

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6601-The siblings anxiously looked toward Lyla, who was sitting nearby with closed eyes.

Winnie asked, "Aunt Lyla, where did you find a powerhouse like him from? Please let him teach us. I'll get you the most delicious jerky! A lot of them!"

Noel also pleaded, "Please, Aunty Lyla. Next time you quarrel with Aunt Rebella, I'll side with you."

James almost failed to suppress his laughter, finding it funny his children were so playful with Lyla even though they had been so afraid of her a few moments ago.

It seemed Lyla's teachings toward them were not only strict but also filled with love. It was why they could act so carefreely with her.

Lyla slowly opened her eyes and said, "Really?"

"Of course!" Noel and Winnie nodded simultaneously.

James was rendered speechless, surprised Lyla, the epitome of coldness, was so easily bribed.

Lyla immediately leaped into the air, and stopped beside James, saying, "Give them some guidance. It hasn't been easy for them."

Noel and Winnie looked at James with anticipation and nodded, seemingly unwilling to budge if he were to refuse.

James feigned a sigh and said smilingly, "You two have a significant issue. I'm afraid my guidance might not suffice."

"Why? What have we done wrong?" Noel hurriedly inquired.

Winnie chimed in, saying, "Please help us, Sir. We'll make the necessary changes."

"Change?" James smiled and countered, "Can you change your mindset and half-heartedness?"

Noel and Winnie were struck with shock.

James questioned solemnly, "Why do you think Lyla brought you two here? What's the real purpose?"

Have you truly grasped it?"

Observing the two children exchanging glances before bowing their heads in shame, James continued, "You must think she made you two endlessly eliminate these remnant souls as a punishment, right?"

Noel said in disagreement, "These remnant souls have no consciousness, Sir. There's little purpose in killing them."

Winnie nodded in agreement and said, "He's right. We'd rather venture into the outside worlds like Jacopo and Xainte to confront the Tai Chi's loyal hounds to take revenge for our parents!"

James scoffed, "With your current strength? Do you think reaching the Quasi Daeclon Rank is enough to dominate the Genesis Worlds?" "Don't you realize there are countless mysterious powerhouses like me in the Genesis Worlds? If you can't even lay a finger on me, what makes you think you can challenge them?"

The siblings were left speechless.

Noel and Winnie had believed they were strong enough, particularly in terms of cultivation.

They viewed themselves as superior to Jacopo and Xainte. They could not understand why their other two siblings were allowed to venture into the Genesis Worlds, while they were stuck inside the Forladdt Land killing remnant souls.

After James pointed out their ignorance, Noel and Winnie suddenly realized the depth of their misunderstanding.

Meanwhile, Lyla observed from the side and keenly understood James' intentions.

Although James had just returned, he immediately discerned the discontent within the siblings. He noted that although they diligently eliminated the remnant souls at the outer battlefield's fourth level, they were doing it reluctantly. They exhibited no growth in combat experience or magical prowess despite reaching the Quasi Daeclon Rank. Compared to Jacopo and Xainte, their progress was superficial and lagged significantly.

He was their father but was using a different identity to point out their flaws. He wanted to dismantle their overconfidence in their cultivation and guide them back to their roots, which would enable them to diligently practice their Supernatural Powers.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6602-James' actions exemplified a father's deep care and love for his children.

Seeing the siblings' ashamed expressions, James waved his hand and transported everyone to the outer battlefield's fifth level. Instantaneously, a horde of dense remnant souls swirled around them at lightning speed.

"Watch carefully," James shouted, then darted out.

Confronted by the densely clustered remnant souls, he swiftly maneuvered through them, leaving behind a trail of afterimages. Instead of killing them, he gently tapped on them to disable them.

In just the blink of an eye, billions of remnant souls were lying on the ground, yet none of them were destroyed. James made his way back to his children and stopped beside them.

Noel and Winnie were startled to see the remnant souls growl in pain, unable to get up from the ground.

They were in awe of James' approach to taking down the remnant souls.

James said sternly, "As I said, the most undefeatable skill is speed. These are remnant souls, so killing them with Supernatural Powers holds no significance. You won't be able to improve your skill or strength, and will only be biding time.

"However, if you can suppress them without causing them any harm, then you'll finally grasp the essence of what your Auntie Lyla has been trying to teach."

Noel immediately turned to Lyla and dropped to his knees with a thud, then apologized, “I’ve misunderstood you, Aunt Lyla. I’m sorry.”

Winnie also knelt beside him, and said, “I’m terribly sorry, Aunt Lyla. Not only did we fail to understand your intentions, we even spoke ill about you...”

