

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5136-5140

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5136-Xezal thought she would have to spend some time trying to persuade Lor. So, she was rather surprised when she got his permission so easily.

Lor produced a token and tossed it in Xezal's direction." Take this token with you. The men I've brought with me and those we've planted here in Endlos will heed your command if you show them the token."

Xezal smiled contemptuously as she kept the token in her pocket.

"I still don't know which of the cultivators in Endlos have actually reincarnated from another plane of existence."

Lor shared without a hint of hesitation, "Wynton Yanes is the reincarnation of the young lord from Emyr Island. Also, Xrival from the Human Race used to be a cultivator from Emyr Island."

"Wynton... and Xrival?!" Xezal stuttered a little due to shock.

She had gotten quite a shock when she discovered that Sedris was the reincarnation of a cultivator who had tried to conquer Endlos. Never did she expect to find that Wynton and Xrival were from Emyr Island as well.

Xezal drew a long breath to calm herself down.

"You can leave now. I'll be looking forward to hearing good news from you."
Lor

waved his hand dismissively.

Xezal did not wait for Sedris as she teleported and left right away. The fact that Xrival was Lor's subordinate would make it a lot easier for Xezal to carry out her plans.

On the other hand, James had been keeping a close watch over the situation in and around the Orstellen Sect from the nearby universe. He even made a mental note of the cultivators who had left the Orstellen Sect's base recently.

"Huh?"

James spotted a familiar face at that moment.

"Xezal? What is she doing at the Orstellen Sect?"

Ever since he had recovered memories of his past life in the Orstellen Sect's sanctuary, James had also realized Xezal's true identity.

Xezal was once a superior cultivator from the Central Plane named Lady Wikolia. Back then, she was also one of his admirers.

During his last life, James was completely immersed in his life mission of achieving better and greater power. He did not show much interest in anything else.

James did not dwell on how Xezal had ended up being reincarnated into the Endlos. Moreover, he could tell that Xezal had yet to recover her memories from their past interactions. He had decided to catch up with her once he had settled things in Endlos and when Xezal had regained her memories.

James was completely oblivious to the fact that it was Lady

Wikolia who had masterminded and conspired with other cultivators to bring him down.

After her feelings were rejected, Lady Wikolia was so infuriated and heartbroken that she ultimately chose to exterminate James' past self, Lord Supremus.

Xezal appeared somewhere just outside the Orstellen Sect's base. She tried her best to conceal her aura and presence. However, James noticed her almost instantaneously.

Soon enough, she met up with Wynton somewhere nearby. After that, she got to see Xrival too.

James was able to listen to their entire conversation with his powers. He furrowed his brows as he considered what to do next.

'Wynton is the young lord of Emyr Island... Also, Thea's father, Xrival is actually the reincarnation of Lor Willasse's subordinate?!' James never thought that those two men would turn out to be the spies.

A brief moment later, James curled his lips.

"This is getting interesting. As expected of Lady Wikolia, her reincarnation managed to get in touch with Lor within such a short amount of time. She even received Lor's token and was allowed to command his men from Emyr Island.

Let's see what you will do after this."

James felt much more at ease after learning who the spies from Emyr Island were. He continued to stay hidden in that universe while keeping everyone under constant surveillance.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5137-Xezal went on her way after meeting with Wynton and Xrival. Shortly afterward, Wynton left the Orstellen Sect's base too.

James immediately contacted Gurgun and Gaius. He asked them to follow and monitor Xezal and Wynton separately.

Meanwhile, Thea was meditating near the edge of a cliff within the Orstellen Sect's territory.

She could sense that the battles in the Tribulation World and the Infinity Cities had ended. However, James had not returned to the Orstellen Sect yet.

Therefore, Thea continued to wait for James there.

Just then, a middle-aged man in a red robe approached Thea.

Thea got to her feet and greeted, "Father."

Xrival nodded and asked, "Are you waiting here for James?"

"Mhm." Thea continued, "The tremors caused by the battle in the Infinity Cities have died down. Yet, James hasn't returned to us. I'm feeling a bit worried."

Xrival smiled. "Don't worry. With his current skills and abilities, James will be alright."

He dropped his gaze and said a little hesitantly, 'Thea, there's something I have to tell you.'

