

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6141-“As long as one’s strength is sufficient, there are times when Tai Chi falls short.”

James smirked. “Otherwise, how could Mr. Franciscus have shattered the Tai Chi World back then?”

Lyla felt like punching him. “He was a peak Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Ninth Tribulation powerhouse, possibly even at the Quasi Daelcon Rank. You’re only at the peak of the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Eighth Tribulation. How are you the same?”

“We’ve fought before,” chuckled James. “Am I weaker than you?”

At this statement, Lyla was momentarily stunned.

Turning around, James said meaningfully, “The reason Tai Chi proposed this bet is simply because he believes I won’t surpass the terrifying upper three calamities. However, I already have the Eternal Calamity. Whether I choose to confront him in the bet or not, I’ll face the calamities.”

“You spoke too soon,” interjected Lyla hastily. “If you had been willing to kowtow three times, he would’ve exempted you from the Heavenly Tribulations...”

“Good things never simply fall into our lap.” James interrupted Lyla. “Do you really think Tai Chi is that generous?”

“What do you mean?” Lyla furrowed her brow.

“Kowtowing to him three times might be easy,” said James word by word. “I’m not the type to stubbornly endure suffering for the sake of pride. The crucial point is, once those three kowtows are performed, we will no longer control Forladtt Land.”

At this, Lyla’s expression turned into one of shock. “Are you saying Tai Chi will reclaim Forladtt Land?”

“Forladtt Land was never his. It was an otherworld battlefield left behind by the previous era,” said James slowly. “Those who can control Forladtt Land are such as the Yonderverse Tower in my hands. It was formed by the aggregation of spirits left over from trillions of battles, possessing formidable courage and strength. They don’t care about Tai Chi. They only recognize courageous powerhouses.

“Once I kneel to Tai Chi here, they will no longer recognize me, and Forladtt Land will no longer be under our control.”

Hearing this, Lyla gasped, “Then, you really have no room for compromise. After all, Forladtt Land is more important. It’s our foundation.”

“I never intended to compromise or retreat,” stated James coldly. “In the end, it’ll be an irreversible catastrophe with souls scattered. Now, I must give my all with Tai Chi’s bet.”

Lyla stared at James in shock. “So, you planned this. You deliberately provoked Tai Chi earlier?”

“Yes.” James nodded. “It isn’t easy to cross paths with Tai Chi. Since I’ve encountered it, I must gain something from it, whether good or bad.”

“So, what you said earlier...” replied Lyla.

“Half of it was true, and half was just my guess,” said James, carefully enunciating each word. “I didn’t expect to actually be right. Tai Chi really plotted against Mr. Franciscus, leading to the disaster for the living beings of the Dark World later on.”

“He’s Tai Chi,” sighed Lyla. “The supreme of all living beings, and yet he schemes so deviously?”

“In the end, he’s just a person,” sneered James. “At his level, I’m afraid he would’ve been overthrown by living beings long ago if he hadn’t plotted and schemed.”

Lyla looked at James as if he were a demon. “You plotted against him.”

James felt a bit awkward and rubbed his nose. Then, he pointed to the void and changed the subject.

“Forladtt Land is an otherworldly battlefield. I don’t know how many layers it has or how many top-tier powerhouses are hidden within its fourth layer. At least for now, I can only progress up to this layer. Let’s explore it further later. It may be the best leverage against Tai Chi.”

Just as Lyla opened her mouth and was about to speak, James vanished with a flash.

He was truly audacious and lawless. He managed to outsmart even Tai Chi. The fact that ambitious people like Xachary and Gladwin once wanted to control him was nothing short of a colossal joke.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6142-Time flew, and after a period of preparation, James and the others finally emerged from Forladtt Land.

Currently, Lyla’s cultivation base was the highest, nearing the peak of the Consummation Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Ninth Tribulation.

Next was Rebella, who had broken through to the peak of the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Ninth Tribulation and gone through the Haloed Heavenly Tribulation.

her significantly stronger compared to an ordinary peak of the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Ninth Tribulation powerhouse.

