The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5442-Shorru briefly shared the past events and explained where James could find the primitive inscriptions he sought. However, he also clarified that obtaining the last three Elemental Primevals' primitive inscriptions was unrealistic, as entering the Prison World was impossible without the oil lamp. Even the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion's Master could not open the Prison World's formation despite being at the Quasi Bliss Rank.

Qiyana asked, "Is there no other way to the Prison World?"

Shorru nodded lightly and answered, 'That's right. The powerhouses of various races set up the formation outside the Prison World. Thus, the formation consists of the primitive inscriptions of countless races. Unless you master every one of their primitive inscriptions, it's impossible to break the formation.

Unfortunately, that's not possible.

Besides using the oil lamp, the only other way is to gather powerhouses that set up the formation."

"What does the oil lamp look like?" asked James.

Shorru shook his head and replied, "I'm not sure. According to the Heavenly Secret Pavilion's information, the oil lamp is made by a ray of dawn, which contains the power of several primitive inscriptions. It's why the oil lamp can be used to enter the Prison World. However, it can't be used to bring out the powerhouses trapped within the Prison World. Even though my master knew his efforts were futile, he still insisted on heading into the Prison World to rescue his family members."

"Do you have any clues about the oil lamp's whereabouts?" asked Thea.

Shorru gently shook his head again and said, "If I did, we would've found the oil lamp a long time ago."

"Alright. Thank you for the information." James stood up and clasped his hands.

Then, he turned to Thea and said," Let's go."

James turned to Qiyana and Jada, saying, "Thea and I will go search for the oil lamp. You two stay here with peace of mind. I'll come back when I acquire the primitive inscriptions."

Qiyana frowned and said, "The Heavenly Secrets Pavilion has been trying to find it for so long but to no avail. How will you find it in such a short period? How about we forget it, and come up with a new plan to fight the Four Ancient Races? Relying on Qairo seems unrealistic right now."

"TH figure it out," James reassured her.

Qiyana stopped trying to dissuade James.

Jada, on the other hand, remained silent. She knew it was impossible to save her sister with her own strength. Her only hope was James. Thus, she supported him wholeheartedly regardless of what actions he took.

Shorru looked at the couple and asked, "Where do you two plan to look for the oil lamp? Do you have a destination in mind? If you tell me, I might be able to provide you with some help. After all, our master is involved in this matter."

"I don't know yet." James shook his head.

"Then I wish you the best of luck." Shorru gestured them to the exit.

As soon as they left, they changed their appearances and hid their auras as soon as they left.

Thea looked at James and asked, "Can you also sense the oil lamp in the Dark World connected with the Endlos Plane?" James shook his head and said, "How could I possibly sense it? I only caught a glimpse of it before. Back then, I didn't think much of it. Who would've thought it was such an important item."

Thea said, "I have sensed its aura before. However, I'm not sure whether it's the one the Heavenly Secret Pavilion's Master had stolen. I wonder if the oil lamp I sensed will be able to lead us to the Prison World?"

James thought awhile and said, "If it's the right oil lamp, why is it in the Endlos Plane? Could it be the Heavenly Secret Pavilion's Master wandered into the Endlos Plane by coincidence after he was injured?"

Thea shook her head, unsure whether they were on the right track.

James said, "While I was in the Endlos Plane, I met an elderly monk named Zeno. He used to be the subordinate of Xeraiah. From what I learned, Xeraiah entered the depths of the Dark World. Thus, I speculated that he headed to the Central Plane. However, it seems I was wrong."

"Oh?" Thea looked at him with confusion.

James explained, "Zeno brought up the oil lamp to me before. He said Xeraiah left behind the oil lamp for the living beings in the Endlos Plane, saying it could lead the Endlos Plane out of the Dark World."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5443-Back then, James did not pay much attention to Zeno's words. Now, he realized Xeraiah and the oil lamp were closely related. Zeno must have seen the oil lamp in the Endlos Plane during the era when Xeraiah reigned. Otherwise, he would not have confidently claimed that Xeraiah left the oil lamp for the Endlos Plane.

"Should we return to the Endlos Plane?" asked Thea.

James nodded and replied, "Yeah. Xeraiah disappeared long ago, but there hasn't been any news about him in the Central Plane. Zavis and the others had participated in the Dieux Academy's disciple assessment some time ago. The assessment is really popular in the Central Plane. If Xeraiah were in the Central Plane, he would've watched the assessment and come to the Dieux Academy to see us. Fortunately, there are still many powerhouses who have existed since his era alive in the Endlos Plane. Let's go back and ask them."

Thea nodded in response.

"Let's go." James held Thea's hand and activated the Boundarybreaker Rune.

The two immediately disappeared from the spot.

Immediately afterward, they were teleported somewhere near the Endlos Plane.

James opened the formation around the Endlos Plane and entered with Thea.

The Endlos Plane had already evolved into a seventh-level plane and was much stronger than before. It would not be long before it became an eighth-level plane.

Thea looked at James and asked, "Should we go home first to check on the situation, or do you have other plans? I wonder how the kids are doing."

James nodded and said, "Alright. Let's go to the Human Race's Heavenly Court first." James nodded.

Meanwhile, the Human Race's Heavenly Court was facing a powerful enemy.

Gaius, Zavis, Gurgun, and Taran were in the Heavenly Court. The four of them were already at the Petit Celestial Rank. However, they wore solemn expressions in the face of their seemingly formidable opponent.

Hetsema, the Endlos Lord, sat in the front of the Heavenly Court. After Thea passed the Endlos Lord's position to Hetsema, he worked hard and refined the Endlos' new Genesis Power. With the help of the Genesis Path Scripture James had left behind, his cultivation base improved rapidly. At that moment, he had already reached the Petit Celestial Rank. With the Endlos Plane's Genesis Power, he could fight against an opponent at the Great Celestial Rank.

"The Heavenly Court is no longer qualified to control the Endlos Plane. You're no longer qualified to be the Endlos Lord, Hetsema. Obediently surrender your position, and I'll spare your lives."

A young man hovered outside the Heavenly Court.

"You're delusional to think I'd hand over the Endlos Plane to you, Stephen,"

Hetsema said coldly. Then, with the wave of a hand, he gathered the Endlos Plane's Genesis Power into a long sword.

"I'd like to see for myself how strong is someone at the Martial Celestial Rank."

Hetsema's aura skyrocketed.

Zavis immediately stopped him, saying, "Don't be reckless, Hetsema. Although you're the Endlos Lord, your cultivation rank is too low to fight him. Even with the Endlos Plane's Genesis Path, you won't be able to defeat someone at the Martial Celestial Rank. He is stronger than you think. If you decide to fight him, the Heavenly Court will be doomed.

Just hand over the position to him. The position isn't that important."

Stephen Yaman was a disciple James had recruited in the past. However, Stephen was unaware of James' relationship with the Heavenly Court. Similarly, the Heavenly Court's members were clueless that Stephen was James' disciple.