"What is it?" Thea looked at Xrival curiously.

Xrival replied, "It's about your origin."

"My origin?" Thea seemed rather confused.

'That's right.' Xrival stepped closer to the edge of the cliff and gazed into the distance. After he took a deep breath, Xrival went on, "You came from the deepest area of the Dark World."

‘The Dark World?’ Thea widened her eyes.

There was a glazed look in Xrival’s eyes as he recalled those past memories.

“Back then, Zaden Dalibor had hidden the Chaos District. However, the Chaos District was still connected to the Dark World. In fact, not only does the Dark World exist in the Endlos Plane, but it is also connected to any of the other planes of existence.”

Thea had a fair understanding of what Xrival was describing regarding the Dark World.

“I was still a rather average cultivator at that time. One day, I noticed something strange happening in the Dark World. When I had just stepped into the Dark World, I saw you, who was just a newborn baby. At the time, a huge group of monsters emanating immense amounts of black aura surrounded you to form a strong protection barrier.”

“I had no idea who you were or where you came from.

Those monsters escorted you out of the Dark World and disappeared shortly afterward. After that, I brought you out of that place.”

Xrival had not found any new clues relating to that incident. However, his instincts were telling him that there must be something more to Thea’s origin and background.

Moreover, after he had recovered memories of his past life, Xrival could not help but feel concerned as he recalled the events that happened back then.

Thea was in a state of shock after listening to Xrival's confession. He had kept her in the dark all this time.

Thea was learning for the first time that she had actually been reincarnated into the Endlos from another plane of existence. However, she still could not remember anything from her past life even though she had achieved the Consummation Chaos Completare Rank.

"Also..." Xrival directed his gaze at Thea.

He swiftly generated several inscriptions and shot them toward Thea's body.

By the time Thea had reacted, the inscriptions had fused into her body and sealed her cultivation base. When Thea tried to break the seal in her body, she felt a sharp pain in her body instead.

"Father, you..."

"Thea, I am actually the reincarnation of a cultivator who comes from the Central Plane's Emyr Island. I was planted in the Endlos Plane a long time ago, and I just recovered my memories."

"Emyr Island is an extremely powerful force. James might be strong, but he wouldn't be able to hold up against those from Emyr Island."

'The people from Emyr Island wish to obtain the Endlos Lights. However, James has absorbed and cultivated the Endlos Light. I have no choice but to take you as my hostage and force James to surrender the Endlos Lights.”

“I have to fulfill my mission. It’ll be a win-win situation as long as James cooperates and surrenders the Endlos Lights.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5138-Thea never would have imagined that her father would turn out to be the reincarnation of a skilled cultivator from another plane of existence.

Since Xrival had recovered his memories, he also regained all the powers he had lost before being reincarnated into the Endlos. Currently, his powers were not inferior to Thea’s. Therefore, he was able to seal her cultivation base with a surprise attack, i

After he had finished saying all that, Xrival moved Thea into his storage treasure by using his powers. Then, he left the place.

No one at the Orstellen Sect’s base had realized that Thea was abducted.

Fortunately, James had witnessed the entire incident.

With his incredible powers and skills, James could easily monitor what was happening at the Orstellen Sect even though he was situated in the neighboring universe.

Sitting in a chair inside the residence, a small frown drew James’ brows together.

Under normal circumstances, James would have immediately departed to rescue Thea. Moreover, he could easily get her out of Xrival’s clutches if he wanted to.

However, James decided to lay low and continue watching those from Emyr Island. He wanted to find out how far these people would go to achieve their goals.

That would ultimately decide these people's fate when James initiates his plans for retaliation later on.

James raised his hand and conjured an inscription at that moment. The inscription slowly vanished from the space before James and reappeared next to Xrival at the Orstellen Sect's territory. The inscription remained in an invisible state and started following Xrival.

At the same time, Wynton had left the Orstellen Sect's base and traveled to the Human Universe.

In his past life, Wynton was the young lord from Emyr Island, and he had achieved the Sovereign Rank back then. His powers were also restored as he regained the memories of his past life.

Wynton abducted some of James' family members and friends at the Human Universe. Simultaneously, James received news about what Wynton did from Gurgen, who was in charge of following Wynton.

Still, James told Gurgen to remain dormant and just follow Wynton for the time being.

