The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5446-ng time had passed, Wynton's cultivation rank had not improved significantly and still had not entered the Sovereign Rank.

"Haha," Wynton chuckled and said, 'There are other things more important than cultivation rank.'

"Oh, is that so?" James looked at him with curiosity and asked, "What can be more important?"

Wynton tapped on his head a few times and said, "Mental fortitude. I can reach a very high rank instantly if I want to."

James did not pursue the topic any further. He knew there were countless ways to cultivate. Regardless of which path one took, it ultimately led to the same destination.

He changed the topic and stated his purpose for visiting. "I came to ask you some things. Do you know about Emperor Raiah's oil lamp?"

"Emperor Raiah's oil lamp?" Wynton was stunned by the question. He searched his memories for a while, then replied, "I do remember something about an oil lamp. When I participated in the attack on the Endlos Plane, I was already equipped with some knowledge of your plane's powerhouses, especially Emperor Raiah. From what I know, he does indeed have a mysterious oil lamp in his possession. He had been trying to refine it for a long time, but it seems he never succeeded."

"Do you know the oil lamp's origin?" asked James.

Wynton shook his head in response.

James asked a few more questions, but Wynton did not have the answers he sought.

Although James could not find out where the oil lamp was from, he verified that Xeraiah had an oil lamp. He began to wonder why Xeraiah left the oil lamp in the Dark World connecting to the Endlos Plane when his initial goal was to refine it.

James looked at Zella and asked, "Can you use your prophetic ability to find the oil lamp's whereabouts?"

In the past, Zella had sacrificed her prophetic ability to help James restore his severed potential. Sometime later, James helped her restore her prophetic ability.

"I can try." Zella nodded lightly and closed her eyes. A few scenarios rapidly flashed through her mind. After a while, she opened her eyes and looked at James. She shook her head and said, "It's no good. All I could see was darkness."

"Alright." James had already predicted such an outcome since the oil lamp must be related to some really complicated secrets. Although Zella had a prophetic ability, her cultivation rank was too low to gain insight into the oil lamp's whereabouts.

"Why are you looking for the oil lamp?" Wynton asked curiously.

James frowned and replied, "I've encountered some trouble.

I urgently need to find the oil lamp in order to get some stuff. Otherwise, I won't be able to accomplish anything in the Central Plane and Dark World."

After understanding the situation, Wynton said, "It's unfortunate, but I don't know much about the oil lamp."

Zella also said apologetically, "I'm sorry I couldn't be of help, James."

James waved his hand and said, "It's fine. I still have other important things to settle, so I'll take my leave."

After speaking, he stood up and disappeared from the spot.

Wynton stood up and looked into the distance through a window.

Zella looked at him and asked, "Is something the matter?"

"I've already atoned for the Emyr Island's sins, and no longer owe anything to the Endlos Plane. It's time for me to explore the vast outside world." Wynton stared into the distance with a determined expression.

Suddenly, his mental fortitude shifted, and his aura grew stronger. Immediately afterward, he made a breakthrough in his cultivation rank.

Meanwhile, James returned to the Heavenly Court after failing to gather useful information.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5447-After returning to the Heavenly Court, James rejected guests and met up with Thea in a manor's backyard.

"Didn't you mention sensing the oil lamp's aura before? Can you sense it right now?" James asked with a frown.

"I can try," Thea replied, then sat in a lotus position.

She released her Zen to the surroundings and allowed it to wander into the Dark World.

James knew it would take a while for results. Thus, he stood up and headed to the Heavenly Court's Cumulus Palace.

Countless powerhouses of the Human Race had already gathered inside the Cumulus Palace.

"Dad."

"Master."

As soon as James appeared, he was greeted by the powerhouses.

James fixated his eyes on one of the powerhouses. "Stephen."

Stephen replied, "Yes, Master?"

