The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4802-Waleria thought back on when she first met James.

Back then, his cultivation rank was really low, and he was running from Zeloneth.

He fled to every corner of the Endlos Void and almost died even though he mastered the Blithe Omniscience.

It had not been that long, but James had already become so strong.

James suddenly asked, "By the way, what kind of event is the Hazeaf Gathering?" Waleria replied excitedly, "Do you know about the Boundless Ranking and Chaos Ranking?" He shook his head.

"The Boundless Ranking is a standard for measuring a cultivator's attainments in the Boundless Rank.

Every once in a while, the Endlos' Nine District will hold a gathering to allow cultivators in the Boundless Rank to have friendly matches.

Then, a Boundless Ranking would be made according to the results.

"Anybody in the Boundless Rank is allowed to participate.

"However, there is a massive gap between the Quasi Boundless Rank, Permanence Boundless Rank, Terra Boundless Rank, and Caelum Boundless Rank.

Therefore, it ultimately became a competition between Caelum Boundless Ranks.

If you place in the ranking list, you'll become famous throughout the Endlos' Nine Districts.

"The Chaos Ranking is even more exciting.

As long as you enter the Quasi Chaos Rank, you're qualified to participate in the fights and compete for a place in the Chaos Ranking.

However, there are only a few at the Chaos Rank.

Thus, even cultivators at the Quasi Chaos Rank can make it on the list.” Waleria blabbered on and on.

After a while, James had a clearer understanding of the rankings.

“You’re excited to attend the Hazeaf Gathering because you want to compete for a spot on the Chaos Ranking, right?” asked James.

“Yeap,” Waleria said proudly, “There are only a few powerhouses at the Chaos Rank.

Based on the previous Chaos Rankings, there are one hundred spots.

With my current strength, I’m considered strong in the Endlos’ Nine Districts.

I should be able to enter the top one hundred and get a decent ranking.

When that happens, I’ll become very popular.” James looked forward to the Hazeaf Gathering.

He was not interested in the Chaos or Boundless Ranking.

However, he and Yardos planned to stand out during the Hazeaf Gathering to make a name for the Heavenly Court.

Since he was not qualified to participate in the Chaos Ranking, he had to compete for a spot on the Boundless Ranking.

James asked, “What ranking do you think I can get in the Boundless Ranking?” Waleria thought for a while and replied.

“Judging by your recent battles, you should be at least top three.

You might even place number one.” She had high expectations for James.

Even though James was only at the middle stage of the Caelum Acme Rank, he had many signature skills.

She believed he would place high in the boundless Ranking.

“Then will I need to be at the Quasi Chaos Rank to participate in the competition for the Chaos Ranking?” asked James.

Waleria glanced at James thoughtfully.

She replied, “There aren’t any restrictions on cultivation ranks.

However, those who participated in the previous competitions were at least at the Quasi Chaos Rank.

In fact, many cultivators at the Quasi Chaos Rank don’t even dare to participate.” James rubbed his chin and asked, “If I participate in the competition for the Chaos Ranking, will I make it on the list? I think placing number one hundredth on the Chaos Ranking is much better than number one on the Boundless Ranking.” Waleria was stunned and at a loss for words.

After a while, she asked, “Are you planning to join the competition for the Chaos Ranking?” “Is there a problem?” James looked at her.

“N-Not at all.” Waleria did not dissuade him.

James had displayed terrifying strength in the past.

Moreover, he did not use his ultimate trump card against Wyot.

He still had the formation he had learned while breaking into the Caelum Acme Rank, which even Waleria feared.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4803- “Perhaps you can give it a go.

You should be able to enter the Chaos Ranking with your strength.” Waleria was shocked after the words left her mouth.

The possibility of a cultivator at the middle stage of the Caelum Acme Rank placing in the top 100 on the Chaos Ranking was unfathomable.

Supposing that James did, he would be invincible in the Endlos’ Nine Districts when he reached the Quasi Chaos Rank or even the Chaos Rank.

“Let’s go.” James did not continue the topic and quickly left.

Soon, they arrived at the spiritual mountain’s main hall.

Many people were already gathered outside the hall.

As soon as James appeared, everyone turned their gazes to him.

Wynton asked, "Are you participating in the competition for the Boundless Ranking?" "Nope." James shook his head.

