The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5121-Livie stood up and said, "Dad, I'll leave now.

"Alright." James waved.

Then, Livie left with King Marciais. As they left, she walked closely behind him and asked, "What has happened since the last entrapment?"

King Marciais smiled and replied, "A lot has happened. Your father is no longer the person he was when he fought Mekaisto back then. He's much stronger

"Even if he's stronger, he'll at most be at the Sovereign Rank. How can he remain so calm when facing the Great Elder in the Sovereign Third Rank?" Livie asked with concern.

As far as she knew, the Endlos Plane was just a small plane of existence.

Despite its great potential and power, reaching the Sovereign Rank meant reaching the pinnacle. Nurturing a Sovereign Rank powerhouse required gathering the entire providence of Endlos.

Without taking into account more powerful planes of existence, reaching the Sovereign Rank meant reaching the peak. She could not understand how James could remain so composed hearing about the Great Elder from Emyr Island.

"I have no idea." King Marciais shrugged. "I don't know James' current true strength. All I know is that he was only at the Chaos Essencia Rank before entering the Orstellen Sect's holy site for cultivation. In my estimate, the most he could have attained during his time in the holy site is the Chaos Compleat Rank. Who knows in which realm he currently resides," King Marciais said.

Despite his inability to determine James' current realm, James' composed demeanor reassured him that there was nothing to worry about.

Seeing Livie's frown, he smiled reassuringly and said, "Don't worry. With James guarding this part of Endlos, it'll be safe."

"I hope so." Livie sighed helplessly.

In the past, Endlos had only ever encountered Sovereign Rank powerhouse.

Even during the second invasion, the Extraterrestrial Demons' Great Commander was at most in the early stage of the Sovereign Rank. This time, the Great Elder that was coming was a Sovereign Third Rank powerhouse. Livie was genuinely worried that Endlos might not be able to withstand this new threat.

Despite being the Grand Priestess of Emyr Island, Livie had come to appreciate her time in Endlos, and she had no desire to return to the deceitful environment of the island.

In the manor, the Ancestral Blood Master looked serious as he asked, "James, are you really confident? That's a legendary powerhouse in the Sovereign Third Rank. The Sovereign Rank is a legend in Endlos, and a Sovereign Rank powerhouse alone has the potential to devastate the Endlos, let alone a Sovereign Third Rank powerhouse."

James smiled and said, "In the Central Plane or any other planes of existence, dealing with a Sovereign Third Rank powerhouse might pose a challenge.

However, here in Endlos, I've absorbed the three beams of Endlos Lights. I can be considered the Lord of the Endlos Plane, and I can harness all the power within it. If within Endlos, a Sovereign Third Rank powerhouse stands no chance against me.”

James was confident about this. As a Celestial Rank powerhouse in his past life, he had a deep understanding of the Sovereign Third Rank power. Moreover, he had a clear assessment of his current strength, knowing that with the combined power of his abilities and the Endlos Plane, he was assured of victory if a Sovereign Third Rank powerhouse dared to challenge him.

With this assurance, the Ancestral Blood Master felt a sense of relief. James added, “However, we can’t afford to be careless.” He then stood up and said, “I need to resolve some matters at the source.”

Next, he called out into the void, saying, “Thea, Wyot, and Mr. Taran, please come to meet me.”

James intended to confront the Extraterrestrial Demon outside Infinity City and the one lurking at the deepest part of the Tribulation World. These threats posed a significant concern for the Endlos Plane.

Emyr Island had been launching attacks on Endlos from various places. For them, the battle was always ongoing. Now, with the arrival of a Sovereign Third Rank powerhouse, it might be a total showdown. James needed to deal with some trouble before embracing the new battle wholeheartedly.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5122-Thea, Wyot, and Taran appeared one after the other.

“What happened?” Wyot asked, while Thea and Taran both looked at James.

James responded, “I’ve received news that the Great Elder of Emyr Island in the Central Plane outside Endlos has made an appearance in Endlos. Emyr Island is the home of the Extraterrestrial Demons that attacked Endlos. The Great Elder's name is Lor Willasse, and he's a Sovereign Third Rank powerhouse."

