

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4711

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4711-“Im not sure, but I do know that it was Teresa who had freed me.

However, my people are still trapped within the seal.

Teresa told me that the only way for me to save them was by traveling to the outer bounds and finding the sacred scrolls hidden in the nine districts.” Upon hearing his words, James fell into deep thought.

‘So, Wynton is here for the sacred scrolls.

‘More importantly, who exactly is Teresa and what’s her backstory? I’ve received her help several times now.

If it weren’t for her, I’d be dead by now.

‘At first, I thought she was doing all this to thwart the Mega Sky Burial and protect the Chaos.

However, that doesn’t seem to be the case.

Perhaps she’s trying to protect the Chaos Heavenly Path instead of the Chaos itself.

More specifically, she’s trying to save the Chaos District’s Leader who has fused with the Chaos Heavenly Path.’ James surmised inwardly.

“What about Henrik Declan and Wyot Dalibor?” James asked.

Wynton’s brows lifted.

“How’d you know they’re here too?” James replied, “I have my ways.” Wynton did not press him for an answer.

“We got separated as soon as we exited the Chaos.” “Were they sent here to look for the sacred scrolls as well?” Wynton shook his head.

“I have no idea why they were sent here.

They haven’t told me anything relating to the topic.

I forgot to ask them as well.” Wynton’s explanation somewhat confirmed James’ suspicions.

‘There’s definitely something more to Xezal Dalibor.

She’s probably hiding a huge, shocking secret.

Perhaps she is a descendant of the leader of the Chaos District.

Moreover, her purpose is probably to rescue her father or ancestor rather than to protect the Chaos.

Otherwise, she wouldn’t have had the ability to unlock the Chaos District.’ James pondered.

“By the way, I’ve heard rumors that you’re actually the reincarnation of an unrivalled powerhouse from the outside territory.

What’s that about?” Wynton looked at James curiously.

James massaged the center of his brows as he shook his head.

He could not confirm the validity of the claim.

Even until now, James could not recall any memories of a past life.

“Enough about that.” James said, “Regardless of what the truth may be, we’ll just have to focus on our current existence at the Tempris House.

As we train and better ourselves, we’ll be ready to face the truths of the Chaos District and the Sky Burials when they’re uncovered one day.” Wynton nodded in agreement.

James got to his feet.

“I’m going to see Waleria and Saachi now.” “I’ll come with you.” Wynton stood up.

Then, both of them made their way to the manor where Waleria and Saachi were staying.

When James and Wynton arrived at the manor, Saachi’s expression brightened visibly the minute she spotted the pair.

She went up to James and asked in a slightly shaky voice, “Is it true that you can restore my Dobro Eyes?” “Of course.” James flashed her wide grin.

“By the way, I’ve been away for an epoch.

How are things going at the Tempris House now?” Waleria jutted her chin out proudly upon hearing his question.

“I’ve got everything under control, of course.

We have managed to recruit a lot of new disciples.

Currently, we have more than a hundred thousand members at the Caelum Acme Rank.

There are millions of students in the Tempris House now!”

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4712

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4712-“You’ve done exceptionally.” James was very pleased to hear the news.

There was still a huge difference between them and the other houses in terms of the number of students.

However, they had managed to make such great strides in just one epoch.

James was confident that they could attract more students with time.

“However, the average performance of our students is currently below par.

That’s because we accepted anyone who expressed interest in joining Tempris House.

We haven’t set up any form of entrance exam to help us narrow down our selection,” Waleria explained.

James replied, “It’s alright.

We can work on that immediately.

Perhaps we can hold an event for student enrolment soon and offer up some treasures as prizes.

I bet we'll be able to attract some talented cultivators to join us." James was not overly concerned about the issue as he assumed that Waleria's renown was more than sufficient to attract potential talents to their house.

Moreover, they also had Wynton's prestige as well now.

'Wynton was already a Terra Acme Rank cultivator when we first met.

What's more, he even achieved and perfected the Boundless state each time he progressed into a new rank.

