The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4531-At the time, countless heavily armed soldiers had surrounded the body in a battle-ready formation. Most of them could see multiple scars and open wounds scattered all over the body of this unknown man. It was quite a horrific sight as some of those wounds were huge and deep.

Just then, their saintess materialized before them.

“Greetings to the Saintess!” All the men called out in unison.

The saintess gave a slight nod and made her way toward the seemingly dead man. As she stopped before the body, one of the generals came up to her and got down on one knee.

He reported, “Your Holiness, this body had somehow drifted toward our universe just a while ago. We examined the corpse, but we couldn’t detect any signs of life from it. We think that this man had probably died a long time ago and his body had drifted across the Endlos Void for quite some time.”

The lady’s gaze fell on the body. A dark, mysterious light shone in her eyes the next instant. Up close, one would be able to see numerous fine lines overlapping in her pupils.

In several seconds, the saintess managed to assess the condition of James’ body.

At first glance, there were no signs of life or a soul in James’ body. In fact, the average cultivator would not realize how the man’s life force and soul had fused with his physical body.

“He’s not dead.” The saintess’ eyes had returned to normal.” His life force and soul fused into his body. That’s why none of you were able to detect it. Since his body is severely injured, it accentuates the impression that he’s dead.”

“Your Holiness, can you tell what cultivation rank he is or how much power he has?” Another general asked.

The saintess shook her head. “I couldn’t. However, judging by the condition of his body, I think he’s probably reached the Caelum Acme Rank.”

The men around her were shocked to hear her theory.

“We don’t know who he is or where this man is from. Just to be safe, we should eliminate him on the spot.”

One of the generals stepped out of the crowd and brought out a knife. Then, he swiftly lifted his arm and took a swing at the body.

The saintess merely looked on wordlessly.

With a loud clang, the man managed to make a cut on James’ body. However, the general fell backward and stumbled a little the very next moment.

“His body is so tough! He must be quite a skilled cultivator ...” The general gazed at James in awe.

“That’s enough.” The saintess began, “His time is probably not up yet. We’ll bring him back with us.”

“Your Holiness, we can’t! If this man is from the enemy’s side, he may share and expose our whereabouts once he regains consciousness.” The man in the white robe voiced his suspicion. He followed the saintess for her protection.

The saintess replied, “Still, there’s no proof to suggest that this man is affiliated with the Aeternus.”

Upon hearing her words, the men complied and carried out her instructions. James was brought back to their universe shortly afterward.

Meanwhile, they had decided to remain in their current position within the Endlos Void. Although Paths did not exist in the Endlos Void, the universe could still replenish its depleted force by absorbing the abundant Endlos Power around it. They estimated that it would take around three to five epochs for the universe to harness enough power again.

Soon, James was transferred to the spiritual mountain where the saintess resided. After her condition had stabilized, the saintess headed to a guest room.

“How is he?” The saintess asked.

“The man hasn’t regained consciousness. However, we observed signs of regeneration in his body. The wounds and injuries in his body have mostly healed by now. He should be waking up soon,” One of the guards explained.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4532-The saintess nodded. Then, she opened the door and entered the guest room. Eventually, she stopped beside a bed inside and stared at the man lying motionless on it.

Someone had dressed him in clean, white clothes. There were no more scars or wounds on his face. Even his cheeks had regained some color. He appeared completely different from how he had looked when they first found him.

A mysterious light shone in the saintess’ eyes once more as she examined James’ body.

‘He’s almost fully recovered. I’m not sure why he hasn’t woken up, though.’ The saintess concluded inwardly.

Since there was nothing much she could do, the saintess left the room not long afterward.

A short while later, James slowly opened his eyes as he finally regained consciousness. He took some time to observe his surroundings and get out of bed.

‘Back then, Wyndael used his aura and some sort of Supernatural Power to activate the powers of the outside territory. Then, he managed to create a rift in the Chaos.

‘Teresa, or more specifically one of her clones, Xezal, tried to bring me across the rift. However, the Ancestral Blood Master caught up to us at that moment.

‘That man used every means he had to try and stop us from leaving the Chaos. During his final attempt, the Ancestral Blood Master even unleashed deadly attacks to kill me.

Fortunately, I had Teresa's help as she took the brunt of his attacks. Still, I remember getting hit and losing consciousness ever since.' James recalled.

James tried to check how much time had passed and realized that he had been unconscious for three epochs.

"Have I arrived at the outside territory? What is this place?" James had a confused look in his eyes.

He walked over to the door and opened it. Then, he spotted two guards standing by the door.

Before he could say anything, the guards unsheathed their swords and stood in his path.

"You're not allowed to leave the room without the Saintess' permission," one of the guards said.

James was not intimidated by the guards' stern, menacing looks at all. Even though he could not use his powers at the moment, James could sense that the guards were at the Five-Power Macrocosm Ancestral God rank. However, James was confident that he could take both men down with just his physical strength.

Despite that, James decided not to use violence against these men.

'I'm not sure where I am and who's this saintess they're talking about. It's better if I don't act rashly before I get a better understanding of what happened before I woke up.' James pondered.

