The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4868-James stood on Tribulation City's wall and looked into the distance but could only see darkness.

The middle-aged man with tattered armor waved his hand, and the black mist dispersed. Ahead of them was a slightly damaged mountain region, and countless skeletal remains were scattered all over the area.

Among the skeletal remains were of humans, but most belonged to monsters.

James could see a group of unknown monsters densely packed together in the deepest part of the ancient battlefield and could even vaguely hear the monster's roars.

"I was right." James took a deep breath. He came to the city with speculations, and the sight had proved him right.

James asked solemnly, "What are the origins of these monsters?"

The middle-aged man replied, "They are from beyond the Endlos. These monsters are being constantly manufactured, and wiping them out is impossible. The mastermind producing them has to be taken out. In the deepest part of the Tribulation World is Tribulation City, which exists to seal off this passage and block out these monsters."

James asked, "Is the final battlefield in the past?"

The middle-aged man did not explain. He looked at James and said, "Although you've grown much stronger, it's not enough. You should head back first and focus on cultivating while it's still peaceful. You'll be joining the battlefield very soon."

'Then may I ask for your name?"

"I don't remember my name. However, I am called the Emperor of Tribulation by the mortals. You can address me as so."

James repeated the name in his mind. Although he wanted to understand these histories and the Extraterrestrial

Demons, he was called too weak by the powerhouses on the Boundless Road and the Emperor of Tribulation.

He thought to himself, 'Am I really that weak? But I feel quite strong.'

James did not know how strong the hidden Orthodox in the Endlos' Ten Districts were, so he was unsure about defeating them. However, he felt confident against the other powerhouses.

"Can I also ask for the name of the powerhouse in the final Infinity City?" asked James.

James had asked the powerhouse in the Boundless Road's final Infinity City for his name but did not get an answer.

The Emperor of Tribulation said smilingly, 'That guy is very powerful. As for his name, it's not for me to reveal. You'll find out soon.'

"You should leave first. This place is safe for now since Tribulation City and I are here to guard it. Unless the Extraterrestrial Demon's Great Commander from a different period shows up, Tribulation City will not collapse."

The Emperor of Tribulation waved his hand and dismissed James.

James did not get the clarification he needed and was still very confused. However, he quickly left the Tribulation

World and returned to the Human Universe.

As soon as he reappeared, Livie, who had been waiting for him, called out, "Where did you go, Master?"

James did not explain himself but silently looked at Livie.

Livie was the Third Commander of the Extraterrestrial Demons, who existed in the same era as Emperor Raiah.

Extraterrestrial Demons from many different eras were attacking the Endlos with the same goal-to conquer the Endlos.

Livie played a very small role.

James was curious about the real masterminds' strength.

Livie took a few steps backward and asked, "Why are you staring at me, Master?"

James snapped out of his thoughts and said calmly, "You're supposed to call me dad."

"Oh, okay, Dad," Livie said softly.

James nodded lightly and said, "Good. Let's go back to the Boundless Battlefield."

James came to the Human Universe to obtain the Boundless Pagoda. Initially, he had planned to meet up with some of his family and friends after achieving his goal.

However, he had unexpectedly discovered many new secrets. Thus, he had a lot on his mind and was in no mood to catch up anymore.

Although the Endlos was in peace, it would not last very long. Danger was lurking and might strike anytime soon.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4869-James knew it was necessary to use whatever time he had left to cultivate. He planned to return to the Boundless Battlefield and participate in the competition for the Boundless Ranking to make a name for himself. Then, he had to obtain the last four sacred scrolls.

The two left the Chaos District, returning to the Boundless Battlefield.

During the past few years, the Boundless Battlefield was very lively.

"Hafgan, who ranked first in the previous Boundless Ranking, was trounced by a powerhouse from an ancient Orthodox.

"The top ten on the Boundless Ranking had been defeated by powerhouses from ancient Orthodoxes that had reemerged."

“Who would’ve thought these ancient Orthodoxes had such powerful cultivators? Even at the same cultivation rank, their strength is much superior.”

Everyone in the Boundless Battlefield discussed the powerhouses of ancient Orthodoxes.

Boom!!!

A potent force struck a dilapidated city and instantly demolished it.

A man fell from the sky and crashed into the ground. He climbed out from the rubble with difficulty.

The man was none other than Wynton.

Wynton was at the Caelum Boundless Rank and was as strong as those who ranked in the top three on the previous Boundless Ranking. However, he was being overpowered by an opponent and could not fight back. He was covered in blood and looked to be in a terrible state.