'The Sovereign Third Rank?' The three of them were stunned. Despite being legendary powerhouses in the Endlos Plane, none of them had reached the Sovereign Rank. Facing a living being of that rank did not guarantee a winnable battle, yet now a Sovereign Third Rank powerhouse had emerged.

Seeing their grave expressions, James reassured them with a smile, 'There's nothing to worry about. Lor's arrival indicates that Emyr Island is on the brink of a full-scale attack on Endlos. I need to handle battles on the other battlefields.

The three of you should focus on stabilizing the Endlos Plane for now."

Thea asked, "Where did you get this information?"

James explained, "From Livie. She used to hold a high position as the Grand Priestess of Emyr Island and could sense Lor's aura. She came here specifically to inform me."

Thea trusted Livie because she had once sacrificed herself to save James.

Thea solemnly declared, "Go ahead and entrust Endlos to us for now. As long as we're alive, we won't let the Extraterrestrial Demons harm Endlos."

"Alright." James nodded gently.

He had confidence in Thea, Wyot, and Taran's abilities. With the assurance that Lor would not personally intervene, the safety of the Endlos Plane seemed guaranteed for the time being.

Furthermore, the current Endlos had grown significantly stronger compared to the era of Emperor Raiah. In addition to Thea, Wyot, and Taran, it now boasted powerhouses like King Marciais, Henrik, and Yardos.

“Monitor the various parts of Endlos closely. Keep a vigilant eye on the situation in the Dark World,” James instructed.

Wyot did not hesitate and swiftly departed, while Taran also made his way out.

Thea, too, did not linger at the Orstellen Sect. She promptly returned to the universe where the Human Race resided.

After settling Livie, King Marciais quickly reappeared and found James.

“Zavis,” James called out.

King Marciais approached and took a seat nearby, looking at James. He asked,

“Do you have confidence in this battle?” James smiled and replied, “Absolutely.”

James had great confidence in his own strength. As long as the Island Lord of Emyr Island did not show up in person, this battle would be a certain victory for Endlos. Lor alone would not be able to stir up any trouble in Endlos.

“In the first battle, Lady Tehila refined the Koloretsua Stone to mend the heavens and protect Endlos. In the second battle, Emperor Raiah sacrificed a part of his soul to severely wound the Extraterrestrial Demons’ Great Commander. Likewise, in this battle, we will protect Endlos,” James said.

With those reassuring words, King Marciais felt at ease. Looking at James, he asked, “What do you need me to do?”

James replied, ‘You’ll be in charge at the Orstellen Sect. If the Extraterrestrial Demons do indeed launch an attack on Endlos, lend your support to Wyot and Taran.’

“What about you?” King Marciais asked.

James replied, "The battlefield isn't limited to one place. From the moment the Endlos Plane came into existence, Emyr Island has been attacking Endlos. This battle extends across the river of time, and the struggle at the source of time has not yet reached a conclusion. I must go to the source of time to bring this battle to a resolution. Emyr Island is attacking Endlos from various points, and there's also a battlefield at the end of the Tribulation World. I have to deal with these troubles before fully embracing the upcoming battle."

"Do you need my help?" King Marciais asked.

"Not at the moment," James replied. "You just need to take charge at the Orstellen Sect. And..."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5123-James remembered something and paused before saying, "By my side are reincarnations of the Extraterrestrial Demons. I'm unsure of their identities. Can you watch for any unusual behavior from those around me once Lor appears?"

Zella said that James had many reincarnations of Extraterrestrial Demons by his side, but he could not identify them at the moment.

"Alright, I'll keep an eye out." King Marciais nodded and then left. The Ancestral Blood Master also followed suit.

Right now, Endlos was peaceful, but it was the calm before the storm, and James needed to prepare.

Only James remained in the manor. A knocking sound came from outside the door, and the gate of the courtyard swung open, revealing an intelligent and beautiful woman dressed in white.

"James," Zella called out sweetly as she walked in.

"Zella, you're here," James said, smiling.

"Yep," Zella replied as she sat down. "I saw something unusual."

James knew she was referring to Endlos becoming unsettled soon.

He looked at Zella and asked, "What did you see?"

He was curious about what Zella, who had prophetic abilities, had seen. In his understanding, the future did not exist. It was uncertain and not fixed. The future was full of variables, and the actions of any living being could influence and change it.