James said, "You've already entered the Martial Celestial Rank. Continuing to stay in the Endlos Plane will limit your cultivation growth. You should leave and explore the other outside planes, or if you wish, the Central Plane."

James had set up a formation around the Endlos Plane. Although his cultivation rank was low back then, his formation was still very powerful since it was cast with the Genesis Path Scripture. Even a powerhouse at Martial Celestial Rank would not be able to break the formation unless he mastered the Genesis Path Scripture.

After learning how strong Stephen had grown, James wanted to let Stephen leave the Endlos Plane.

“Really?” Stephen’s face lit up with joy. He already knew about the outside planes. However, there was a formation around the Endlos Plane, which prevented him from leaving. He was excited to be allowed to leave the Endlos Plane to explore.

James nodded lightly and said, “Yeah. However, no matter where you go, remember you’re a human from the Endlos Plane. The Endlos Plane is your home. I hope you’ll step up when the Endlos Plane faces difficulties in the future.”

Stephen vowed, “Don’t worry, Master. I’ll definitely protect the Endlos Plane from danger.”

“Go on.” James waved his hand, and a gap appeared in the formation around the Endlos Plane.

Stephen quickly left without hesitation. He disappeared from their sight, but his voice echoed in the hall.

“I’ll strive to reach great achievements in the outside planes, Master.”

His voice lingered and slowly faded.

James looked at his acquaintances in the hall and sighed helplessly. He did not say much to them and turned to leave.

It was useless to say anything now. He was in huge trouble, and if he could not resolve it, the Endlos Plane would be dragged into danger. His acquaintances would be killed, and none of them would have the chance to be reincarnated.

James returned to meet with Thea again. He stayed near her, protecting her while she searched for the oil lamp.

At that moment, Thea’s Zen was searching the Dark World. Suddenly, she sensed an abnormal fluctuation and a faint light in the darkness.

‘There you are.’ She immediately withdrew her Zen and stood up excitedly. She grabbed James’ hand and said, “Honey, I found the oil lamp! I found it!”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5448-Thea beamed with a bright smile, like a little girl who had found something interesting. She jumped joyfully, and her long black hair danced in the air.

James was also relieved. Now that they had located the oil lamp, his next steps would be rather simple. He had to find the oil lamp, use it to enter the Prison World, and then find the powerhouses of the Tellures, Silvae, and Metalla. Once he gathered the primitive inscriptions of the five Elemental Primevals, he would finally be able to cure Qairo.

After recovering, Qairo would be at the Quasi Bliss Rank's peak. James would have nothing to worry about with such a powerhouse accompanying him.

However, he still needed to improve his cultivation rank quickly. Only by becoming stronger can he protect himself.

"Honey, let's go find the oil lamp right now. It's moving quickly in the Dark World and will appear in a different area very soon. I'm worried I'll lose track of it,"

Thea said anxiously.

"Alright." James nodded. Then, he waved his hand and summoned a few inscriptions.

After the inscriptions disappeared into the void, James took Thea's hand and left the area.

It was uncertain when they would return, so he left some inscriptions that could be used to leave the Endlos Plane. Those strong and lucky enough would have the opportunity to find the inscriptions and leave the Endlos Plane. James did not want to restrain the Endlos' powerhouses. Thus, he left a way for them to leave to the Endlos and explore the outside world.

'Thea and I are leaving the Endlos Plane. I've left some inscriptions behind.

Anyone who enters the Martial Celestial Rank will be able to find them. By borrowing the inscriptions' powers, you'll be able to leave the Endlos Plane and head to the outside planes."

His voice resounded in the Heavenly Court. Meanwhile, James and Thea had already arrived at the Dark World connected to the Endlos Plane.

James cast a Boundarybreaker Rune to help them travel.

“We’re a bit off.” After using the Boundarybreaker Rune, James and Thea appeared close to the oil lamp. However, they were slightly off-track. He held Thea’s hand and started moving in the direction of the oil lamp.

