The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5393-“Although there are records about it in the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion, there’s no proof to back it up. A long time ago, the Glacies came to us for information to save their hidden powerhouse, so we provided them with the same solution.”

“Apart from the three chances to inquire information, I have an additional request,” said James.

“Let’s hear about it first.” Xoel gestured to him, signaling him to go on.

“Help me obtain the Flamma Race’s inscriptions.”

Xoel shook his head and refused, “I can’t do that for you. I can only provide you with information and clues about their primitive inscriptions. It’s up to you to acquire them.”

“Fine, deal.” James did not hesitate.

“Go on. Tell about the Tressencia Completare Art. What kind of Supernatural Power is it?” Xoel urged James. He was prepared to compile everything to be sent back to the headquarters and stored.

James explained, “The Tressencia Completare Art is a Supernatural Power I created. It’s able to summon my past form and future form. My current form, which is me right now, is also integrated into the skill.

“After I cast the Tressencia Completare Art, I can transform the inscriptions I’ve mastered into a mysterious formation. I can integrate all kinds of inscriptions into it. The more inscriptions I use with it, the stronger it becomes.

“In my previous life, I was the Lord Supremus from the Central Plane. Back then, I was almost killed and had to reincarnate. I was reincarnated in a low level plane and cultivated Dark Power by coincidence. I kept improving my Dark Power. When I was going through tribulation, I was enlightened and transformed my Dark Power into a shadowy figure.

“Ultimately, the Tressencia Completare Art came to be when I refined a low-level plane’s Genesis Path. I gained insight into the nature of the future and combined it with the past and present.”

James explained the Tressencia Completare Art in detail, trusting he was the only person who could cultivate it. Not everyone who had been reincarnated could cultivate the Tressencia Completare Art. It would require many overlapping coincidences and the right opportunities for them to develop it.

Xoel was in awe after hearing James' explanation. Everything sounded so unfathomable.

"The power of the past and future are almost non-existent. Nobody can truly master them. Even after learning them, you must combine them to cast the Tressencia Completare Art."

Xoel gave James a thumbs up and said admiringly, "We have a collection on almost all the Supernatural Powers in the Dark World. Yet, none of them compares to the Tressencia Completare Art. I think the Tressencia Completare Art is the best to exist. In the future, the Dark World will be under your feet. I'll have to report back to the headquarters so we can issue a new ranking of the Supernatural Powers.

"I also have a request. I'd like you to perform the Tressencia Completare Art so I can record it and send it to the headquarters. They'll analyze it and determine whether it qualifies to top the rankings. Afterward, a new Supernatural Power ranking will be released to the Dark World."

"This..." James was hesitant.

Qiyana promptly interrupted and persuaded him, "Don't hesitate, Forty-nine. It's a good opportunity to make a name for yourself."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5394-After contemplating, James nodded and agreed, "Okay." Xoel waved his hand, and an illusory space appeared ahead of them. James, Qiyana, and Xoel entered into the space.

Xoel urged James, "You can start now." James cast the Tressencia Completare Art without hesitation.

His body transformed into a magical formation. His past and future form materialized, one sitting above the formation and one below it. The formation was unpredictable and contained majestic powers.

Suddenly, James' past, present, and future forms merged.

“Amazing!” Xael marveled at the sight.

“That is an exceptional Supernatural Power. You’re only at the Petit Celestial Rank’s late stage right now. If you continue to raise your rank, you’ll be invincible with this Supernatural Power. You’d become the most respected powerhouse in the Dark World.”

Xael showered James with flattery.

“Thank you,” James replied humbly.

The illusory space disappeared, and they teleported back to James’ residence.

James looked at Xael and asked, “So, can you tell me how to obtain the Flamma Race’s primitive inscriptions now?”

Xael smiled and said, “I’m the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion’s branch supervisor of the Flame City. I’ve seen the Flammae’s Leader a few times. I can bring you to him. You can personally ask him for it.”

“Is it that simple?” Qiyana was stunned.

Xael said smilingly, “Of course not. Anyhow, let’s go.”

After speaking, Xael stood up and took the lead.

James and Qiyana looked at each other for a while. Then, they followed behind Xael to the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion.

Soon, they arrived outside a VIP reception hall of the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion.

An elderly man was already waiting for their arrival. He wore a fiery red robe that had mysterious patterns embroidered onto it.

Xael walked into the hall with a bright smile and said, “Sorry for the long wait, Haleth. I’m a bit late cause something came up. I want to introduce you to a friend of mine. This is Forty-nine and Qiya. They are disciples of Thaddeus Holiness.”

