

Almighty DG 836

Chapter 836

Both of them frowned upon hearing that.

“The King issued a secret order for James to return to the Southern Plains and reclaim command of the Black Dragon Army. Something is fishy. I’ll ask around to find out what the King is trying to achieve. You should be careful,” said Reign with a solemn expression.

Then, he stood up and left.

Professor C was smoking a cigarette and glanced at the Emperor. “I believe that chaos is on its way. The King is almost certainly coming after you. You should come up with a plan to save yourself as soon as possible.”

“That’s impossible.” The Emperor shook his head and said, “I’m the leader of the Five Commanders and General of the Red Flame Army. He wouldn’t come after me. Besides, there’s no reason for him to do so.”

“James’ return to the Southern Plains served as a warning. In any case, you should be careful.” After saying that, Professor C stood up and left the house.

The Emperor looked dejected. He extended his hand and pressed it against his chest. “I didn’t expect you to get out of this, James,” he cursed angrily.

He was nearly killed by James’ Crucifier. If Professor C had not intervened in time to save him, he would have already lost his life.

On top of that, James ruined the intricate plan he had been working on for many years.

The reminder from Reign and Professor C woke him up.

to the Southern Plains and resumed his role as Dragon King. This was detrimental to him. Perhaps the dialled a number. “Continue to keep a close eye on James. Inform me at the

the voice on the expression on his face, he grabbed his chest and leaned back on the sofa. Even after a long period of thought, he could not

phone once

Johnston, is there some fine liquor at the Emperor’s Mansion. Come over tonight for main bloodline. He held a position of power within the family. Moreover, the Cadens were the head had no idea what was going on. He needed to get the Southern

been waiting at the Black Dragon Palace until was when he

At the military region...

Black

two people approached

Dragon Army,

and gave his command. "Set

Double time, march!" shouted Ronn

Dragon Army soldiers began to jog