James massaged his temples and muttered in a low voice, "I hope they won't do anything too drastic and cross the line. Otherwise, I won't show them mercy either."

Soon enough, Gaius contacted him with new updates.

"I have news, James. I think I've found Lor Willasse's location."

After listening to the message sent through Gaius' inscription, James rose to his feet. An immensely powerful aura radiated from his body. "Finally, I get to go all out on another battle."

James teleported and reemerged before Gaius, who was waiting at a place located not too far away from Lor's spiritual mountain.

Gaius spotted James and gave a slight nod. "You're here, James."

"Mhm." James asked, "What have you found so far?"

Gaius replied, "Xezal Dalibor stopped by this place briefly and left afterward. I can sense a tremendous source of aura that I have never encountered in the Endlos coming from that spiritual mountain. Even I feel threatened by the owner of that aura. I'm guessing that Lor Willasse, Emyr Island's Great Elder resides here."

He looked at James. "What do you plan to do now?"

James said, "The biggest threat that we're facing in the Endlos comes from this man. As long as we remove Lor Willasse, we'll have no trouble dealing with the other issues."

Gaius suggested, "In that case, we should inform Gurgan to return here.

Although the two of us have only reached the Sovereign First Rank, we can still assist you in bringing Lor down."

James waved his hand dismissively. "It's alright. The two of you should keep watch and ensure the safety of the entire Endlos.”

Then, James teleported and arrived at the foot of the spiritual mountain.

“Who’s there?”

Several guards were stationed along the perimeter of the mountain.

Although these men had perfectly disguised themselves as humans, James could still sense the dark auras hidden deep in their bodies. It was a distinctive aura that belonged to those who came from Emyr Island. 1

James’ gaze drifted across those men standing in his way. 3

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5139-Then, he moved his feet and began walking toward the mountaintop.

Simultaneously, the guards were eerily vaporized as they tried to pounce at James. They were exterminated even before they could get close enough to their target. Not even a fragment of their souls had survived James’ attack.

Since there weren’t any formation cast around the mountain, James was able to ascend the mountain fairly quickly.

Meanwhile, Lor had detected an unusual aura coming from the direction of the mountain’s base. As he used his powers to check who was there, Lor witnessed how James managed to take out his subordinates in just a matter of seconds.

Whoosh!

James had materialized before Lor inside the manor located near the top of the mountain.

Lor remained in his seat as he started in a calm voice, "I wasn't expecting you to show up here voluntarily, James Caden."

James walked over to an empty chair next to Lor and plopped down. "You shouldn't have come to the Endlos. To be honest, you picked the wrong time. If you had chosen to come here during the first or second invasion attempts, you probably would have succeeded in conquering the Endlos. You've lost your best opportunity when you choose to appear now."

"Is that right?" Lor smiled faintly and asked, "Are you saying that I've lost the opportunity because you are here now?"

"Precisely." James slowly nodded. Then, he met Lor's gaze." You come from the Central Plane. Have you heard of the Supremusseum?"

'The Supremusseum?"

Lor's eyes widened in surprise at the mention of that name.

"It seems you have." James' lips curled.

"You... How are you associated with the Supremusseum?" Lor kept his gaze trained on James' face.

James replied nonchalantly, "Well, the Supremusseum was my old dojo. I was a bit careless in the past, and I almost got exterminated by a group of cultivators.

Luckily for me, I have learned the Thousand Souls Secret Art. I managed to survive the attack by using that secret art. By chance, I was then reincarnated into the Endlos Plane.”

There was a loud crash as Lor jumped out of his seat but tripped and fell onto the floor.

The Supremuseum belonged to a force that was once feared by all in the Central Plane. It was also one of the strongest groups known by many across the different planes of existence.

Although Lord Supremus had perished, one of his subordinates had taken over to manage the Supremuseum. Even after so long, the group still possessed immense power and influence among their people.

Lor’s family had kept a portrait of Lady Wikolia all along. Therefore, he was able to recognize her when he saw Xezal.

However, Lor had not had the chance to see Lord Supremus in the flesh. He had no information regarding Lord Supremus’ age and gender. If anyone were to come up to him and admit that they were Lord Supremus, Lor never would have believed them.

