The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4566—James came to the outer bounds to find out why the Endlos' Nine Districts wanted to invade and take over the Chaos District.

Waleria replied nonchalantly, "To unify the Nine Districts and become the Endlos Lord. Countless years ago, the Endlos had ten districts. The Endlos Lord back then was the Chaos District's Leader. He was the first living being to enter the Chaos Rank. When he did, the Chaos Rank had not even been named yet. After he reached the new rank, it was named the Chaos Rank.

"After becoming the first to enter the Chaos Rank, he reigned over the Endlos' Ten Districts. However, new talents rose and severely injured him. Afterward, he went into hiding with the entire Chaos District.

"To become the Endlos Lord and rule over the Ten District, one must be acknowledged by the Endlos Heavenly Path. And to do so, one will need to obtain the Endlos Heart. However, it was taken to the Chaos District."

Waleria shared some secrets with James.

James finally understood why the powerhouses of the Endlos' Nine Districts were so fixated on invading the Chaos District. Their goal was to obtain the Endlos Heart, gain the approval of the Endlos Heavenly Path and become the Endlos Lord.

Puzzled, James pondered, 'The Chaos Districts' Leader? Is there a Chaos District Leader? Why haven't I heard of him before? Is he hiding, or is he dead?'¹

James asked, "Is the Chaos Districts' Leader still alive?"

Waleria shook her head and replied, "I'm not sure. The person who injured the Chaos District's Leader was Hazeaf District's Leader, also the number one powerhouse of the Endlos' Nine Districts. It's likely the Chaos District's Leader is dead. If he didn't die, he must've recovered from his injuries and would've led an army of powerhouses back to the Nine Districts for revenge long ago."

"I see," James muttered.

He had a clearer picture of the past events.

What he had to do now was to cultivate hard and improve as much as possible.

Curious, James asked, "By the way, which powerhouses are interested in becoming the Endlos Lord?"

Waleria replied, "Probably everyone. Almost every District Leader has some kind of interest in the position."

James frowned.

If everyone wanted to become the Endlos Lord, the Chaos District's enemy would be all Nine Districts.

Now James had one more mystery to unravel.

He had learned that he was from the outer bounds. A trace of life force entered the Chaos District and reincarnated into him.

He wanted to find out who he was in the past.

James was curious and wanted to know the answer. His only choice would be to ask the other powerhouses that participated in the battle.

He risked exposing his identity if he were to continue asking more questions.

James thought to himself, 'Yardos had been in the outer bounds for a very long time, so he must know about the whole truth. I'll need to find an opportunity to ask him about it.'

He turned to Waleria and asked smilingly, "Are there any treasures in the Yhala Realm?"

Waleria looked at him and said, "Probably. After all, Yhala was a peerless powerhouse. She was so close to entering the Chaos Rank. I'm sure she left behind many treasures and even Acmean Herbs in the Yhala Realm."

James' eyes immediately lit up.

'Then what are you waiting for? Let's go open the Yhala Realm this instant!'

James was excited as he needed Empyrean herbs.

Waleria replied, 'Then come with me to the Daemonium Sect first.'

Started, James asked, "What does opening the Yhala Relam have to do with the Daemonium Sect?"

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4567-Waleria explained, "Back when my sect was collecting runes to open the Yhala Realm, the Daemonium Sect swooped in and snatched one from us. I came to the Theos District's outer region searching for the rune. To my surprise, the Daemonium Sect's Leader had improved significantly. We fought, and both were injured during the battle. I must quickly invade the Daemonium Sect and acquire the rune before he recovers. I can only open the Yhala Realm after obtaining the final rune from the Daemonium Sect."

James hesitated after learning they had to infiltrate the Daemonium Sect.

The Daemonium Sect had countless powerful members and was as powerful as the Theos Sect. Even Saachi wanted to join the Daemonium Sect.

Waleria looked at him and asked, "What's wrong? You scared?"

