The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4096-James hurriedly traversed through the Chaos. Eventually, he arrived at the Stone Realm, one of the largest worlds in the Greater Realms. Upon entering the Stone Realm, he changed his appearance and concealed his aura. Then, he headed toward the planet on which the Desolate Grand Canyon was located.

In the unknown past, there was once a fierce battle in the Desolate Grand Canyon. However, this was ancient history, and not even the ancient texts of the Ten Great Races had recorded anything about the battle.

The Desolate Grand Canyon was located in the Stone Realm's Desolate Galaxy. The area was destroyed, and the billions of planets that existed there were devoid of all signs of life. The moment James approached the Desolate Galaxy, he could sense a deathly silence sweeping toward him. Under the influence of this deathly silence, his blood ran cold.

'This is something else, the Desolate Galaxy...' James murmured.

Just as he planned to venture forward into Planet Desolation and the Desolate Grand Canyon, he spotted a group of guards stationed just ahead. Though these guards were humanoid in shape, they were devoid of flesh and blood. Their bodies were made up of a unique rock formation. Though they looked stiff, they were actually very agile and swift. They traversed through the region and protected the safety there.

"Wh-What's going on?"

James furrowed his eyebrows.

According to the Heaven-Eradicating Sect's intelligence, this region was supposed to be devoid of all life. That was because the energy here had been depleted long ago and was no longer suitable for human habitation. Only those who knew about the existence of the Desolate Grand Canyon would come here on an adventure, seeking to find the Supernatural Powers left behind by the forefathers here.

"Why would there be guards of the Stone Race here? Besides, there are so many of them."

James concealed himself in the dark space and gazed at the countless guards before him. He fell into deep thought. After some time, he silently retreated. As he knew nothing about the situation, he did not dare enter recklessly and come into conflict with the Stone Race. The Stone Race was strong, and he would not gain anything out of antagonizing them.

The Desolate Galaxy was too desolate. It was completely devoid of all life. Besides, even the nearby galaxies were lacking in the energy of Heaven and Earth. Even if there were living beings here, their cultivation base would be insignificant. They would not possess the ability to traverse space and head to other galaxies.

After James left, he found a powerful planet a few thousand galaxies away from the Desolate Galaxy. This planet was strong, and it possessed terrifying energy of Heaven and Earth. On this planet, there were Quasi Acmeans.

James' body flickered, and he arrived at the most bustling city on the planet.

The streets were crowded, and there were many living beings out and about. Though this was the Stone Realm, not everyone here was a member of the Stone Race. The Stone Race only dominated this world. There were other races here in this world.

James strode forward and entered the city. Then, he found a lively pub and sat in the corner near the window. A pub was where all sorts of living beings mingled. As this place was not that far away from the Desolate Galaxy, the people here would certainly know something if anything happened there. However, despite having visited the place for a couple of days, no one talked about the Desolate Galaxy.

James frowned before standing up to leave.

Night fell.

He walked on the streets.

"Come in and have some fun, Mister!"

"We can certainly satisfy your needs, Mister! This place is full of pretty girls of the Human Race."

As he passed by a building with bright lights, he noticed a few women standing by the entrance. They were all wearing revealing attires and seducing the passersby.

Upon hearing their enticing voices, James hesitated a little before walking in.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4097-The moment he approached the entrance, some very seductive women walked toward him and even grabbed his arm. James exuded his aura and knocked back the women who surrounded him.

The women froze.

Then, a gorgeous woman walked toward him. She was waving a fan in her hands.

“Please come in, Mister.”

James walked in.

The scene was lively inside.

There were many tables inside. Each table had a man with many women by his side. In the middle was a stage, on which many glamorous-looking women were dancing in a seductive manner. The moment James entered the venue, he scanned his surroundings. Upon knowing that there were private rooms upstairs, he immediately entered one of the rooms and took a seat.

“How many would you like, Sir? Do you have any preferences? Would you like some women of the Fox Race or the Human Race? I guarantee you we have everything you want.”

A woman who followed James in tugged at her dress to reveal her fair thighs.

“What do you think?”

The woman asked seductively.

James was here to gain information and not to mess around. There were all sorts of people mingling here. Perhaps they would have the information he needed.

Seeing that James remained silent, the woman immediately said, “Don’t worry, Sir. The women here at Springwind Pavilion are all pure and undefiled. They have been raised here since young.”

James waved slightly and said, “No need. Just get me some wine.”

Saying that, he pulled out a Genesis Stone from his Space Treasure. The Genesis Stone’s energy was pure, and it contained a perfect Path inside.

“Sure thing!”

Upon seeing the pure Genesis Stone, the woman could not conceal her joy. After accepting the Genesis Stone, she hurriedly left.

Soon, the wine was served.

James sat in the private room on the second floor and enjoyed his drink. From his location, he could see the stage downstairs.