Even though he was trapped in a seal for a very long time, thankfully, that didn't affect his powers and cultivation base.

I could sense that Wynton has already reached the late stage of the Caelum Acme Rank.

He's probably about to enter the Boundless state soon.' "When will you progress into the Boundless state for the Caelum Acme Rank, Wynton?" James turned his gaze toward Wynton.

Wynton paused for a brief moment and answered, "I hadn't been able to train for quite some time since I was trapped in the seal until just recently.

The time I spent in the Boundless state for the Terra Acme Rank was relatively short.

So, I am planning to achieve that state for the Caelum Acme Rank as soon as possible and focus on perfecting my cultivation." "I've been working on my training and cultivation ever since I joined the Tempris House.

I should be able to achieve the Caelum Boundless Rank during my next closed-door meditation." "Great!" A big smile hung on James' face.

Then, he looked at Saachi.

"Come with me.

Let's start by getting your Dobro Eyes fixed first." James and Saachi headed to the empty backyard, where it was quiet and peaceful.

The two of them sat facing each other on the ground.

Saachi could barely suppress her excitement.

Ever since her Dobro Eyes were damaged, Saachi never imagined that it was possible to regain her powers once again.

She even made a terrible choice back then that she regretted to this day.

“Ts there anything you need me to do, James?” Saachi asked.

“No.

You just have to stay seated,” James explained as he stared straight into Saachi’s eyes.

Saachi felt his gaze bore into her.

The lady blushed in embarrassment and blinked a few times.

“Why are you blinking so much? I just spotted the inscriptions hidden deep in your eyes.

I can’t sense them if you keep blinking like that,” James grumbled.

“Oh.

PII stay still, then.” Saachi could feel her cheeks burning.

James focused his concentration and looked into Saachi’s eyes again.

Eventually, he managed to find the broken, incomplete parts in the inscriptions.

He lifted his palm and formed a ball of energy.

Slowly, the energy flowed into Saachi’s eyes and began repairing the inscriptions embedded in her eyes.

One by one, those incomplete inscriptions became whole again.

At the same time, a powerful and mysterious energy began to well up in Saachi’s eyes.

The two of them remained in the same position for several years.

Finally, James dropped his hand and got up.

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4713

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4713-Saachi could tell that the powers of her Dobro Eyes had been restored as she instantly sensed the inscriptions contained in her eyes.

The lady got to her feet and expressed her gratitude to James.

“I can’t thank you enough, James.

How could I repay you for all the things you’ve done for me?” James lightly waved his hand.

“It’s no big deal.

You don’t have to worry about it.

Besides, I also acquired the ability to wield the Dobro Eyes while I was researching them.

Anyhow, I have a lot of catching up to do to wield them as proficiently as you.” Despite his saying that, Saachi still wished to do something for James.

“Do you have a special someone, James?” Saachi blurted out before she could stop herself.

Then, she lowered her head shyly and avoided James’ gaze.

“I’m a married man.” James replied smilingly, “As I said, you should focus on your cultivation instead of concerning yourself with these affairs.

Once you’ve regained your powers and abilities, you’ll be able to return to the Aeternus District and avenge your father’s death.” “Mhm.” Saachi tried to keep a straight face as she gave a slight nod.

However, she could not help but feel slightly disappointed inside.

‘After helping Saachi to restore her Dobro Eyes, the next thing I need to work on is my training.

Also, I’ll try to fulfill Wael’s dreams of making the Tempris House a reputable institution again.

I won’t go so far as to make the Tempris House the greatest institution in the district.

It’ll be enough if I can help our students’ performance match those from other houses.’ James pondered.

Soon afterward, James and Saachi met up with the others at the Tempris House’s main hall.

They had gathered there to discuss the methods to boost student enrolment.

“What kind of items or treasures do you think we should offer as a prize to attract skilled and talented powerhouses?” James’ gaze drifted across the room.

Waleria felt his gaze lingering on her.

She shot him a sidelong glance.

“Stop looking at me.