“Oh? So you’re Forty-nine?” The elderly man glanced at James curiously.

James nodded lightly at him.

Xoel sat down and said, "Come, make yourselves comfortable."

James and Qiyana followed suit.

Xoel introduced, "Forty-nine, this is the leader of the Flammae, Haleth Haineault."

Haleth intervened, saying, "You know what I'm here for, Xoel. What do you want in exchange? I'm willing to fork up whatever it is you need."

Xoel replied helplessly, "I already told you, Haleth. You need the Glacies' Ulus and Ice Curse to detoxify Flammae poison. The Ulus is a precious treasure of the Glacies. Unfortunately, they've already been wiped out. Even the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion can't provide you with it."

James was immediately attracted to their conversation. He said nonchalantly, "You need the Glacies' Ice Curse? I have stumbled upon one of the Glacies' ruins and learned their primitive inscriptions. I've mastered the Ice Curse and also happen to have the Ulus." "Are you serious?" Haleth trembled in excitement.

"Yeah." James nodded.

Haleth stood up, clasped his hands, and said, "Please help Yered eliminate the Flammae poison in his body."

James was slightly puzzled by the situation.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5395-James looked at Xoel in confusion.

Xoel explained, "The Flammae have a genius called Yered Hadlee. When he was cultivating the Flammae Curse, an accident happened. As a result, he was infected by Flammae poison." James finally had a clearer picture of what was happening. He replied, "I see."

Haleth pleaded, "If you help him, I'll satisfy whatever request you ask of me."

James said calmly, "Since you've heard of me, you must know I've acquired a lot of cultivation resources from the Yefteros' arena. I don't lack anything right now, but I'm quite interested in the Flammae's primitive inscriptions. If you're willing to show me the primitive inscriptions of your race, I'll gladly help you."

"This..." Haleth hesitated.

Xoel silently sat aside with his legs crossed, listening to their conversation.

Haleth sat down again and fell into thought. After a while, he looked at James and asked, "How did you acquire the Ulus and Ice Curse? What's your relationship with the Glacies' princess? How are you related to the man who showed up in the Glaciem Holy Land and claimed to be a disciple of the Theognostos?"

The incident in the Glaciem Holy Land had drawn a lot of attention since it was very shocking. Even though only powerhouses from the Four Ancient Races were involved, the news had already spread throughout the Dark World, and a few major races were already aware.

Haleth was wise and could easily guess the man before him was related to the incident.

James refused to comment on the matter.

"That's the only request I have. If the Flamma Race isn't willing to go through with the trade, then forget it."

He stood up and said, "Let's go, Qiya."

Qiyana followed behind James, and the two began to walk away.

Just when they were about to leave the hall, Haleth suddenly said, "Hold on. I'll agree to your condition."

James smiled, satisfied with the outcome. He turned around and looked at Xoel with gratitude.

"Since the two of you have already reached an agreement, you can discuss the matter privately." Xoel gestured to the door, sending off his guests.

Haleth did not respond to Xoel. He looked at James and said, "Follow me."

"Alright." James nodded.

James and Qiyana followed Haleth to the Flammae's spiritual mountain.

Xoel watched them leave with a solemn expression. He immediately reported to the headquarters, updating them with the Tressencia Completare Art.

Since James' cultivation rank was still relatively low, he could not unleash the horrifying potential the Tressencia Completare Art had. Once he reached a higher rank, he would have overpowering strength. By then, calling him the strongest in the Dark World would not be an exaggeration.

A few important members gathered inside a secret room in the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion's headquarters. They carefully reviewed the information regarding James' Tressencia Completare Art and watched the video of him performing it.

"So the more inscriptions he acquires, the stronger the formation becomes? His Supernatural Power is terrifyingly potent."

"I spotted the outside planes' Genesis Paths within his formation. He even integrated the Glacies' primitive inscriptions into it. If he were to learn the primitive inscriptions of the Dark World's major races, he would be unbeatable."

"The past and future? That's outrageous."

'Vet, he managed to cultivate them." "His Supernatural Power is worthy of being ranked first in the Dark World."

"It's time to announce a new ranking for Supernatural Powers."

'The Tressencia Completare Art will be ranked first.

However, it will not be easy to rank the other Supernatural Powers. There are countless powerhouses in the Dark World. Many of them have disappeared, along with their Supernatural Powers. These forgotten Supernatural Powers are very impressive as well."

"Don't worry about those that have been lost. Just rank the Supernatural Powers that we know about right now."

"Nobody will argue against the ranking we publish."

A few of the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion's key decisionmakers had a discussion meeting.