Wynton sighed in relief and said, "Since you're not joining, I'll take my chances." James asked, "Are you aiming to be ranked first?" Wynton said confidently, "Of course.

If you're participating, then I won't join.

Since you're not, I'd like to try aiming for first place." James diminished Wynton's hopes, saying, "I'm afraid that's an unachievable dream.

You can't even beat me, so how will you rank first?" Wynton retorted, "It doesn't mean I'm weak just because I lost to you.

I consider myself the strongest within my cultivation rank, excluding you, of course." James asked, "Is that so? Are you confident in defeating Wyot?" oe " Wynton immediately felt discouraged.

He was indeed not certain about defeating Wyot.

He rubbed his nose awkwardly and said, " You've completely deprived me of hope." James chuckled and said, "It's always good to gain experience.

You should participate and see how powerful are the powerhouses in the Nine Districts.

You still have a long way to go, and you've only just entered the Caelum Boundless Rank.

If you stay in this rank longer, you'll surely place first in the next gathering." "What about you guys? Anyone else participating?" James turned to Wynona, Saachi, and Zula.

Saachi replied, "Not me.

Although I'm in the Caelum Boundless Rank, my strength has significantly reduced after losing my Dobro Eyes.

I won't get a good ranking even if I participate." Wynona said, "I'd like to participate.

I've been at the Quasi Chaos Rank before but dropped to the Caelum Boundless Rank.

To enter the Quasi Chaos Rank again, I'd need to fight to regain my Cultivation Heart." "Alright." James nodded lightly.

Finally, James turned to Zula.

Zula shook her head and said, "I've no desire for fame, so I'd prefer not to join.

Even if I do, I doubt I'll enter the top hundred." "Alright, enough with this topic.

Let's head to Mount Hazeaf and check out what kind of powerhouses have arrived.

I must make it onto the Chaos Ranking," said James.

ct see " As soon as these words came out, everyone stared at James.

Wynton said, surprised, "Did you just say Chaos Ranking? Are you sure? You're only at the Caelum Acme Rank.

How are you going to compete in the Chaos Ranking? You're joking, right?" "Are you questioning my strength?" James glanced at him.

Wynton stopped talking and cursed in his heart, 'What a freak.' "Let's go." James laughed loudly.

Then, his body disappeared from the spiritual mountain.

The next moment, he arrived outside Mount Hazeaf.

His comrades appeared shortly after him.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4804-Mount Hazeaf was a core region of the Hazeaf Universe.

It was an incredibly vast mountain range with countless spiritual mountains spanning three million light-years.

James looked at the towering mountains ahead and could sense abundant energy coming from them.

He exclaimed, "What a wonderful place.

As expected of the best district, this mountain range alone is stronger than the Aeternus District." Waleria said, "Of course! Mount Hazeaf is owned by Lucius Lopez, the strongest in the Endlos' Nine Districts.

The Aeternus District doesn't even come close to Mount Hazeaf.

When you become the strongest of the Nine Districts, you can chase him away and occupy this place." James murmured, "The strongest of the Nine Districts?" He pondered, 'Would I ever reach such heights?' James shook his head and dismissed his thoughts.

He quickly changed the topic, saying, "Let's head over." The group approached Hazeaf Sect's mountain gate.

A crowd gathered nearby, eagerly staring at the movements outside the mountain gate.

Everyone was curious to see what kind of powerhouses would be attending the Hazeaf Gathering.

Meanwhile, fully armed disciples with powerful auras stood on guard outside the mountain gate.

James' group approached but was blocked by the disciples.

A cold voice questioned them, "Your invitations?" The disciples guarding the mountain gate did not let them through just because they had beautiful women with them.

"Invitations?" James was taken aback.

He turned to Waleria and asked, "Do we need invitations to attend the Hazeaf Gathering?" Waleria facepalmed and said, "I totally forgot it.

We do need invitations.

From what I know, the Hazeaf District only sent invitations to well-known powerhouses of the Nine Districts.

If you aren't invited, you can claim an invitation to the Hazeaf Sect's fortress in Hazeafburgh.

As long as you're strong enough, they'll give you an invitation." Since they came in a rush, Waleria had forgotten about the invitations.

The group left and headed to Hazeafburgh.

The Hazeaf Sect had many fortresses set up in Hazeafburgh, and many disciples were stationed at each location.

Outside every fortress was a long queue of cultivators who wanted an invitation to enter the Hazeaf Sect.