Lyla sighed and helped them to their feet, saying, “That’s enough. I didn’t have high expectations anyway. I’d be more than satisfied if you even managed to master the Celestial Sages and Yegor’s Supernatural Powers, or even surpass them. Only by doing so would you make your parents proud.

“You two would need to achieve that much for me to feel confident enough to send you to the battlefield to fight Tai Chi’s pack of hounds.”

Winnie and Jacopo exchanged glances and nodded at each other. However, just when they were about to take action, James stopped them.

“I’ll teach you a Supernatural Power, so practice it diligently. You’re only allowed to leave this place after being able to subdue a remnant soul without causing it harm.”

James reached out, cradling Winnie’s head in one hand and Noel’s head in the other. Then, he transmitted the first four steps of the Terrastride Step to them. He treated his children equally.

Jacopo and Xainte were given the Dawnblaze Form, while Noel and Winnie now acquired the Terrastride Steps. The extent to which they could master them depended on their own capabilities.

Having received a wealth of information, Noel and Winnie were immediately overjoyed. They wasted no time and promptly followed the instructions, racing ahead to the outer battlefield.

James waved the Courageous Tower, releasing a burst of Courageous Power. A wave of remnant souls at the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank’s Ninth Tribulation’s Consummation instantly emerged and instantly surrounded the siblings.

Observing Noel and Winnie nimbly weave through the remnant souls, Lyla commented emotionally. “Blood ties indeed hold a natural connection and sway.”

James looked at her and said smilingly, "Let them practice here for now. I'd like to visit my old friends."

Lyla stared at him and asked, "Are you sure? They'd either be scared stiff, overwhelmed with excitement, or reduced to tears."

James said smilingly, "I didn't come back just for a reunion. I have other pressing matters I'd like to discuss with everyone."

After speaking, James took her hand and teleported away from the area.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6603-A burst of light suddenly emerged in the main hall of the golden palace located on the Forladdt Land's third level, instantly materializing into James and Lyla.

James gazed at the palace walls, and refined decor adorning the place. He could vividly recall the first time he arrived in the Forladdt Land's third level. Back then, to acquire the Nether Demonic Sword housed inside this palace, he fell into the Aquasoul and was trapped.

Not only was Lesia almost obliterated, but his golden body that he had painstakingly cultivated was destroyed by the Aquasoul.

However, it was also in the Aquasoul that he met the two elders who helped him forge Nirvana Golden Bones.

From that pivotal moment onward, James embarked on his ascent, securing the Aquasoul, claiming the Nether Demonic Sword, and gifting his companions permission to cultivate within the golden palace. He achieved numerous remarkable feats, including the acquisition of the Historial Wind Spirit and his subsequent entry into the Forladdt Land's fourth level. There, he acquired his Ultimate Golden Body, the Courageous Tower, and became the ruler of the Forladdt Land.

Returning to the familiar place, countless memories flooded James' mind.

He could remember everything as if it had just occurred yesterday.

Lyla looked at James and asked, "Do you still remember this place? It was here that you attained the Nirvana Golden Body, so we renamed it the Nirvana Palace. It's the Jademora Empire's symbol of power. The orders issued from this place serve as a symbol of our empire. This is where the Jademora Empire deliberates on significant matters or convenes with other sect leaders."

James surveyed the surroundings emotionally, and then he asked, "Why is it so deserted though?"

Lyla said calmly, "Times are different now. With the threat of war looming, everyone is preoccupied with their duties. Rubella is in charge of the second level and watches over the Hudde Passage. Yancy oversees the first level and is stationed at the teleportation formation.

"As for the eight borders of the Forladtt Land, they're safeguarded by several powerhouses at the Quasi Daeclon Rank from the Behaterm Sect and the Sanctum Sect."

James inquired, "And what about the other legions and sects?"

Lyla replied promptly, "They've been reorganized. On the Forladtt Land's third level, you'll find Taran's Honorable Dragon Legion, Jurryt's Prideful Dragon Legion, and Qairo's Mythic Dragon Legion.

"Meanwhile, Hershya's Bloody Dragon Legion, Xezal's Glorious Dragon Legion, Maxine's Insightful Dragon Legion, and Talvelai's Brave Dragon Legion are stationed on the second level.

"The first level is for ordinary beings that are without sect affiliations or those with lower cultivation ranks to venture to grow and improve the strength of their forces. Including the first level, our empire boasts two major sects and eighth legions total up to two trillion beings."

Listening to Lyla's report, James nodded with satisfaction. He could envision the immense effort Lyla, Rebella, and Xatia had invested to transform a chaotic place into its current state. All factions had been organized into their present form.

