Chapter 6178

Yaquis was rendered speechless.

James said smilingly, "Your son also participated, right? He fought me but lost."

"Everyone keeps saying Franciscus' successor is a demon. Then, your sect's disciples tried to become demons but failed."

Yaquis gritted his teeth, waved his hand, and growled, "Presumptuous! Don't stray from the main topic.

I'm asking about my son's whereabouts."

"Since you insist on this topic, shall we talk about everything that happened?"

James turned to Xitlaly and said, "Tell them about how we met in the Forladtt Land."

Xitlaly raised her head and explained the events in the Forladtt Land.

Mattaniah's face darkened after hearing everything, and shouted, "I see how it is! How dare he attack our sect's saintess! Shouldn't you give me an explanation, Yaquis?!!"

Yaquis waved his hand and said hurriedly, "No. There must be a misunderstanding. Besides, my son was not the person who did it. He doesn't deserve to die."

James recounted the events of the Forladtt Land, especially the part where Xayvion had disguised as Whitaker and infiltrated the Timaeus Sect. He also brought up the powerhouses that had used elixirs to suppress their cores.

Yegor and Mattaniah had solemn expressions. On the other hand, Yaquis had an embarrassed expression after being exposed.

Gladwin sneered sarcastically, "Oh? Was there a secret operation like that?

So the new alliance that claims to want to maintain the safety and stability of the Genesis Worlds had broken the rules and snuck powerhouses at the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank into the Forladtt Land. That's despicable and shameless."

Yaquis turned around and pointed at Gladwin, saying, "Were we really the only ones that did such a thing? Didn't you guys do the same?"

'Good. Now, tear each other apart. I need you two to fight for this power struggle to continue.' James secretly laughed inwardly.

Rubella looked around and met James' gaze, seemingly trying to signal him.

James immediately understood her intention and nodded lightly in response.

Meanwhile, Gladwin and Yaquis quarreled intensely in front of everyone. The two of them exposed each other to all the dirty schemes of the past. Soon enough, it seemed like the two were about to fight.

Nobody stopped them, and they just watched like spectators.

After the two bickered for a long time, they suddenly noticed the strange atmosphere around them and quickly backed away from each other.

Yegor smiled and said, "You two old men are fighting like children in front of the youngsters. How embarrassing."

Gladwin and Yaquis turned their heads simultaneously, evidently displeased with one another.

Yegor looked at Yaquis and said, "James has already explained what happened to your son. Now, we should talk about my son almost dying in his hands."

Mattaniah's face also darkened as he questioned, "I also need an explanation about your son's actions toward our saintess! Even if you can't find your son, I'll do it myself. How dare you bully our saintess.

That's equivalent to making an enemy out of our sect! I can't tolerate such actions!"

Yaquis was stunned momentarily, taken aback that everyone had turned against him.

Chapter 6179

James squinted at Gladwin, who gloated over Yaquis' situation. He began thinking about a way to intensify the hostility between the Righteous Alliance and the new alliance.

However, Gladwin was present. Thus, James could only hint at things rather than directly speaking of them. It would have been much more convenient if he could send telepathic messages.

Yaquis clenched his fists and growled, "So everyone's targeting me now? They could easily paint the situation to their benefit. My son's current whereabouts is still unknown. If you guys are capable enough to find him, we can question him on the spot.

"If he truly did these things, his fate will be up to you to decide. However, I must at least see him!"

Yaquis had not been the head of a major sect for nothing. He could maintain his wit under such a disadvantageous situation. It showed that he was a capable leader.

Everyone fell silent. After a short while, Mattaniah said, "Since you say so, then let's not fight on such a happy day. still, you owe US explanations after finding your son."

Yaquis said, "But where do I find him? I..."

"That's your problem. Although you two came uninvited, it's the perfect timing. It saved me a trip to find you two. Come, let's witness a happy union together." Yegor interrupted with a solemn expression.

Gladwin and Yaquis were stunned by his words.

Yegor nodded at James and said, "Since you're their matchmaker, how about you facilitate?"

James nodded smilingly, then turned to Truett and cast him a meaningful glance. Immediately afterward, he shouted, "Let the ceremony begin!"

Truett, Rebella and Lyla immediately rushed out of the ball.

Xitlaly was left behind, confused. Just as she was about to follow after them, James blocked her from leaving.

She looked at him and said, "James?"

James said smilingly, "You can't leave. Otherwise, how is Truett going to propose?"

Xitlaly was stunned and immediately lowered her head shyly.

