The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4781-Wyot thought collecting the nine sacred scrolls would be a piece of cake.

However, when he arrived in the Endlos' Nine Districts, he realized how terrifying of a place it was.

Therefore, he traveled to the Kapron District and became a disciple of the district leader.

The Kapron District ranked relatively high amongst the Endlos' Nine Districts, and their district leader was a peerless powerhouse at the Chaos Rank.

Wyot was deeply favored by the Kapron District's leader.

He was even bestowed with Mount Kapron and their sacred scroll.

After obtaining one of the sacred scrolls, Wyot began actively searching for the other district's scrolls.

Eventually, he set his sights on the weakest district, the Aeternus District.

He led several powerhouses to the Aeternus District in an attempt to forcibly seize their sacred scroll, the Aeternus Mantra.

However, he discovered the sacred scroll was already long lost.

Wyot waited for a long time, but the Aeternus District could not retrieve the Aeternus Mantra.

His patience had already worn out.

After leaving a warning, he left the hall.

Devin's smile gradually froze and was replaced with gloominess.

He clenched his fists tightly as anger filled his heart.

He sneered, "Just wait until I enter the Chaos Rank.

I'd like to see if you can keep up with your arrogance." Devin was furious, but Wyot had an extraordinary background.

Not only was he a disciple of the Kapron District's leader, but he was also Mount Kapron's Lord.

Therefore, Devin had no choice but to swallow his anger.

"Locate Saachi right away!" Devin's rumbling voice resounded throughout the mountains.

Then, he disappeared from the main hall.

Meanwhile, Wyot held a meeting on a different spiritual mountain.

He sat in the highest seat, and a few powerhouses from Mount Kapron stood below him.

An elder of Mount Kapron asked, "Why do you insist on obtaining the sacred scrolls, Sir Wyot? Although every district has a mysterious sacred scroll, not even powerhouses at the Chaos Rank can comprehend its content." The elder knew the different districts had a sacred scroll, which had existed since ancient times.

The District Leaders were aware the other districts also had similar sacred scrolls.

They had even exchanged their sacred scrolls, but nobody could understand their content.

Over time, everybody's interest in the sacred scrolls disappeared.

"It's an order from the District Leader.

If you want to know, go ask him." Wyot was unsure how to explain himself, but telling the truth was not an option.

Ultimately, he used the District Leader as an excuse.

Mount Kapron's elders were naturally afraid of personally asking the Kapron District's leader about it.

"Alright, everyone's dismissed.

I'd like some time alone." Wyot gently waved his hand.

The powerhouses in the hall dispersed.

Wyt sat on a chair, massaging his forehead in distress.

He had been in the Endlos' Nine Districts for over an epoch but had only obtained the Kapron District's sacred scroll.

There was still a long way before he collected all nine.

He began pondering on how to obtain the other sacred scrolls.

After collecting the nine sacred scrolls, it would be time for him to return to the Chaos District.

By then, the Chaos Master would have been resurrected, and the Dooms would rise above the others to rule the Ten Districts.

Eventually, the Chaos Master would become the Endlos Lord.

Ultimately, he would be one of the greatest contributors to the Doom Race's rise.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4782-James was unaware that Wyt had already arrived in the Aeternus District and set his eyes on the Aeternus Mantra.

He and his comrades entered the Aeternus District after they disguised themselves and hid their auras.

Even though they were not from the Aeternus District, they had a certain popularity in the Verde District.

It was inevitable that cultivators from the Verde District would travel to the Aeternus District.

Therefore, they took precautions to avoid being identified and getting into trouble.

James' group arrived outside Aeternuston, a city under the Aeternus Sect.

It was also the closest city to the Aeternus Sect.

Upon arrival, they noticed Saachi's portrait in a wanted poster pasted on the city wall.

They immediately exchanged glances with each other.

Then, James muttered, "It's already been ten thousand epochs, but the Aeternus Sect is still trying to find Saachi." Saachi was equally surprised and said, "Fortunately, I've been hiding in the Verde Academy's Tempris House all these years.

They must've already searched all the other districts." James ended the topic and said, "Let's head inside." The group entered the city and rented a spiritual mountain as their temporary residence.

After settling down, they held a meeting.

James looked at Saachi and asked, "What's your main goal? Do you want to destroy the Aeternus Sect or kill the Sect Leader, Devin Hael?" Saachi's face darkened.

"I come from a huge family.

After my father's death, countless family members were slaughtered.

There are hardly any members from my family tree left in the Aeternus Sect.

Those who remained within the sect betrayed our family.

There's no need for the Aeternus Sect to exist anymore, so I'd like to have them destroyed." Saachi carried deep hatred in her heart.

It was a blood feud, and she wanted the Aeternus Sect to suffer the same consequences.

