The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4479-However, they recalled the first sightings of the copper coffin were around that period as well.

‘This is impossible...’ Wyot was staring at the coffin with an icy gaze.

He seethed silently ‘Not only does the thing inside that coffin know how to wield the Nine Voices of Chaos, but it can also use the Blithe Omniscience... Is it really James Caden in there?’.

“Carson, attack the coffin now!” Wyot called aloud.

“Huh... What?! Did he just call my name?” Carson was taken aback.

He wondered why his father would order him to attack the coffin. Wyot himself was unable to counter its attacks, so where would that leave Carson?

Despite the many questions he had, Carson dared not disobey his father’s orders. He focused his powers, lifted his sword, and rushed toward the copper coffin. Carson teleported in front of the coffin the next instant. Then, he swung his sword at the coffin with all his might.

James merely stayed still as he watched Carson close in on him. Although Carson’s mother was not from the Human Race, James still considered Carson his own flesh and blood.

There was a loud clang as Carson’s sword hit the lid. Unfortunately, he was not strong enough to cause any damage to the coffin.

‘I hoped that perhaps Carson could miraculously break this coffin and release me. Without this coffin stifling my powers, I’ll be able to unleash more of my powers as well.’ James thought.

Wyot grew more certain that James was the one inside the coffin when it remained dormant during Carson’s attack.

“You son of a bitch! You survived even after having sacrificed yourself that way?! In that case, I’ll end you myself for good today!”

Then, Wyot shouted angrily at Carson, “You! Get out of there now!”

Carson was extremely confused by the change in orders. Still, he hurriedly teleported back to the side of the battlefield where the Dooms were.

Wytot lifted his sword, and the weapon began to shine with a blinding, white light. Then, he blasted the Second and Third Tones of Chaos' Nine Voices in the coffin's direction consecutively.

A horrifyingly loud sound reverberated through the Chaotic Void around them as Wytot generated the two waves of Sonic Sword Energy. Even skilled cultivators from a great distance could detect the scale and magnitude of Wytot's attacks. Most of them were both shocked and amazed by the wielder's abilities.

In response, the shadow-like figure also unleashed the Second and Third Tones of Chaos' Nine Voices one after the other. As the third attack from both sides crashed into each other, the immense aftershock struck the dark figure and dispelled it. James coughed up blood as soon as the figure was destroyed.

That immense energy also flung Wytot backward. By the time he had steadied himself, Wytot was pale-faced and in a disheveled state.

On the other hand, James had a grim expression on his face.

'I've only mastered up to the Third Tone of the Nine Voices of Chaos. How do I fend off Wytot's subsequent attacks if he chooses to use the other six tones?

'I must enter the next cultivation rank now. I've fully mastered the Quasi Boundless Supreme Path Rank, and I can enter the true Acme Rank now. By doing that, I can gain more power and ward off Wytot's attacks.' James concluded inwardly.

"I guess the time has come," James muttered to himself.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4480-Wytot had a dark and sinister look in his eyes as he stared at the copper coffin.

'With my strength and cultivation rank, I'm confident that no one across the Greater Realms can handle my attacks, especially when I use the Nine Voices of Chaos. Even Soren Plamen who had reached the Ninth Rank of Omniscience Path barely fended off my attacks earlier. However, that copper coffin has withstood three of my attacks now.

‘Apart from that, I’ve yet to confirm who is inside the coffin. There are no definitive signs to prove that the person inside is James Caden yet.’ Wyot thought.

“Let’s see if you can take my Fourth Tone.” Wyot pointed his sword at the coffin and began to gather his strength for the next attack.

Upon hearing Wyot’s words, James frowned deeply. He had deep concerns about how things were progressing at the moment.

‘Even though we are technically situated billions of light years away from the human universe, the scale of destruction and damage that our battle can cause to the surrounding universes is unimaginable.

‘I’m sure that if we continue fighting here, the human universe will also suffer from the aftermath of the battle. Moreover, I don’t want to interrupt the formation process of the new universe. I need to figure out a way to take this fight to another location.’ James thought.

After thinking for a bit, James decided on his next move. He teleported the entire coffin to a quiet and isolated area of the Chaotic Void where there was not even a single universe in sight.

Wyot had almost fully mastered the Space Path after many years of training and practice. Although he could not match James in terms of teleportation speed, Wyot could still track him down with ease.

Wyot appeared shortly after the coffin arrived at the new location.

The man declared in a steely voice, “I know you’re in there, James Caden. I’ll kill you first. Then, I’ll go ahead and destroy the human universe!”

Wyot’s eyes blazed with fury.

‘He deceived and humiliated my partner. I have nothing but pure hatred for that man and the entire Human Race!’ Wyot repeated inwardly.

Wyt aimed the tip of his sword at the coffin. As he readied his next attack, a strange noise resounded around them. In a flash, countless glowing swords materialized around the coffin. The swords blasted Wyt's powers toward the coffin.

The space around the coffin was instantly destroyed. The coffin fell into one of the massive Spatial Black Holes that formed.

After that, James was glowing with white light from head to toe as he tried to focus all his energy. Even though he had the protection of the coffin and powers of the Omniscience Path, he was not completely invulnerable to the Fourth Tone of Chaos' Nine Voices. James had begun to detect cracks in his physical body at that point.

He contemplated inwardly. 'The Fourth Tone is destructive but not lethal to me. Also, I can avoid it by using the Blithe Omniscience, but I won't do that now. I must fight Wyt Dalibor head-on and defeat him. Then, there will be a higher chance for the Human Race to win this battle.'

As he continued to withstand Wyt's onslaught, more and more wounds were inflicted on James' body. Soon enough, his clothes were drenched in blood.

In the meantime, James channeled his powers into the coffin to counter the Fourth Tone of the Chaos' Nine Voices. The coffin gently rotated in the air and shone in multicolored lights in the process.

Then, James shut his eyes and imagined how he would wield the powers of the Greater Paths to form Acme Power in his head.

Just then, several tribulation clouds started gathering above the coffin.

Wyt was momentarily stunned at the sight of the clouds.

"He's summoned the Heavenly Tribulation to enter the Acme Rank?!" Wyt stared in utter disbelief.
