

Read The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4836-The competition regarding the Boundless Ranking was set to go on for a period of ten epochs. This ancient battlefield was chosen as the venue since the Boundless Tablet was found in this area.

Truthfully, a normal competition involving battles between cultivators would usually end fairly quickly. The duration of the competition was prolonged so that participants could venture out across the battlefield and perhaps come across treasures or opportunities of great fortune.

“Where are we right now? Also, how long will it take for us to reach the location that we are looking for?” Although James had memorized the map provided by Zeno, he still had no clue about his exact location at the moment.

Zeno replied, “We are currently situated somewhere outside the dark zone, whereas the person has been sealed at a place hidden deep in the dark zone. If we were to travel at full speed, we should be able to reach our destination within a few million years.”

James’ eyes widened.

‘It’s going to take a few million years for cultivators of our level to reach that place?! How big is this dark zone?’ James wondered.

Zeno could tell what James was thinking from the expression on his face. “The Heavenly Path does not exist in these dark, uncharted areas. What’s more, the dark zone is actually bigger than what you can imagine. As far as I know, it is even larger than all the Endlos’ Nine Districts combined together.”

James was very surprised to hear about the size of the dark zone. Still, he quickly decided that it was time for them to move as there was no time for him to waste.

“Let’s go.”

Zeno and James decided on the general direction that they would travel in. Then, both of them started teleporting toward the dark zone at a high speed, with Livie following right behind.

Several million years passed as the three of them traveled further and further into the deepest and most deserted place of the dark zone.

A malevolent, vicious energy permeated the air and space in the darkness of that area. The ordinary people would not be able to get close to this area, in the first place. Even competent cultivators would not recklessly enter this zone since it was easy for anyone to lose their sense of direction there.

Once a person got lost in the dark zone, they would be trapped there for the rest of their lives. The darkness would slowly eat away at their soul and physical body, leaving only the person's skeleton behind.

A voice rang out in the darkness just then. "We could have gotten here much sooner if we didn't have to leave multiple markings along the way. It is easy to get disoriented in this place. The markings will be helpful for us to find our way back. If only we had the guiding lamp! We can travel across the dark zone without any difficulties if we have the guiding lamp."

Upon hearing Zeno's words, James thought, 'Once the competition is over, I'll look for Xezal and ask her if there is any way for me to return to the Chaos District.

'I plan to search for the guiding lamp in the Human Universe. With the lamp, I will be able to look for the Infinity Stele in the Human Universe and try to obtain the Endlos Heart.'

"Where is the place that we are looking for again?" James asked.

Zeno took the map out again and started looking at it closely. After a brief moment, he began, "It should be located somewhere in this area. Let's spread out and look around."

While James and Zeno started going in separate directions to search the area, Livie stared into the darkness absently.

Black mists emanating evil, dangerous energies floated around the space of the dark zone.

“Master, I was here before.”

James turned around and looked at the owner of the voice. He had a puzzled look on his face. “What did you say? You were here before?”

Livie’s words halted Zeno in his tracks as well.

‘I’ve removed the residual Zen and soul sigils from the skeleton. When James had given her a new Zen, she was basically reborn again. Why would she claim that she’s been here before?’ Zeno pondered.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4837-“Mhm.” Li vie paused with a distant look in her eyes. “I seem to have vague memories of this place.”

James met Zeno’s eyes. Then, he transmitted his voice silently with his Zen. “What on earth is happening? Did something go wrong with your puppet-making process? Could it be that some memories of her past life are still lingering within the skeleton?”

‘That can’t be right.’ A small frown creased Zeno’s forehead. He replied using his Zen too, “I checked very carefully after I was done removing the Zen and soul sigils from the skeleton. Everything seemed fine back then!

Theoretically speaking, there’s no way she still remembers any memories of her past life.”

James kept a straight face as he asked Livie, “What did you recall, Livie?”

Livie’s brows drew together in a frown. “I have these short flashbacks of images in my head.”

James said, “Just tell us what you remember.”

“Alright.” Livie closed her eyes and focused on her memories.

In some of the deeper parts of Livie’s bones, several faded sigils started glowing as Livie tried to recall her memories. Those sigils gradually produced discontinuous images of a specific scene.

“I remember now!” Livie exclaimed after she had pieced those images together.

“It was a battle. A battle broke out in this place in the past. I was probably one of the people joining the battle, but I couldn’t recall the incident in detail.”

“That’s alright. You don’t have to try too hard to recall the details,” James replied.

Then, he turned his eyes to Zeno again.

Zeno flushed in embarrassment. “Why are you giving me that look?! How would I know something like this would happen? She must have been an exceptionally superior cultivator when she was still alive. It is beyond my skills and capabilities to remove the memories still lingering in her body.”

James asked, “Would it be dangerous for us to keep her around then?”

He was ready to end Livie with his own hands since he did not want to keep a time bomb around.

“Master.”

Livie’s eyes were bright with tears as she gazed at James. ” Are you going to exterminate me? Did I do something wrong?”

James wavered as he noticed the dejected expression on her face. “No... No. It’s not your fault.”

