The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4561-Waleria felt deceived after seeing James' triumphant smile.

However, it was not the time to be glooming over the loss. If James could really get her out of trouble, she would find a way to collect a hundred Acmean Herbs if he asked, let alone fifty.

Xylon had already arrived outside the spiritual mountain, and his subordinates had surrounded them.

"Surrender, Waleria!"

Xylon appeared and said coldly, "You managed to trick me last time, but I won't let you get away today."

James smiled brightly and said, "I didn't expect to meet again so soon, Sir."

"Bastard." Xylon's face darkened. James was the reason he was punished.

"Catpure Waleria, and kill this guy," Xylon issued an order.

James grabbed Waleria's hand and activated the Blithe Omniscience.

Without any warning, the two disappeared into thin air.

Xylon stood dumbfounded.

A man and woman appeared in the Endlos Void.

James walked over to Waleria and said with a smile, "Remember, you promised me fifty Acmean Herbs."

"The Blithe Omniscience?" Waleria looked at James in shock and asked, "Did you just use the signature skill of Yardos Xagorari, the Blithe Omniscience?"

As one of the strongest members of the Theos Sect, Waleria knew about Yardos and his famous Blithe Omniscience.

James lightly shook his head and said, "No. I've no idea what's the Blithe Omniscience. I simply used my sect's Secret Art, the Blithe Wind."

He began to lie through his teeth.

Waleria did not really care what kind of Supernatural Power he had cast. Most importantly, she would be able to survive until she fully recovered with James around.

“Impressive. I wasn’t expecting that.”

Waleria gave him a thumbs up and praised him, saying, “Your cultivation rank is lacking, but your ability to escape is exceptional. Now, get us out of here. The farther, the better.”

“Sure thing.” James grabbed Waleria’s hand again, and the two disappeared from the area.

He cast the Blithe Omniscience and traveled through the Endlos Void.

The two traveled for a long time, not knowing where they were headed.

Suddenly, a universe entered their sight.

Even from afar, James knew the universe was potent as its Chaos Heavenly Path was very strong.

“You’ve amazed me once again. In just a few days, you’ve traveled a distance that ordinary Caelum Acmeans would need a few years to reach.”

After sensing the universe, Waleria complimented James again. She found his Secret Art to be impressive.

Nobody could catch up to him if he used it to escape unless they had already locked onto his aura in advance.

Otherwise, even Caelum Acmeans would lose track of him.

Waleria was sure James was using Yardos’ Blithe Omniscience. She rolled her eyes pensively and tried to figure out the relationship between James and Yardos.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4562-Waleria looked at James suspiciously and asked, "What's your relationship with Yardos?"

James replied, "Who's Yardos?"

Since James refused to answer, Waleria did not press him about it.

James was also curious about Yardos' situation. Before visiting him, James needed to have a thorough understanding of his circumstances first.

"What's the origin of Yardos?"

Waleria was puzzled by James' question. She asked, "Do you really not know him?"

James shook his head in response.

Waleria explained, "Yardos is a powerhouse in the Welkin District. Long ago, he challenged the Welkin District's Leader, who is ranked third in the Endlos' Nine Districts.

Although he was defeated, he is incredibly powerful. His strength isn't enough to be ranked top ten in the Nine Districts, but his escaping ability is definitely the best."

James inquired, "Do you know the details about him?"

Waleria shook her head and said, "I don't know the entire story. I've never seen Yardos before. I only know he lives in seclusion on Mount Blithe in the Welkin District. It seems he had made a bet with the Welkin District's Leader before their past battle. He probably agreed never to leave Mount Blithe if he lost. To leave, he must defeat the Welkin District's Leader. Unfortunately, the Welkin District's Leader has already entered the Chaos Rank. It's extremely difficult to beat him.

"Why did they make a bet?" asked James.

"How would I know?"

Waleria put a stop to the topic. She pointed to the universe ahead and said, "Let's stay in that universe for a while."

Since Waleria stopped talking about it, James did not inquire any further.

The two entered the universe and appeared in a starry space.

Then, Waleria said, "This universe is called the Spellmourn Universe. It's a relatively powerful universe in the Welkin District's outer region. A Caelum Acmean rules over this universe, and there is more than one Caelum Acmean here."

James had no interest in the Caelum Acmeans. His main priority was Empyrean herbs.

"You promised to give me Acmean Herbs. How many can you give me now?"

James desperately wanted to improve his bloodline power. He would be unable to improve his cultivation rank if he did not break the seal inside his body.

The seal was causing him a lot of trouble.

Waleria fell into thought. She promised to give James fifty Acmean Herbs but did not have that many on hand.

"How about we make a deal?" Waleria suggested.

"What deal?" James looked at her cautiously and did not immediately agree to her suggestion.

"I can tell your physical strength is exceptional. You must've cultivated the Omniscience Path passed down by Yardos. There's a Secret Art in my sect that will greatly benefit you in cultivating the Omniscience Path."

The Omniscience Path did not originate from the Endlos' Nine District. Thus, Waleria knew James had to have inherited Yardos' Omniscience Path.