"The Extraterrestrial Demons have appeared," Zella said with a serious expression. "I saw a legendary powerhouse cross the spatial barrier of the Endlos Plane and appear within it."

"Can you see what will happen in the future, and can you see if we have a chance of winning the upcoming battle in Endlos?" James asked with curiosity.

"No." Zella shook her head slightly. "I can only sense that the next battle will be very fierce and brutal."

"Have you found any leads on the reincarnations of the Extraterrestrial Demons by my side that you mentioned last time?" James asked again.

Although he was now very powerful and unafraid of the reincarnations of the Emyr Island powerhouses, he still felt uncomfortable with some uncertainties by his side. He needed to find out who they were before the final battle.

Zella shook her head again. She had only sensed the presence of the Extraterrestrial Demon powerhouses in Endlos and knew no more beyond that.

"Alright, I understand." James nodded gently. "You can go now. I will handle these matters."

"Okay." Zella stood up, bid farewell to James, and then left.

After some thought, James stood up and decided to leave.

Once again, he appeared in the Human Universe. He stood in the vast void and then activated the District Heavenly Path of the Endlos, forcibly entering the Tribulation World. His purpose this time was to deal with the Extraterrestrial Demon outside the Tribulation City and get the Emperor of Tribulation to lend a hand.

The Emperor of Tribulation had guarded Endlos for countless ages, and now James intended to share some of the burden.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5124-James appeared in the Tribulation World. He traversed through countless Tribulation Clouds and the lightning tribulation. Soon, he reached the end of the Tribulation World, where a solitary city lay in the distance.

The city was vast but desolate, with towering closed gates and no signs of life on the city walls, only silence.

James walked toward it. Just as he arrived at the Tribulation City's gate, the Emperor of Tribulation guarding the city sensed his presence.

Swish!

A remnant light descended and gradually coalesced into a man wearing tattered armor. The man's hair was disheveled, and he bore some scars, looking rather disheveled.

"Brat, you're here," the Emperor of Tribulation glanced at James and casually greeted him. In that instant, he realized he could not sense James' cultivation realm and exclaimed, "You?"

James also looked at the Emperor of Tribulation. Previously, he could not sense his realm, but upon his return to the city, he found that he could now sense his cultivation realm. The Emperor of Tribulation was an existence surpassing not only the Chaos Compleat Rank but also the Consummation Chaos Compleat Rank, having ascended to the Sovereign Rank.

“I didn’t expect you to be a Sovereign Rank powerhouse,” James said as he looked at the Emperor of Tribulation.

“Brat,” the Emperor of Tribulation said after his initial surprise, smiling. “I can’t even fathom your cultivation realm now. It seems you’ve had some opportunities and boons during this time. Your strength has truly grown.”

“Yes,” James nodded lightly and said, “I’ve come this time with the intention of completely resolving the battle in this place.”

“Completely resolving it?” The Emperor of Tribulation was thoroughly stunned and remained in a daze for several seconds before bursting into laughter.

“Excellent! After spending countless epochs guarding, I’ve patiently awaited the moment to fully resolve this battle. Now, let’s enter the city and discuss things.”

The Emperor of Tribulation led James into the city. The main hall in the city mansion was empty. The Emperor of Tribulation invited James to sit casually, and James complied.

It was only then that the Emperor of Tribulation began to speak. “Back then, when powerhouses from other planes of existence invaded Endlos, numerous powerhouses from Endlos united to form the Orstellen Sect. Together, they began a united resistance against the Extraterrestrial Demons.”

As he recounted these events, the Emperor of Tribulation got lost in thought.

Unbeknownst to him, countless ages had passed.

“In that battle, it was truly earth-shattering as powerhouses from other planes of existence infiltrated every corner. The first sect leader of the Orstellen Sect went to Infinity City to defend against the Extraterrestrial Demons, while I came to guard the Tribulation City. In the outside world, Lady Tehila created the Koloretsua Stone and repaired the rifts in Endlos, expelling the Extraterrestrial Demons from it.”