Third was Xitlaly, who did not need to face the Heavenly Tribulation. She ascended smoothly to the peak of the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Ninth Tribulation. However, the benefits Tai Chi granted to her had also ended.

grade of the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Ninth Tribulation.

James had the lowest cultivation base, but he was the strongest among all living beings in terms of overall strength.

Standing on a mountain peak at the southeastern border of the Ancient Genesis World, several people scanned the vast and boundless world with their Zens, simultaneously taking a deep breath.

When they entered Forladtt Land, the Ancient Genesis World was still peaceful and vibrant everywhere. Now, it was engulfed in flames of war, with living beings suffering, countless universes annihilated, and countless living beings perishing.

The once prosperous Ancient Genesis World had disappeared, replaced by ruins everywhere, corpses strewn all over the ground, like a purgatory on earth.

This was a battle for supremacy between the Righteous Alliance centered around the Timaeus Sect and the new alliance centered around the Yaquis Sect, which affected the entire Three Thousand Great Genesis Worlds and the countless Micro Genesis Worlds.

“Everything is in chaos,” sighed Truett. “Which side should we attack first, James?” “Attack?” James glanced at Truett. “Which side do you want to attack?” “We are the founders of the Jademora Empire now,” said Truett nonchalantly. “We should take this opportunity to have a big battle and establish our dominance. Otherwise, how can we recruit talented disciples?”

At these words, James was speechless.

“Are you stupid?” Xitlaly immediately kicked Truett. “This is a matter between the Yaquis Sect and the Timaeus Sect. Which side do you want to assist?”

At Xitlaly’s words, Truett was stunned. “We attack whoever we want. Why bother about that?” “That’s asking for trouble,” snorted Xitlaly. “When they all join forces to deal with US, what will you do then?” Truett was suddenly at a loss.

Then, Xitlaly turned to James. “James, is that okay for me to go home for a while?” “Go home?” James looked at her, but before he could speak, Truett exclaimed in surprise, “Darling, are you in such a hurry to return to Skynet’s bridal chamber?” “Go to hell,” said Xitlaly irritably. “I mean to return to the lustus Sect. It’s been too long since I left Forladtt Land. My master and my parents are all there. I should go back and check on them, just to let them know I’m safe.”

“Aren’t you the lustus Sect’s saintess? You have parents as a saintess?” asked Truett.

Xitlaly was left speechless.

“Yes, teach him a lesson,” Xatia chimed in. “After all, he can’t win against you now.”

Truett’s face changed suddenly at the teasing of the two stunning beauties.

Then, he was slapped away by Xitlaly.

Rebella and Lyla, who were watching from the side, exchanged a glance and shook their heads helplessly.

At this moment, Xitlaly approached James somewhat hesitantly. “James, I have something private to tell you.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6143-James glanced at the other female living beings, then flew to another mountaintop and set up a Soundproof Barrier.

After Xitlaly entered, she spoke softly, “James, could you first let Truett report his safety to the Skynet, and then you and the others accompany me to the lustus Sect?”

James furrowed his brow. “Why do you want to send Truett away?”

Xitlaly looked troubled. “I need to inform my parents and master about my situation with him, but it might cause some trouble.”

James crossed his arms and looked pensive. “You had a prior engagement?”

Xitlaly hesitated, then nodded lightly.

James asked again, “Didn’t you tell Truett?” “With his temper, he would definitely go pick a fight if he found out,” grumbled Xitlaly helplessly. “Joaquin has long been an upper-grade Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Ninth Tribulation powerhouse, and he might have reached the peak of the rank by now. Besides, he’s my master’s son...” “I had no idea about this,” interrupted James. “Looks like I inadvertently broke up your engagement.” “No, it’s not like that.” Xitlaly shook her head hastily. “I don’t like him. It was only because of pressure from my parents and my master’s kindness that I reluctantly agreed.”

Turning around, James looked at Xitlaly. "So, you have a choice now. Will you choose Joaquin or Truett?" "I'll definitely choose Truett!" replied Xitlaly urgently.

"We've been through thick and thin together. He risked his life to save me in times of danger. How could I look past all that?" "Good." James nodded. "Then, everyone will accompany you on this trip, but Truett must go too." "Why?" Xitlaly became anxious.

