

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4306

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4306-Thea felt a mixture of joy and surprise as James appeared.

She could not help but wonder why James had returned when he should be with the Dooks at this moment.

She was worried that there might be Dooks impersonating James at such a critical time.

Thea took the initiative to discern his aura. A relieved expression of happiness appeared on her pale face once she confirmed it was him.

She was injured. James noticed it, and he appeared in the main hall in a flash.

With a raised hand, a powerful Life Power manifested from his palm and entered Thea's body, repairing her injured form.

Afterward, he looked at the other members of the Heaven- Eradicating Sect in the main hall and activated his Life Power. A potent power emerged, restoring the injured members of the Heaven-Eradicating Sect to heal.

James finally turned his attention to Thea after having done all this, and asked, "Thea, what happened?"

Thea's complexion regained some color, and she sighed helplessly before saying, "One member of the Heaven- Eradicating Sect was accidentally captured, and he was forcefully subjected to soul-searching. That's how the information leaked, and the Dooks sent a large army to attack the Heaven-Eradicating Sect. The Heaven- Eradicating Sect would have been wiped out long ago if I hadn't been here."

James breathed a sigh of relief upon hearing this,

It seemed that the Dooks were still unaware that the true Wyot was still within the Heaven-Eradicating Sect.

"Where is the real Wyot?" James inquired.

Thea replied, "He's still locked in the dungeon. I came here and temporarily settled down after you gave me the instructions. I've been thinking about where to take him for safety, but the Dooms' army appeared before I made the final decision."

In the main hall, there were many senior authorities members of the Heaven-Eradicating Sect. These individuals had all seen James before and were aware of his current identity.

Dahlia could not help but ask, "James, weren't you with the Dooms? Why did you come back?"

James did not hide anything and explained the purpose of his journey.

Dempsey, the archbishop of the Heaven-Eradicating Sect, asked with a solemn expression, "Since you have returned, you are now in charge of the situation here. What should we do? If it comes to a life-or-death battle with the Dooms, give the order, and we will not retreat."

James fell into thought upon hearing this. He looked at Thea and asked, "What are your thoughts, Thea?"

Thea replied, "We have been hiding for so long, and it would be unwise to engage in a desperate fight with the Dooms at this moment. However, the Dooms' army has already surrounded this place, and we cannot escape. It seems like we have no other choice besides a decisive battle."

James silently took a seat at the forefront.

Thea was right. It was definitely not the time to directly confront the Dooms now.

Setting aside the fact that Thea was currently just a clone in the Greater Realms. Although she shared a connection with her main self and could access the power, her strength had not fully recovered. Furthermore, Thea's power had not yet reached its peak. Coupled with her clone being pregnant, she was unable to engage in another major battle at this moment.

Apart from Thea, the others in this location were lacking any significant combat capabilities and were considered insignificant in the Dooms' eyes.

After pondering for a while, James spoke up, “Thea is right. It’s not the time to directly confront the Dooms now. I will find a way to hold off the Dooms’ army, while Thea leads the members of the Heaven-Eradicating Sect to retreat.”

“We need to do it quickly,” Thea reminded. “Our clan suffered heavy losses and were forced back to our headquarters in the previous battle with the Dooms. The Dooms are currently surrounding us but not launching a full attack. Besides fearing me, they might be waiting for reinforcements. It won’t be long before the Dooms’ reinforcements arrive, and when that happens, we will have a hard time escaping even if we have great abilities.”

“I understand. I will act swiftly.” James nodded.

He began to reach out to the Death Demons in the outside world.

After creating an opportunity for James, the Death Demon withdrew and disappeared into the vast chaotic void, making it impossible for even Qimat, who has a higher cultivation level, to track him down.

“Death Demon, closely monitor the situation of the Dooms’ army and wait for my notification,” James instructed.

The Death Demon carried a sigil by James, allowing James to instantly communicate with him regardless of the distance between them.

“Yes,” the Death Demon replied, not daring to defy James.

James gently touched his temple. He had not expected such a grave crisis for the Heaven-Eradicating Sect during his visit.

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4307

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4307-He pondered on how to resolve the crisis at hand. After thinking for a while, he spoke up, “Let’s go and see Wyot Dalibor.”

James stood up.

“This way, Mister Caden.” Dempsey stepped forward and gestured for them to follow.

Dempsey personally led James and Thea to the dungeon, while the other members of the Heaven-Eradicating Sect waited in the main hall.

On the way to the dungeon, James and Thea walked side by side, with James holding Thea's hand.

At that moment, James, who was previously lost and helpless, suddenly regained a strong sense of conviction.

"Thea, there's something I need to tell you," James stammered.

"What is it?" Thea looked puzzled.

"It's about the matter with Yemima, the wife of the Dooms' Minor Patriarch." James took a deep breath. He decided to be honest and confessed about his intimate encounter with Yemima.

"I mean, what does it matter? If the humans truly rise and establish a strong position in the Greater Realms, and if, after the annihilation of the Dooms, Yemima realizes her mistakes and wants to be with you, then let her be." Thea took a very open-minded view of the situation.

"And there's something else, the Angels' Patriarch knows about my identity," James revealed the matter concerning the Angels.

"I cannot act against the Angels at the moment, and the Angels are wary of both the humans and Dooms. For the cause of humanity, I plan to keep Princess Leilani of the Angels by my side. When I return to the Dooms, I will marry her in Wyot's name," James explained his intentions.

"You make the decisions," Thea softly replied.

She was truly open-minded about these matters. Moreover, she actually hoped that James would find more women to continue the lineage of the human race. James' descendants would undoubtedly be stunning geniuses with his current strength.

These things were a burden in James' heart. He was truly afraid that Thea might have objections to what he had done. However, he did not expect Thea to be so magnanimous and understanding.

“Don’t blame yourself. I know you were also compelled. You infiltrated the Dooms alone, always being cautious to avoid exposing your identity, for the prosperity of humans for generations to come,” Thea said, tightly holding his hand.

“I will support you no matter what you do. Whatever path you choose, the entire human race stands behind you. Just remember to consider humanity’s interests when making decisions.”

James knew that Thea, as the matron of the Human Race in the Primordial Realm Era, held immense prestige among humans. She had shouldered the mission of revitalizing the race since the catastrophic battle in the Primordial Realm Era that nearly led to humanity’s destruction.

For countless ages, she had been hiding in the shadows, constantly strategizing. She had to navigate the dealings with the watchers of the Dark World, who were aligned with the Dooms, all while working towards the revitalization of the human race. It was an incredibly challenging task.

James had grown to a point where he could share some of these responsibilities with Thea now. However, it was still far from being enough.

Indeed, humans lacked the ability to defend themselves currently, let alone establish a foothold in the Greater Realms.

“By the way,” James changed the topic and said, “It would be difficult to provoke a war between the Dooms and other races even if I am the Great Elder of the Dooms. I can guess that the other races won’t engage the Dooms directly. Once Youri starts demanding the tokens, they’ll obediently hand them over. We should carefully plan our subsequent actions.”

Thea paused for a moment and looked at James, asking, “What’s your plan, then?”

James replied, “If we can’t provoke a war, there’s only one option left, and that is Soren Plamen. We need to find a way to rescue Soren and use him as a distraction from the Dooms, so they won’t be able to spare their forces to deal with the upcoming new world.”