

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5011

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5011-James woke up early the next day feeling surprisingly refreshed. The morning sunlight flooded into the room, and it put James in a good mood.

As he got out of bed to do some light stretching exercises, James sensed some form of energy in his body. He quickly examined his cultivation base.

‘I’ve entered the Tribulation Rank already?

‘I went to bed right away last night, and I didn’t even train. But my cultivation base has been enhanced?!’ James wondered.

For a while, the man stared into space with a puzzled look in his eyes. Then, his face broke into a smile.

At this rate, James would regain his powers and cultivation base soon without needing to do much.

“Mr. Forty-nine, it’s time for breakfast!”

Upon hearing the lady’s voice, James went outside to join the siblings for a meal.

After breakfast, Jai took his farming tools and headed to the fields. On the other hand, Yaronia stuck around James and spent most of the time chatting with him.

The lady would occasionally bring up the Koloretsua Stone as she was trying to get James to share more information about himself. Unfortunately, James had not divulged any useful details.

James was aware that the people of Te’oma Village had the duty of guarding the Koloretsua Stone. However, that was all the information he had about them. Therefore, he decided to keep the details of his background a secret until he could confirm what the villagers were actually after.

As the days went by, James would often leave the house and wander in and around the village.

There were close to three hundred people living in Te'oma Village. Most of them were farmers, and they would spend the day working their lands. James would always watch the villagers harvest or tend to their crops from the side.

The simple, quiet lifestyles of the Te'oma villagers were what James had envisioned himself achieving someday. However, he could not tell when he would be able to do that yet.

Time flew as James spent his days leisurely in the Te'oma Village. In the blink of an eye, he had stayed in the village for three years.

Although the villagers continued to work in their fields diligently, James knew that the people of Te'oma Village were no ordinary farmers. He could sense that the villagers were all exceptional cultivators. If it weren't for his extraordinary senses, James might have been fooled by their appearances as would anyone else.

Meanwhile, James' cultivation base and powers had been increasing steadily every day even though he had not trained at all. In just three months, James had reached the Sage Rank.

One day, a group of villagers gathered inside the community hall of Te'oma Village to discuss internal matters.

'Yarona, did you manage to gather any new information about his background?' Cray, the village chief asked.

Yarona shook her head. "He wouldn't tell me anything related to his personal information. Whenever I tried to ask him about his family or where he had come from, he would tactfully change the topic. Also, I've noticed how his powers have been increasing rapidly. I haven't seen him conduct any training, yet he's achieved the Sage Rank in just three months!"

Cray stroked his beard. "His body consists of the Koloretsua Stone, which is an extraordinary object. A person loses all their cultivation base when their soul fuses with the Koloretsua Stone in the beginning. As the soul and the stone continue to bind together, the person slowly regains the powers they had before dying in their last life. I wonder what cultivation rank this man had achieved back then."

The man who called himself Forty-nine was completely shrouded in mystery. Even a seasoned and powerful cultivator like Cray could not confirm who the man was in his past life. Therefore, he was not sure whether James' arrival at the Te'oma Village was good news or not.

"Mr. Cray, we should take him out before his powers are fully restored," one of the villagers suggested.

Just then, Jai stepped out of the crowd and said, "I've gathered some of the latest news about the Endlos during my latest visit. Around ten thousand epochs ago, the second extraterrestrial demon commander made an appearance..."

Jai went on to share what he had heard from the people of the outside world.

"The second and third commanders of the extraterrestrial demons have been reborn again. If the soul that had fused with the Koloretsua Stone belongs to the second extraterrestrial demon commander, it would mean trouble for us and the Te'oma Village."

A heavy silence hung in the room as Jai concluded his findings.

After a brief pause, Cray asked, "What happened to the man named James Caden?"

Jai replied, "He perished during the battle. Before he died, James Caden used all his soul power and activated the Endlos Heart to restore the fallen Chaos District.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5012-The village of Te'oma was a place hidden from the eyes of the outside world. The formation cast around the mysterious village was strong enough to block all occurrences and information from reaching the people within it. Therefore, the village chief would send one of their people out to the outside world to gather information about the latest happenings from time to time.