I don’t have any more valuable items.” James let out an awkward chuckle.

Then, he produced a Path Fruit.

“T have an idea.

We’ll announce that we’re holding an event to recruit disciples soon.

The person who manages to achieve first place in our entrance exam will receive this Path Fruit as a reward.

Hm...

I think we need to add something else to make the prize more attractive.

What do you guys think?" Waleria's eyes widened at the sight of the Path Fruit.

The abundant powers contained within the fruit would significantly boost one's cultivation.

"Oh, I know!" James clasped the Path Fruit between his hands.

"We can offer a Path Fruit and the Verde Power's cultivation method as a prize to the person who gets first place in the entrance exam.

How does that sound?" Waleria grinned broadly at him.

"That's a brilliant idea! Why don't you pass the Path Fruit and the Verde Power's cultivation method to me instead? As the Head of the Tempris House, you must have a lot more important things to do.

I can handle these tasks for you instead." "You're right." James tossed the fruit in Waleria's direction without the slightest bit of hesitation.

"I'll pass the cultivation method to you at a later time..." Waleria had wolfed down the Path Fruit before James could finish his sentence.

In a flash, Waleria's entire body glowed with a soft light.

She could feel an immense amount of energy fill up her body.

"Why did you do that?!" James pointed at her and yelled furiously.

Waleria stuck her tongue out playfully.

"Let's put the student enrolment event on hold.

I need to go into seclusion and put the energies of the Path Fruit to good use." Then, Waleria teleported and vanished from the main hall.

James shouted after her, "How could the Grand Sect Elder of the Theos Sect blatantly steal something meant for the students of the Tempris House?!" Meanwhile, Wynton and Saachi were both looking at James with expectant gazes.

Wynton began, "If I can have one Path Fruit, I'll be able to enter the Caelum Boundless Rank in a million years." Saachi sighed.

"I don't have any herbs to help with my cultivation process..." After a brief pause, James conjured two Path Fruits and tossed them toward the pair.

"Those are the very last ones I have.

I don't have any more fruits to spare."

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4714

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4714-James did not receive that many Path Fruits, to begin with.

He had used up a few of them for his training and cultivation.

After losing one Path Fruit to Waleria and giving away another two just now, he only had one last Path Fruit left in his possession.

James looked at Wynton.

"The Boundless Rock is an excellent tool that helps accelerate one's cultivation speed.

I won't be going into seclusion anytime soon.

So, you should use it for your training." "Alright." Wynton nodded and walked out of the hall.

"I'll leave for the time being to conduct my closed-door meditation too, James." Saachi waved at James cheerfully as she followed Wynton out of the hall.

James was left all by himself eventually.

James had given away three Path Fruits that were worth a fortune to his friends without asking for anything in return.

However, he was not bothered by it since his friends truly needed the fruits.

Since he had some free time, James decided to visit the spiritual mountains belonging to the Tempris House.

Most of the spiritual mountains were uninhabited at the time he had first arrived at the Verde District.

As they managed to get more students to join the Tempris House over the years, the population of people on the mountains slowly grew.

“Is that the Head of the Tempris House?” “He was appointed as the Head of the Tempris House at such a young age.

That’s so impressive...” The students discussed amongst themselves as they spotted James appearing at different locations within the Tempris House grounds.

None of them dared to go up to James since the man’s background and identity were greatly shrouded in mystery.

On the other hand, James was considering the possibility of reclaiming the spiritual mountains that once belonged to the Tempris House from the other houses.

After having a look around the grounds, James dropped by Xenia’s spiritual mountain.

Since James had taken the position of the head of Tempris House, Xenia was soon promoted to an elder as well.

However, not many cultivators had shown interest in becoming Xenia’s disciple since she was still a fledgling and inexperienced in her cultivation.

Xenia had only taken in a small group of cultivators at the Ancestral God Rank as her disciples so far.

As such, Xenia’s place was not as lively and bustling as the other spiritual mountains.

“What brings you here today, Sir James?” Xenia was in the middle of a lecture when she spotted James entering the class.

