

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4951

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4951-The Emperor of Tribulation said, "That is the invaluable Tribulation Liquid. Even just a single drop can greatly improve a person's physical condition. I hope it'll be of use to you."

James drew a big breath and bowed to the man. "I can't thank you enough for your help."

"Go on, then." The Emperor of Tribulation gestured to the sea. Then, he teleported and vanished from James' sight.

James turned his gaze to the violet sea and teleported toward it. As he levitated in mid-air and looked down at the body of water, James was amazed by the tremendous energy he could sense from the violet sea.

"What an incredible amount of energy!" James muttered to himself.

'At first, I was thinking of learning the contents of the three remaining sacred scrolls and training with the knowledge of the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Sutra to enter the Chaos Rank.

'Now that I have the Tribulation Liquid, I can continue with my training for the Omniscience Path. Perhaps I could achieve the Eleventh Rank of the Omniscience Path just like Yardos before they hold the tournament.' James thought.

The man gradually lowered himself. As he was moving closer to the surface of the seawater, James had begun absorbing the energies radiating from the Tribulation Liquid. James could instantly feel his pulse quickening as the energy entered his body from the pores on his skin.

Eventually, James immersed himself entirely in the seawater. After he had put up a time formation around him, James also used his powers to stop the time flow in and around the area.

At his level of skills and knowledge, stopping the flow of time was no longer a difficult task for James. Along with using the time formation, James could finish his training within a shorter time of the outside world.

James focused his concentration and began absorbing the energies of the Tribulation Liquid. He could sense how the Tribulation Liquid's energy was enhancing the powers of his body. James generated the powers of the Blood Mantra next to improve his bloodline power.

At the same time, James activated the Omniscience Path. Three circles of halo appeared around his body, and they seemed to shine brighter with time.

In a matter of minutes, James had entered the eleventh rank of the Omniscience Path. The glowing halos were an indication that James had refined his body, soul, and bloodline power to their optimum level.

‘Yardos managed to last in that battle against four Chaos Rank cultivators because of his Chaos Rank powers and his mastery of the Eleventh Rank of the Omniscience Path. If it weren’t because our opponents had prepared the Tenfold Purge Formation, he might have been able to exterminate all four Chaos Rank cultivators on his own,’ thought James.

A broad smile was plastered across James’ face as he could sense the improvement in his physical condition and energy levels.

“I have finally reached the eleventh rank of the Omniscience Path.”

‘Now, I should start looking through the remaining sacred scrolls. I need to master the Ten Path Techniques and fuse them to create the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Art.

‘Also, I need to learn the treasure gifted to me by the Emperor of Tribulation. Last but not least, I should work on perfecting my formation. If possible, I’ll incorporate the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Art and the signature skill from the Emperor of Tribulation into my formation,’ he pondered.

James lifted his gaze and generated the complex formation above his head. A black, human-like figure sat on the structure with its legs crossed.

‘I still haven’t figured out what that shadow-like figure may be. I couldn’t detect any signs of life from it. However, I could sense a mysterious energy from the figure that was highly compatible with the formation. As the formation became more advanced with the addition of various inscriptions, the figure’s aura grew stronger too.

‘It is almost like a clone of myself as I can control it freely. I can even incorporate my Zen into the figure.

'Hm... Perhaps I'll be able to understand it fully after I complete the formation,' James wondered.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4952-James remained unmoving as he stared at the formation above his head for a brief moment. Then, he conjured a heap of black crystals before him.

He had collected these black crystals after visiting the Supreme Illusions in the past. James did not have much use for these crystals all this time, so he decided to enhance the potency of his formation by extracting the black crystals' energies.

After that, James began learning the knowledge of the sacred scrolls whilst continuing to perfect his formation.

In the blink of an eye, a long time had passed inside James' time formation.

Suddenly, James' eyes flew open. A faint, strange light flashed across his eyes for a few seconds. The light dimmed as he slowly blinked a few times. Then, James got up and did some stretches to loosen his muscles.