James nodded and said honestly, "Of course. It's the Daemonium Sect we're talking about. You were injured and on the brink of death because of him. Although he hasn't fully recovered, he is still a formidable opponent. If I were to come with you, he'd easily obliterate me."

Waleria's face darkened. "Do you not have any faith in me?"

James nodded and said, "Not really. What if the Daemonium Sect's Leader has already recovered? You're not back at your prime yet, so aren't we just going to be walking into our graves?"

Waleria pouted and said, "You're underestimating me. I was injured, but so was he. I'm sure he hasn't recovered yet. It's up to you whether you want to come or not. I can go alone if you don't want to."

James hesitated. There was no need for him to take any risks.

He could just go around searching for Empyrean herbs. With his strength, it would be easy to collect some herbs.

“Why do you want me to come?” James stared at Waleria.

Waleria had an ethereal beauty, but he found her unreliable for some reason.

“Because you’ve cultivated the Blithe Omniscience.”

She smiled and said, “Even if I can’t fight the Daemonium Sect’s Leader and fail to acquire the rune, I can easily escape if you’re there with me.”

In terms of strength, Waleria was far superior to James by a large margin. However, her escaping skills were not comparable to James.

James thought about it and realized Waleria was simply trying to use him to escape if she was at a disadvantage against the Daemonium Sect’s Leader. It was the perfect opportunity to gain some benefits from her.

He asked smilingly, “It’s going to be very risky for me. What’s in it for me?”

“After I open the Yhala Realm, you can have everything inside it.”

“No way,” James immediately refused and said, “Whether you can open it or not is still uncertain. If I were to die, I wouldn’t even get to see the treasures.”

Waleria thought for a while and suggested, “How about I unlock the seal in your body after I enter the Chaos Rank?”

James looked at her doubtfully and asked, “You want me to wait till you enter the Chaos Rank? Will I be able to see you enter the Chaos Rank before my death?”

“What kind of nonsense are you spouting?”

Waleria swung her hand at James’ head.

James quickly disappeared.

However, Waleria had already locked onto James’ aura.

As soon as James appeared in the distance, she chased after him. Ultimately, she still managed to smack him.

She smiled and said, “I know you’ve cultivated the Blithe Omniscience, so I’ve been prepared.”

James felt slightly dizzy after being hit. Fortunately, Waleria restrained her strength. His head would have exploded if she had used her full power.

Waleria said solemnly, "Before I was injured, I had already reached the peak of the Caelum Acme Rank and was close to reaching the Chaos Rank. My Revitalizing Art allowed me to break through the barrier blocking me from entering the Chaos Rank. If I regain my strength, I'll surpass the Caelum Acme Rank and enter the Chaos Rank."

"Really?"

"Of course."

"How long will that take?"

After a brief thought, Waleria replied, "It won't be long. Most probably a few tens of millions of years."

"Alright, deal." James agreed to her condition.

In about tens of million years, his bloodline power would not be able to break through the seal yet. He would get rid of a significant obstacle if Waleria helped remove the seal in his body.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4568-James immediately regretted agreeing to her condition. He felt like she was bluffing him.

He realized how impossible it was for her to enter the Chaos Rank in just tens of millions of years to enter the Chaos Rank.

Supposedly she could enter the Chaos Rank in such a short time, then she could easily set up a time formation to reach the Chaos Rank now. It would be much safer to invade the Daemonium Sect after entering the Chaos Rank. So why would she insist on taking a risk?

James felt deceived, but he had already agreed to accompany her. All he could do was try to negotiate more benefits.

“Actually, I don’t need you to remove the seal. How about you just give me some herbs after everything? Or could I come with you to the Theos Sect and harvest as many herbs as I’d like?”

James looked at Waleria.

The Theos Sect was the strongest in the Theos District and even considered one of the best in the Nine Districts. Thus, they definitely had a lot of herbs.

“Stop rambling. Let’s head out immediately.”