Upon hearing this, James was amazed. He had thought that the powerhouses outside the Infinity City, including the Emperor of Tribulation, had only started guarding this place during the second invasion of the Extraterrestrial Demons, which occurred during Emperor Raiah's era.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5125-James never knew that they were actually members of the Orstellen Sect and they had been guarding this place since the first invasion of the Extraterrestrial Demons. He did not expect the powerhouse of the Infinity City to be the first sect leader of the Orstellen Sect.

"Brat, what's your current cultivation realm?" the Emperor of Tribulation looked at James and asked. "I reached the Sovereign Rank a long time ago, but I can't quite discern your cultivation realm."

"I'd say I'm in the Consummation Chaos Completare Rank," James replied.

Although he had fully absorbed and refined three beams of the Endlos Lights, became the Lord of Planes, reached the sixteenth rank of the Marciais Path, and created a Supernatural Signature Skill known as the Tressencia Completare Art, his cultivation realm still remained at the Consummation Chaos Completare Rank. He had yet to enter the Sovereign Rank. However, the sixteenth rank of the Marciais Path was already equal to the Sovereign Rank.

"This?" The Emperor of Tribulation furrowed his brows slightly, then his expression turned serious as he said, "James, it's too early to talk about ending the battle now. The powerhouse attacking the Tribulation City to enter Endlos through the Tribulation World is terrifying. Even I can barely hold this place after occupying the Tribulation City and utilizing the Tribulation World's power."

Upon learning of James' cultivation realm, the Emperor of Tribulation showed evident disappointment. He thought they could truly end the battle, only to discover that James had only achieved the Consummation Chaos Completable Rank. Even though this realm was powerful, it was insufficient to definitively resolve the battle.

James smiled and said, "I've absorbed and refined three beams of the Endlos Lights and comprehended the inscriptions within. Moreover, I've created a powerful Supernatural Signature Skill. Also, I'm now the Lord of Planes, capable of wielding the power of the Endlos Plane. There should be no problem dealing with the battle in the deepest part of the Tribulation World."

The Emperor of Tribulation looked at James and said, "James, have you thought it out clearly? I've always been on defense. Once we open the formation and leave the city, the Tribulation City will be lost if we fail. The Extraterrestrial Demon will then enter Endlos through the Tribulation World, causing the Tribulation World to break and subjecting the entire Endlos Plane to constant Heavenly Tribulation."

"Mhm," James replied earnestly. "I've carefully considered it. I understand the gravity of the situation. A Sovereign Third Rank powerhouse has already appeared in the outside world. We need to resolve the battles in the Tribulation World and the Infinity City before dealing with him."

Seeing James' confidence, the Emperor of Tribulation remained silent. He stood up and patted James on the shoulder, and his aura instantly soared to its peak as he said, "Alright, let's join forces today to eliminate Demon Laird in the deepest part of the Tribulation World."

"James, you don't fully understand the powerhouse attacking the Tribulation World. Let me give you a brief introduction." Emperor of Tribulation continued,

'The powerhouse that attacked the Tribulation World is known as Demon Laird.

He can evade the plane's patrols and enter any plane from the Tribulation World. His cultivation realm is formidable. He's reached the later stage of the Sovereign First Rank. I can barely resist him by using the formation of the Tribulation City and harnessing the power of the Tribulation World."

The Emperor of Tribulation provided some information about Demon Laird.

Upon learning of his rank, James felt relieved. He smiled and said, "You've guarded this place for countless years and protected the safety of Endlos. I'll handle the upcoming battle. You can just watch from the Tribulation City."

"Are you confident?" The Emperor of Tribulation looked at James skeptically.

James had only reached the Consummation Chaos Compleatere Rank. Despite him being the Lord of Planes, the Emperor of Tribulation still had some concerns.

"Haha," James laughed heartily and said, "Just enjoy the show from the city walls."

With James' assurance, the Emperor of Tribulation did not say anything more.

The two of them quickly left the city mansion and reappeared atop the city walls.

James stood on the wall, gazing at the densely packed dark clouds and the multitude of monsters outside the formation.

As he stepped outside the city, he encountered the Tribulation City's formation.

Just as the Emperor of Tribulation was about to open the formation to let James out, James dispelled the formation with ease.

'This brat.' The Emperor of Tribulation's face showed a hint of shock. "You effortlessly dispelled the Tribulation City's formation. What incredible strength!"