Zeno had a pensive expression as he crossed his arms.”

This shouldn’t be a serious issue. Even though she still has some of her past memories, they seem to be memory fragments that have left a deep impression in her mind.

Those wouldn’t be able to affect her being or her thoughts. Besides, even if she loses control because of those memories, would she be able to cause you any harm?

“Also, she is still functioning properly and normally. By the time an issue arises, you’ve probably gotten strong enough to handle the problem anyway.”

James looked at Livie, who was still gazing at James with a cautious, nervous expression on her face. She seemed just like a child who was afraid of getting scolded by her parents.

He walked closer to Livie and patted her gently on her head. "Don't worry. You didn't do anything wrong. Just let me know if you can remember anything else."

"Really?" Livie's face brightened. She could sense how James had wanted to eliminate her since he was her creator. Livie was truly worried that he might have gotten rid of her at that point.

"Yes," James answered firmly.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4838-James was seriously considering whether he should just exterminate Livie a few moments ago. However, he was slightly convinced by Zeno after listening to his words, and he decided to keep Livie under observation for the time being.

Meanwhile, Livie tried to go through her memories again. Unfortunately, she could only recall a small part of the incident that had happened in that place.

All she could say for sure was that a battle of an extraordinarily large scale took place in that area. Countless beings were involved in the battle back then. That was all Livie could remember.

James tried to ask for more details about that battle. He didn't press Livie for answers when she had eventually run out of things to say.

"Let's start by looking around." James turned his gaze toward Zeno.

After that, all three of them spread out and searched the area. James unleashed his Zen and used his powers to detect places with unusual energies. He was able to extend his Zen to cover almost the entire area of their search zone.

In the blink of an eye, three hundred years had gone by.

"I found it!" James' voice rang through the darkness.

"Where is it?" Zeno sounded rather excited.

James pointed toward his left. "It's this way."

He wielded the Blithe Omniscience and teleported away. James reappeared in another area almost instantaneously, followed by Zeno and Livie.

All of them could make out the vague form of a city shrouded heavily by black mists located some distance away from them. They slowly walked toward the city.

As they arrived outside the entrance to the city, James and the others could see the peaks of several spiritual mountains from their spot. However, traces of damage and destruction were scattered all over the city. The city walls and buildings nearby were badly damaged. Even the city gate was left lying on the ground after it had been removed from its original spot.

Fortunately, the words carved on the city gate were still legible. A powerful, immense energy radiated from the carvings on the thick, wooden gate. They were most likely the work of a skilled and superior cultivator.

“Yenrir City?” Zeno muttered to himself as he stared at the carvings on the gate.

Zeno closed his eyes as he fell into deep thought. After a while, he slowly opened his eyes and said, “So, this is Yenrir City.”

Just then, Livie interrupted, saying, “Yenrir City is a city located on the periphery of the Endlos that acts as an important location in preventing the invasions of the extraterrestrial demons.”

“If the extraterrestrial demons could conquer Yenrir City, they’d be able to enter and attack the other areas of the Endlos right away. The Yenrir City was a strong fortress. The extraterrestrial demons had dispatched numerous troops in multiple attempts to seize the city. Yet, they have never been successful.”

Zeno and James were staring hard at Livie at that point.

Livie could feel their gazes bore into her. “I... I started remembering those details as soon as we got here. I don’t even know how I’m aware of all these things.”

James cast a glance in Zeno’s direction. “Could it be that you are actually a puppet too?”

“What nonsense is that?! I have a complete soul!” Zeno snapped at him.

“Livie has it too. I gave her a complete soul as well. Yours could have been created by another superior cultivator.”

Zeno rolled his eyes. “Livie is right. Yenrir City was a key location for the countless battles that happened in and outside the Endlos in the past. One of Emperor Raiah’s competent subordinates was stationed at this city. The man’s name was Sancho Geirr.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4839-Zeno shared as he recalled the details about Yenrir City and that particular cultivator who served Emperor Raiah.

“Back then, the extraterrestrial demons had used every means they could think of to try and seize Yenrir City. The city was their only access to the Endlos’ Nine Districts. The city and its military force were the very reasons the extraterrestrial demons were kept at bay in the past.”

“So, the person sealed in this place is Sancho Geirr?” James had a slightly puzzled look. “If the people on the Endlos’ side had won the battle in the past, this city and Sancho wouldn’t have been put under a seal, right? That doesn’t explain what we’re seeing now.”

Zeno shook his head. “I’m not sure either. We can only find out if it’s Sancho Geirr sealed inside after we search the city. A formation has been cast over the city. Do you think you can undo the formation?”

James turned his gaze toward the run-down city. He could sense the presence of numerous unique inscriptions placed around the city that emitted a familiar energy.

“I could detect the inscriptions from the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Sutra and the powers of the Tenth Path Technique. I have only mastered the Sixth Path Technique so far. I’ll give it a try and see if I can undo the formation,” James explained.

James leaped and rose higher in the air. As he directed his gaze at the city below him, James activated the techniques of the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Sutra and began generating the six different powers.

Then, James raised his palm and channeled the combination of the six powers toward the sealing formation cast over the city.