"Who is this saintess you both are mentioning? Can I see her?" James asked.

"You should wait in your room. I'll pass on the message to Her Holiness."

Upon hearing the guard's instructions, James went back inside and sat down on a chair.

Ten minutes later, a beautiful lady in a white, flowy dress entered the room. James could sense an ethereal aura about the lady.

"You're finally awake?"

Although James had never heard of the language the lady was speaking, he could understand it nonetheless. At his level of cultivation, he could understand any language fairly easily.

‘What is this place? Why am I here?’

The saintess took a seat opposite him. She said in a gentle voice, ‘We found you in the Endlos Void. We weren’t sure how long you had been out there and drifting in an unconscious state, but you were severely injured. I decided to bring you back to our universe, and that was about an epoch ago.’

‘I left the Chaos about three epochs ago...’ James thought.

“So, you were the one who saved me.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4533-James rose to his feet and bowed slightly. He thanked the lady sincerely. “I am so grateful for your help.”

The saintess smiled softly. “It was nothing. Your body regenerated at an astonishing pace. Even if I hadn’t taken you back to our universe, you would have recovered fully and regained consciousness with enough time.”

James sat down again. He asked, “May I ask what is this place? What universe are we currently in?”

James had no knowledge or information about the outer bounds, so he was trying to gather as much information as possible.

The saintess let out a deep sigh.

James frowned slightly and asked, “What’s the matter?”

The lady replied, “We’re currently in a small and forgettable universe. It doesn’t remain in a fixed location and has been traveling across the Endlos Void for quite some time.”

James pondered, ‘Could it be that the Endlos Void has similarities to the Chaotic Void?’*

James simply kept the questions he had to himself. Since he had safely regained consciousness, he could learn more about the outside territory as he attempted to recover his powers after this.

Furthermore, James had come to realize that there was something special about the lady before him. He could not seem to sense or determine the lady's cultivation rank.

'There are two possible explanations for this. Firstly, she might be a peerless powerhouse. Secondly, she may have learned a Supernatural Power that can conceal one's cultivation base or rank. Both of these cases would make it impossible for me to discern her strength and powers.' James thought.

"When you were unconscious, I examined your body and found traces of a powerful restriction in your body that had sealed your powers. I tried to undo or reverse it. Regrettably, I couldn't remove it with my level of knowledge and cultivation base."

'That restriction in your body has an incredibly strong, vicious effect. It seems like the work of an extremely outstanding, top-level powerhouse. We don't have that many cultivators with such skill levels in the Endlos. Who was the cultivator that had cast such a horrible restriction on you?" The saintess asked curiously.

Upon hearing her words, James gained a rough idea about the situation in Endlos.

'The restriction in my body was set by the Ancestral Blood Master. According to this lady, a person who could create a seal of this level was considered a top-level powerhouse. If they considered someone like the Ancestral Blood Master a force to be reckoned with in their realm, that would mean he wouldn't be as dangerous in the Endlos as compared to back in the Chaos. She's also said that there aren't that many cultivators of this level in the Endlos.' James concluded inwardly.

James did not answer the saintess' question. Instead, he smiled and said, "May I ask for your name?"

The lady replied, "My name is Saachi Jurroe."

'That's a beautiful name," James said as he smiled.

Saachi could not help but be taken aback at James' calm response.

'Almost every living being in the Endlos' Nine Districts knows my name. I always receive various types of reactions whenever I mention my name to those I'm meeting for the first time. However, this man remained completely cool and composed.

'Has he never heard of me before? Or is he an unrivaled powerhouse who does not feel intimidated by me?' Saachi wondered.

Saachi's smile did not waver as she asked, "What's your name, Sir?"

"I'm James Caden," James replied.

Saachi got up from her seat. "You can rest more, Mr. Caden. I'll get going now since I have some matters to take care of."

James stood up as well. "Is it alright if I take a look around the universe, Ms. Saachi?"

"Of course." Saachi continued, "You're not our prisoner. You can look around the universe at your own leisure."

James was very glad to hear that.

'With the permission to roam freely, I can quickly obtain information about the outside territory and the Endlos.' James thought.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4534-After Saachi left the room, James headed out as well. He noticed the men that were guarding his door earlier were gone by then.

Even though he couldn't use his Path Powers, James could still move around at an incredible speed because of his exceptional physical condition.

In just a few seconds, James had descended the spiritual mountain he was on.

Meanwhile, Saachi had entered the main hall located on a nearby spiritual mountain. The man in a white robe got down on one knee and greeted, "Ms. Saachi, have you talked to the man? Did he share any information about his background?"

Leif Weimdell, the man kneeling before the saintess, was her loyal subordinate. The man was a great powerhouse.

Saachi shook her head. "He didn't say much, and I decided not to press him for answers."

Leif's brows drew together. "Isn't it dangerous to let that man roam around freely when we don't know anything about him?"

Saachi replied, "I didn't sense any malicious or threatening intent from him during our conversation. I don't think he is someone who bears ill intentions toward us. Just leave him be."

"Understood," Leif responded. Then, he excused himself.