Shortly after, bells and drums resounded from outside the main hall. The melodic and festive music began playing throughout the area.

Truett walked into the hall. Rebella and Lyla led a group of beautiful disciples after him, holding countless elegantly wrapped betrothal gifts.

Gladwin and Yaquis were stunned by the sight. Meanwhile, Yegor and Mattaniah were watching with broad smiles.

Under the countless gazes, Truett stopped before Xitlaly. He smiled tenderly and said, "James said we must go through the proper procedures."

James face palmed and almost toppled to the ground. He was astonished that Truett was not sensible enough to know what not to say during a proposal.

Fortunately, Xitlaly did not mind his clumsiness. He gently bit her red lips and nodded at him.

Truett knelt on one knee, put one knee on his hand, and said, "Xitlaly, will you marry me?"

Everyone fell silent in anticipation.

Xitlaly looked at Mattaniah and Yegor shyly for a while. Then, she turned to Truett and nodded firmly.

Truett stood up, took Xitlaly's slender hand, and said with a smile, "I promise to be with you in life and death."

Rebella and Lyla thrust their palms forward simultaneously. At that moment, countless dazzling lights enveloped the couple.

The two had officially tied the knot.

Yegor and Mattaniah smiled and nodded in approval.

Chapter 6180

Meanwhile, Gladwin and Yaquis were still puzzled.

A marriage between two forces ranked in the top ten of the Genesis Worlds was not a good sign for them, mainly because they were fighting for control. Although they were worried and conflicted about the situation, they had no choice but to force smiles and applause together.

Suddenly, James walked over to Truett's side and said, "Present your betrothal gifts."

Lyla quickly walked over, carrying a tray covered with a red cloth.

James pulled the red cloth, and a gleaming ancient book appeared in sight.

The powerhouses present were instantly in shock after seeing the gift.

Gladwin's eyes widened, and he asked, "Is that the Genesis Phoenix Art created by Flaviano Hagels, the founder of the lustus Sect? Is that the Supernatural Power that once caused a shock throughout the Tai Chi World?"

Yaquis gasped, saying, 'The Gensis Phoenix Art? That's a valuable skill that helps with body refinements. I never expected it to reappear today."

Mattaniah grabbed Yegor and exclaimed, 'T-That's our long-lost treasure, the Genesis Phoenix Art?

Are you trying to give me a heart attack with these surprises?"

Yegor smiled and replied calmly, "I had nothing to do with it. These gifts are from them."

Mattaniah was quiet as he thought to himself, 'Who doesn't know you have financial resources comparable to the major sects throughout the Genesis Worlds? Who else here is capable of obtaining such valuable items? You're being too humble!'

Gladwin and Yaquis also had the same thoughts. However, apart from being envious, they began to worry about their situation.

Skynet played a vital role in their power struggle. It was also the most uncontrollable and unpredictable force in the Genesis World. Everyone wanted to win them over, but nobody could not completely gain their full support.

Now, Yegor had taken out such a precious gift as his son's betrothal gift toward the Iulus Sect. It further proved how unpredictable and mysterious Skynet was. The two of them knew Skynet was not to be underestimated.

Xitlaly was also surprised by the valuable gift. She looked at Truett and said, "You..."

Truett leaned forward and whispered, "James gave it to me. This is just the first surprise!"

Xitlaly thought to herself, 'The first surprise? Is there more?'

She gasped, held Truett's hand tightly, and said, "James is too kind to US. I can't believe he gave you such a valuable gift for you to use as a betrothal gift."

Truett said softly, 'The best gift was supposed to be the Tempest Scepter. However, I had to give it to you first since it was an emergency."

Xitlaly nodded and said, "I'm telling you, Truett. If we fail James, we deserve to have our destroyed."

"Mhm." Truett agreed with a nod.

James suddenly announced, "I'm sure my seniors here know about the Genesis Phoenix Art. It's the lost treasure of the lusus Sect. Skynet's first betrothal gift on behalf of Truett is the Genesis Phoenix

Art."

Mattaniah clapped loudly and shouted excitedly, "Okay! This is such a great blessing. Me and the lusus Sect are truly blessed."

Then, Mattaniah clasped his hands at Yegor and said, "Words won't be enough to express my appreciation. I will treat our relationship with sincerity and be your trustworthy ally."

Yegor was not expecting James to credit Skynet as the gitter of such a valuable treasure. Not only did he help Truett look good, but he also greatly enhanced Skynet's prestige and formidability.

James was incredibly unpredictable and magnanimous. Yegor could not help but feel impressed by his actions.

'The next gift." James waved his hand again.