She walked toward James as she sent away her students, “That’s all for today.

All of you are dismissed.” “Yes, Ms.

Xenia.” The students kept stealing glances at James as they headed out of the room.

James beamed warmly at Xenia.

“Long time no see, Elder Xenia.” “Stop making fun of me.” Xenia blushed pink in embarrassment.

She was aware that she and her students were the weakest amongst all the other groups belonging to the Tempris House.

James brought up the issue that he was curious about.

“I’m here to ask you about the total number of spiritual mountains the Tempris House owned previously.” “we had a lot in the beginning.” Xenia produced a scroll from a nearby shelf.

Then, she handed it to James.

“Sir Wael left this in my possession for the time being.

He wanted me to pass it to you when the time was right.” James unrolled the scroll and laid it out on a table.

It was a map of the entire Verde Academy.

On the map, the areas belonging to the different houses were labeled clearly.

Xenia explained, “The areas outside the red lines are the spiritual mountains that were once Tempris House grounds.

The current owners of those spiritual mountains are also labeled on the map.” James roughly scanned the map.

Then, he stored it securely.

“What should I do if I wish to retrieve those spiritual mountains?” Xenia replied, “That’s simple.

Firstly, you can try to ask their current owners directly to return their ownership of the spiritual mountains.

Secondly, you can issue a challenge.

You can regain ownership by defeating the respective mentor or elder residing at those spiritual mountains currently.” James furrowed his brows.

'The elders of the Verde Academy are mostly superior cultivators.

I might be able to beat the cultivators who are mentors.

However, it's an entirely different story when it comes to the elders.' James pondered.

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4715

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4715-After a moment's consideration, James said, "We'll put this on hold and wait until Waleria's done with her cultivation.

I'll ask Waleria to issue a challenge to the current owners of those spiritual mountains instead.

She's only slightly weaker than the heads of the other houses.

She should be able to help us reclaim those lands." James felt extremely confident about Waleria's abilities since she was on the cusp of entering the Chaos Rank.

Suddenly, James sensed the presence of a terrifying and immense power radiating from an unknown location in the Endlos.

James dared not move a muscle as the energy washed over him.

He had a strange feeling.

He worried he might be torn to shreds the next instant if he had moved carelessly.

Numerous skilled and superior powerhouses across the Endlos' Nine Districts detected the presence of that power as well.

"What the hell was that?" James muttered in a low voice.

He was rooted to the spot in shock.

"What's the matter, James?" Xenia asked curiously.

"That was some really impressive power..." James knitted his brows.

“Huh? Power? What power are you talking about?” Xenia grew more puzzled as she listened to his words.

Meanwhile, Lothar was sitting with his legs crossed at a secluded area in the Verde Academy.

His eyes flew open at that very moment.

“Who’s that?! This is the first time in ages that someone has finally managed to enter the Chaos Rank!” At the same time, Waleria opened her eyes in the midst of her closed-door meditation.

She was staring hard in the direction where that mysterious power was coming from.

“That’s an amazing amount of aura and energy.

Now that a new cultivator in the Chaos Rank has emerged, will this bring a massive change to the Endlos’ Nine Districts?” Waleria continued, “I wonder who that is? I thought I’d be the first person to break into the Chaos Rank in this era.

Who would have guessed there was someone else that’s beaten me to it.” As the pulse of that mysterious, powerful aura radiated across the Endlos’ Nine Districts, most of the top cultivators detected it almost instantaneously.

The common folk were completely unaffected as they were unable to sense that level of energy.

Those who did could not help but wonder who had succeeded in reaching the Chaos Rank.

Thankfully, the overwhelming presence of the aura only lasted for a few seconds.

It gradually dissipated afterward.

James felt as though a heavy weight was removed from his body and that he could finally breathe again.

He had no clue that the aura was generated from an entity that had entered the Chaos Rank.

James did not think too much of it as things seemed to return to normal again.

Xenia had been contemplating for a while.

Then, she began to speak, “James, we’ve had more and more students joining the Tempris House for the past epoch.