On the other hand, James had arrived at a nearby city. After leaving the saintess' spiritual mountains, James began to spot the traces of rifts in his surroundings. He could see multiple holes and openings on the ground and even in the skies.

'From the looks of things, a massive war or battle of an unimaginable scale must have happened here quite some time ago and left these rifts.

'The city still appears quite run down. Even though they've rebuilt some of their buildings, I can still see some fissures that are beyond repair scattered around the city.' James thought.

As he walked down the bustling street, James could see numerous beings that took human forms. However, he did not bother to investigate what their true forms were. Soon afterward, James spotted a bookstore located in a quiet neighborhood. Upon entering the store, a gorgeous lady came up to James and beamed warmly at him.

"Hello, Sir. Is there anything I can help you with?"

James replied flatly, “Do you have any books about the Endlos?”

James had learned so far that the people in the outside territory called this place the Endlos.

“Of course. Follow me.” The lady smiled charmingly.

The lady showed James to a nearby shelf. After scanning the various titles displayed on the bookshelf for a moment, the lady took out a rather thick book. Then, she passed the book to James and explained, “This is a book that contains a lot of information about the Endlos. It has descriptions of the Endlos’ Nine Districts and stories about some of the most famous powerhouses to exist here. An elderly cultivator with many years of knowledge and experience wrote the book. Its price is quite reasonable too...”

With the book in his hands, James vanished before the lady’s eyes before she could finish her sentence.

“Huh?!” The lady dropped her jaw in astonishment.

James reappeared in a completely deserted area, standing on a thick branch of a tall tree. He sat down on the branch and started reading the book.

James learned various things about the Endlos as he flipped through the pages of the book.

The Endlos was a boundless place with no end in sight. According to the records, no one had managed to reach or find the boundaries of the Endlos to date. Apart from that, nine districts had been established in the Endlos Void so far, and each of these districts was made up of numerous universes.

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4535

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4535-Each of the Endlos’ Nine Districts encompassed a shockingly vast area as tens of thousands of universes could be found in these districts. In addition, each district had its own Heavenly Path, called the District Heavenly Path. The universes located within the region of a certain district must obey the respective laws of their district’s Heavenly Path.

‘That’s pretty similar to how it is back in the Chaos.’ James thought.

Then, James came across an interesting piece of information in the final part of the book.

“The missing district.”

“Rumor has it that there were actually ten districts in the Endlos a long long time ago. However, due to some unknown reasons, one of the districts, the Chaos District, had concealed itself and disappeared from the Endlos. Until today, no one has been able to find or locate the Chaos District.”

Once he had finished reading the book, James learned quite a lot about the origins and history of the Endlos. However, he did not expect to discover that the Chaos was actually one of the ten districts existing in the Endlos. Furthermore, the powerhouses from the Endlos had yet to locate the Chaos.

“What could have happened back then to have made the Chaos District decide to hide themselves? Also, who was it that had hidden the Chaos District from those in the Endlos?” James muttered to himself.

Questions grew in his mind after he read about the Endlos. However, he was confident that he would be able to find more answers soon as he worked on recovering his powers. The book also included the latest information about the number of forces and various famous cultivators across the Endlos’ Nine Districts.

All in all, the cultivation system of the Endlos’ Nine Districts was similar to that of the Chaos’. However, the Chaos Rank existed exclusively in the Chaos District, and powerhouses in the Chaos Rank were deemed the strongest and most powerful cultivators in all of Endlos.

As for the other districts in the Endlos, those who managed to achieve the Caelum Acme Rank would already be considered superior cultivators.

James felt more relieved upon confirming those facts since that meant he would be relatively safe in the Endlos.

‘During the Sky Burial, those who were sent into the Chaos must have been the top cultivators from the Endlos. The cultivators on our side were probably defeated if they were forced to go up against countless cultivators from the Endlos.

‘Now that I roughly know about the Endlos, the first thing that I have to do is to remove the seal cast over my body as soon as possible. Then, I can investigate the truth behind the disappearance of the Chaos District and find out why the other nine districts tried to attack them.

‘At the same time, I need to improve my cultivation base and rank. I’m sure I’ll be able to return to the Chaos once I get stronger.’ James mused.

James tightened his grip on the book and crushed it in his hands. Then, he jumped off the branch and landed on the ground.

As he lifted his gaze, James noticed a young man standing a few steps away from him. The man was staring straight at James.

James spoke flatly, “Who are you? Why are you standing in my way?”

The man replied, “I’m Leif WeimdelL Would you spare me some of your time so we could have a chat?”

After a brief pause, James gave a slight nod.

Soon afterward, Leif took James to a restaurant in a nearby city. The two of them got a table at the top floor of the restaurant.

Leif had a sip of his drink. Then, he said, “You possess a remarkable and powerful body. What’s more, even the saintess has never seen anything like that strange seal on your body. That seal must be the work of one of the top powerhouses in the Endlos. Where exactly are you from, Sir?”

James met the man’s gaze and asked instead, “We are currently in the Endlos Void outside the territories of the nine districts where Paths don’t exist. Moreover, it looks like this universe withstood massive destruction. Who are you people? Why are you guys running and hiding like fugitives?”
