

Read The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5016-According to Lady Tehila's words, the being born from the Koloretsua Stone would free the villagers of their seal and lift Te'oma's seal.

However, another being had bonded with the stone at the moment and hindered their mission to lift the seals.

Initially, Cray had hoped that James would be able to fulfill that task. Seeing that James had failed just now, Cray decided it was time for them to move on to the alternative plan.

By unlocking their secret realm, the Orstellen Realm, the person who could pass the tests within the realm would be offered the chance to learn the Orstellen Art. The wielder of the Orstellen Art would possess the knowledge to remove the Te'oma villagers' seal.

After assessing the situation, Cray decided to reveal Te'oma's location to the outside world and welcome cultivators who might be interested in the Orstellen Art to enter their secret realm.

"In order to get the news widely spread across the ten districts, we need someone fit for the task." Cray stroked his beard.

"We should ask King Marciais to help us with this favor."

"King Marciais?!"

The villagers murmured amongst themselves excitedly upon the mention of that name.

"Let's head over to his place now."

Cray got up and headed for the door.

James was standing outside the house. He wanted to try and eavesdrop on the conversation happening inside the room he had just exited. However, he found that his Zen could not penetrate the powerful formation cast over the room.

Just then, he saw Cray and the villagers leaving the house. None of them paid him much attention as they appeared to be heading toward a spiritual mountain located at the periphery of the village.

James spotted Yarona and caught up with her. He asked curiously, 'Where are you guys going?'

Yarona replied softly, "Mr. Cray wants to announce the opening of the Orstellen Realm to the outside world. He's going to meet King Marciais now."

"Orstellen Realm?" James was hearing the name for the first time.

Yarona told James what the people of Te'oma had discussed just now.

"You have the Koloretsua Stone, but you can't seem to undo the seal in our bodies yet. So, Mr. Cray plans to unlock the Orstellen Realm to pick a successor of the Orstellen Art."

After listening to Yarona's explanation, James pouted and grumbled in a small voice, "As I've said, I just need more time to figure it out. I'm positive that I will find a method to undo the seal."

'We don't have much time left, though.'

A frown drew Yarona's brows together. 'The seal in our body has a time limit. The countdown starts as soon as the new being is born from the Koloretsua Stone. We've estimated the time of the being's birth to be around these few years. We have a time limit often epochs after that.”

“If we couldn’t remove the seal placed over us and the village within ten epochs, everyone would disappear along with the village when the time runs out. Our existences would be wiped out completely.”

“I see...” James dropped his gaze.

‘So, that’s what the seals are for. Why did the person who cast the seals on the people set so many restrictions, though?

What is she trying to achieve?’ James pondered.

‘Who’s King Marciais, then?’ James brought up another question.

Yarona replied, “A long long time ago, Te’oma was actually home to an influential and well-known sect called the Orstellen

Sect. After the invasion of the extraterrestrial demons was prevented and Lady Tehila, the saintess of the Orstellen Sect, had helped with the restoration of the Endlos, the Orstellen Sect had gone into anonymity.

Eventually, we named this place Te’oma.”

“King Marciais is a genius cultivator from Te’oma who has terrifying powers and skills. In the history of Te’oma, there was only one person whose skills and knowledge could match those of King Marciais’. You might not have met the man before, but you must be quite familiar with his stories by now.”

“Huh? Who’s that?”

James had a puzzled look on his face

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5017-“Xeraiah Fiadh.” Yarona mentioned a name.

“Uh... Who’s that? I haven’t heard of that name before.” James narrowed his eyes and shook his head.

“He also goes by the name of Emperor Raiah.”

“What?! Emperor Raiah?”

James was shocked out of his wits.

“That’s right.” Jai joined their conversation. “Emperor Raiah, or Xeraiah, was a member of Te’oma Village.”

“Aren’t all of you not allowed to stay away from Te’oma Village for too long? I recall that Emperor Raiah stayed in the outside world for extended periods of time though,” James asked.

Yarona explained, “Xeraiah carried the seal as well.

However, the man was so strong and talented that he had managed to gain the power to remove the seal on his own.

That was why he was able to leave Te’oma and travel in the outside world.”