Once he was done stretching himself, James turned his eyes to the violet sea around him. With his powers, James managed to collect all of the Tribulation Liquid and stored it inside his storage almost instantaneously.

Then, James traveled to the Tribulation City to bid the Emperor of Tribulation farewell. Finally, he left the Tribulation World.

As soon as he had exited the realm of the Tribulation World, James checked the time of the outside world and realized that he had not spent too long in the Tribulation World.

Since he had learned Xezal's plan, James decided to return to the Human Universe instead of the Dooms' base.

A statue had been erected atop one of the peaks of Mount Bane. People had first come across it after the earth's spiritual energy had been restored. However, no one knew who built the statue nor the identity of the person the statue was based on.

James gazed at the statue from a distance. It was a statue of a man staring into the horizon, emanating an aura of authority and confidence.

“Emperor Raiah,” James muttered under his breath.

James never would have guessed that the statue on Mount Bane was one of Emperor Raiah’s.

A lot of cultivators and several factions had chosen to live or set a base near the statue since they could detect abundant spiritual energy in the area.

“Is that James Caden?”

One of those people appeared to have spotted James, who was looking at the statue from afar. The man turned sideways to inform his friends about it. However, by the time he turned his gaze back to where James was, the latter was gone.

Meanwhile, a group of men had gathered inside the main hall of the Heavenly Court. Henrik and the others had left the Human Universe to search for ancient factions across the ten districts. At the moment, only members of the Human Race remained in the Heavenly Court.

As the lord of the Heavenly Court, Jacopo had been feeling uneasy ever since he had learned of the Doom Race’s plans.

Just then, he noticed a man entering the main hall from the corner of his eyes.

“Dad?”

When they heard Jacopo’s voice, the other cultivators present in the hall turned their heads and looked in the direction of the entrance. A man in a white robe was walking toward them. The man had an aura of supremacy about him.

After a brief moment of silence, a small commotion broke out amongst those men as they were elated to see James.

A beautiful lady stepped out of the crowd at that very moment. Her voice dripped with longing and affection as she went up to James.

“You’re back!”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4953-“Thea!”

James stared at the lady before him with an intense gaze. Then, he strode toward the lady in the black dress and pulled her into a tight embrace.

"I'm home," James muttered softly next to Thea's ear.

After some time, James finally let go of Thea.

Jacopo walked over to his parents. He was beaming from ear to ear. "You're finally back, Dad! I'm so glad to see you. We really need someone like you to lead us in our current situation."

James asked, "How are things looking recently? Did anything happen while I was gone?"

Jacopo replied, "The Dooms finalized and announced the date of the tournament. They'll be holding the Endlos Tournament in the Doom Realm after ten million years. The winner of the tournament will receive the Endlos Heart and become the new lord of all Endlos."

"They're holding the tournament in ten million years?!"

James knitted his brows. He did not expect the tournament to be happening this soon. James could not help but worry whether Henrik and the others would be able to inform all of the hidden factions about the news within that short amount of time.

"Dad!" A young, gorgeous lady came up to James at that moment. It was Livie.

Thea's face darkened as her gaze fell on Livie. She shot James an icy glance. "Don't you think you have some explaining to do first? How did you get a new daughter after a short trip to the Endlos? What's more, she's insanely strong! Who's the mother?"

"Thea, this isn't what you think it is." James smiled wryly. He turned his gaze to Livie and said, "Can you wait outside for a moment, Livie?"

"Okay," Livie responded calmly and exited the main hall.

After Livie had left, James started explaining to Thea and the others in the hall about Livie's background and how he found her.

“She was one of the Three Extraterrestrial Demon Commanders?!” Everyone was shocked to hear about that from James.

James gave a small sigh. “Initially, I planned to destroy the skeleton we found. However, Zeno suggested that we convert the skeleton into a puppet since he knew the method. In the end, we transformed it into a puppet. Then, I gave her a new life by imbuing a new soul in her, and I named her Livie Caden.”