She wanted them to atone for her deceased family members with their lives.

James immediately knew what to do with Saachi's words.

He ordered, "Everyone spread out in the city and gather information." "I'm not going out." Waleria slumped against a chair and rested her legs on the table.

Her dress slid up her thighs and exposed her slender legs.

Wynona stood up and said, "Sir, I'll ask around.

The two of you should rest." Zula said, "I'd also like to go out for a stroll."
"Alright." James nodded lightly.

Then, he turned to the eager Saachi and said, "You shouldn't go out.

The entire Aeternus Sect is on the lookout for you.

A strong cultivator can identify you even if you hide your aura." Saachi nodded her head.

After the brief discussion, Wynona and Zula headed out to gather information.

The rest of the group rested in the spiritual mountain.

In the backside of the spiritual mountain, James sat on a rock and looked into the distance pensively.

A beautiful woman walked over gracefully and stopped in front of him.

Seeing James was in a daze, Saachi asked, "What's the matter? A penny for your thoughts?" James looked at Saachi, contemplating whether to tell her about wanting to start a new force in this universe after eliminating the Aeternus Sect.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4783-After contemplating for a while, James asked, "What are your plans after destroying the Aeternus Sect? Do you want to create a new sect and reclaim your father's position as the Aeternus District's Leader? Or do you have other plans?" Saachi was unsure of how to answer the question.

Her mind was occupied with revenge.

She had never given much consideration as to what to do next.

She shook her head lightly and said, "I've never really thought about it.

If possible, I'd like to return to Tempris House and live leisurely.

I could cultivate with peace of mind and strive to reach a higher cultivation rank." James was reassured by her answer.

He asked, "What do you think about me creating a new sect in the Aeternus Sect?" Saachi replied instantly, "Sounds good.

That would be even better.

I wouldn't have to go through the trouble of traveling back to Tempris House." "Then it's settled." James smiled.

Wynona and Zula returned very quickly.

Everyone gathered in the spiritual mountain's main hall.

Wynona reported, "We're lucky we didn't act recklessly.

According to the information I've gathered, Mount Kapron's Lord led several powerhouses into the Aeternus Sect and temporarily settled there.

He forced the Aeternus Sect's Leader to hand over the Aeternus Mantra." Startled, Waleria asked, "Seriously? Mount Kapron's Lord? The Kapron District's Leader, a peerless powerhouse in the Chaos Rank? Did he personally come to the Aeternus Sect for a mere sacred scroll?" Zula replied, "I've inquired about it.

The Kapron District's Leader has recruited a disciple and passed the Mount Kapron's Lord title to him.

I learned his name is Wyot Dalibor.

The person leading powerhouses from Mount Kapron is Wyot." "Wyot Dalibor?" James almost fell off his chair from shock.

Intrigued, Wynton asked, "Are you sure his name was Wyot Dalibor? Do you have a portrait of him?" Wynona gently waved his hand, and a portrait appeared before them.

After seeing the portrait, James and Wyot instantly turned to each other.

James gently massaged his forehead and said solemnly, "What's happening? Why is Mount Kapron also getting involved? This is troublesome." Wynton asked, "What's your plan, James?" James thought awhile and said, "I doubt a powerhouse at the Chaos Rank will get involved in a battle between juniors.

Even if the Kapron District's Leader shows up, we shouldn't be afraid.

I have Yardos backing me up, and Waleria has the Theos District's Leader behind her.

He would have to think twice about the consequences before interfering in our matters." Waleria nodded and said, "He's right.

A powerhouse at the Chaos Rank would not get involved in the conflict between districts." With her reassurances, James sighed in relief.

He instructed, "Find out all the details about Wyot and his group of powerhouses.

I want to know how many powerhouses he brought and whether we stand a chance against them.

Wynona and Zula headed out to investigate the details of Mount Kapron's powerhouses.

The Aeternus Sect's overall strength was mediocre.

Thus, James was capable of obliterating them alone.

His goal was to figure out how many powerhouses were with Wyot and whether they could take immediate action against the Aeternus Sect.

In the back of the spiritual mountain, James and Wynton met up.

James rubbed his chin and said, "Wyot came to the Aeternus Sect for their sacred scroll.

Did he come to the Nine Districts to find the nine sacred scrolls?" Wynton nodded and said, "That's possible." James suddenly recalled something and asked, "He's a disciple of the Kapron District's Leader and has become Mount Kapron's Lord.

Could he have already obtained the Kapron District's sacred scroll? Are we able to snatch the sacred scroll from him?" "We can capture him, then ask about it.

However, Wyot isn't an easy opponent," said Wynton.

With a faint smile, James said, "I defeated him before.

I'm sure I can do it again." James was confident in his strength.
