The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5161-'Thea." Maxine approached.

Thea turned in her direction and greeted her, "Maxine.1 "I'll be leaving as well.

See you soon." Maxine clasped her hands and turned to leave.

Many of the humans left the Heavenly Court. The Endlos was temporarily safe, and they wanted to seize the chance to explore it.

At that moment, Thea suddenly sensed an oil lamp in the Dark World connected to the Endlos. The oil lamp swayed and emitted a faint light, slightly illuminating the Dark World.

"That's Emperor Raiah's oil lamp."

Thea was surprised after sensing the oil lamp. She had a vague knowledge of it and knew Emperor Raiah left it behind.

After Emperor Raiah injured the Extraterrestrial Demons' Great Commander, he successfully forced the Extraterrestrial Army to retreat. However, he chased after the Great Commander.

James had speculated Emperor Raiah had already left the Endlos and entered the Central Plane. The oil lamp that he had left in the Dark World was to act as a guide for future generations. However, it seemed James' conjecture was wrong.

Thea felt something familiar about the oil lamp, and it connected with a certain power in her body.

Suddenly, the oil lamp's light vanished.

Thea tried to detect it again but was to no avail.

Although she found it strange, she did not continue investigating further.

Meanwhile, James had arrived in the Orstellen Sect.

King Marciais, Gaius, Gurgan, and Taran had already gathered, waiting for him.

Swoosh!

A light ray fell to the ground, and James appeared before them.

The four men said simultaneously, "He's here."

"Mhm." James nodded.

King Marciais asked, "Have you settled everything here?"

"I'm almost done. I just need to set up a formation. Please wait for me a bit longer. We'll depart after I set up the formation to protect the Endlos."

"Alright."

Although his current cultivation base was limited, he had memories of his previous life. Thus, his formation could not be broken even by a powerhouse at the Celestial Rank from the outside. However, a powerhouse at the Sovereign Rank could leave the Endlos Plane from the inside.

After setting up the formation, James waved his hand and summoned a few inscriptions containing Supernatural Powers. The inscriptions flew into the Endlos Plane.

James knew it was impossible for him to return to the Supremuseum. Since he could create the Supremuseum, he was confident in creating another powerful plane. He wanted the Endlos Plane to become a powerful existence amongst the countless planes in the future.

The Supernatural Power he had left to the humans could help them reach the Martial Celestial Rank.

As for the other Supernatural Powers he left throughout the Endlos could help cultivators reach the Great Celestial Rank.

The Endlos would be peaceful for some time and would not be invaded by foreign enemies. It would usher in a prosperous era, and many powerhouses would

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5162-After James had completed everything, he returned to the Orstelleen Sect to meet up with King Marciais and the others.

As soon as they reunited, they did not linger any longer and immediately departed. They quickly entered the Dark World and headed toward the Central Plane.

Somewhere in the Endlos, a man stood in the center of a city and looked into the Dark World.

Swoosh!

A woman appeared and called out to him, "Wynton."

Wynton looked at Zella and said smilingly, "I'm really happy you still think of me as your brother."

Zella replied warmly, "No matter who you were in your past life, you're my brother in this life."

"By the way..." Wynton recalled something and asked, "Can you see through James' origins?"

Zella looked at him and asked, "Why do you ask?"

Wynton thought for a while and answered, "I have a feeling he is someone extraordinary. He's way too mysterious.

Moreover, it's strange for the Great Elder to suddenly reincarnate. I can't believe a powerhouse at the Sovereign Third Rank would just choose to reincarnate."

Zella shook her head and said, "I can't see through him."

"Forget it." Wynton put the topic aside and said, "You should go back, Zella. I have to continue neutralizing the karma on me right now. After I'm done, I'll return to Emyr Island."

Wynton gently waved his hand and dragged his injured body away.

Zella silently watched him walk away, and then she also left.

Meanwhile, Xezal sat in the main hall of the Dooms. She propped her chin up and looked outside with a bored expression.

Her beautiful face was lethargic. She sighed and murmured, “James and the other powerhouses have already left.

Theoretically, it’s the perfect time for me to conquer the Endlos. Yet, for some reason, I have no desire to do so.”

Xezal was in low spirits. She had been waiting for James and the others to leave. Now that they were gone, she was no longer motivated to conquer the Endlos and was bored with her current life.

“Should I leave the Endlos Plane and check out the other planes too?” Xezal murmured.

She stood up and left the Dooms’ main hall. Then, he headed into the Dark World and arrived at the seal James had placed around the Endlos.

Only cultivators that had reached the Sovereign Rank were allowed to pass through the seal. However, Xezal managed to do so without any difficulties.

Meanwhile, James’ party was in the Dark World. While traveling through the darkness, a voice broke the silence.

Gaius said, “James, you should brief us about the Dieux Academy’s disciple recruitment.”

Gurgen added, “Yeah. You should let us in on it first.”

James explained, “The Dieux Academy has sent a group of disciples to other planes to look for talented powerhouses and hand out invitations. Those who received an invitation will be exempted from the assessment and will be recruited immediately.

“Also, with the invitation, I can bring others to partake in the assessment. No matter what the results of the assessments are, even if everyone is defeated, at least one living being from the assessment will be recruited as a disciple.

‘The assessment is also very straightforward. It’ll be a battle between the different planes. Anyone who stands out will be recruited as a disciple and rewarded generously.’”

James briefly explained the invitation’s content.

King Marciais asked, “Do we stand a chance?”

James replied smilingly, “Of course. Except for me, you guys are at the Sovereign Rank. With such a powerful party, even if we don’t rank high in the assessment, It won’t be a problem for all of us to become disciples.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5163-“We’re the best of the Endlos Plane. It’d be boring to become ordinary disciples.