Thea had been listening attentively. After James had finished explaining, she asked, “What are you planning to do next? Are we really going to wait until all of the skilled and competent cultivators have reached the Doom Realm? What if that is not enough to stop the Doods?”

James had a frown on his forehead. “It is still the best option we have at the moment. If we were to attack the Doods now without enough preparations and fail, they might just decide to wipe out all living beings in the Chaos District.”

“Are you sure your plan is going to work?” Thea met his eyes.

James paused for a while. Then, he shook his head. “Not really. The Doods are not our main concern this time. The one thing we should be worried about is the Extraterrestrial Demon that the Doods have sought help from. I suspect that it is the second commander of the Extraterrestrial Demons. If he still possesses his full powers, we won’t stand a chance against them in this upcoming battle.”

James was hoping that the second commander of the Extraterrestrial Demons was not in top condition. Usually, someone who had been put under a seal for a very long time would experience regression in their powers or abilities.

If that were the case, James believed that Henrik and he alone were capable of defeating the Extraterrestrial Demon commander and stopping Xezal’s plan.

On the contrary, they would not be able to do anything if the commander had retained full powers and was in their prime.

Since there was time before the tournament and James was mostly ready, he spent his time meeting and catching up with his old friends in the Human Universe. During those ten million years, James was able to enjoy a quiet, peaceful life.

In the blink of an eye, the Endlos Tournament was just around the corner.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4954-There were only three months left until the Endlos Tournament.

Meanwhile, Henrik and his comrades had returned to the Human Universe. Those men met up with the leaders of the human race in a secret meeting room of the Heavenly Court.

Henrik asked, "What's your plan, James? Are we going to attack the Dooms right away?"

James had a pensive look in his eyes. "We have not detected any movement from the Extraterrestrial Demons yet. It is best that we wait until the Endlos Tournament commences. We must act cautiously. Also, we need to be ready for the worst."

The air seemed to grow tense as James made that remark.

He continued, "Before the Endlos Tournament begins, we need to transfer the Human Universe to a safer place. All of you need to work together and move our universe out of our current location. If possible, leave the Chaos District and settle down in a safe, faraway district."

Even though the Human Universe was a relatively large universe, experienced cultivators such as the Ancestral Blood Master were powerful enough to transfer it if they wanted to.

"On the other hand, Henrik and I will head to the Doom Realm. The rest of you are to remain here."

"Is this truly necessary?" Wyndael asked.

"Mhm." James nodded. "This universe is our home and the root of our origin. Even if Henrik and I were to fail in our mission, we would still be able to preserve the Human Universe this way."

"I'll come with you," Thea said in a steely voice.

“No.” James refused adamantly. “We are facing an enemy with great, unknown powers this time. You’ve only achieved the Boundless state of the Caelum Acme Rank. You could end up losing your life going up against our enemy.”

“I...”

Thea wanted to insist on following James, but the man cut her off firmly.

“You are staying in the Human Universe.” James glanced around the room next. “This is a battle between the Human Race and the Doom Race. It is also a battle to preserve the Chaos District. If Henrik and I have somehow failed, the group of you are not to avenge our deaths. All of you should remain hidden and protect the Human Universe at all costs.”

The other members present in the room nodded after listening to James’ command.

James got up and cast a glance at Henrik. “Let’s go, Henrik.”

As both men exited the meeting room, they ran into Livie, who had been waiting outside all this time.

Livie looked at James earnestly, “Dad, let me come with you.”

James shook his head gently. “You should stay here, Livie. Stay and become a protector of the Human Universe. From now on, I need you to protect this place with everything you have. Can you do that?”

Livie nodded firmly. “You have given me a new life, and I am willing to protect the Human Universe. Don’t worry, Dad. The Human Universe will be safe as long as I am around.”

James smiled softly upon hearing her reply.

Then, he and Henrik teleported and reappeared outside the Human Universe. As both of them gazed at the universe from a distance in the Endlos Void, they could see that the Human Universe was slowly moving in a certain direction.