Countless inscriptions that were hidden in the sealing formation materialized before their eyes almost instantaneously. Eventually, some of the inscriptions shifted to make a path into the fallen city.

“It worked.” Zeno was beaming from ear to ear.

James teleported toward the entrance of the path and made his way into the city. Zeno and Livie followed closely behind him.

Vast lands and barren mountains could be seen inside Yenrir City. James and the others could find various traces of battle and destruction wherever they looked.

Apart from that, innumerable gravestones were erected across the land. Some of them were carved with the name of the deceased while most of the other gravestones were nameless.

Zeno had a woeful look in his eyes as he slowly took in the view around him. It seemed as though the field of gravestones just ran on endlessly.

‘I could tell how intense the battle leading to the birth of the ten districts was just by looking at the state of this city.

Countless cultivators had sacrificed their lives to protect the Endlos.’ James had a frown as he pondered.

‘They brought all of the bodies back after the battle and buried them here.’

Zeno had a somber expression on his face. “After Emperor Raiah had defeated the leader of the extraterrestrial demons, the enemy’s armies were pulled back. The peace of the Endlos was finally preserved.”

“After the battle had ended, Emperor Raiah and his men brought the bodies of the fallen cultivators found across the battlefield to this city and buried them here. Some of those unidentified remains were just severed body parts of cultivators. There were also those whose physical bodies were completely annihilated.”

“What else do you remember? Do you remember who you are?” James asked.

‘That was all I could recall so far. I still have no idea who I am.’ Zeno knitted his brows. The man had spent a very long time trying to find more information about his background.

Then, Zeno pointed toward a spiritual mountain located in the central area of Yenrir City. “I vaguely remember that Sancho Geirr was sealed in that place.”

“Even though Emperor Raiah had managed to give the extraterrestrial demons’ leader a critical blow during their battle, the Endlos was still facing the threat from our enemies. While Sancho had suffered severe injuries, Emperor Raiah placed a seal over this place with Sancho inside since he couldn’t provide Sancho with immediate treatment. Then, Emperor Raiah had to leave this place for his other duties.”

James muttered, “Where has Emperor Raiah gone, then?”

“I want to know about that too. If I had known, I wouldn’t have had to go through so much trouble trying to look for him.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4840-Zeno set his gaze on the spiritual mountain that he had pointed out earlier and teleported toward it the next instant. James and Livie quickly followed behind him.

Soon afterward, they reached the foot of the mountain. Another sealing formation was cast over the spiritual mountain. Although the formation was not imbued with the powers of the Tenth Path Technique, it was nonetheless a high-level formation that would require years of effort in deciphering and undoing it.

Fortunately, this was a simple task for James, who had mastered both the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Sutra and the Primal Mantra. The man had extensive knowledge of various difficult, ancient inscriptions.

With the use of the time formation, James managed to undo the formation placed over the mountain within thirty thousand years of the outside world.

As they ascended the mountain, James could sense low levels of the energies of heaven and earth around them.

Even though a long time had passed, the pristine spiritual mountain was still very well preserved.

After a short while, all three of them arrived outside a hall on the peak of the mountain. Zeno had a grim expression as he fixed his gaze on the door leading into the hall. Then, he rushed forward and opened it.

A man was seated in a chair placed at the center of the hall. Upon spotting that person, Zeno teleported and reappeared before that man. He called out in a choked voice, "Sancho, it's me. It's Zeno. Sancho..."

As Zeno repeated the man's name desperately, the latter's clothes began falling apart bit by bit. Gradually, the man's flesh started turning into dust. In the end, only the man's skeleton was left in the seat.

"Argh!" Zeno let out a cry in agony.

James and Livie remained silent as they watched him from a distance.

After a few minutes, Zeno finally managed to compose himself. He sighed. "Even though he had the protection of Emperor Raiah's seal, Sancho didn't manage to last through the long years and wait until help arrived... It's all my fault. I got here too late. If I could get here sooner, I might have been able to rescue Sancho."

Just then, a deep voice rang across the room.

"Zeno."

Simultaneously, a faint human-like form slowly materialized over the skeleton still seated in the chair.

"Sancho." The corner of Zeno's eyes reddened as he gazed at the faint image of Sancho Geirr produced by soul sigils.

'The soul sigils left on Sancho's skeleton must have generated this image of him upon the detection of another living being. Once they have served their purpose, those sigils will disappear too, along with the very last image of Sancho Geirr,' Zeno thought.

Zeno knew that the soul sigils could not last long. He quickly asked, "Sancho, I need your help. I need to know who I am, and where is Emperor Raiah?"

“You were the number-one Rune Arts Grandmaster serving under the command of Emperor Raiah, Zeno. In the past, you were stationed to protect Sasso City, which was located at the borders of the Endlos. Unfortunately, the city was seized one day, and you were taken by the extraterrestrial demons. By the time Emperor Raiah and our men rescued you, part of your soul was stolen. You had also suffered severe injuries and slipped into a deep sleep afterward.

Emperor Raiah had no choice but to bury you. He had hoped that you would awaken again someday.