The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5451-Zeno said uncertainly, “Actually, I don’t know the details. There are many myths about the Ancestral Site. It’s a place that goes way back into history. Even though I was a disciple of the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion in my past life, I don’t have much information about it.

“I only know there is a place in the Dark World where countless races were born. It was a blessed land full of opportunities. However, it was destroyed for some reason, and only a few core pieces survived.

‘These core pieces drifted the Dark World and formed into Progenitor Stars.

However, only a handful of people who have lived a long time know about these events. I heard about them from Theron. Back then, he insisted on reincarnating on a Progenitor Star. That’s how we ended up in the Endlos Plane.”

“Is Earth the Progenitor Star?” James asked with a frown.

James was born on the earth, or to be more precise, it was the planet where he was reincarnated. After reaching such heights in his cultivation rank, he could tell the Earth was not just an ordinary planet.

Zeno shook his head and said uncertainly, “It should be. Otherwise, Xeraiah would not have built a statue on the earth. I think he did so because there is a boon on the Progenitor Star. I’m not really sure about what it is though. I only have information on what Theron had disclosed to me.”

After answering James’ question, Zeno looked at Thea. ‘The Mevryees should be aware of the Progenitor Star. They know the Ancestral Site’s core pieces transformed into the Progenitor Star. It’s the reason why they sent Thea to the Endlos Plane.”

Zeno turned back to James and said, “Your decision to hide the Endlos Plane was right. It prevented the Progenitor Star from being discovered. If the news about the Progenitor Star was made public, countless races would set their eyes on the Endlos Plane. If that were to happen, a bloody battle would definitely break out again.”

James fell into thought, 'What exactly is the Ancestral Site?' After failing to come to a reasonable conclusion, James dismissed his thoughts.

He turned to Zeno and asked, "How strong were you in your past life?"

"My past life?" Zeno smiled and said, "In your past life, you were at the peak of the Martial Celestial Rank and hadn't entered the Holy Celestial Rank, right? As for my past life's cultivation rank, I was only slightly stronger than you. I was at the Holy Celestial Rank's late stage and was close to reaching the Consummation.

"Impressive," James said admiringly. Then, he asked, "After you regained your memories, did your cultivation base return to you?"

Zeno shook his head and said, "Under normal circumstances, I would've regained my cultivation base after my memories returned. However, I consumed too much of my powers to save Theron and was also on the brink of death.

Even though I retained my memories after reincarnation, I can't regain my cultivation base. I've no choice but to improve step-by-step all over again. The only advantage I have is my memories and experiences."

"I'm planning to go to the Prison World. Do you want to come with me?" asked James.

"Sure." Zeno nodded. Suddenly, he remembered something and said, "But before we enter the Prison World, we must find Theron's reincarnated self, Xeraiah. The Tribunal Race used to be really prestigious in the Dark World. It won't be easy for you to obtain the primitive inscriptions of the Elemental Primevals. However, your success rate will improve significantly if you have a powerhouse of the Tribunal Race with you."

"How will we find him?" James frowned.

Zeno replied, 'The oil lamp knows where he is. It can guide us to Xeraiah.'

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5452-Zeno revealed that the oil lamp could lead them to Xeraiah.

"However..." Zeno's face suddenly became solemn. He explained, "Once we leave with the oil lamp, the powerhouses that used to guard it would sense it instantly. With our current strength, we won't be able to protect the oil lamp and might even end up losing our lives if they catch us."

"Then what should we do?" James frowned.

Zeno shrugged and said, "How would I know? Even Xeraiah couldn't figure it out. If he had a good plan, he wouldn't have left the oil lamp here." James fell into thought, 'I'd be able to get the Elemental Primevals' primitive inscriptions much easier if Xeraiah came with me to the Prison World. If I don't search for him, the powerhouses that used to guard the oil lamp won't catch up fast enough, and I'll be able to enter the Prison World. However, I'll need to put in some effort to obtain the primitive inscriptions.'

After contemplating for a while, James asked, "Besides using the oil lamp, is there no other way to find Xeraiah?"

Zeno shook his head and said, "I don't think so. We can find Xeraiah with his lingering aura on the oil lamp. Perhaps we should go straight to the entrance of the Prison World. He might be able to sense that the oil lamp has left the Endlos Plane and might rush over to check on the situation."

"Are you sure it'll work?"

Zeno replied uncertainly, "How would I know? Let's just go to the Prison World.

Xeraiah had left some of his aura on the oil lamp, so he should be able to sense that it had left the Endlos Plane before the other powerhouses. Let's head somewhere nearby the Prison World, and wait for a while to see if he shows up."

"Alright." James nodded, knowing there was no better option.

James was looking forward to meeting Xeraiah, who used to be the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion's Master and a powerhouse at the Quasi Bliss Rank. He was a peerless cultivator, bold enough to call himself the Dark World's Lord. With his potential, he must have improved rapidly after regaining his memories.

"I wonder what his cultivation rank is right now." James looked at Zeno and asked, "You know him well, right? What do you think?" Zeno shook his head and said, "I don't know. Like you, he was almost obliterated in his past life. Thus, he couldn't immediately regain his memories.