We should host some lectures by skilled and experienced cultivators soon.

Otherwise, these students might decide to leave the Tempris House eventually.

I was thinking of asking you to impart some of your wisdom to them.” “Hm...

About that...” James had a troubled look on his face.

‘what can I share with the students during the lecture, though? ‘I’d be able to share a thing or two with students at the Ancestral God Rank.

However, most of our new students are at the Caelum Acme Rank...

I think the only useful knowledge I can share with them is my knowledge of the Primal Mantra.’ James mulled over his decision.

After a short pause, James replied, “Alright.

In ten years’ time, I’ll give a lecture at the main spiritual mountain of the Tempris House.

All students of the Tempris House are welcome to attend my class.” “Great!” Xenia’s face broke into a smile.

“I’ll make the announcement right away!”

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4716

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4716-“Sir James is going to give a lecture to his students soon.” “The Head of the Tempris House is conducting a lecture on their main spiritual mountain in ten years’ time.” The news of James’ lecture session spread like wildfire among the students of the Tempris House.

It became the hottest topic almost instantaneously.

“To be honest, Sir James’ powers and cultivation rank aren’t that impressive.

I still don’t understand why the headmaster agreed to appoint him as the head of the Tempris House.” “You took the words out of my mouth.

In fact, I only decided to join the Tempris House because of Waleria Zavee, the Grand Sect Elder of the Theos Sect.” “T did it to meet her in person too! Yet, I haven’t gotten the chance to see her at all!” Soon enough, the members of the other houses also heard the news about James’ lecture.

Most cultivators either found it hilarious or they did not think much of it.

Since James had only reached the Permanence Acme Rank, the others thought that he hardly had any qualifications to hold a lecture for the students.

Despite the various reactions, James continued to prepare for the lecture.

In the blink of an eye, ten years had passed, and the day of the lecture had arrived.

They had chosen to hold the lecture at a small hall located on the main spiritual mountain of the Tempris House.

It was a place where previous heads of the Tempris House had often used to give lectures to the students.

Upon arriving at the dojo, James found that only around 10,000 students had shown up for the occasion.

He spotted Xenia walking toward him with an awkward expression on her face.

“It’s probably because you haven’t had that many achievements to show our students.

Even though they know you’ve defeated the elders from the other houses, the battles were adjusted to your level of strength and the elders held back their true strength.

Therefore, our students aren’t that enthusiastic about hearing you speak.” “It’s alright.” James waved his hand lightly.

Then, he teleported to the center of the hall where a podium was erected.

James sat down on the floor with his legs crossed and scanned the room.

In an instant, he could detect that the students there were mostly Macrocosm Ancestral God Rank cultivators.

Some of them had reached the Quasi Acme Rank whereas only over a hundred of them had entered the Acme Rank.

“Close the doors.

No more students are allowed to enter this place once I start my lecture,” James ordered.

Xenia carried out his orders and sealed off the entrance to the hall immediately.

An enigmatic smile flickered across James’ lips.

Then, he said loudly, “The group of you are lucky enough to join my lecture session today.

By the end of the day, I am sure all of you will be rewarded with valuable, new knowledge and achieve greater heights in your cultivation.

Those who aren’t here will surely regret having missed their chance to listen to my lecture today.” Some of the students burst out into laughter upon hearing James’ words.

“He’s got a pretty good sense of humor.” “Mihm.

He’s only achieved the Permanence Acme Rank.

Yet, he says the others will regret missing his lecture today.

Doesn’t he think too highly of himself?” Most of the students had attended the event merely out of curiosity.

They were not expecting to learn much from James.

He could hear the various remarks and comments around him, but he paid no mind to them.

James raised his palm and conjured an inscription.

Everyone in the room could instantly understand the inscription as it was created in the simplest, most primitive form.

However, something shocking happened the next instant.

The inscription swiftly evolved and began displaying powers at the Acme Rank.

The crowd fell silent as they fixed their gazes on the miraculous sight before them.