Waleria grabbed James’ hand and transported them out of the universe.

The two appeared in the Endlos’ Void.

Waleria let go of James’ hand.

James asked, “Where’s the Daemonium Sect? Also, are you sure the Daemonium Sect’s Leader hasn’t recovered from his injuries?”

However, Waleria ignored his questions. She scanned the Endlos’ Void and found a trace of aura. Then, she pointed in a direction and said, “It’s that way. Cast the Blithe Omniscience and move us in that direction.”

Although Waleria had already recovered some of her strength, the Blithe Omniscience was much more efficient in traveling through the Endlos Void than using her Path

Powers to tear through the void.

James corrected her, saying, “It’s not the Blithe Omniscience. It’s a Secret Art from my sect called the Blithe Wind.”

“Whatever, just get us over there.”

James was rendered speechless but followed her order. He reached out and grabbed Waleria’s hand.

Waleria was evidently uncomfortably stiff when he touched her, but she did not avoid him and allowed James to lead her through the Endlos Void.

James cast the Blithe Omniscience and continuously traveled through the Endlos Void.

Meanwhile, Waleria acted as the guide.

The two traveled through the Endlos Void for about half a month.

“Alright, we’re here,” said Waleria.

James stopped and scanned the surroundings.

They were within a gray void where nothing was in sight, not even a universe.

James looked at her and asked, “Are you sure?”

Waleria nodded and said, “When I fought with the Daemonium Sect’s Leader, Yvan Xorath, I planted a sigil in his body. I can sense that the sigil is in this area. Yvan is surely recuperating somewhere in this area. If I’m not wrong, the Daemonium Sect probably has a base here.”

“Then where is it?”

James carefully sensed the surrounding but found nothing.

Waleria explained, ‘The Daemonium Sect is evil. They usually recruit wicked beings despised by the majority of the Theos District. Throughout the years, they have been suppressed by our sect. Thus, they don’t dare to establish bases in major universes and only have bases in some unknown universes.’

After speaking, Waleria scanned her surroundings.

She could sense a weak signal from the sigil planted in Yvan’s body.

Thus, she was sure there was a universe hidden in the area.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4569-However, Waleria was still unsure how to enter the universe.

Her brows furrowed, and she murmured solemnly to herself, “As expected from the Daemonium Sect. They’ve been able to hide themselves well. Even I can’t sense the entrance to the universe. It’s not going to be easy to enter the universe where they are hiding.”

Upon noticing her troubled expression, James asked, "Can you find it or not? You're already strong enough and don't need my protection anymore. I think our deal should end here. From now onward, we should go our separate ways."

James wanted to abort the mission and cultivate on his own.

Waleria looked at James and said, "There's no need to rush. I have a plan already. We should retreat for now."

She grabbed James' hand and left the area.

Waleria found another prosperous universe in the Endlos Void. It was a universe that had Quasi Acmeans.

After arriving in the universe, Waleria gathered information from Theos Sect's intelligence networks.

Soon, she learned about how to join the Daemonium Sect.

"What are you planning? Aren't we supposed to invade the Daemonium Sect? What's the use of knowing how to join their sect?"

James was puzzled by her actions.

Waleria replied smilingly, "Of course, we're invading the Daemonium Sect. How will we snatch the rune if we can't enter the universe and find Yvan?"

She took out a rune, tossed it to James, and said, "Take this. It can hide and change your aura. You'll need to change your appearance and name. We'll disguise ourselves as other living beings and infiltrate the Daemonium Sect."

James put away the rune and changed his appearance.

"Then I'll use the name Forty-nine."

James used his previous pseudo-name.

Waleria frowned and asked, "What kind of name is that?"

She also changed her appearance and aura. Waleria no longer had a gorgeous and ethereal appearance. Instead, she emitted a strange aura and looked like a peerless demon.

“Instead of Forty-nine, use the name Herman Simpson. I’ll be Felicia Simpson.”