There were many glamorous-looking women on the stage. James could sense that they were all humans. They were all gorgeous and stunningly beautiful. He also knew that the Heaven-Eradicating Sect had set up an intelligence web in the Greater Realms. Meanwhile, many of the informants were humans whose rank was insignificant, and many of them were women like them. That was because they interacted with all sorts of people on a daily basis. Hence, they were able to retrieve more information. James came here to see if there were any members of the Heaven-Eradicating Sect. As he had relayed his wish to Dempsey, he had ways of communicating with these informants.

It was lively downstairs. However, at that moment, a brute walked toward the center of the stage and simply grabbed the hand of a glamorous- looking woman.

The woman struggled and said, “Sir, you can’t do this!”

Smack!

The moment she said that, the man slapped her hard. She immediately collapsed to the ground. Her cheeks swell, and blood trickled down from her lips.

At that moment, the person in charge of Springwind Pavilion appeared. She was a glamorous woman. As her hips swayed from side to side, she looked at the brute and smiled, "Please quell your anger, Sir. She's just a nobody, so forgive her for her rudeness. How about this? I will arrange a sexy woman of the Fox Race just for you."

The brute was evidently displeased.

"Uhm..."

The person in charge of Springwind Pavilion was in a bind. She whispered, "To be honest with you, Sir, though she's a lowly human, she has someone powerful backing her. If you kill her. I'll be put in a difficult position. You may also be troubled by this."

Hearing this, the man was displeased. He was a general of the Stone Race. The Stone Race had sent its forces to the Desolate Galaxy. While he was off-duty, he specially came here to look around. Originally, he wanted to have some fun. Now, he was no longer in the mood to do so.

"Someone powerful backing her? Hmph! Do you know who I am?"

The man said coldly, "I'm the deputy leader of the Stone Race's vanguard. Who dares goes against the wishes of the Stone Race in the Stone Realm?"

Upon hearing this, the person in charge shivered in fear. Neither she nor Springwind Pavilion could afford to antagonize the Stone Race.

She immediately ordered, "Drag Xandrella Quitterie out and execute her!"

Immediately, a few guards walked in.

Meanwhile, Xandrella simply lay on the ground. Her eyes were brimming with tears as she remained silent. Events like this were common around her, so she had gotten used to it. She just never thought that it would ever be her turn. She thought she would have a better life in the future once a powerful figure took a liking to her. However, she could not escape her fate. She was dragged away by the guards like a lowly dog.

At that moment, a few waves of force came from the private room upstairs and sent the guards flying. They crashed toward the wall, which immediately collapsed.

There were many living beings in the foyer, and none of them dared spoke up in the face of the Stone Race's general. As this was the Stone Realm, no one dared antagonize the Stone Race. Now, however, someone had intervened. Was this not tantamount to disrespect toward the Stone Race?

Many looked at the private room James was in.

Xandrella thought she would be dead. She did not expect anyone to save her. As she lay on the ground motionless, she looked at the private room upstairs in a daze.

'Who did that?!'

The general was enraged.

His name was Qays Stewart, and he was a member of the Stone Race.

However, he was not part of the Stone Race's royal family and was only distantly related. Though he was of lowly status among the Stone Race, he was well respected in the outside world. After all, a member of the Stone Race would be respected no matter where he went in the Stone Realm.

Qays was enraged. All this while, no one had dared go against his wishes in the outside world. Yet, here was someone humiliating him in front of the public. How dare he?

Even the person in charge of Springwind Pavilion was stunned. She murmured to herself silently, "Who is he? To think that he intervened..."

As Qays roared, a powerful force materialized in his palm. Then, he struck the private room James was in.

Boom!

The private room was instantly destroyed. However, the destruction did not spread, for this place was well-protected by a Formation. The windows shattered.

James slowly stood up and appeared before Qays.

Meanwhile, the living beings in the foyer hurriedly stood up and retreated to the rear to watch the show. They were curious to see who was the individual who dared intervene and go against the wishes of the Stone Race.

“Do you have a death wish, kid?”

Qays raised his hand and struck James’ head. He was very strong-at the Eight-Power Macrocosm Ancestral God Rank. A single move from him could destroy even the planet, let alone this building.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4099-However, his palm seemed to be frozen in place, controlled by a powerful force. James did not wish to bring about great destruction, so he simply dissolved Qays’ power into nothingness.

‘You...!’

Qays froze.

He tried to pull his hand back but to no avail.

James remained silent. The atmosphere was tense.

“Please calm down, you two. Springwind Pavilion is the property of the Flying Feather Sword Master.” Seeing that the atmosphere was tense, the person in charge immediately mentioned the owner of this place.

The Flying Feather Sword Master was a powerful figure. Although he was considered a nobody in the Stone Realm, he was one of the most powerful people in this city and planet.