When Emperor Raiah was trying to fend off the extraterrestrial demons in the past, the people of Te'oma were aware of what was happening. However, all of them remained in Te'oma regardless.

The people of Te'oma shared the same mission, which was to guard and protect the Koloretsua Stone. Lady Tehila had ordered them to remain in Te'oma no matter what was happening in the outside world.

Also, all of the Te'oma villagers carried a specific restriction within their bodies. If anyone were to leave the village for an extended amount of time, it would activate the restriction and bring about their demise.

When Jai was sent to gather news this time, the man had tried to complete his task and head back home as soon as possible. He dared not stay long in the Endlos for fear of triggering the restriction.

The young man continued to elaborate on the latest happenings in the Endlos.

“Currently, there are several cultivators who have achieved the Chaos Completare Rank across the Endlos. One of them is Zaden Dalibor, the new lord of Endlos. Madam Thea, the Human Race's matron, and Taran Zach have also advanced into the Chaos Completare Rank.”

“Apart from that, a superior cultivator that goes by the title Emperor Hetsema is rumored to be very powerful too. No one knows what his exact cultivation rank is. However, people were sharing the story of how a Chaos Omnia Rank cultivator was kicked out of Mount Hetsema, Emperor Hetsema's residence when they had tried to challenge the man.”

After listening to Jai's findings, Cray proceeded to ask him about the news of fallen, superior cultivators that had happened recently.

Jai recalled having heard about Taran killing off more than twenty cultivators in the Chaos Arena. He quickly informed Cray about it too.

'The existence of the Koloretsua Stone has been kept a secret for many many years. Only capable, powerful cultivators in and above the Chaos Rank would have a chance to learn of its existence.

'By knowing which superior cultivators had perished in recent years, I would also be able to roughly predict whose soul had fused with the Koloretsua Stone. It could be the soul of one of those twenty or so cultivators who died in the Chaos

Arena,' Cray thought.

"What do we do now, Mr. Cray?" one of the villagers asked.

After a moment's consideration, Cray answered, "I'll have a chat with our visitor."

Meanwhile, James was resting on a thick branch of a tree located near the village's entrance. He had a serene smile on his face as he silently observed his surroundings and the small animals scurrying off.

Just then, an elder walking with a staff came near the tree and looked up at James.

The young man leaped off the branch and landed on the ground steadily. Then, James greeted the elder politely, " Hello,

Mr. Cray."

Cray beamed warmly at him. 'You don't have to be so polite around me.'

James sat on a big, flat rock next to the tree and asked curiously, "Can I know more about this tree? I could sense a trace of energy left by the cultivator, who had launched a blow at this tree. That person has probably achieved powers of the Chaos Compleatere Rank or the ranks above it."

Cray gave a small sigh and sat next to James. "Could you tell me more about yourself first, young man?"

James replied smilingly, "I want to know more about the background of this place too. Could you enlighten me first, Mr.

Cray?"

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5013-Cray fell silent for a moment.

After a few minutes, he began, 'Te'oma is the name of our village."

"Mhm." James nodded. "I know that."

Cray asked, "Do you also know about the history regarding the birth of Endlos, then?"

James shook his head. "No, I don't."

James had only learned of the stories surrounding Emperor Raiah and his achievements in the Endlos. He knew almost nothing about what had happened before that.

Cray stared at the young man's face for a while. Then, he said, "At the start of the Endlos' existence, one of its living beings pierced through the Endlos and made an opening in it. That was also the very first time when the Extraterrestrial Demons had attacked the Endlos."

Cray went on to elaborate on how the Extraterrestrial Demons had invaded the Endlos in search of the three beams of light. They were planning to unearth the ultimate secrets of the Endlos realm through those three beams of light.

Many lives were lost during that battle. Eventually, the people on the Endlos' side managed to drive the Extraterrestrial Demons out of Endlos.

Stone to close up the opening in the Endlos. Then, she kept the essence of the Koloretsua Stone in the Te'oma Village.

"Everyone living in the Te'oma Village is a servant of Lady Tehila. We were ordered to remain here and watch over the Koloretsua Stone. In recent years, we could see a new life was starting to form within the stone, and we were expecting the birth of a new being. However, your soul has fused with the Koloretsua Stone now."