However, considering his potential and past life's achievements, and also judging by the amount of time that has passed since he left the Endlos Plane, I assume he must've already reached the Martial Celestial Rank. Perhaps he might be at an even higher rank. We'll have to meet him to find out."

James stopped asking questions. He turned to Thea and said, "Let's go."

Thea asked, "Have you done any research on where the Prison World is?"

Naturally, James had no idea where the Prison World was. Even the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion had no clue. However, James believed that Zeno would know where it was located. He looked at Zeno and asked, "You should know where the Prison World is, right?"

Zeno nodded lightly and replied, "Yeah, of course. Back then, Theron went through great efforts to find the Prison World. I was a close subordinate, so I know where it is."

"In that case, lead the way," said James.

"Alright." Zeno nodded.

Zeno led Thea and James out of the Dark World connected to the Endlos Plane.

"The Prison World is a place where countless powerhouses are detained.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5453-The three departed and began traveling through the darkness. Zeno used the opportunity to share information about the Prison World.

"The Prison World used to be part of the Ancestral Site.

Most of the Ancestral Site's core pieces were scattered and disappeared into the darkness, leaving behind a fragmented world. After the side led by the Four Ancient Races won the battle, they imprisoned the losing side in the Prison World and set up the strongest formation to ever exist around the place."

"Speaking of the battle..." James suddenly thought of something and asked, "What was the cause for it? Why were so many races involved?"

“What else could it be? Of course, it was a fight over supreme strength. They wanted to reach the legendary Transcendental Bliss Rank.” Zeno sighed.

“Do elaborate.” James was interested in the Dark World’s history and wanted to find out why so many races participated in the battle.

Zeno explained, “The root of everything was the Ancestral Site. The Ancestral Site had been destroyed long ago before the battle. Although it was shattered, a path called the Halcyon Road, also known as the Halcyon Sea, survived.

“Since ancient times until the present, powerhouses who have tried to enter the Transcendental Bliss Rank would either go crazy, completely lose their minds, or die.

‘There were rumors that anyone who could enter the Halcyon Road and pass through it would successfully enter the Transcendental Bliss Rank.

‘The Halcyon Road used to be located within the Ancestral Site. However, after the Ancestral Site was destroyed, the Halcyon Road vanished into the Dark World. It would only open under specific conditions.”

James frowned and asked, “What kind of conditions?”

“When the powerhouses at the Quasi Bliss Rank reach a specific number, the Halcyon Road will appear. However, only a limited number of powerhouses can enter the Halcyon Road. The powerhouses back then split into two sides and fought to secure a chance to enter the Halcyon Road. The losers were to die, and the winners could enter it.

“The winning side’s powerhouses, who have reached the Quasi Bliss Rank, all entered the Halcyon Road.”

James asked, “And then what happened?”

Zeno shook his head and answered, “I’m not too sure. From what I heard, nobody returned from the Halcyon Road, nor did anyone reach the Transcendental Bliss Rank. There are only records of powerhouses reaching the Quasi Bliss Rank, and there aren’t any recorded accounts of anybody reaching the Transcendental Bliss Rank. It’s a myth that those who enter the Transcendental Bliss Rank will lose their emotions and become like puppets without feelings.”

While moving through the darkness, Zeno shared some myths about the Ancestral Site, which was the root cause of the Dark World's past turmoil.

"Actually..." Zeno suddenly said, 'There isn't just one Progenitor Star. After the Ancestral Site was destroyed, many of its core pieces were scattered and transformed into planes or planets. However, powerful races of the Dark World immediately occupied these Progenitor Stars. The Progenitor Star within the Endlos Plane is the only one that hasn't been discovered."

James was surprised, not expecting such things to have happened in the Dark World. He began to look forward to reaching the Quasi Bliss Rank and the legendary Transcendental Bliss Rank someday. He believed that day would come very soon.

"It has been long since that battle in the Dark World. I'm sure there are already many powerhouses at the Quasi Bliss Rank by now. The Halcyon Road is bound to appear again very soon. I wonder what kind of storms will arise this time." Zeno sighed.

The trio continued to advance toward their destination.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5454-James, Thea, and Zeno shifted through the darkness. Soon, they arrived outside an ancient ruin called the Sky Tomb, which was classified as a forbidden zone.

Zeno came to a stop outside the ruin. He looked ahead of them and said, "This place is called the Sky Tomb. As its name suggests, it's a tomb of deceased powerhouses. The Prison World is located in the depths of the Sky Tomb. In today's Dark World, hardly anyone knows about the Prison World.

James' brows furrowed. He knew about the Sky Tomb because Latrusse had given him a map of the Dark World. Thus, he had a rough idea of the locations of some places. The Sky Tomb was a well-known forbidden area, also named as one of the Ten Dangerous Regions. Even powerhouses at the Holy Celestial Rank would not easily venture into the Sky Tomb.

Even Latrusse, the Taeytons' Leader, had no idea there was a Prison World within the Sky Tomb.

"Didn't the leaders of various races come together to set up the formation?

