, "What are you doing, Sir?! Why did you kill them? Is the Doom Race trying to start a war with the Soul Race?!" James ignored him and killed the rest of the Soul Race's soldiers.

The Soul Race's army consisted of both strong and weak soldiers.

The strong ones were Macrocosm Ancestral Gods, and the weak ones were Ancestral Gods.

Despite that, none of them could fight back against James' attacks.

The scene dumbfounded everyone watching from the highest peak of the Space Mount Celestial.

They were confused by what was happening and had no idea why the Doom Race's Great Elder had killed the Soul Race's army.

On the battlefield, only the Space Race's soldiers were left.

They stared at James and the sealed Balchae with puzzled expressions.

At that moment, Dahlia appeared.

She approved of James' actions and enthusiastically praised him, "Impressive.

You subdued Balchae so effortlessly.” James smiled lightly and said, “I could have easily subdued him in battle with my strength.

However, I was worried he would use the chance to send a message back to the Soul Race.

Thus, I decided to play a little trick.” Dahlia asked, “What’s next?” James turned around and looked at the many soldiers from the Space Race.

Then, he looked at the Space Race’s headquarters and said, “Since we’re already here.

Let’s meet the Space Race.” Balchae roared.

“Sir, you’re dooming your own race!” Apart from shouting loudly, there was nothing else Balchae could do.

He had already sealed his cultivation base, and James had strengthened the seal, leaving him unable to utilize any of his power.

“You’re too noisy.” James quickly summoned a few sigils.

The sigils floated into Balchae’s body and prevented him from speaking.

Right after, James dragged him toward Mount Celestial.

All of the Space Race’s powerhouses had witnessed everything.

“My Lord, Youri is here.” “Should we open the formation and let him in?” Many elders began to ponder on how to proceed.

The Space Race’s Lord, Haestra Saberton, said, “Open the formation.

The Doom Race’s Great Elder, Youri, is more than capable of destroying our mountain formation.” The formation opened up as soon as James arrived at the Space Race’s gate.

He appeared before Haestra and the other Space Race’s powerhouses in a flash.

The Space Race’s powerhouses did not dare to anger the Doom Race’s Great Elder, so they behaved very respectfully before him.

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4059

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4059-“It’s an honor to meet you, Sir.” James casually tossed Balchae on the ground and planted a few more sigils on him.

Balchae immediately lost consciousness.

Right after, James returned to his original appearance.

Many of the Space Race’s powerhouses stared at James in shock.

“W-Who are you?” Haestra looked at James in confusion.

Youri, the Doom Race’s Great Elder, had suddenly transformed into an unknown man.

The sequence of events stunned the Space Race’s Lord.

Before James could speak, Dahlia stepped forward, clasped her hands, and said, “I’m Dahlia Laoise from the Human Race.” “Humans?” The Space Race’s powerhouses stared at James and Dahlia.

Dahlia nodded and said, “I heard that the Space Race was in trouble and came to help.” “Then, who is this man?” Haestra looked at James warily.

He had sensed James’ Chaos Power and was sure he was from the Doom Race.

What was a Doom Race man doing with a Human Race woman? The Human Race hated the other major races.

James said smilingly, “I’m James Caden.

I’m also a human.

A human with Chaos Power? The Space Race’s powerhouses only grew more confused.

James did not elaborate further and changed the subject, saying, “ I heard a powerful treasure had appeared in the Space Race’s territory, and the Soul Race had come to take it for themselves.” “Yes, that’s exactly what just happened.” Since James saved them, Haestra did not conceal anything from their saviors.

He sighed and replied honestly, “For countless years, we’ve tried to keep a low profile and avoided conflict with the other races.

I have no idea how the Soul Race found out about our treasure.” “What kind of treasure is it?” asked James curiously.

Haestra sighed and said, “As you have heard, it’s indeed a remarkable Empyrean herb.

Unfortunately, it’s useless to our race.” Dahlia asked, “Why do you say so?” “There’s a long explanation for it.” Haestra beckoned welcomingly and said, “Please come inside the hall.

I’ll explain everything there slowly.” James and Dahlia entered the hall together, following Haestra from behind.

When they reached the hall, Haestra sat in the highest seat.

He began to recall past memories, then said, “This all dates back to ancient times when our race reigned over the Greater Realms.

James and Dahlia listened carefully.

Haestra said, “A very powerful man belonged to our race back then.

He was invincible and considered the strongest man in the Greater Realms.

His name was Savrian Quidde.

“He had an excellent relationship with one of the Human Race’s powerhouses.

When this human powerhouse visited our territory, he noticed our Empyrean Spiritual Energy was extraordinary and planted a seed in our plantation.