After listening to Cray's explanation, James asked, "Who's Lady Tehila?"

Cray did not answer his question. Instead, he stared at James with an intense gaze. "Who are you? How did you find out about the Koloretsua Stone, and how did you know where it was?"

James paused for a few seconds. Then, he decided to share honestly. "I was named James Caden in my past life. I had met my end when I fought with the second commander of the Extraterrestrial Demons, Mekaisto Xelqart. My powers and cultivation base were rather insufficient at the time.

Though I had Emperor Raiah's legacy and the Endlos Heart, I was still no match for Mekaisto."

"In the past, I met a person who could see the future. She had seen a prediction of my future and gave me an inscription in advance."

“With the help of the inscription, I learned that a light beam would appear during my final battle. The light beam was one of the three light beams, which had appeared during the creation of Endlos that the Extraterrestrial Demons were after.”

“My soul had combined with the light beam back then.

During that time, I discovered the existence of the Koloretsua Stone. After that, I started searching for the stone.”

A soft smile hung on Cray’s face as he listened to James’ stories.

I’ve heard several stories about James Caden. The man is a true hero. He is willing to sacrifice himself to save the lives of many others.

‘He is our best option amongst the other deceased cultivators whose soul has fused with the Koloretsua Stone.

What’s more, it is almost impossible for us to remove his soul from the stone now.’ Cray pondered.

Cray started, “According to Lady Tehila, the person born from the Koloretsua Stone would become the lord of this village.

That person would also help remove the seal within the villagers’ bodies.”

James’ eyes widened.

Cray continued, “A seal has been placed in all of the Te’oma villagers’ bodies which makes it impossible for us to leave the village too long. We can only stay in Te’oma for as long as we live. Since you are the owner of the Koloretsua Stone now, you can try to undo the seal in our bodies and become our new lord.”

“All of you have the seal?!” James asked.

Cray nodded. “That’s not all. Even the village is placed under a seal.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5014-ames did not expect that the village and its people were all placed under a seal.

However, he was confident in his abilities. "Don't worry, Mr. Cray. Once my powers are fully restored, I will help the people of Te'oma undo the seal placed in their bodies."

Cray felt a small sense of relief upon hearing James' promise. Then, he slowly got to his feet, gave a slight nod, and headed back into the village.

James stared pensively at the elder's residing figure. At his current cultivation rank, James was already capable of leaving Te'oma. However, he could sense that there was something more hidden in this mysterious village.

'The village chief might not have shared all of the secrets of this village with me yet. I'll stay here until my powers are restored. Then, I'll try to find out more information about Te'oma.' James decided inwardly.

At the Heavenly Court's main hall, Jacopo sat in the seat reserved for the lord. Thea, the Human Race's matron, was seated on his right.

Thea took a glance around the room. Then, she announced," I can sense that James is still alive. I want all of you to get the word out that the humans are looking for James Caden.

I am putting out a huge reward for those who can provide us with information on James' whereabouts."

Even though Thea had reached the Chaos Completare Rank, she was only able to detect James' presence but not his exact location. Moreover, it would be too difficult and timeconsuming for her to search through every place across the ten districts.

The only plausible method left was to get as many people in the different districts to look for James by offering a reward.

“Understood!” the men present in the hall answered in unison.

After receiving Thea’s orders, numerous human cultivators traveled across the Endlos to spread the news and look for James simultaneously. As the news of the reward reached different clans and races in the ten districts, more and more cultivators joined the search for James in order to claim the reward.

Meanwhile, James was still staying in the small village located within the Presta District.

He had learned that Zaden Dalibor had become the new lord of Endlos. Also, he found out that Thea had achieved the Chaos Completare Rank. She even managed to take Zaden on in a battle, and their fight ended in a tie.

James also heard about how Taran had given Zaden a good beating while he was gone. Apart from that, he had learned about Emperor Hetsema for the first time.

As days went by, James’ soul and his new body grew to become more compatible. His powers increased simultaneously as well.

At long last, James had entered the Quasi Chaos Rank once again. Then, he noticed that the recovery rate of his powers had slowed down significantly.

Still, James wasn’t particularly concerned by the change. He was already able to wield and perform quite a number of signature skills at the Quasi Chaos Rank. He would be able to protect himself as long as he did not have to face opponents like Zaden or Taran.