The Hazeaf Sect was the strongest in the Nine Districts.

Thus, James' group behaved despite being powerhouses.

They joined the queue and waited for their turn.

Three thousand years later, they finally made it to the front.

The procedure was relatively simple.

Anyone who had reached the Caelum Acme Rank was eligible and was handed an invitation.

James and his comrades received their invitations and successfully entered the Hazeaf Sect.

Since they only had ordinary invitations, they were arranged in a relatively remote area.

The spiritual mountain was very far from the central region.

Countless independent courtyard houses were situated throughout the mountain and were occupied by cultivators at the Caelum Acme Rank.

After settling down, James' group began to wait.

During this period, James was constantly on the lookout for Yardos' aura.

It was not until less than a thousand years before the opening of the Hazeaf Gathering that Yardos showed up.

As soon as Yardos arrived, James went to see him.

Yardos set up a formation around an independent manor.

James greeted him respectfully, "Sir Yardos." Yardos waved his hand and said, "Drop the formalities.

Just call me Yardos." James quickly corrected himself, saying, "Alright, Yardos.

How are things progressing on your side? Did you obtain the Welkin District's sacred scroll?"

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4805-Then, he boasted, "You shouldn't doubt my abilities." James was overjoyed and immediately rolled open the scroll.

After confirming it was the Welkin District's sacred scroll, James asked, "How did you acquire it?" Yardos smiled and said, "I made a deal with the Welkin District's Leader." James asked, "What deal was it?" As a powerhouse at the Chaos Rank, the Welkin District's Leader must know that the sacred scrolls are exceptional treasures.

James was curious about what Yardos had offered to the Welkin District's Leader.

Yardos replied lazily, "The Welkin District's Leader had always been interested in my Blithe Omniscience.

So I gave it to him in exchange for a copy of their sacred scroll." "What?!" James exclaimed. "You gave him the Blithe Omniscience for the sacred scroll? If he were to master the Blithe Omniscience, he'd be invincible.

Who in the Endlos' Nine Districts will be able to kill him?" Yardos replied, "It isn't a big deal.

I gave it to him because I'm confident.

I'm the founder of the Blithe Omniscience, so naturally, I can create a Supernatural Power to counter it.

Alright, enough about this.

What about your task?" James answered, "I've already established the Heavenly Court in the Aeternus District.

However, it's still an unknown sect.

Nobody knows about it yet." Yardos smiled and said confidently, "Don't worry.

After the Hazeaf Gathering, everyone will know about the Heavenly Court.

With my current strength, I should be able to squeeze into the Chaos Ranking's top three.

Perhaps, I might even be able to compete for first place." James was slightly stunned.

He asked, "Did you reach the Omniscience Path's Eleventh Stage?" Yardos smiled faintly but did not give a direct answer.

Instead, he said, "I'll try to place in the top three on the Chaos Ranking and strive for first place.

Meanwhile, you must win first place on the Boundless Ranking.

We'll surely make a name for ourselves with these results." James replied smilingly, "I'm not planning to participate in the competition for the Boundless Ranking.

I'd like to enter the competition for the Chaos Ranking.

ct aoe " Yardos was rendered speechless.

He was aware of James' strength and was confident he could place first in the Boundless Ranking.

However, the Chaos Ranking was a more challenging fight.

He was surprised that James wanted to compete for a place on the Chaos Ranking.

Yardos looked at James, laughed, and said, "Not bad.

You have ambitions.

However, I still think you should compete for the Boundless Ranking.

Afterward, you can enter the competition for the Chaos Ranking as well.

The two rankings are separate anyway.” “Alright.” James nodded lightly.

“That’s all for today.

You should head back to rest, then wait for the gathering to begin.” Yardos waved his hand.

James got up and left.

He was excited to go through the Welkin District’s sacred scroll.

If he could cultivate Welkin Power, his ranking in the Chaos Ranking would definitely be higher.

Although less than a thousand years were left, James could easily travel through the River of Time.

Other cultivators feared being contaminated by karma when traveling through the River of Time, but he was not.

James returned to his residence and bumped into Waleria, who had come to see him.

“Where were you?” Waleria stood outside his door with her hands folded.

James replied, “Yardos has arrived, so I went to see him.” Waleria walked over and said, “I see.

The Theos Sect’s Leader has also arrived.

He wants to see you, so come with me.”