“On the other hand, King Marciais is a superior cultivator whose powers are just slightly below that of Emperor Raiah. He once had the chance to break the seal within his body too. Unfortunately, he lost the battle to Xeraiah in the past and thus lost the opportunity to train in our sanctuary. The incident affected King Marciais’ spirit and mental state

An inconspicuous, desolate spiritual mountain could be found at one edge of the Te’oma village. The spiritual energy generated by the lands in that area was not particularly high. Hence, not many cultivators would choose the spiritual mountain as their training grounds.

Cray led the villagers to a spot where they could see the face of a tall, steep cliff. Then, Cray called out loud, “Zavis, it’s time to end your meditation now!”

Cray’s deep voice echoed as it reverberated through the space around the mountain.

A few seconds later, cracks started forming on the wall of the cliff. James and the villagers could see the shape of a door appearing on the face of the cliff.

A cloud of dust rose as pebbles and sand fell from the wall. Just then, the door flew open.

A man with long, unkempt hair walked out of the door the next instant. His clothes were so worn out that it seemed as though he hadn’t changed them for years.

The villagers bowed their heads slightly upon seeing the man.

“What’s this about?” Zavis Fiadh stopped before the crowd and asked nonchalantly.

“The Koloretsua Stone has found a new master,” Cray replied.

“Oh?” Zavis raised his brows. Still, he did not seem much interested in the matter. “What does that have to do with me?”

Cray said, “You’re an impressive genius cultivator, Zavis. You were fiercely eager to find a way to leave Te’oma in the past.

Unfortunately, you lost the battle to Xeraiah back then. Xeraiah was allowed entry to the sanctuary and received the treasure. After that, he managed to create the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Sutra, break the seal in his body, and leave

Te’oma.”

‘Well, I admit my loss.” Zavis gave a shrug.

“Though the Koloretsua Stone has a new master now, the current bearer of the stone doesn’t have the power to undo the seal in our body. We’ve decided to unlock the Orstellen Realm to pick a successor for the Orstellen Art. You would have been the perfect candidate to learn the Orstellen Art. However, Lady Tehila has made it clear that none of the people of Te’oma Village are allowed to learn the Orstellen Art.”

“That is why I have come to see you now. I need you to head to the outside world and spread the word about this.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5018-Cray had thought about it, and he decided that Zavis was the perfect candidate for the task.

With Zavis’ extraordinary powers and skills, he could easily gain the attention of other cultivators. By using that edge, they could get the news about the Orstellen Art out in the ten districts as soon as possible.

“Who has the Koloretsua Stone now?” Zavis asked.

Upon hearing the question, the villagers turned their eyes to James, who was standing at the back of the crowd, simultaneously.

James straightened himself and bowed slightly. He smiled brightly at Zavis. “It’s an honor to meet you, Mr. Zavis. I am

James Caden.”

Zavis focused his gaze on James. After confirming that James had reached the Quasi Chaos Rank, the man frowned. “He managed to gain possession of the Koloretsua Stone with that level of cultivation rank?!”

Cray responded, ‘You mustn’t take him too lightly, Zavis. He’s achieved many great things in his past life. The man managed to last in a battle against the second extraterrestrial demon commander at the Chaos Illimita Rank. He even received Xeraiah's legacy and mastered the knowledge of the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Sutra."

In the blink of an eye, Zavis teleported and reappeared right before James. He was so fast that it gave James quite a shock. The young man unconsciously took a few steps backward.

'You're the successor of Xeraiah's knowledge and legacy?' Zavis fixed James with a piercing gaze.

James stuttered a little, "M... Mr. Zavis, I didn't receive any formal or direct teaching from Xeraiah Fiadh himself.

However, I have learned the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Art created by him."

"Very well..."

Zavis' face broke into a smile. "After I lost the battle to Xeraiah, he entered the sanctuary and created the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Sutra. I haven't had the chance to see him before he was gone. Now, I'll get to see for myself if the signature skill created by him is all that great!"

Upon hearing those words, James scrunched up his face." Isn't this a bit too unfair for me, Mr. Zavis? I've only advanced to the Quasi Chaos Rank. I am still a long way from regaining all of my powers. How could I possibly try to battle you?"

"I'll adjust my cultivation base and fight with powers of the Quasi Chaos Rank too," Zavis suggested.

James fell silent as an idea came to him. He asked, "What if you lose, then?"

'That's impossible.' Zavis had no doubt about his skills and capabilities.

'There's no way I'm going to lose. Xeraiah was the only person who could defeat me even though we were both in the same cultivation rank. Also, we're just going to spar. This isn't a battle to decide one's life and death."