Thea pointed ahead of them and said, “It’s in that area. I can sense it went in that direction.”

“Alright.” James nodded, then quickly chased after the oil lamp with Thea.

Soon, they spotted a faint light in the darkness. Behind the oil lamp was an elderly monk. He kept chasing after the oil lamp, trying to capture it. However, the oil lamp was too powerful, and he was to no avail.

James flashed over to the oil lamp. He waved his hand and summoned a few mysterious inscriptions to capture the oil lamp.

After seeing that the oil lamp was trapped, the elderly monk looked at the person who appeared, and a smile immediately formed on his face. “James?

Why are you here?”

The elderly monk was none other than Zeno.

Zeno followed in Emperor Raiah’s footsteps and entered the Dark World. He had been venturing the Dark World for a while and encountered the oil lamp by chance. Ever since, he had been following the oil lamp, which traveled through the darkness and occasionally stopped for some time.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5449-face looked evidently fatigued. He waved his hand, and a huge boulder floated over from the distance. He sat down and said, “I’ve been chasing this thing for some time. I can finally rest.”

James waved his hand, and the oil lamp floated to him. He scrutinized the oil lamp and found it to be very magical, especially the wick and faint light.

After analyzing the oil lamp for a while, James discovered that countless primitive inscriptions formed the light.

Now that he had obtained the oil lamp, he could cultivate the primitive inscriptions of many of the Dark World's races. However, the primitive inscriptions of the races imprisoned within the Prison World were not included inside the oil lamp.

James put away the oil lamp, looked at Zeno, and asked, "Have you recovered your memories?"

Zeno nodded lightly and said, "The oil lamp is very magical. When I got close to it, my soul as well the memories that have been extracted from me, slowly recovered."

"You were once Emperor Raiah's most trusted confidant and were called the best Rune Arts Grandmaster. Do you know about Emperor Raiah's origin?"

James asked straightforwardly.

"What exactly are you referring to?" Zeno asked with a frown.

James frowned and said, "Does Emperor Raiah really have a great origin?"

Zeno stared at James and scanned him with his Zen. After a while, he exclaimed, "You! How is your physical body so strong now?" James' brows furrowed tighter, and he said, "Even a powerhouse at the Holy Celestial Rank can't see through my body's strength, nor sense the power within it. Yet, you easily saw through me. It seems you must also be somebody extraordinary."

"Me? Extraordinary?" Zeno chuckled. Immediately afterward, he asked seriously, "Even I couldn't trap the oil lamp. But you easily trapped it, and put it away. You're very impressive. I'm assuming you've mastered the primitive inscriptions of a race from the Dark World. Otherwise, you wouldn't have been able to trap it."

James was instantly intrigued by his words.

"It seems I was right. You used to follow Emperor Raiah around, so it's only natural you're someone special. If I'm not wrong, Emperor Raiah is the reincarnation of the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion's Master. Meanwhile, you must've been one of his subordinates even in your past life."

James made a few speculations. According to the information he had, the oil lamp was stolen by the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion's Master. However, the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion's Master was severely injured and fled. Therefore, James guessed that the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion's Master was at his limit and had no choice but to reincarnate. He was reincarnated in the Endlos Plane as Xeraiah. However, he did not immediately regain his previous life's memories.

The oil lamp was brought to the Endlos and appeared somewhere near him.

Thus, he had been constantly trying to refine it. It was not until he left the Endlos Plane that he regained his memories. Unfortunately, he did not regain his strength. Thus, he chose to leave the oil lamp behind because it would attract a lot of danger to himself. He would not survive if the Yefteros and the other races came after him.

James pieced the puzzle together just with a few words from Zeno.

"You already found out about the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion? It seems you've experienced a lot after leaving the Endlos Plane," Zeno looked at James surprisedly and said, "Well, you're right. Emperor Raiah is the reincarnation of the Heavenly Secrets Pavilio's Master."