Recalling the siege they had faced from the New Alliance and the Righteous Alliance during the war, along with the loss of the Xyndaros Genesis World and Sanctum Genesis World, they completely lost connection with the Dark World, Skynet, and the lustus Sect.

Despite its vastness, the Forladtt Land had become an isolated sanctuary. Inside, Dark Beings roamed freely, while powerful adversaries loomed outside, making survival a challenge.

After contemplating for a while, James abruptly extended his hand, summoning the golden body he had cast on the fourth level of the Forladtt Land. Soon, it stopped right before Lyla.

Lyla remained composed after seeing the exquisitely crafted golden body.

It was apparent she had already seen it and knew about James' intentions.

James said softly, "It's time you merge with it. The Forladtt Land can only be stabilized if you enter the Xaeclon Rank."

Unexpectedly, Lyla shook her head in response.

James questioned, "You don't want it?"

Lyla looked at the golden body before her and said, "Who wouldn't want a golden body and the opportunity to enter the Xaeclon Rank? However, I can't have it in our current circumstances."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6604-James asked with a frown, "Why?" Lyla sighed and replied, "We've run some investigations.

There are already two powerhouses above the Fifth Xaeclon Rank in the Genesis Worlds.

They're called Tai Chi Messengers.

Even if I entered the Xaeclon Rank, it wouldn't change our situation.

I'll just be wasting the Forladtt Land's limited resources.

"Instead, it'd be better to use the resources on training up people to the Quasi Daeclon Rank.

By doing so, at least we'll have a greater chance of defending our home." James laughed after hearing her answer.

Lyla had stayed inside the Forladtt Land, protecting it for so long, and was oblivious to the outside world's situation.

He promptly explained the current trends of the Genesis Worlds after he had left Yin's Void.

Lyla looked at him in shock and asked, "In other words, there aren't any more powerhouses at the Xaeclon Rank out here? Then, what heights have you reached in your cultivation?" James replied smilingly, "I'm at the Fifth Xaeclon Rank Although I'm still far from Tai Chi, I'm strong enough to stand my ground in the Genesis Worlds." Lyla took a deep breath, startled by the sudden revelation.

She was not expecting James to have returned so powerful.

James continued, explaining, ""The Genesis Worlds' Righteous Alliance, New Alliance, and Gladwin's faction are at war right now.

They won't have the time to be bothered with us." "I created a Sky Bridge to reopen a passage between the Dark World and the Forladtt Land.

Skynet is also connected between the two.

Most importantly, I've gained the Law of Paths permission to establish a Heavenly Path here.

"From now on, the Forladtt Land will no longer be a place without the baptism of Heavenly Tribulation.

We'll have a Tribulation Envoy from the Law of Paths.

"However we must be careful.

The Tribulation Envoy isn't easy to talk to, but will be fairer than Tai Chi.

Everything will based on karma and tribulations." Lyla took a deep breath but shook her head again.

"What's wrong? Are you still unwilling to accept it?" James' face darkened.

Lyla looked at him and asked, "Am I the only one receiving a golden body? How will you explain it to Rebella, Yancy, and Xatia? They've also reached the point where all they need is a golden body to reach the Xaeclon Rank.” James was taken aback, not expecting her to have such concerns.

Lyla said worriedly, “Although our empire seems united on the surface, our internal relationship is quite complicated. We’re gathered here because we promised you, and because of our faith in you.

Your presence here is much more effective in stabilizing people’s hearts than a golden body.

James slowly closed his eyes.

Lyla always appeared to be cold and arrogant, seemingly wanting to push people thousands of miles away from her.

However, she always looked at the bigger picture and was very wise.

In these aspects, she was unmatched by anyone else in the empire.

She declined to accept the golden body, fearing it would place her at a disadvantage and disrupt the hard-earned balance of the empire.

James could not help but marvel at the rarity of a woman with such confidence, strong character, and foresight.

Lyla said, “Store away the golden body for me,” Lyla sighed softly.

“Keep it safe for me.

There will come a time when I’ll need it, but that time is not now.

James stored away the golden body and watched surprisedly.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6605-The golden bell’s chimes echoed throughout the Forladtt Land’s different levels.

At a mysterious location nestled within the undulating mountains of the Forladtt Land’s second level, Taran and Jurryt engaged in a game of chess.

Positioned around a colossal chessboard, they stared at the shining black and white pieces intertwined that created a complex pattern.

Taran analyzed the chess pieces, stroked his beard, and laughed heartily, 'How will you turn the tides, Dragon King?' Jurryt looked at the chessboard, somewhat embarrassed.

His lips twitched as he said, I'll just take one step back.

Just one!" Taran looked at Jurryt and said, "Once a move is made, there is no room for regret.

