The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5371-“What’s that?”

“I’ve never heard of it.”

“I have no clue either.”

The men were members of the Four Ancient Races, which were the strongest primeval groups in the Dark World. They had almost all the information on the latest and major happenings occurring in the Dark World.

Nonetheless, none of them had heard of this Theognostos. In truth, James just made up a story about it.

As he glanced around those confused faces, James began,” None of you would have heard of the Temple of Theognostos before. It is the base for my people, a secretive Primeval Race that originates from the Dark World. However, my people remain mostly within our territory. Therefore, it is only natural you haven’t heard about the Temple of Theognostos.”

Yui fixed James with an intense gaze.

He could sense that James had only entered the late stage of Petit Celestial Rank. However, Yui could also tell that James possessed extraordinary powers in terms of his physical body.

Yui was also intrigued by the story regarding Theognostos. He asked, “Where is this Theognostos that you’re talking about located? Also, what is the name of your race or people?”

“How impertinent of you!” Latrusse took a step forward and barked, “Do you think you have the right to ask about Theognostos?”

‘Why you...’

Yui could feel his anger boiling over upon being reprimanded by Latrusse.

James intervened, saying, “Step back. I will handle this.”

Latrusse scoffed inwardly at James’ brilliant acting as their fake leader. Still, he kept a straight face and followed James’ instructions.

James said smilingly, "I hope you won't mind his short temper. Pardon me, but I can't tell you where Theognostos is or the name of our race. However, I can share with you the reason why I have chosen this place."

Those from the Four Ancient Races kept their eyes on James.

They still had no clue what Theognostos was. However, James had several competent cultivators on his side, and that indicated the quality of manpower that Theognostos had. Therefore, Yui and the others chose to observe the situation a bit longer.

"In our language, Theognostos means transcendental. My father chose the name as he said that it represented the powers and abilities that our people have. In his opinion, we are the ones out of the many Primevals of the Dark World and the other beings of the outside world who deserve to use the name Theognostos."

James was a natural at making these far-fetched stories sound convincing.

He pointed at Qairo. "My father created this puppet to protect me. Before I left home, my father told me having this puppet alone was enough to ensure my safety. No matter who my enemies were, he could fend off almost any cultivator or Primeval members from across the Dark World."

The people from the Four Ancient Races did not doubt Qairo's capabilities since the man had single-handedly defeated three elders from the Yeftero Race.

Also, they finally realized why something felt strange about Qairo as it turned out he was a puppet.

James walked over to Qairo. He looked at the man and gave a small sigh.

"Originally, my father wanted to give him a complete soul and make him into a real being. However, this puppet reached the peak of Quasi Transcendental Bliss Rank and possessed exceptional powers. If he became a true being that possessed his own free will and emotions, there might be a risk of him turning against me."

James continued, "Since that could be a threat to my safety, my father decided to imbue in him an incomplete soul. That way, he'll follow my orders obediently."

Almost all of the members from the Four Ancient Races fell for James' story.

Still, Yui remained cool-headed. He asked calmly, "Is the Glaciem Race's princess inside the holy land?" James responded, "Oh! That lady? Our people rescued the Glacies' princess in the past. Back then, we advised her to let go of her resentments. So, there's nothing you need to worry about now. The lady won't try to exact revenge on the Four Ancient Races, nor will the people from Theognostos try to intervene in your affairs." Yui stepped toward James slowly and said, "I don't care who you are or where you come from. The Glacies' princess must die today."

Yui's aura increased with each step he took.

James met his gaze. "I was just being nice by trying to resolve the situation through a conversation first. Did you really think we'd be too scared to take you on?"

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5372-ames did not feel intimidated in the slightest even though he was facing Yui, who emanated an overwhelming amount of aura.

Although he had a relatively low cultivation rank, James nonetheless perfected the defensive powers of his body. Yui might not be able to inflict actual damage on James even if he unleashed a full-force attack.

As soon as Yui started approaching James, the elders from the Yeftero Race and the cultivators from the Suuntelis and the Zoltrumms followed as well.

Only Yuvin from the Mevryee Race remained standing in the same spot. A deep frown drew his brows together.

He could almost feel the tension in the air.

At that very moment, the man in a black robe teleported and reemerged before James. He released his aura, which instantly washed over the cultivators opposite him and overpowered their auras.

"Stand back," James called out to Qairo.

A faint red light gleamed in Qairo's eyes. He stood there as he appeared to be processing his thoughts.

Just then, a voice rang in his head. “Stand back, and listen to that man for now.”

Qiyana transmitted her voice to Qairo from within the grounds of the holy land.

Despite being in a closed-door meditation, Qiyana was aware of what was happening outside since she would constantly check her surroundings.

Upon receiving Qiyana’s orders, Qairo stepped aside and moved to stand behind James.

James turned his eyes to Yui. “My father warned me that the Four Ancient Races of the Dark World were formidable forces that I should not be making enemies out of. I do not want to do that either, but I’m afraid I can’t let you enter this place today.”

“As I said, the Glacies’ princess hiding inside the Glaciem Holy Land must die today,” Yui said in a steely voice.

James dropped his gaze as he thought about what he could do to buy more time for their side.

“It won’t do any of us any good if we keep on fighting like this.” After a brief moment, James suggested, “Why don’t we have a bet?”

Yui waited for James to continue.

James said, ‘Til remain in this very spot and take three hits from you. If I can survive all three hits, you and your members will have to leave this place. If I don’t, you can have access to the Glaciem Holy Land right away. What do you say about that?”

Yui looked at James pensively.

He could already tell that there were immense powers contained within James’ physical body.

However, since those powers were greatly associated with one’s cultivation rank, Yui did not think James’ powers were enough to achieve invincibility at the moment.

Moreover, even if James had mastered some type of superb defensive skills, there were limits to how much he could do at the level of a Petit Celestial Rank cultivator.

While Yui was still deep in thought, James added, “I won’t use any signature skills. I will just stand here and take the hit.”

Behind him, Lemuel and Latrusse stood there and smiled enigmatically.

They could tell James was trying to lure Yui into his trap.

On the other hand, Thea and Yuvin were both feeling worried.

Yuvin pondered, ‘Does he have a death wish?! Yui is a monster-level genius.

Even though he’s only entered the early stage of the Holy Celestial Rank, those who have reached the late stage of the same cultivation rank dare not take Yui too lightly during a battle.’ Similarly, the other cultivators could not believe what they had just heard.

A late-stage Petit Celestial Rank cultivator claimed that they would not use any defensive skills to block the attacks of a Holy Celestial Rank cultivator. It was simply suicidal!

Nevertheless, Yui knew instinctively that James would not bring up such an absurd suggestion for no reason. The man must be somewhat confident in winning to have suggested the bet.

By using his Zen, Yui confirmed that James had entered the late stage of the Petit Celestial Rank. He could also detect the presence of an immense power in James’ body.