After Yardos arrived in the Endlos' Nine Districts, he went into hiding to recuperate. Sometime later, he established the Freedom Sect and passed down the Omniscience Path.

Yardos did not keep the Omniscience Path to himself and generously taught it to other humans. He also allowed different races to cultivate it, but they would have a harder time than humans.

James asked hesitantly, “What kind of Secret Art is it?”

Waleria said smilingly, “It’s called the Nine Essence. It’s a Forbidden Art of the Theos Sect. Only a few core members are allowed to cultivate it. You’d benefit greatly from it.”

“I don’t want it. I want the Acmean Herbs instead.”

James did not trust Waleria.

Waleria reprimanded him, ‘You’re so stubborn. Do you even know what the Nine Essence is or how powerful it is? It’s the prerequisite for cultivating our sect’s Forbidden Art. If you join our sect, you’ll be qualified to practice our legendary Forbidden Art, the Theos Light. It’s a Forbidden Art created by the Theos District’s Leader!’

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4563-“Hmm...” James contemplated.

James had only a general understanding of the Theos District’s Leader, including him being ranked second in the Endlos’ Nine Districts and being a formidable powerhouse at the Chaos Rank.

A Secret Art created by someone like him must be extraordinary.

After considering it, James replied smilingly, “But I’ll also need some Empyrean herbs. Instead of fifty Acmean Herbs, I’ll accept about twenty or thirty and the Nine Essence.

Waleria replied troubledly, “I don’t have that many. I only have three on hand right now. Either I teach you the Nine Essence and pass you the three Acmean Herbs or give you what I have now and slowly pay you the rest.”

James stretched his hand and said, “Then I’ll go with the former. Hand them to me.”

A dazzling lotus, a blue plant, and a white fruit manifested before Waleria.

James felt the Acmean Power inside the three items and accepted them contently. Then, he asked with a smile, "What about the Nine Essence?"

"Let's find a place to stay first."

Waleria rolled her eyes at James, then walked ahead of him. With one step forward, countless galaxies appeared.

James followed behind her.

Waleria landed on a spiritual mountain that was not inhabited and casually set up a formation around it. Then, she erased the traces they had left behind along the way.

Then, she used her powerful Path Power to form a manor atop the spiritual mountain.

She sat lazily in one of the manor's living rooms and crossed her legs, exposing her long slender legs.

James sat beside her. He wanted to enter seclusion to cultivate immediately but had yet to receive the Nine Essence from Waleria. He stretched out his hand and said, "Hand me the Nine Essence."

Waleria casually waved her hand. A book appeared before her and floated toward James.

James stretched out and accepted it.

"If you practice the Nine Essence, you'll officially become a disciple of our sect." Waleria waved her hand again, and a token flew toward James. She said lightly, "This is my token."

"From now onward, you're my disciple."

James rolled his eyes and said, "I never said I wanted you as my teacher. You're not even qualified."

Waleria jumped up from her seat and retorted to him, "What did you just say, bastard? I'm not qualified to be your teacher?"

James replied earnestly, "Yeah."

Waleria's chest heaved up and down with anger. She was one of the strongest in the Theos Sect. Including the District Leader, there were only a handful of people in the sect who were capable of defeating her.

After successfully casting the Revitalizing Art, she entered a vulnerable period. However, her strength would recover soon, and she would be able to enter the Chaos Rank. She would become one of the best in the Endlos' Nine Districts.

Yet, James said she was not qualified to be his teacher.

Waleria took a deep breath, forcing herself to calm down.

"I'm going to cultivate."

After speaking, she disappeared.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4564-James only had a rough understanding of the powerhouses in the Endlos' Nine Districts. Thus, he was not very familiar with Waleria.

Moreover, he was not really interested in the Nine Essence.

James had learned various Supernatural Powers but was still very half-baked in them.

He had yet to look through the Aeternus Mantra, which Saachi had gifted him. But now he had obtained another Secret Art, the Nine Essence.

James casually put away the Nine Essence and murmured," Three Acmean Herbs should be enough to enhance my bloodline power to the Permanence Acme Rank."

His new bloodline power was at the Quasi Acme Rank. He would need a lot of energy to enter the Permanence Acme Rank.

After stepping into the Permanence Acme Rank, entering the Terra Acme Rank demanded a more significant amount of energy, which required more than just one or two Acmean Herbs.

James put his thoughts aside. Then, he began to absorb the herbs and refine their energy into pure bloodline power.

His bloodline power grew stronger. Unknowingly, he had completely refined the three Acmean Herbs. Ultimately, his bloodline power had reached the Permanence Acme Rank.

Although James' bloodline power had reached the Permanence Acme Rank, he had a long way to go before breaking the seal in his body. He would need his bloodline power to be at least the late stage of the Caelum Acme Rank.

James' dispersed the time formation around him. He sensed the surroundings and found only eight years had passed.

Then, he glanced toward Waleria's seclusion building and muttered, "I wonder when she'll be out of seclusion."