After confirming James' speculations, Zeno fell into thought and tried to recall something. After a while, he took a deep breath and said, "It's a very long story."

Let's put this topic on hold first. Instead, let's talk about what your experiences after leaving the Endlos Plane."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5450-Zeno knew everything about James' movements in the Endlos Plane but was clueless about his adventures in the outside planes.

James' movements and achievements were hot topics in the outside planes and the Dark World. Thus, he had nothing to hide and truthfully shared his experiences after leaving the Endlos Plane. He even revealed his identity as the Supremusseum's founder in his past life.

"I visited the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion's headquarters and met with their deputy master, Shorru Yasar. He told me their master stole the oil lamp that is used to enter the Prison World. However, he was injured and fled. The oil lamp also disappeared after that incident.” James looked at Zeno and asked, “Tell me more about Emperor Raiah.”

Zeno nodded lightly and said, “Emperor Raiah used to be the Heavenly Secret Pavilion’s Master in his previous life. His name was Theron Terrell, and he was from the Tribunal Race.

‘The Tribunal Race was also involved in the war that happened in the Dark World. In fact, they were the main fighting force of the losing side. Almost all the members of the Tribunals had participated in the battle. After their defeat, their powerhouses were imprisoned.

‘Theron was spared from sharing their fate because he had become a disciple of the Heavenly Secret Pavilion a long time ago.

“After the powerhouses of the Tribunal Race were imprisoned, Theron continued cultivating in secret. Eventually, he entered the Quasi Bliss Rank and claimed to be the Dark World’s Lord.

“Theron thought he was unrivaled and wanted to save the imprisoned Tribunals, so he snuck into the Yefteros and stole the oil lamp. However, the oil lamp was a very important item and was heavily guarded. Although Theorn successfully stole the oil lamp, he was discovered. He engaged in a very intense battle with countless powerhouses. With his strength alone, it was impossible for him to fight so many opponents. He killed a few powerful opponents and his way out of their besiegement.

Unfortunately, he was heavily injured.”

Zeno paused and sighed. Then, he continued, saying, “In my past life, I was also a disciple of the Heavenly Secret Pavilion and one of Theron’s most trusted subordinates.

“After Theron fled, he sent me a message. When I reached him, he was almost dead, and his soul was about to disperse. To save him, I exhausted a great amount of my strength and nearly died.

“Although I managed to save him, he had to be reincarnated. Otherwise, his soul would’ve dispersed.”

Zeno shared the past events in detail.

‘Theron reincarnated into the Endlos Plane as Xeraiah. Unfortunately, he lost his memories as well as his cultivation base. I, on the other hand, followed him to be reincarnated into the Endlos Plane. I also lost my cultivation base because I used my strength to save him and allow him to reincarnate.

“However, I retained my memories. I found him in the Endlos Plane and stayed by his side. Theron went on to become the Endlos Plane’s protector and led powerhouses to drive away the Emyr Army. During the fight against the Emyr Army, I was injured and lost some memories of my previous life. It wasn’t until I entered the Dark World and found the oil lamp that I regained these lost memories.”

James asked, “Why didn’t Xeraiah take the oil lamp when he risked his life for it? With the level of his previous life’s cultivation rank, he should’ve recovered his memories after reaching the Sovereign Rank.”

Zeno explained, ‘The oil lamp had not been discovered because of the Progenitor Star in the Endlos Plane. The Progenitor Star prevents Heaven’s secrets from being exposed. However, if Xeraiah left with the oil lamp, the Dark World’s powerhouses would sense its aura, and he would be doomed. He would have to recover his strength before he can confidently carry the oil lamp with him.”

‘What do you mean by the Progenitor Star?’ James frowned.

Zeno answered, ‘The so-called Progenitor Star is the origin of the Dark World’s races. After the Ancestral Site was shattered, some core pieces of it transformed into planets.”