Logically speaking, there should be a bunch of people who know about the Prison World. Why are only a few people aware of it? Not even the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion knows about the Prison World,” James asked curiously.

Zeno explained, “Those who set up the formation weren’t necessarily the leaders of their races. In fact, many of them were members who were the most profound in their respective primitive inscriptions. Back then, they took oaths to never disclose the location of the Prison World under any circumstances.

Moreover...”

Suddenly, Zeno paused, and his expression became solemn. He continued, saying, “After the Prison World was set up, the powerhouses who partook in setting it up got into accidents one after another in the following years. Most of them are already dead. Perhaps only powerhouses of the Four Ancestral Races and some powerful races are still alive.”

James asked puzzledly, “Why did this happen?”

Zeno explained, “It’s likely the Four Ancient Races joined forces to secretly kill off the rest, just like how they united to obliterate the Glacies.”

James lost his interest. He changed the topic, asking, “We’ve already arrived near the Prison World. Let’s wait here for a while to see if Xeraiah will come after sensing the oil lamp’s whereabouts. I hope he comes quickly. If the other powerhouses sense the oil lamp before him and arrive here, we’ll be in deep trouble.”

Zeno agreed, “Yeah. We can’t wait for too long. Let’s take a look around the area first. I’ve never been inside the Prison World before, so I don’t really know much about the place.”

James nodded lightly.

The trio entered the ruins and immediately noticed countless tombs around the place. Some of the tombs were still intact, but a few had already collapsed.

Each of the tombs emitted terrifying power and resentment toward the world.

Powerhouses who had not entered the Holy Celestial Rank would never dare to step foot into the Sky Tomb.

Although James had not entered the Holy Celestial Rank, his physical body was exceptional. Thus, he was not affected by the corrupted aura.

Thea, on the other hand, had a Tenebrous Body, so she had nothing to fear.

Meanwhile, Zeno was also fine. After all, he was once a powerhouse at the Holy Celestial Rank's late stage and was equipped with countless skills to counter the corrupted aura.

James noticed a formation after passing by a few tombs, and the oil lamp in his storage treasure began to react. He sensed the fluctuations ahead of him and profound inscriptions he had never encountered before.

Despite being unfamiliar with the inscriptions, James was confident in comprehending and deciphering the formation. However, the formation was complicated and contained the primitive inscriptions of countless races. It would take him a long time before he could break the formation.

"Let's wait here." James found a desolate mountain and sat down at the peak.

Thea walked over and stood beside him. Zeno looked around expectantly, waiting for Xeraiah to show up.

Time passed by day by day.

Zeno's expectations slowly turned into disappointment.

It had been about 10,000 years since they arrived in the Sky Tomb. If Xeraiah had sensed the oil lamp, he would have arrived by now.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5455-Suddenly, James sensed an unusual aura fluctuation in the distance. He stood up and said, "I sense a few people approaching. We can't wait any longer. Let's go."

James summoned the oil lamp, held Thea's hand, and rushed toward the formation. Zeno quickly followed behind them. As they got close to the formation, a mysterious power emerged from the oil lamp and opened a gap for them to pass through.

Several elderly men arrived just after the gap in the formation closed up. They scanned the surroundings, but their Zen could not penetrate the formation despite being peerless powerhouses. Even so, they could sense the lingering aura around them and were certain a few living beings were in the area before them.

'We're too late.'

"Yeah. He's probably already entered the Prison World using the oil lamp."

"Who was it?"

'The oil lamp disappeared a very long time ago. Now that it has suddenly reappeared near the prison, it could only mean the thief has recovered and entered the Prison World with the oil lamp to rescue the prisoners.'

"We can't chase after him into the Prison World. Let's retreat for now, and discuss this matter."

A few voices conversed in the Sky Tomb. After a while, their voices disappeared.

Meanwhile, James, Thea, and Zeno had already entered the formation.

However, they realized there were multiple layers to it. After entering the formation, James discovered that each layer was cast by a different race.

Despite that, the layers had mysterious connections and were very powerful.

They would have to break the layers to completely pass through the formation. It was necessary to have the different race's primitive inscriptions to decipher the layers.

The formation was solid, and even a peerless powerhouse could not break it by force.

Zeno sighed and said, "In the end, Xeraiah didn't show up. I wonder if we'll be able to successfully obtain the primitive inscriptions that you need. I doubt it's going to be easy."

"We'll think about that after getting through this formation." James did not have a solid plan yet but felt that worrying would not be helpful. They could think about obtaining the primitive inscriptions after entering the Prison World.

He held up the oil lamp and slowly opened the formation's layers one by one.

The group slowly advanced, and after passing through countless layers, they finally appeared in a vast and mysterious world.

Serrated mountains loomed in the distance, and a gem-blue stream swerved through the valleys. The air felt refreshing as it was abundant with Empyrean Spiritual Energy.

James let out his Zen but could not find the world's borders. However, he could sense several inscription shards scattered throughout the area. He said surprisedly, "Is this the destroyed Ancestral Site? Why doesn't the Endlos Plane's Progenitor Star consist of such magical primitive inscription sigils?"