"Because he's your husband," stated James straightforwardly. "He has the right to know everything about you and should face this with you."

Xitlaly was at a loss for words. She said, "Things might get more complicated and troublesome if he goes."

"Leaving everything else aside, what if Joaquin challenges him? Truett's cultivation base is only at the middle grade of the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank's Ninth Tribulation. He's no match for Joaquin. With his temper, he'll definitely accept the challenge, and then..." "Are you assuming we're a group of dead people?" laughed James. "We have three powerhouses at the peak of the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank's Ninth Tribulation in the Jademora Empire. Even if you're reluctant to act, Rebella and Lyla can easily suppress the entire lustus Sect."

Looking at James, Xitlaly sighed deeply. "I want to resolve things peacefully and avoid conflict. After all, I'm still in the lustus Sect..." "Love and war are two different things," interrupted James. "As long as you're determined to stand by Truett's side and follow him, leave the rest to me."

Xitlaly opened her mouth, then nodded. "I trust you, James." "Alright. Go get Truett." James turned around with his hands behind his back.

Xitlaly nodded nervously and flew out of the Soundproof Barrier.

Shortly after, Truett flashed behind James. "What's up, James?"

James waved his hand, and several items floated in front of Truett.

After a moment of hesitation, Truett picked them up and muttered, "The Primordial Phoenix Body Technique, the WispGlow Lamp, and the Tempest Scepter. They seem incredibly powerful. Are they Divine Tools?" "Yep." James nodded. "These are all Divine Tools lost by the lustus Sect in the past."

I found them in Forladtt Land.” “Wow!” Truett’s eyes lit up. “Are these all for me?”

“They’re for your betrothal gift,” said James, looking at Truett. “It’s time to take care of your marriage matters. A son-in-law should eventually meet his mother in-law.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6144-Truett was stunned for a moment, then suddenly exclaimed, “Don’t joke with me, James!” “Who’s joking with you?” replied James. “Don’t you want to marry Xitlaly?” “Of course! That’s not it!” Truett hastily shook his head. “I mean, this isn’t the main focus right now.”

James asked with interest, “Then, what is the main focus?” “Lyla already told US that you made a bet with Tai Chi.” Truett stared at James. “You only have two more entrapochs left, James. It’s crucial for you to strengthen yourself and seclude yourself to focus on cultivation without any distractions.” “Should I be cramming for cultivation in such a short time?” said James lightly. “I never bother with such tedious and foolish activities.”

Truett was taken aback. “Do you already have a plan?” “I can breakthrough to the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Ninth Tribulation at any moment,” said James calmly. “It’s just a matter of encountering any Heavenly Tribulations and whether I can overcome them. I have to wait for an opportunity, not force it. Let things flow naturally, otherwise, it might backfire.”

Truett nodded in understanding. “Then we should immediately return to the Skynet Headquarters next. We need to see how the living beings from the Dark World are faring. It concerns the future foundation of our Jademora Empire.”

“We can’t rush into that,” said James. “I can assure you that we’ve been under Tai Chi’s surveillance ever since we departed from Forladtt Land. He’s closely monitoring our every move.

“It’s a huge secret that the living beings from the Dark World have secretly emerged from Yin’s Void and temporarily settled in the Skynet territory. With your father’s protection, they’ll be safe for now.”

Then, he turned to Truett. “However, if we proceed directly to the Mysticvale District of the Skynet, it could lead to the secret being exposed. In that case, not only would the Dark World living beings from Yin’s Void be implicated, but also the Skynet and your father.”

Upon hearing this, Truett took a sharp breath. “You’re really considerate.”

James continued, “To deceive Tai Chi, we need to make you and Xitlaly’s wedding grand. That way, we can smoothly infiltrate the Skynet Headquarters.

I’ll seize the chance to use the Yuraeceon Genesis Bell to cloak our auras. Even if Tai Chi catches wind of something later on, the Skynet can distance themselves from the situation and sidestep any implication.”

