

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5864-‘Thank you for the information.’ James stood up and clasped his hands. After expressing his gratitude, he turned around and left.

“Wait!” Truett stood up and quickly stopped James from leaving.

James turned around and asked, “What’s wrong? Is there something else?”

Truett scanned James up and down, then said, “From what I know, the Timaeus Sect’s Saintess has always been in seclusion. Even when she isn’t in seclusion, she only moves around within the Timaeus Sect. She never left the sect’s territory before. How do you know about her? Where did you meet her? Could it be you’ve been to the Timaeus Sect before?” James did not explain truthfully. Instead, he said casually, “I dreamed about her.”

Truett gave him a thumbs up and said, “Amazing. You’ve never seen her before, but dreamed about her? I’m thinking about sneaking into the Timaeus Sect soon. I can tell you’re also interested. Do you want to come with me? I’ll get you in.”

James looked at Truett and asked surprisedly, ‘You want to sneak into the Timaeus Sect? How?’

Truett replied, “Where there’s a will, there’s a way!”

James looked at him and asked, “What’s your cultivation rank?”

Truett hid his aura very well, and even James could not detect his cultivation rank.

“I’m only at the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Fifth Tribulation. Although it’s not comparable to the powerhouses outside, I’m still pretty strong,” Truett said proudly.

“Huff!” James took a deep breath, surprised by the answer.

The Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Fifth Tribulation was a very terrifying achievement. He would need to work for many more years before finally being able to reach the rank.

After a brief shock, James recomposed. Then, he nodded and said, "Okay. But I do have some friends with me. Could they come together?"

Truett smiled broadly, placed his hand on James' shoulder, and said, "Sure. I make friends without regard for one's status, background, or cultivation rank.

What matters is we like each other. Your friends are my friends."

"Thank you." James had a grateful expression.

"Where are your friends? Introduce them to me," Truett said smilingly.

"Sure." James nodded.

Afterward, James and Truett headed toward the place where Xzavion and the others were in seclusion.

Quattro asked curiously, "Why are you back so soon, General? Also, who's this?"

Although James had already left for many years, Xzavion and the others had only spent a short while within their time formations.

James said smilingly, "This is Truett, Skynet's Young Master."

"Skynet? What's Skynet?" Quattro was confused.

Xzavion and Stephen also stopped cultivating and then looked toward Truett.

James thought awhile and replied, "Skynet is a neutral force of the Ancient Genesis World. They do not participate in rankings. However, their intelligence networks are scattered throughout the Three Thousand Great Genesis Worlds.

They are similar to the Heavenly Secrets Pavilion."

"I see!" Quattro immediately understood. He walked over and said smilingly, "Nice to meet you, Mr. Truett. My name is Quattro. Speaking of which, what cultivation rank are you? I can't sense your cultivation base."

Before Truett could answer, James replied, "He's at the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank's Fifth Tribulation."

“What?” Quattro was frightened and took a few steps backward. Then, he said in surprise, “W-What did you say? He’s at the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Fifth Tribulation?”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5865-Truett said while smiling, ‘That’s not important. Cultivation rank is just skin□deep.”

Xzavion and Stephen gasped.

“By the way, we’re planning to go to the Timaeus Sect,” said James.

“Why?” Quattro questioned, but his gaze remained on Truett. It seemed like a lot was going on in his mind.

James said solemnly, ‘Thea is in the Timaeus Sect.”

Xzavion asked, ‘What’s the Timaeus Sect’s background like?”

James shook his head.

Truett explained, “Strictly speaking, the Timaeus Sect is the strongest force in the Ancient Genesis World. The Yaquis Sect, Bellerian Dynasty and Javerigh Sect are nothing compared to the Timaeus Sect.”

Quattro said, surprised, ‘They are that strong?”

‘Wait a minute…” Truett looked at James suspiciously and asked, “Does that mean the name of the Timaeus Sect’s Saintess is Thea?”

Truett had only seen the Timaeus Sect’s Saintess once and did not know her name. In fact, he never heard any rumors regarding her name being circulated.

“Yeah.” James nodded lightly.

“How do you know?” Truett asked doubtfully.

Quattro answered, ‘That’s his wife. She’s the reincarnation of the Dark Genesis World’s Heavenly Path.”

“Huh?!” Truett was shocked.

Quattro immediately realized he had run his mouth and instantly fell silent. He sneaked a glance at James and sighed in relief after seeing that James did not react.

Everyone was silent, and the atmosphere was strange.

James eventually broke the silence and said, "It's not a secret anyway. She's my wife, and we're from the Dark Genesis World. I left and came here to find her."

Truett was instantly intrigued. He sat down, took out his finest wine and said, "Come! Let's chat over drinks."

He skillfully poured everyone a glass. The wine he offered them had a vibrant color and a strong aroma.

Quattro excitedly drank the wine in one gulp. Suddenly, his pores expanded, and colorful light rays emerged from his body. He felt light and airy, as if he would float into the sky any moment. He exclaimed, "Woah! Such abundant power."

Truett smiled faintly in response.

James, Xzavion and Stephen took light sips.

Similarly, they felt a magical power sweeping through their bodies.

Truett also picked up his glass and drank his wine leisurely. Then, he asked calmly, "So, what's all this about? Do enlighten me."

James mobilized his strength and suppressed the energy from leaking from his pores. Then, he replied, "We're from the Dark Genesis World. Previously, we went through a calamity that involved the Auroral Genesis World."

"Although we got rid of Xazal, Thea was forced to reincarnate."

James explained the past events.