“The powerhouse never explained what seed it was.

He simply said it would grow and become a special Empyrean herb.

Our race never questioned it or even bothered to find out more.

“Gradually, everyone forgot about the seed.

I noticed something unusual happening in our plantation and scoured our ancient books for information.

Only then, did I learn of this matter.” James’ curiosity was piqued.

Dahlia had mentioned that the Space Race used to rule over the Greater Realms for some time.

As for why they declined to their current state, no one really knew the reason.

He also did not expect the Space Race and the Human race to be on such amicable terms.

“Who is the powerhouse that planted the seed? Was it Soren Plamen?” asked James.

Haestra gently shook his head and said, “During Soren’s era, our race had already fallen to ruin.

As for the powerhouse’s name, their details weren’t recorded in our ancient books.

However, it’s mentioned that he was addressed as Holy Emperor.” These events were much too far in the past.

It had been so far back that the Greater Realm’s creatures had long forgotten them.

No one remembered the Space Race’s prosperous era and only knew the current state of the Ten Great Realms.

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4060

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4060-Through their simple conversation, James learned about the general history of the Space Race.

He also learned about the Empyrean herb that had been left by a powerhouse of the Human Race long ago in the Space Race's plantation.

No one knew this human's name, but there were records of him in the Space Race's ancient books being addressed as the Holy Emperor.

Unfortunately, the Empyrean herb in their plantation could not be consumed by the Space Race.

Haestra sighed and said, "It was supposed to be good that a magical Empyrean herb was growing on our plantation.

We wanted to wait for it to fully mature before contacting the Human Race's powerhouses.

We were planning to hand it back to them.

Unexpectedly, the Sou] Race had set its eyes on it and sent an army to attack us.

We've been defending against them for a while.

We've suffered many casualties, and many of our remaining soldiers are injured." "What kind of Empyrean herb is it? Could you bring me to see it?" James was curious about the Empyrean herb.

'How special is this herb? Is it only consumable by humans?' thought James.

"Sure.

This way, please." Haestra gestured for them to follow.

Then, he stood up and led James and Dahlia to the plantation.

The Space Race's plantation was massive and covered an area much bigger than an average- sized planet.

In the plantation were countless herbs, many of which were Marcocosm herbs.

As soon as James entered the plantation, he saw colorful Empyrean herbs and fruits.

Their sweet aroma suffused the air of the plantation.

Haestra led James to the center of the plantation.

The central region was an open space.

The soil on the ground was colorful, and a small, mystical tree was growing in the middle.

The tree was only one meter tall, with only one main trunk and no branches.

A few translucent milky- white leaves grew out from the trunk.

The leaves had stripes, which could be clearly seen.

A single fruit could also be seen growing from the top of the tree.

It was the size of a fist and had an oval shape.

It had milky- white color and emitted a faint glow.

James sensed a magical power emanating from the tree as he got closer.

His pores immediately stretched open, and his cells grew active.

At that moment, his mind and body relaxed, making him feel refreshed.

“what?” James was surprised.

“What wonderful power.” Haestra and some of the Space Race’s powerhouses could not help but glance at James inquisitively.

Haestra pointed to the small tree and said, “That plant grew from the mysterious seed that the Holy Emperor buried in our plantation.

After many years, it eventually grew into this small tree.” Another respected elder of the Space Race piped in.

“As soon as it bloomed, we’ve been sensing very mysterious power from it.

We’ve searched through all our ancient books and finally found some vague information about it.” Dahlia asked, “What exactly is this tree?” Haestra explained, "According to our ancient records it's called Tree of Life, whereas its fruit is called Fruit of Life.

Its fruit holds powerful Life Power.

"It can only be consumed when one is weak and exhausted.

Consuming it when one is full of energy would backfire and result in the opposite effect.

"The vitality and potential of the Human Race had been tampered with and was cut short.

After reaching a certain level, humans can't improve any further.

That's why I said the Fruit of Life is useless to us." James' eyes immediately lit up.

He struggled to break through the Omniscience Path's Sixth Stage and had an even harder time breaking into the Seventh Stage.

Now that he discovered the Fruit of Life, he could obtain abundant Life Power and unlock more of his body's potential.

James immediately rushed toward the tree.

Before the Space Race's creatures could react, he had already plucked the Fruit of Life.

Everyone watched James in shock.

James firmly held onto the fruit and looked at the flabbergasted powerhouses.

Then, he grinned at them.

"Didn't you say it's useless to your race and would only benefit humans? Since I'm a human, I'll happily put it to good use." Haestra returned to his senses and looked at James helplessly.