Upon hearing this, Truett became anxious. “James, the Skynet has never...” James waved his hand to cut him off. “I’m deeply grateful for your father and the Skynet’s kindness, but I need to use your wedding as a significant event or rather a transaction. I hope you don’t mind.” “Why do I feel like you’re being too formal, James?” Truett nervously looked at James.

“Formal my ass,” chided James with a laugh. “We’re brothers. We should be open and sincere with each other. I’m not consulting with you. I’m just informing you and giving you a chance to tell your wife.”

Truett was momentarily stunned, then burst into laughter.

“Now, there’s another issue I need to tell you about in advance.” James glanced at Truett. “You might truly face a life-and-death battle this time when going to the lustus Sect.”

With that, he recounted Xitlaly’s engagement.

After listening, Truett squinted his eyes. “I never thought I’d have a rival in love.”

“You’re asking for trouble with those words,” James chuckled, pointing at him. “If your wife hears that, you’ll be in for a beating.

“Xitlaly is the peerless saintess of the lustus Sect. Whether it’s her beauty, intelligence, talent, or strength, she ranks among the top ten in the Three Thousand Great Genesis Worlds and the countless Micro Genesis Worlds.

There are countless living beings longing for her. You should enjoy yourself quietly, brat.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6145-“Indeed.” Truett smirked arrogantly. “This battle must be fought, and it must be won.” “What are the odds of success?” asked James.

“If there aren’t any odds, should I just hand over my wife?” chuckled Truett dismissively. “Regardless of his strength, anyone who dares to snatch my wife must be met with a fight to the death, otherwise, it’s a disgrace for me to live.”

“Alright.” James patted his shoulder. ‘That’s my good brother. Courageous and responsible. However, you must always remember, although the Jademora Empire may be fewer in numbers, we’re not to be trifled with.”

Just this statement alone filled Truett with confidence. Apart from his family’s influence, James was his greatest support.

Turning with his hands behind his back, James chuckled lightly. “Of course, we must start with diplomacy before resorting to force in this venture. We can’t afford to lose face for you, nor can we strain relations to the point where my sister-in-law feels embarrassed.”

Truett nodded, i’ll follow your arrangements.”

James smiled. ‘We’re all human. We value emotions and manners the most.

Marriage is a significant affair. Under favorable conditions, all due respect must be paid, otherwise, the bride’s family may see it as disrespect.”

With that, he pointed to three treasures floating in front of Truett. “As people say, civility costs nothing. These three items must be given to the three most important people, along with some much-needed cultivation resources as additional gifts.”

Truett exclaimed, “All three?” “Of course!” retorted James impatiently.

“No,” explained Truett hurriedly. “Each of these is a peerless Divine Tool.

Any sect that obtains even one would be able to greatly increase its strength.

They should be grateful with just one.” “Remember this well. I’ll only say it once.” James pointed to the three items. ‘The WispGlow Lamp is for your father in-law, the Genesis Phoenix Art is for your mother-in-law, and the Tempest Scepter is for Xitlaly’s Master, the sect leader of the lustus Sect.”

With a wave of his hand, dozens of energy balls floated in front of Truett.

Truett’s eyes widened in shock. There were twenty Calidum Spiritual Fruits, six thousand six hundred and sixty-six Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Ninth Tribulation cores, ten thousand pieces of cores below the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Ninth Tribulation, and one hundred thousand pieces of cores at the Yuraeceon Xaelm Rank.

“Is this really necessary, James?” Truett’s eyes widened. “You’re practically giving the resources of a super sect. They’re enough for the lustus Sect to elevate several levels.” “Marriage is a man’s dignity,” chuckled James. “How can I let my brother lose face in front of the lustus Sect? otherwise, won’t you be bullied when you go there?”

After hearing this, Truett felt a strong warmth. Retrieving the floating items, he turned to James. “Come on, James, let’s hug. I need to shed some tears of gratitude.”

Then, Truett put some saliva on the edges of his eyes and disgustingly wiped his nose. Seeing this, James immediately recoiled with a strange cry and swiftly moved away.

“You’re so disgusting, Truett.” “It’s called shedding tears of gratitude. The atmosphere needs to be just right.” Truett sniffed. “Come on, James.”

James promptly ran away.