I'm afraid you'll have to hand over the thousands of high-grade cores your legion has just acquired." Jurryt said anxiously, "You can't do this, Wizard.

I won the last two games.

What bout those?" Taran retorted, "You only won because you cheated! You've got really bad sportsmanship! Should we bring this case to the Left and Right Grand Lords?!" Jurryt was at a loss for words.

At that moment, the chimes of a bell reached their ears.

Upon hearing it, their brows furrowed.

"Tt's the Divine Bell!" Jurryt reminded.

Taran looked at Jurryt, stating, "It was rung a few times.

It must be important.

Our empire might be in danger.

Let's hurry over to the golden palace." After the brief exchange, the two materialized into two light rays and disappeared from the spot.

Meanwhile, in the Forladtt Land's second level, a striking figure with a slender hand was confronting a group of kneeling beings in the Hudde Passage.

Despite the woman's exquisite beauty, her countenance radiated an icy coldness.

"We won't do it again, Right Grand Lord! Please let us go," someone from the group hurriedly pleaded.

The others quickly kowtowed after her pleas.

The beautiful woman sneered, "You are the cream of the crop among our empire's Royal Guards, the most elite forces, yet you dare to disregard the rules and prey on the vulnerable.

Today, you oppress the weak.

Will you try to seize control of our empire tomorrow?!" The group kneeling on the ground were terrified and begged for mercy.

The beautiful woman ordered, "Kill them.

I won't allow such arrogant fools to exist under my command." Several law enforcers immediately raised their knives.

With a few crisp sounds, the offenders were beheaded.

Their corpses transformed back to their true forms.

Afterward, Rebella collected their corpses into her spatial storage.

Rebella sighed, and said, "Don't blame me for being heartless.

If this were anywhere else and at a different time, you could flirt all you want.

However, we're guards at the Hudde Passage.

It's the most crucial border of our empire.

Their cultivation ranks were at least at the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank's Ninth Tribulation.

However, in front of their female commander, Rubella, they showed complete submission.

She was the heart of the Jademora Empire's Royal Guards.

At that moment, another figure flashed through the void and landed beside Rebella.

Xatia, who had appeared, said, "The Divine Bell has rung, Ms.

Rebella" Rebella's face instantly turned cold.

Something bad must've happened."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6607-Leaders from across the Jademora Empire quickly gathered in the Nirvana Palace.

Unfortunately, the atmosphere was not a joyous occasion.

Instead, it was tense and worrisome.

Everyone had a solemn expression, knowing full well what the Divine Bell's chimes meant.

After a while, Maxine suddenly spoke from amongst the crowd.

"what's going on with Lyla? She rang the Divine Bell but didn't show up.

What is the meaning of this?" Hershya quickly pulled her sleeves, warning her not to speak any further.

However, following Maxine's complaints, a few of the Dark World's important figures began to stir as well.

"Is the Left Grand Lord playing with us? The Divine Bell shouldn't be rung for nothing." "She always makes a big deal out of nothing.

Doing all these unnecessary things just to prove her authority." "We have so much to do.

Who has the leisure to play along with her games?" "Tf there isn't a good reason why she rang the bell, I won't go easy on her." "Our Right Grand Lord is much better.

She's reliable and decisive.

In every major battle, she had always charged in the forefront and fought alongside us." "Hush, everyone! The Right Grand Lord is here!" As the crowd clamored, Rubella and Xatia entered the hall.

"Right Grand Lord!" Upon seeing Rebella and the Xatia, the crowd simultaneously bowed in respect.

Rebella scanned over them, nodded lightly, and said, "What's the commotion about? Wasn't there an urgent summoning by the Divine Bell?" Her words immediately sparked everyone's dissatisfaction, prompting everyone to grumble and complain.

"We're also puzzled, Right Grand Lord.

We were summoned, but the Left Grand Lord was nowhere to be seen.

What is going on?" "The Divine Bell is the highest summoning order of our Jademora Empire.

How can it be used just to flaunt power?" "Right Grand Lord, you and her were both appointed by our emperor as Forladdt Land's rulers.

You two are of equal standing.

We can't let her keep doing as she pleases." "What are you all talking about?

Has the Left Grand Lord offended you? What makes you speak of her in such ways?" "Exactly! She has wholeheartedly dedicated herself to growing the Jademora Empire.

She pulled the indifferent Rebella and whispered, "Please stop them quickly.

Why don't you do it?" Xatia hesitated to speak.

If she could intervene, she would have already acted.

But now, the Jademora Empire was divided into two major factions.

The two major forces, led by Yancy and the elders of the Sanctum Sect, strongly supported the Left Grand Lord, Lyla.