With the powers of cultivators like Xrival and Wyndael, the humans were able to push the Human Universe out of its orbit and toward the course they had chosen.

At the same time, James used his powers to view what was happening in the Heavenly Court's main hall. He could see a large group had gathered in the hall. Those people were waving at James and Henrik, bidding the two men farewell.

Henrik sniffled a little as he was also looking at the same view just like James.

"In your opinion, how high are our chances of winning, James?" Henrik asked.

James curled his lips. "It won't be a huge issue for us as long as the second commander of the extraterrestrial demons has not regained his or her full powers."

He was feeling quite confident with his current level of skills and cultivation.

After he had trained in the Tribulation City, James achieved the Eleventh Rank of the Omniscience Path and mastered the remaining three sacred scrolls. Moreover, he had mastered the Ten Path Techniques and successfully produced the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Art.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 4955-James had managed to unlock the tenth form of the Boundless Pagoda and obtain the true Endlos Heart. He had also perfected his formation and picked up on the signature skill gifted by the Emperor of Tribulation, the Thunderous Tribulations.

Last but not least, James had advanced into the Chaos Rank. Although he had just achieved the rank not too long ago, James' true powers and abilities were beyond the average Chaos Rank cultivators.

Henrik flashed him a grin. "This time, the two of us will work together and crush the Dooms!"

James gave a slight nod. Then, he said, 'Til disguise as Wyot Dalibor and check how things are in the Doom Realm first. Meanwhile, you should enter the Doom Realm just like the other cultivators."

"Alright." Henrik nodded.

James took off right away. As he teleported toward the Doom Realm, James used his powers to modify his appearance, aura, and soul genesis. He had adopted Wyot's appearance by the time he had arrived outside the Doom Race's base.

The Dooms had opened their gates to visitors and cultivators since the Endlos Tournament was nearing. Many cultivators from ancient sects or factions had arrived in the Doom Realm. Most of them were planning to win the Endlos Heart during the Endlos Tournament. Even if they couldn't, those men would stay and watch until the end of the tournament to find out who would receive the Endlos Heart and become the new lord of Endlos.

James decided to drop by Mount Doom first. As soon as he had arrived inside the main hall, James spotted Xezal materializing in the hall as well.

James looked completely natural as he tried to speak in the way that Wyot would to anyone. "What are you doing here at Mount Doom? Shouldn't you be busy preparing for the Endlos Tournament?"

"Where have you been lately?" Xezal sat in a chair nearby.

James replied nonchalantly, "I just stopped by a few places to take care of some errands."

"Come with me. There's someone I want you to meet."

Xezal got up and walked off toward the door. James followed behind her despite feeling slightly confused.

Soon enough, Xezal led James to a spiritual mountain located at the periphery of the Doom Race's territory. James noticed that it was very quiet along the way and there weren't any men standing guard around the area.

As both of them arrived near the top of the mountain, James could see a formation cast around the mountain top. Xezal stopped before the formation and conjured some inscriptions. When those inscriptions fused into the formation, a passage opened up before them.

After the two of them had entered through the passage, James spotted a black palace enclosed entirely within the formation. He could instantly detect a dark, malicious energy emanating from the palace.

James furrowed his brows. "Who's the owner of this palace?"

I can sense a very dark aura coming from it..."

Xezal did not respond to James' question. She simply walked over to the palace's entrance and entered the place. Despite that, James had an inkling that the person inside the palace was most likely the Extraterrestrial Demons' second commander.

James hurried after Xezal. Upon entering the palace, James saw clouds of black mist floating above a seat placed at the center of a podium. As he was moving closer to the podium, the mist seemed to gather and form a silhouette in the seat. Eventually, a man in a black robe materialized before them.

"You're here." The man exuded an aura of malevolence.

"Mhm." Xezal stopped before the man. "This man from the Doom Race is a genius cultivator who possesses the Thousand Paths Holy Body. He'll be useful. You should be able to regain your full powers if you devour him."