Qays, however, could not care less. To him, the Stone Race called the shots around here.

"I don't care who you are, kid. But since you have antagonized the Stone Race, you are dead meat."

"Who says?"

At that moment, a melodious voice came from the door. Then, a gorgeous woman walked in, and behind her was a group of guards. This woman was none other than Leilani Amani, the Princess of the Angel Race whom James encountered in the Thala Realm.

Leilani walked in and scanned her surroundings.

Upon seeing Leilani, Qays immediately quieted down. Even though he seldom left the Stone Realm, he had heard of the Princess of the Angel Race. Although Leilani herself was only at the Quasi Acme Rank, her father was one of the most prominent figures in the Greater Realms.

"Princess Leilani."

Qays opened his mouth. However, he spoke with great difficulty. Sweat beads began to form on his forehead.

Upon seeing Leilani, James froze and murmured silently, 'Why is she here?'

Then, he dispersed his strength.

As Qays had been bitterly resisting James' power, he stumbled backward when James dispersed his strength.

'Why are you here, Forty-nine?' Leilani looked at James.

James said smilingly, "I have been wandering about in training. Surely it isn't strange for me to end up in the Stone Realm. As for you, Your Highness, why are you here in the Stone Realm when you are supposed to be on Mount Eden in the Thala Realm?"

Leilani did not respond to the question. Instead, she scanned the foyer and asked, 'What happened here?'

James said, "I was upstairs having a drink when I saw someone committing vulgar acts. So, I intervened."

Qays did not expect James and Leilani to be acquaintances.

Upon seeing Leilani's gaze, he immediately explained, "Your Highness, I was only going to execute a human when he intervened."

Hearing this, Leilani glanced at James puzzledly, seemingly confused over why James would intervene to help a human. Among the races in the Greater Realms, the Human Race was the most insignificant. They were like rats in the world James was in.

James also knew how the Human Race was perceived in the Greater Realms. He simply explained, "All living beings are equal in my eyes."

"Alright, you are dismissed." Leilani waved at the surrounding people. Then, she looked at Qays and said, "Since Forty-nine has intervened, spare the human. You are not allowed to cause any trouble to the human in the future."

"Y-Yes..."

Qays hurriedly nodded.

"Scram."

Leilani said coldly.

Qays did not dare refute her and hurriedly fled.

Xandrella looked at James in gratitude. James waved at her and said, "You should leave."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4100-Leilani did not know why James was there. James was also curious as to why she was there as well.

"I was only just passing by when I sensed your aura. So I came here to have a look." Leilani scanned the surroundings. Apparently distasteful of the environment, she furrowed her eyebrows and said, "This is not the place for a conversation. Let's move elsewhere."

"Alright."

James nodded.

Leilani turned around and headed out, while James followed close behind.

In a private room in a luxurious hotel, Leilani and James sat opposite each other. A faint smile crept up on Leilani's face as she asked, "You are here because of the Desolate Grand Canyon, aren't you?"

Hearing this, James froze.

The Desolate Grand Canyon? Indeed, that was his objective. However, as the Desolate Galaxy had been sealed off by the Stone Race, he could not enter the place.

He asked puzzledly, "I'm not here for the Desolate Grand Canyon. I was only just training here. What's with the Desolate Grand Canyon?"

Seeing that James was confused, Leilani believed his words. She explained, "I don't know about the specifics, but I heard that there were anomalies in the Desolate Grand Canyon not too long ago."

Intrigued, James asked, "What anomalies?"

Leilani said, "Not too long ago, sky glows appeared inside the Desolate Grand Canyon and soared to the sky, illuminating the Desolate Galaxy.

Besides that, there was an immensely powerful force spreading throughout the universe from the canyon. Although the Stone Race clamped down on any dissemination of the news, word of the incident got out. Now, many races have learned of this and have sent many powerful prodigies here to investigate the matter."

Hearing this, James froze.

What a coincidence. Anomalies happened the moment he wanted to go to the Desolate Grand Canyon.

After some contemplation, he asked, "What do you think is in the Desolate Grand Canyon, Your Highness?"

Leilani shook her head and said, "I have no idea."

"In that case, do you know anything about the history there?" James asked. To his understanding, the Desolate Grand Canyon was a mysterious place. An earth-shattering battle once broke out there in the distant past.

However, there were no records of that battle in the historical records of all races. The Stone Race was probably the only race that recorded the incident. After all, this was their territory.

Speaking of the Desolate Grand Canyon's history, Leilani's expression turned grim. Seeing this, James knew that there must have been something she knew.

After some contemplation, Leilani said, "The outside world knows little about the Desolate Grand Canyon's history. However, there are some records of the past of the powerful families."

James listened intently.

"Have you ever heard of the Space Race?" Leilani asked.

"Mhm."

James nodded slightly.