However, he had just met the reincarnation of Lady Wikolia not too long ago. He could run into Lord Supremus’ reincarnation just like this too.

“Lord... Lord Supremus, I... I...”

Lor scrambled to his feet. He could not even finish his sentence coherently. “I... I’ll leave right now. I won’t ever step foot in the Endlos again.”

“You don’t have to do that.” James continued, “I will allow you a chance to challenge me. You can leave Endlos if you win. If you lose, I will end you right “I...”

Lor scrunched his face as if he was about to burst into tears.

He had never imagined that he would receive a battle challenge from Lord Supremus someday. Even though James was merely the reincarnation of Lord Supremus, Lor dared not go into an actual battle with him.

Lord Supremus was such a mighty and powerful cultivator that he could probably take out the lord of Emyr Island with just a snap of his fingers.

“My soul has sustained severe damage during that final attack in my last life. Though I have regained my memories, my powers are still not fully restored. I am still in the same cultivation rank that I have achieved thus far in my current life. So, there’s a chance you may defeat me.”

James spoke in a calm and collected manner. He was never going to allow Lor to leave the Endlos alive.

Also, James postulated that he had a sixty percent chance of winning a battle against Lor. So, he intentionally shared the stories of his past to exert pressure on Lor and to raise his chances of winning by another twenty percent.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5140-Even after James had said all that, it did not change how Lor felt about having a battle with him.

“Lord... Lord Supremus, please spare my life! I truly had no clue that you were reincarnated into the Endlos. If I had known, there was no way I would have chosen to come here in the first place!”

Lor said in a choked voice, “Could you please show me some mercy and spare me this time?”

A cryptic smile played across James’ face.

There was no way he would let Lor walk out of this place in one piece.

Lor had learned of James’ true identity. If the man were to disclose or spread this information to others, James’ old enemies might come looking for him soon.

At his current cultivation rank and skills, James stood no chance against those superior cultivators.

James had decided to keep his real identity a secret. That meant he would have to get rid of loose ends like Lor.

“How about this? I will offer you two options,” James replied after giving it some thought.

Lor’s face brightened up. “I’m all ears.”

James began, “Option one, I will give you a fatal blow that will destroy your entire being and your soul. Option two, you will enter the process of reincarnation voluntarily. Also, you are not allowed to recover your memories and powers within the next one hundred thousand entrapochs.”

“I choose to be reincarnated.”

There wasn't the slightest hint of hesitation in Lor's voice. He would very much rather get reincarnated than cease to exist permanently.

"Go on, then." James waved his hand dismissively.

Lor discarded his physical body as his soul materialized outside of his body and left to reenter the reincarnation process.

Gaius dropped his jaw as he watched the exchange between those two men from where he was. After Lor had left, he teleported and reappeared next to James.

"James... Are you really the reincarnation of a superior cultivator who comes from the Central Plane?"

There was a look of bewilderment on Gaius' face. "What... What exactly is the Supremusseum? Also, how strong were you back in your past life? After learning who you are, a Sovereign Third Rank cultivator willingly chose to get reincarnated instead of battling you!"

James let out a soft chuckle. "That was all in the past. It's not worth the buzz."

He paused briefly and added, "By the way, I have quite a few enemies from the Central Plane. So, you must help keep my real identity a secret, Gaius.

Otherwise, troubles might come looking for me and the Endlos."

Gaius could tell that James did not wish to discuss more about his past life. He did not press James for more details.

Instead, Gaius answered firmly, "Don't worry. Your secrets are safe with me."

James was certain that Gaius would do a good job keeping his secrets. After all, the man had remained in the Infinity Cities for such a long time with the sole purpose of maintaining peace in Endlos.

"Also, you were amazing just now!"

Gaius gave him a thumbs-up. "I thought a huge battle would break out after the two of you met. Yet, you managed to resolve the problem within just a few minutes through a simple conversation."

Then, he asked, "What should we do next, James?"

James smiled slightly. "We've removed Lor Willasse, our biggest threat. The rest of them won't be able to cause too much damage. I am sure you and Gorgen can eliminate those people at any time."

"However, I'd like to see for myself how Wynton and Xrival actually feel about the Endlos. If they show no care for this place, we'll exterminate them right away. If they do, we may consider sparing them for old times sake."

"Mhm." Gaius nodded.