Since James ran out of Empyrean herbs, he had nothing much to do.

He prepared to improve his comprehension of the various Supernatural Powers he had.

James had learned many Supernatural Powers, including the Chaos Sacred Art, Primal Mantra, Blood Mantra, the Omniscience Path, and the Flame Art's Three Fire Transformations. All of these Supernatural Powers were the best in the Chaos District.

However, he only had a preliminary understanding of them.

"Which should I practice first?" James contemplated.

His Supernatural Powers were terrifyingly strong but difficult to cultivate. It would take him a very long time to perfect.

James had cultivated the Chaos Sacred Art to the Third Tone.

Meanwhile, his comprehension of the Primal Mantra, Blood Mantra, and Omniscience Path needed to be improved.

After a brief thought, James decided to continue practicing the Chaos Sacred Art because it had explosive strength, an aspect that the other Supernatural Powers lacked.

James set up a time formation and summoned the Chaos Boulder. He sat in a lotus position on top of it, then took out the Chaos Sacred Art's manual.

The book floated before him, and mysterious inscriptions emerged when he flipped it open.

The inscriptions contained the potent Chaos Power.

James poured his heart into studying. Gradually, he entered a mysterious state.

Suddenly, a figure appeared in his mind. The figure floated in the Chaos Void with mysterious musical notes revolving around it.

The musical notes produced some strange sounds.

James tried to memorize them, but they were very mysterious, and he immediately forgot them after hearing them once.

Despite that, he was not discouraged, nor was he impatient.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4565-James focused on deciphering the Chaos Sacred Art's inscriptions and memorizing the mysterious Nine Voices of Chaos to gain a deeper understanding of Chaos Power.

He began from the Fourth Tone and moved on until he finally reached the Ninth Tone.

Sitting on the Chaos Boulder boosted his ability to comprehend the Chaos Sacred Art.

James had already cultivated the first three Tones, so he focused on the Fourth to Ninth Tone.

Unfortunately, comprehending the Nine Tones was only the beginning of mastering the Chaos Sacred Art.

Teresa's clone, Xezal Dalibor, had mentioned to him before that the Chaos' Nine Voices could be arranged into different combinations to form various powers.

Combining the Nine Tones would produce the most terrifying strength.

In the past, the Chaos Master fused the Nine Tones to severely injure a powerhouse from the outer bounds.

James had already learned that the person injured by the Chaos Master was Yhala Samaris. Moreover, he even ended up killing her.

“Huff!” After comprehending the Chaos’ Nine Voices, James took a deep breath and halted his cultivation.

He dispersed the time formation and discovered three million years had passed.

“Three million years? It’s been so long already.”

James stood up and looked in the direction where Waleria was cultivating. Then, he murmured, “It’s already been three million years. I wonder how’s her cultivation going? Has she already recovered her strength?”

He walked to the place where Waleria was in seclusion.

As soon as he ascended the mountain, a powerful force blocked his way. James wanted to forcefully walk through it, but the pressure was too much to handle, and he could not even take a step forward.

Swoosh!!!

A purple light appeared in front of him and materialized into a woman wearing a purple dress.

The woman was 180 centimeters and had a graceful aura. She had delicate facial features and looked incredibly gorgeous.

She had a very powerful aura emitting from her body.

Even James was shocked by her aura.

“Have you already regained your strength?” asked James.

Waleria shook her head and said, “I haven’t recovered to my prime yet. However, I can't wait any longer. If I waste more time, the Daemonium Sect's Leader will recover. I have to open the Yhala Realm before him."

"You haven't recovered to your prime?" James was flabbergasted.

Waleria's aura was already potent and would be even more terrifying if she reached her prime.

James had a clearer picture of Waleria's strength.

He took a deep breath and changed the subject, asking, "You're incredibly strong and shouldn't be weaker than Yhala, right? What's inside the Yhala Realm that is worth risking your life?"

Waleria looked at James and explained, "Long ago, the powerhouses of the Endlos' Nine Districts sensed the Chaos District and gathered to infiltrate it. However, there were also powerful beings inside the Chaos District. Yhala projected a clone of herself into the Chaos District.

However, her clone was defeated. What's worse was that a powerhouse in the Chaos District managed to kill her even though they were in two different districts."

"Yhala was killed but was contaminated with the power of the powerhouse from the Chaos District. My Sect Leader is afraid of the power and specifically tasked me to open the Yhala Realm to retrieve her corpse to investigate the power. By doing so, we could be prepared to face the powerhouses from the Chaos District when it appears again."

Hearing this, James felt a shiver down his spine.

He felt relieved he asked the question. Otherwise, he would become the common target of the Endlos' Nine Districts' powerhouses if he cast the Chaos' Nine Voices.

At the same time, James' admiration for the Chaos Master grew stronger. The Chaos Master had to be a terrifying powerhouse to be able to kill Yhala while in a different district.

Curious, James asked, “What’s inside the Chaos District? Why do powerhouses from the Nine Districts desperately want to enter and occupy the Chaos District?”