"I'm just saying what if that happens." James explained, " You can't expect me to agree to a battle challenge so easily. I'll need some form of reward as motivation, don't you think?"

"I'll become your loyal subordinate if I lose the sparring." Zavis did not even hesitate as he made the promise. He felt extremely confident that no one would be able to beat him.

There was a small commotion among the crowd as the villagers heard Zavis' words.

Cray raised his hand and interrupted Zavis, 'You're being too hasty, Zavis. Even though James lost the battle to the second commander of the extraterrestrial demons, he had nonetheless managed to destroy one of the commander's clones."

Unlike Zavis, Cray had the feeling that James might be able to defeat Zavis if the two of them were in the same cultivation rank.

Zavis gave a snort. Then, he said, "Let's move this to the arena."

Cray sighed with resignation. "Fine."

The elderly man lifted a palm and began conjuring multiple inscriptions. As more and more inscriptions circled around them, James and the others could see how their surroundings were gradually changing.

All of them seemed to have arrived beside a huge arena, which was completely surrounded by green, majestic spiritual mountains.

Zavis teleported and reemerged in the battle arena, followed by James.

The young man had a calm, determined look in his eyes. James had the absolute conviction that he was unbeatable amongst those who had the same cultivation rank as him. He was certain that he could take down even Emperor Raiah if the latter were in the Quasi Chaos Rank too.

Meanwhile, the villagers were excited as they waited for the battle between those two men to begin.

“Who’d you say would win?”

“It’ll be King Marciais, of course!”

“Forty-nine claims to be the reincarnation of James Caden. Still, the stories of the battle between him and Mekaisto Xelqart were words of mouth gathered by Jai. Those stories could have been exaggerated.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5019-“I think King Marciais will win too.

‘The Marciais Path recorded in King Marciais’ Divine Martial Scripture was one of the most exceptional signature skills ever created!”

“Indeed! King Marciais might have been able to defeat Emperor Raiah if they were to have had the battle at a later time.”

In the arena, Zavis stood with his hands on his back. He seemed relaxed as he said, “You can use and unleash whatever skills you’ve learned, young man. Our saintess has put up a secure formation around the arena. You don’t have to hold back at all.”

“I’ll gladly oblige, then.”

James activated the Omniscience Path at once and entered the state of the Eleventh Rank. Three circles of halo glowed around James’ body.

He had decided to fight solely with the powers of the Omniscience Path to gauge Zavis’ skills and abilities first. His opponent was rumored to be as strong as Emperor Raiah, after all.

“Oh! He must have studied the Divine Martial Scripture circulated in the outside world.”

“He’s planning to use the signature skill created by King Marciais against the creator himself?! Isn’t that a bit hasty?”

The villagers were mostly amused by how things were progressing.

On the other hand, Zavis gave a nod of approval upon seeing the powers released by James. “Hm... Not bad. You’ve managed to master the Marciais Path from the Divine Martial Scripture and reach the Eleventh Rank of Marciais Path.

Still, you have a long way to go before achieving full enlightenment of the skill.”

‘The Marciais Path from the Divine Martial Scripture?’ James was thrown off by the mention of new names he had never heard of.

Zavis grinned broadly. “I created the Divine Martial Scripture and released it to the outside world. However, the scripture was a simplified version of the skills I’d come up with. As time went by, the knowledge contained in the scripture was gradually developed into what the people of the outside world called the Omniscience Path.”

‘You created the Omniscience Path?!’ James’ eyes bulged in surprise.

From what James had learned so far, the knowledge of the Omniscience Path had existed for a very long time. Yet, only two cultivators, Yardos and Soren, had managed to achieve great enlightenment and mastery of the skill.

He did not expect to learn that the Omniscience Path was originally the Marciais Path, which came from the Divine Martial Scripture.

“Of course,” Zavis responded calmly.

Three halos circled around Zavis’ body and shone brightly as he initiated the Eleventh Rank right away. Then, he stretched out an arm and gestured to James. “You can start first.”

James inhaled deeply. He knew that he could not afford to let his guard down around Zavis.

James immediately generated ten forms of energy with the powers of the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Art. An immense aura radiated from James as those ten energies circulated in his body.

Then, he unleashed the Blithe Omniscience to teleport and re-emerge before Zavis. In a flash, James was swinging his fist at Zavis’ face.