One day, the villagers of Te'oma gathered in the village chief's house.

James was seated in a chair. He asked, "Which one of you want to go first?"

Cray directed his gaze at Yarona. "You go first, Yarona."

The young lady walked over to James and stopped before him. Her eyes were bright with anticipation. "Can... Can you really remove the seal?"

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5015-"I'll have to give it a try," James replied.

He wasn't sure he could succeed on the first try since this was the first time he was allowed to examine the seal in the villagers' bodies. Still, he felt confident with his expansive knowledge of various inscriptions.

James rose from his seat. Then, he lifted his hand and channeled his powers to the center of his palm. As James placed his palm lightly against Yarona's forehead, the lady could feel James' powers flowing through her entire body.

Soon enough, James could sense the presence of numerous mysterious inscriptions in Yarona's body. After giving it some thought, James carefully directed the flow of his powers toward the inscriptions.

As soon as his powers came into contact with one of the inscriptions, it triggered a sudden change in the inscriptions. An overwhelming energy was generated and unleashed from the inscriptions, casting James' powers out of Yarona's body immediately.

The energy affected Yarona as well. The lady coughed up a mouthful of blood and fainted shortly afterward.

“Yarona!” Jai hurried to Yarona’s side to pick her up from the floor.

James furrowed his brow and muttered to himself, “What was that?”

Cray appeared completely unruffled as he explained, ‘The seal was created by Lady Tehila herself. If anyone were to try and remove it by force, any attempts would trigger the seal and cause harm to the bearer of the seal.”

James seemed a little flustered. ‘The inscriptions inside her body were rather unusual. I can’t decipher and remove them right away. However... Allow me some time, and I’ll find a way to solve these inscriptions.”

James was sincerely more eager than anyone else to find new inscriptions of foreign or obscure origin. With more and more new inscriptions added to James’ formation, he found that the power of his formation would improve as its variations increased.

Therefore, James was more than willing to work on any unique inscriptions as it would help benefit him in the long run.

‘That’s enough for today. You can leave now.” Cray waved his hand dismissively and politely asked James to leave.

James gave a slight nod and made his way out of the room. As soon as he had closed the door behind him, James saw that a formation cast around the room was activated.

The man scratched the tip of his nose as he stared at the door. He mumbled under his breath, “They even put up a formation... I wonder what they are discussing there.”

Then, James treaded away slowly.

Inside the room, Yarona had eventually regained consciousness. However, the young lady was as white as a sheet.

Cray had a grim expression as he gazed at the lady resting in a chair.

“Mr. Cray, can we really trust Forty-nine?” One of the villagers asked.

Cray shook his head. “I can’t say for sure if he’s the real James Caden. If he is the man whose stories we’ve all heard about, then we can put our faith in him.”

“I’ve been observing this man for quite some time. The man has a genuine and unpretentious disposition. I have detected a trace of demonic energy in his body. However, his sense of morality and righteousness were strong enough to keep the demonic energy from getting out of control.”

“Should we let him enter the secret library?” Jai asked.

Cray paused briefly and said, “He has to enter the secret library and learn the Orstellen Art. Without the knowledge of the Orstellen Art, he won’t be able to remove the seal in our bodies.”

“What do we do now?”

“We have not confirmed his identity yet, so we can’t just hand over the art to him like this.”

As the others discussed what they should do next, Cray remained silent and pondered for a while. Eventually, he came to a decision.

“The only choice we have left now is to unlock the secret realm. Lady Tehila had left a message for us before departing this place. If something happens to the Koloretsua Stone and no new being is formed from it, our people should activate the secret realm. The person who can succeed in making it through the secret realm will be worthy of having the Orstellen

Art.”

“Are we opening the secret realm for Forty-nine alone?”

“Of course not,” Cray responded, “The Koloretsua Stone is no more. There is no point in us guarding this place or keeping it hidden. We can reveal our location and spread the news about the Orstellen Art. Anyone is welcome to enter the secret realm to obtain the Orstellen Art.”

“Mhm. That’s the only way now.”

“If Forty-nine really is the destined person for the Koloretsua Stone, then he’ll be able to make it through the test.”