Waleria said, “Herman and Felicia are known as the Simpson couple and are quite famous in the Theos District. However, our sect has secretly captured and imprisoned them. We’ll disguise ourselves as them and join the Daemonium Sect.”

Waleria had already formulated a plan.

She brought James to a desolate spiritual mountain and briefed him about the Simpson couple.

To avoid being suspected by the Daemonium Sect’s powerhouses, she explained Herman’s Supernatural Power and taught him a Demonic Art to change the aura of his powers.

“You need me to have a corrupted aura?”

James changed his aura instantly, and black mist emitted from his body.

“Very good.” Waleria looked at James with a satisfied smile.

James smiled triumphantly and said, “I’ve cultivated the various Paths of heaven and earth. It’s easy for him to mobilize them. This is nothing to me.”

‘This is far from enough. You’ll also need to cultivate Herman’s Supernatural Power. It’s called the Palm of Destruction.’

Waleria explained, “The Palm of Destruction is a corrupted Supernatural Power. Instead of causing damage to one’s physical body, it destroys one’s bones. It’s almost a guaranteed death after being struck by the Palm of Destruction.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4570-Herman’s signature skill, the Palm of Destruction, was incredibly dreadful.

After the Theos Sect captured the Simpson couple, Waleria reviewed the Palm of Destruction’s manual. Thus, she was familiar with it.

Waleria taught the Palm of Destruction to James.

After learning the Palm of Destruction, James followed Waleria's instructions and changed his appearance to a burly -looking man.

Now that they were prepared, it was time to infiltrate the Daemonium Sect.

"How do we get in?" asked James.

Waleria said smilingly, "It's hard to join the Daemonium Sect. We'll need to be recommended by one of their members. However, my sect is the mortal enemy of the Daemonium Sect. So, I'm not acquainted with anyone from there, but luckily I've already investigated. In this universe, there is a senior member from the Daemonium Sect. We can look for him and ask him to put in a word for us."

James shrugged and said, "I'll just go along with whatever you plan. I've already promised to assist you. Just make sure I come out alive."

"Can you stop being so pessimistic?"

Waleria rolled her eyes.

"Also, please remember your current identity. You're Herman right now."

James immediately leaned over to Waleria and said teasingly, "You're Felicia too, remember? We're supposed to be a couple. How about we get used to being closer? If not, our cover will be blown."

After speaking, James wrapped his arm around Waleria's waist. He could smell a charming fragrance from her body as he closed the distance between them. Subconsciously, he tightened his grip around her.

Waleria immediately struck him with her powerful force, sending him flying into the distance.

James crashed into the ground.

He got up embarrassedly and patted the dust off his body. He walked over to Waleria and said calmly, "You can't be acting like this. If we were to enter the Daemonium Sect like this, we'll both end up dead. I don't want to go anymore. You're on your own."

James sat down on the ground, expressing his reluctance to join her mission.

Waleria said disdainfully, "You just need to help me get into the universe. You won't need to worry about the rest."

After speaking, she waved her hand. A powerful force emerged and dragged James away from the area.

The next moment, they entered a bustling city.

Waleria walked ahead of James in the city street.

"According to the information I've gathered, a senior member of the Theos District is in this city," said Waleria.

"Okay," James replied indifferently.

The two walked down the street and soon arrived at a luxurious mansion. Many fully-armed soldiers in black armor stood at the entrance. They had strong auras, preventing surrounding creatures from approaching.

Waleria and James approached the mansion.

"Stop right there!"

A few armed soldiers drew their swords and barricaded them.

"Out of the way!"

Waleria casually waved her hand, and a powerful force emerged from her palms.

The soldiers were immediately blasted away, and they fell to the ground.

"I need to see the minister," Waleria demanded.

She was wearing a black dress and had a few patterns that looked like tattoos on her face. Even James was unable to comprehend the meaning of the marks.

Waleria had also placed a few similar patterns on James' face, telling him it was what the Simpson couple looked like.