Zavis had detected an unusual energy the second James started generating the powers of the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Art.

The man swiftly increased the rank of the Marciais Path from the eleventh to the thirteenth rank.

At the twelfth rank of Marciais Path, a cultivator could generate and produce a new form of power as every aspect of their physical condition reached perfect synchronization.

At the thirteenth rank, the cultivator would be able to make an incredible breakthrough and enter the true state of the Marciais Path.

In a split second, Zavis reacted to James' movement and balled his fist to counter James' attack.

Boom!

Numerous cracks were formed in the space around the arena as both men's fists came into contact.

A few seconds later, both of them were sent flying backward due to the impact.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5020-The powers of the Thirteenth Rank of Marciais Path was immensely potent. Even though James had unleashed the ten powers through the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Art, he was unable to overpower Zavis.

As soon as James had steadied himself, he complained aloud, "Mr. Zavis, you did not keep to your promise. You said that you would adjust your cultivation rank to match mine during the battle!"

Zavis let out a chuckle. "I have suppressed my cultivation rank to match yours, and I haven't even begun to utilize that part of my powers. The Marciais Path is simply a signature skill that I have created. Technically speaking, it doesn't represent my current cultivation rank."

James had nothing to refute Zavis' words since what he said was mostly right.

'The knowledge of the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Sutra is as impressive as the others have claimed it to be. With just the Quasi Chaos Rank powers, you managed to take my attack of the thirteenth rank of the Marciais Path by channeling those ten powers.”

“Unfortunately for you, I have achieved the Marciais Path’s fourteenth rank. I’m already working on entering the fifteenth rank now. Do you still think you can beat me?”

‘The fourteenth rank?!’ James had a look of bewilderment on his face.

‘I’m only at the eleventh rank, whereas King Marciais has advanced to the fourteenth rank!

‘By referring to the ranks in the Omniscience Path, the powers of the tenth rank are equivalent to the Quasi Chaos Rank powers while the eleventh rank powers are similar to that of the Chaos Illimita Rank powers. As we move up to the fourteenth rank of the Omniscience Path, its powers are equivalent to that of the Chaos Essencia Rank.

‘That would mean even if Zavis were to give up on using the powers of his actual cultivation rank, he could still wield powers of the Chaos Essencia Rank through the Marciais Path...’ James pondered.

After the initial feelings of shock and amazement had passed, James began to assess his situation in a composed manner.

During his previous battle with Mekaisto, James managed to cause severe damage to his Chaos Completare Rank opponent even though he had only reached the Chaos Illimita Rank.

At the moment, Zavis was only deploying powers of the Omniscience Path. Moreover, the potency of his attacks was slightly weaker than that of Mekaisto's.

James could see hope in defeating his current opponent.

“Defying Heavens Art!”

As he initiated the skill, James accessed the countless microcosms in his body and unleashed the powers stored within simultaneously.

In a flash, James' aura flared up with the boost of the energies from the microcosms. Then, he proceeded to complete the thirty-three steps.

Eventually, James' aura combined with the aura from his surroundings. Zavis merely took a few steps backward whilst he tried to withstand the overwhelming pressure of James' attack and aura.

He was impressed by how James' aura was increasing by fold. “Excellent! You're holding up very well. Your aura and powers have increased significantly. In that case, I won't hold back too.”

Zavis initiated the fourteenth rank of the Marciais Path the next instant. A terrifying amount of aura radiated from the man almost instantaneously.

Both men launched their next attack at each other at the same time.

Just as they had come into close proximity, James could sense how the skills he used were still not enough to deflect Zavis' attack.

James swiftly conjured his formation to trap Zavis.

Zavis was caught completely off-guard as he suddenly found himself encapsulated in a strange formation. He focused his powers and launched a blast at the barrier of the formation. However, his attack did not seem to cause any damage to the formation.

On the other hand, James knew that his formation was not strong enough to hold Zavis for long. He must use the opportunity to take down Zavis in one go.

James held his hands up and began conjuring inscriptions of various signature skills such as the Universal Sword Art, the Blossoming, and the Tenfold Realms Transcendent Art. As those inscriptions fused into the formation, the corresponding signature skills were produced and the attacks were directed at Zavis.

Soon enough, Zavis' body was covered in blood and wounds.

The Te'oma villagers watched in awe as James managed to confine and overpower Zavis.

'The King Marciais is getting beaten up..