We should strive to be the most eye-catching recruits!”

“I agree. We should work together to rank first in the assessment.”

Gaius, Gurgan, Taran and King Marciais were confident and energetic.

James, on the other hand, smiled at their remarks.

They had no idea how terrifying the Central Plane was since they had spent all their lives in the Endlos.

from dampening their confidence.

Soon, they passed through the Central Plane's barrier. A powerful energy of heaven and earth gushed toward them. Despite being at the Sovereign Rank, the group was stunned to find themselves crushed by the force.

'T-The energy of heaven and earth here is so strong."

"I can feel it's oppressive pressure."

"So this is what the Central Plane is like?"

Everyone was shocked.

James nodded lightly and said, "Yeah. We're in the Central Plane. However, we're only at the border region. Although the energy of heaven and earth here is potent, it's nothing compared to the central region."

'Wait, James. Logically speaking, you've also spent your whole life in the Endlos Plane. How do you know so much about the Central Plane?" King Marciais stared at James.

James smiled faintly in response.

Boom!

Suddenly, a loud rumbling sound came from the distance. Then, a crack immediately spread out through the void.

King Marciais unleashed his powers but could not tear through the Central Plane's void. He clicked his tongue and said, "The space here is tough. Even with the power of the Sovereign First Rank and Marciais Path's Sixteenth Rank,

I can't open the void. Yet, the people at battle managed to create such a huge gap in the void. How powerful are they?"

Gaius, Gurgun, and Taran also tested their powers. However, they were shocked after failing to tear through the void.

James frowned and said, "They are powerhouses at the Celestial Rank. We should be careful. A powerhouse at the Celestial Rank is at the top of the hierarchy in the Central Plane. After leaving the Endlos Plane, our strength isn't anything impressive here. We're at the bottom of the chain. We should go around the battlefield and avoid getting involved. Otherwise, the consequences will be grave."

With powerhouses at the Celestial Rank ahead of them, James decided to go around the battlefield. However, James suddenly stopped after sensing a powerful energy.

"What is it?" Taran looked at James.

"There's a Genesis Holy Herb." James had an intrigued expression.

King Marciais asked, "What's a Genesis Holy Herb?"

James explained, "Genesis is a very magical existence. They can evolve into planes, but they can also evolve into Genesis Herbs."

Initially, James wanted to avoid getting involved in the battle. However, the Genesis Holy Herb would greatly benefit him right now.

Gaius said, "Forget it. Two powerhouses at the Celestial Rank are fighting right now. With our current strength, we'll be destroyed by the permeating shock waves before we even get close.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5164-The Genesis Holy Herb was a magical existence, but two powerhouses were fighting over it. They were only at the Sovereign Rank, and getting close to the battlefield would be impossible. Before they could even get close, they would be obliterated by the shockwaves.

King Marciais also dissuaded James, "We won't be able to interfere with the battle, let alone snatch the Genesis Holy Herb from them."

Even so, James was unwilling to give up. He had not even entered the Sovereign Rank yet. Although he could easily do so with his current cultivation base, it would take a lot of work to improve afterward.

After briefly considering it, James said, "Go ahead without me. I'll come up with a plan to snatch the Genesis Holy Herb. It will be of great help to me. I'm going to try to obtain it. If an opportunity doesn't arise, I'll leave to reunite with you guys."

James waved his hand, summoned a few inscriptions, and handed them to his companions.

“Keep these inscriptions so I can locate you guys.”

Taran said worriedly, “How about just forgetting it, James? These two are powerhouses at the Celestial Rank. It will not be easy to snatch the Genesis Holy Herb from them. If you’re careless, you’ll die.”

King Marciais chipped in, saying, “He’s right. We’ve already arrived in the Central Plane. It’s a vast and boundless place. There are countless other treasures here. I’m sure we’ll have the chance to acquire them in the future.”

Everyone tried to dissuade James out of it.

James said smilingly, “I won’t act recklessly and will back out if it’s too much to handle.”

Since James insisted, the group stopped trying to convince him and left the area.

After they left, James was left alone. He did not immediately approach the battlefield but stayed far away.

Even though he was far from the battlefield, he could sense the terrifying power permeating the air. The fluctuations caused by their power would instantly obliterate him if he got close to the battlefield.

“How am I going to do this?” James was at a loss.

A Genesis Holy Herb was hard to come by, so even powerhouses at the Celestial Rank desperately fought over it.

James knew his cultivation rank would shoot up to at least the Sovereign Sixth Rank if he obtained the Genesis Holy Herb, and it would save him a lot of time.

“I wonder if the name Lord Supremus still has influence in the Central Plane. But if I use the name Lord Supremus, then news about being reincarnated would spread. It'll attract a lot of my enemies, and it'll be troublesome.”

James was in a dilemma. He weighed the pros and cons. Ultimately, he decided to take the risk. The Genesis Holy Herb was too enticing as it would save him countless years of hard work.

He watched the fierce battle from a distance. The sky was split open, and the surroundings were destroyed.

In the Central Plane, a powerhouse at the Sovereign Rank could not tear apart the void. The fact these two powerhouses at battle could cause so much damage spoke volumes about their strength.

The battle lasted for a while. Soon, the shock waves gradually subsided.

James had been secretly paying attention to the battle. Both powerhouses were unable to gain the upper hand against each other.

After the battle's shockwaves subsided, James slowly approached the battlefield.

The Genesis Holy Herb floated in the void ahead of him. It was a lotus flower with nine colorful petals.

A man and woman could be seen treating their injuries near the Genesis Holy Herb.

The middle-aged man was disheveled and injured. On the other hand, the woman had a hand severed and was also in a terrible state.

“Who’s there?”

The two sensed James’ presence and immediately stared in his direction warily.

James slowly stepped through the void and approached them.
