

My wife is an Aloof Beauty Novel Alternative

My Wife is a beautiful Officer

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 100 - Chapter 100: Do You Think That I'm Silly

Chapter 100: Chapter 100: Do You Think That I'm Silly

Belinda examined Daisy closely, smirking. She was hard to read at this moment.

"Is there anything wrong with me? Why are you staring at me?" Daisy said while pulling up the collar of her blouse, trying to hide the love marks that Edward gave her. She wondered what Belinda possibly saw. "It's too late. You can't hide those, anyway. Uh-huh! So how many times did you do it last night?" Belinda asked in a low voice, suddenly leaning close to Daisy. Her evil smile clearly showed what was on her mind.

She blushed immediately. She was hoping to hide her love bites with a high-collared blouse, but it was to little avail. Belinda noticed them right away.

"Belinda, you're so obscene!" Daisy was speechless. What a dirty mind!

"Huh! Why do you simply criticize me? Your Edward is a brute. Do you know what time it is?" Belinda sipped her coffee. Huh! She remembered Edward had hung up her. She hoped Daisy would call back. She waited a long time for Daisy to give her a ring.

"It's not even 1 pm. Still early." Daisy blurted out the lame remark, but she tried to make light of it with her tone.

"Yes! Of course! Early, if you like exercising late at night!" Belinda sneered at Daisy. She found Daisy much more attractive than before. 'Maybe the magic power of love?' she thought. 'If she could be more enthusiastic she'd be the perfect woman.' 'What's wrong with Belinda? Why is she all of sudden mocking me? Was it something she ate? Why is she so harsh to me today?' Daisy wondered.

"Just go ahead and laugh. You won't be so full of laughter when it's your turn." Daisy squinted at Belinda and took a sip of coffee, rather relaxed.

"Huh! Unlikely!" Belinda said, disapproval coloring her voice. 'I'm totally different from this lovestruck fool. I would never be caught up in an erotic situation. It wouldn't stop me from being me.' Belinda thought.

"What about Mr. Cold?" Daisy raised her eyebrows and smirked. She watched Belinda's face closely to see her reaction. "Who is Mr. Cold?" Belinda asked in bewilderment. She couldn't think of anyone that appellation referred to.

"You know. Who else would it be? Leena was calling you sis-in-law all day yesterday. Come on..." Daisy sneered. She was annoyed at Belinda, and wanted to make her pay for ribbing her about being late.

"Wait! Duke? No way! We barely know each other." Belinda shook her head in disapproval. But secretly, she did find the man intriguing.

"Really? I think he's very interested in you, Belinda." Yesterday, Daisy caught Duke staring amorously at Belinda the whole night. And he seemed pretty confident around her, too.

"Cut it out, Daisy!" Belinda lost it when she heard that Duke was interested in her. "Think of the possibilities." Daisy answered, totally flip about the situation. She continued to sip her coffee leisurely. "There won't be any possibilities. By the way, where is Justin? Why didn't you bring him with you?" Belinda asked Daisy in an accusatory tone. She was disappointed. She wanted to spend some time with the little guy.

"He didn't want to go along. He said he'd get bored." Daisy replied. When she mentioned her son, her tone became very soft and gentle. She still remembered his insistence on not going with her on this morning. His dad was entertaining some big clients, and golf sounded more fun to Justin.

"Wow, what a haughty boy! He'd get bored shopping with women? So would he be happier shopping with men?" Belinda felt irritated by Justin's choice. She blurted out these words without thinking. 'Such a little devil! The little boy is annoying! Like father, like son! They're both heartbreakers!' Belinda thought.

"It's his father's influence. He's stayed with Edward for too long." Daisy said. She was also very upset about this. She felt that Justin was not as happy to be around her as before. He seemed to be more comfortable with Edward. When she saw his smiles around Edward, she wondered if she was wrong for depriving the boy of father's love.

"So what happened between you and Edward? I thought you were separated. You haven't seen each other for years." Belinda asked. 'Both Edward and Daisy thought that their paths would never cross. But what got them together again?' Belinda wondered. "I didn't expect this. It just happened. All I wanted was for him to be happy, but my desire to be close to him eclipsed all that." Daisy smiled with self-mockery. She took a sip of her coffee, feeling depressed. Belinda patted Daisy on the shoulder to comfort her friend. She now understood her heart. She remembered that Daisy gave up her major in painting because of a casual word from Edward. And she loved painting! And her irresponsible father agreed to finance her overseas study, as long as she never returned to the house.

"Belinda, do you think that I'm silly? I desperately fell in love with Edward, even though I was sure nothing would come of it. But all these years, loving him become a habit. If I stopped loving him one day, it's only because my heart stop beating. Daisy said this words to Belinda calmly. Her gaze was hollow and distant.