Truett had an enlightened expression. He said, "I see! No wonder the baby was shrouded by a halo when found in the Forladdt Land. It's because she's the reincarnation of a Heavenly Path's consciousness. But it's still bizarre. There are so many Genesis Worlds and Heavenly Paths, yet we've never heard of consciousness being born from these Heavenly Paths."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5866-James did not have the answers either. He had no idea why the Dark Heavenly Path's consciousness formed and turned into Thea.

Truett stopped asking more questions on the topic. He simply gave a thumbs up and said, "For you guys to crush other opponents of the same rank, who are from major sects, is really impressive. Moreover, you guys are courageous.

Even with low cultivation ranks, you guys were bold enough to rob Yaquis' sale point."

After learning that James and the others were from the Dark Genesis World, Truett figured out their identities. The incident at the Zephyria World, and the news about Yaquis' sale point being robbed had already spread. As Skynet's Young Master, Truett naturally had first-hand access to the information. Even though James and the others did not use their actual appearances, he easily figured out their identities.

Truett smiled broadly and said, "The Yaquis Sect went overboard! They kept looking for trouble, so we decided to teach them a lesson."

Truett admired James and his comrades' guts. They were only at the Yuraeceon First Rank, but they dared to go against the Yaquis Sect."

The news had already spread everywhere in the Ancient Genesis World. James and the others had become famous figures but were utterly unaware since they had yet to travel around the Ancient Genesis World.

James, however, was not concerned with these matters. His main priority was on entering the Timaeus Sect to find Thea.

"Is it easy to enter the Timaeus Sect?" asked James.

Truett shook his head and said, "Nope. The Timaeus Sect is the strongest force in the Ancient Genesis World. They hardly recruit disciples and only do so every once in a long while. Every time they recruit, numerous prodigies flock and compete to join them.

"What should we do now?" James was at a loss.

Truett looked at him and said smilingly, "Although the Timaeus Sect's Saintess is an ethereal beauty, I don't like getting between lovers. Unfortunately, she has many pursuers. Moreover, they are much stronger than you. After she was reincarnated, she lost her previous life's memories. She doesn't remember you.

It'll be hard for you to win her over again. However, I can help you get into the Timaeus Sect.

James asked happily, "Really?"

Truett said proudly, "Of course! I'm the Young Master of Skynet, after all. My father has a great reputation, and I would put him at the same level as the Timaeus Sect's Leader. I still have that much capabilities, but..."

James knew that Truett would not help him for nothing. He asked calmly, "Go on."

"I'm interested in Curse Magic. Can you share what you obtained from the Zephyria World with me?" Truett said smilingly.

Curse Magic was a Forbidden Art. Even with Skynet's intelligence networks, they did not have information about Curse Magic. If Skynet could obtain Curse Magic, he believed Skynet's reputation would grow.

"This..." James contemplated. After a while, he agreed, "Okay."

Curse Magic was very magical. It would be impossible for living beings outside the Dark World to understand the Curse Inscriptions as it would take ages for them just to understand a single one. Even after comprehending the Curse Inscriptions, it would be hard for them to perfect the art and become profound at it.

After all, Curse Magic required one to utilize the evil power sealed within the Dark World. Moreover, James already had the Judgment Scythe, which was needed to mobilize evil power.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5867-James felt Curse Magic was nothing if he could reunite with Thea. However, he kept a backup plan and secretly changed some of the Curse Inscriptions.

He handed over the modified version of the Curse Magic to Truett.

After Truett received the Curse Inscriptions, he began studying them. He was at the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank's Fifth Tribulation but could not understand the Curse Inscriptions immediately. He put them away and said smilingly, "Thank you."

James asked, "When will you bring me to the Timaeus Sect."

Truett replied, "There's no need to rush. I'll make a trip home first. You guys wait here. I'll be back very soon." James said anxiously, "Don't leak our secrets. I only told you because I trust you."

Truett patted James' shoulder and said smilingly, "Don't worry. I know what can and can't be said. The Dark Genesis World is a very mysterious part of history. If others discover your origin, you won't be able to move around in the Ancient Genesis World."

After making a promise to James, Truett left.

Quattro immediately questioned, "How did you meet him, General? He's at the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank's Fifth Tribulation!"

"I went to Skynet to inquire some information. He served me when I arrived,"

James said, then sat down on the ground and began to refine the energy from the wine.

Although James had reached the Yuraeceon Ninth Rank, he still had to compress the energy in his body and make it pure.

Truett left and returned quickly. His white robe made him look incredibly dashing.

"I'm back, James."

Truett had arrived in the spiritual mountain where James lived.

James and the others were cultivating when they heard his voice and quickly stood up.

Truett approached and stopped in front of them.

Quattro asked, “Did you come up with a plan yet, Mr. Truett? How can we enter the Timaeus Sect?”

“Yeap.” Truett raised his hand and summoned a token.

“What the hell is that?” asked Quattro.

“It’s my father’s token. I stole it. With the token, the Timaeus Sect will probably accept you guys as elders,” Truett said with a chuckle.

Quattro immediately flattered him, saying, “You’re a friend of mine from now onward, Truett.”

Truett approached James and said smilingly, “We’re also friends, right? I’ve already studied the Curse Inscriptions but don’t understand anything. They are too complicated and profound. Could you give me some advice?”

Truett was very interested in Curse Magic. After returning home, he stole his father’s token and went through a few ancient books. Unfortunately, there were no records about Curse Inscriptions, and there was no way for him to decipher them. His only option was to ask James. At his cultivation rank, he could do anything he wanted after mastering Curse Magic. Of course, it only applied if his opponent was not a peerless powerhouse.

“I’ll think about it after entering the Timaeus Sect.” James did not immediately agree to help Truett. After all, he still did not fully trust him.

Truett said excitedly, “Then what are we waiting for? Let’s go!”

Afterward, the group quickly left the area and headed for the Timaeus Sect in the Ancient Genesis World.