A handsome-looking man wearing a white robe hovered in the sky as his long black hair danced in the wind. Suddenly, he smirked and said, ‘You’re too weak.’

After speaking, he reached out and pointed his finger at Wynton.

Swoosh!

A substantial force emerged and shot toward Wynton.

Wynton quickly dodged the attack.

Boom!!!

The force struck the ground, and a bottomless pit formed. Immediately afterward, cracks spread out to the surrounding area.

Meanwhile, Waleria, Zula, and Wynona watched from a distance.

Waleria exclaimed, “He’s too strong. Even if I fought against him, I wouldn’t necessarily win.”

Waleria had always been sure of herself. However, she did not feel confident in defeating Wyot's opponent, who was only at the Caelum Boundless Rank.

Wynton appeared in the distance after evading the fatal attack.

A white halo emerged from his body and healed his injuries.

Wynton had a grim expression. He had been cultivating in seclusion and had never offended anyone. However, a man suddenly showed up and challenged him. Although he urged all his strength, he could not block his opponent's attacks.

The man hovered in the distance and said mockingly, "Do you have anything else? If not, then I'll just kill you."

Wynona immediately attempted to intervene. However, Waleria held her back and said, "There's no rush. Let's watch for a while."

Wynona said, "Wynton will die if we just continue watching. No matter what, he has been our comrade for quite some time. How can we just watch him die?"

Waleria discouraged her, saying, "Even if you intervene, you're no match for him. Wynton is a very mysterious person and has other skills up his sleeve. When he had a friendly match with James, he refrained from using his ultimate skill. I'm curious to see what his hidden trump card is."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4870-Waleria had coincidentally seen Wynton cultivating once and noticed he had cast some kind of Supernatural Power that significantly enhanced his aura. Therefore, Waleria knew Wynton had other means.

"You win. I don't want to fight," Wynton surrendered and said, "I'm not a powerhouse, nor am I on the Boundless Ranking. Killing me isn't going to give you much satisfaction. You should fight those on the Boundless Ranking or other powerhouses from other Orthodoxes. What's the point of fighting someone like me?"

"You're very sensible, so I'll give you a chance. If you kneel on the ground and beg for mercy, I'll spare your life." The man wore a taunting smile.

Wynton's face immediately darkened. He would never kneel before someone else. He was a prodigy in the Chaos District and was invincible against those at the same cultivation rank as him. Even though he had lost to James, it was because he wanted to avoid using lethal attacks against James.

The man smiled playfully and asked, "What's wrong? You don't want to? Then that leaves me no choice but to kill you."

Wynton took a deep breath. He looked at his opponent and asked, "What's your name? At least give me your name so I can die in peace."

"I'm Gregor Lozano from the Crescent Sect. I've participated in the competition for the Boundless Ranking before and more than once. However, that was a long time ago. Back then, the Endlos Lord was still Zaden Dalibor. I've placed first in the Boundless Ranking three times in a row."

Gregor's voice resounded throughout the area.

Wynton was slightly surprised by his words.

Waleria's brows furrowed. She wondered why his name never appeared in the ancient books he had read before.

"This is getting interesting." Wynton smiled.

Suddenly, Wynton's aura skyrocketed, and he entered a mysterious state. Then, his body emanated a dazzling white light.

"I knew it." Excitement dawned on Waleria's face.

Shocked, Wynona said, "He has been hiding such a potent Supernatural Power all this time?"

Wynton hovered in the sky and radiated a white glow. He stretched his body, and some magical inscriptions fell off his body's surface.

"Huh?" Waleria realized and said, "Are those seal inscriptions?"

Zula answered her, "Yeah, they are seal inscriptions. He had sealed off his strength. Perhaps he had also placed a potent spatial pressure on himself and had finally removed the seal."

Waleria and Zula were powerhouses at the Quasi Chaos Rank and easily identified the seal of Wynton's body.

Wynton had never lost to someone at the same cultivation rank as him and had been invincible during his era. He had even traveled to the past to challenge powerhouses of ancient times and defeated them.

He placed a seal on himself and sealed away his powers to achieve greater strength. At the same time, there was a spatial pressure on his body.

With the seal, he aimed to improve his physical strength and Cultivation Heart.

Waleria noticed something unusual and said, "Wait, his aura is different. Last time, I accidentally came across him cultivating. He had cast a terrifying Supernatural Power back then. He just released the seal on his body but has not activated his ultimate trump card yet."

At that moment, two figures appeared in the area.