"Does Edward know how you feel? Belinda felt very sad now. A lump form in her throat, her eyes burned from tears that started forming. If it were her, she'd just let the man know her feelings, and see what he had to say.

I don't know. I never thought about telling him. But if he doesn't love me, then hope would die in me, along my pride and self esteem,. Daisy said. She thought, if one day Edward really fell in love with her, she would tell him that there was a girl who grew up with secret love for him. She grew stronger in her firm belief, and matured with the passing days, missing him the whole time.

Chapter 101: Chapter 101: There Are Only Lazy Mistress

"How does Edward truly feel about you? Is he with you because of Justin, or is it because he has fallen for you?" At that moment, Belinda vividly remembered the woman who made an intimate call to Edward. Could that be Daisy? Belinda recalled his affection for Daisy yesterday and figured that it was quite likely.

"I'm not sure. He said he would try to love me, and I just dropped all my defenses and jumped into his seductive trap without looking back." Daisy closed her eyes, thinking that at least Edward was sincere to her now. She decided to give him a chance despite the uncertainty. She decided to work for it no matter what the outcome. Perhaps by that time, she would finally lose all hope!

"I suppose he's serious! In the past few months, I haven't once read about any of his scandals. Is it possible that you are the woman who made the CEO of FX International reject all the other girls?" Belinda paid attention to the papers. Stories about Edward's secret son had been quite the scoop, but nothing came of it because none of the involved parties gave a reaction to the rumor. Belinda didn't know it was Justin, so she always thought the stories involved another woman.

"I don't think they meant me! I've only been with him for the past few days. I sent Justin to his place and went straight to drills a while ago." Daisy was a bit concerned, worrying that he might have another woman he loved profoundly.

"Really? Then who else could it be?" The memory of the phone call again surfaced in Belinda's brain. She was doubtful, too. "Nevermind, stop thinking about it. Let's go!

Didn't you say we will go shopping? My time is in your hands today." Daisy didn't want to question the sincerity of Edward's claims. She would rather trust him than speculate infidelity.

"Yes, you should offer me some advice. Speaking of, recently I have been feeling that I am getting quite old. I'm nothing compared to the young girls out there." Although Belinda knew that she was still in her best years, she lost her confidence whenever she compared herself to younger girls.

"You do realize you're getting old? So, go find someone to marry." Daisy looked at her, amused that even Belinda could lose her confidence.

"Yeah! Colonel Daisy, why can't you introduce me to a noble and handsome young man from the military base? I do want to get married! Otherwise, my father will set me up with some oddball." Belinda exclaimed with desperation because she was sure that Zachary would undoubtedly do such a thing. Her father was also quite capricious!

"A young officer? I do know an excellent young man, but I'm not sure if he's got a girlfriend." Daisy thought about Kevin Gu, but she felt that Belinda and Kevin wouldn't get along, so Belinda should stick with Mr. Cold.

"Really? I don't care if he's got a girlfriend. There are only lazy mistresses, no unbreakable relation. Any mistress who's not lazy can successfully steal other girls' boyfriend." Belinda held Daisy's arm as they walked out of the cafe laughing.

MY Mall was the hub for all brand clothes in S City. Naturally, it became a popular choice for the high rollers, the well-to-do women and the wealthy wives. The mall was also a property of the FX International Group. It had a tremendous reputation, but Daisy didn't care about that too much. She came in only because Belinda dragged her along.

Daisy's casual look undoubtedly attracted the resentment of many people. Since this was just a shopping trip, she didn't put on one of the fancy dresses that Edward had bought for her. Instead, she chose a pair of fitted jeans and a long and loose blouse that she usually wear. She looked casual but fashionable, yet the look didn't go well with the upscale ambiance of the mall. Belinda was very excited because the latest trends and fashion easily swayed her. The Mall featured unique styles and products, so it was unlikely for her to run into anyone who wore the same clothes. That was why she brought Daisy here.

Daisy ignored everyone and calmly followed Belinda. She didn't care how others feel about her. All she wanted to do was to keep her head high up.

"Daisy, how about this one?" Belinda pointed towards a skin-colored short skirt. "It looks nice, and it also matches your complexion. Try it on if you like it!" Daisy was casually looking at the clothes. No one took notice of her, probably because of her attire.

"Miss, this is our new stock this month. It's the first display of the exclusive collection designed by L.N. this year. It brings out the feeling of European royalty. You must put it on; you'll look incredibly chic in it." The store clerk was giving a detailed description. She noticed the designer brands that Belinda had on, so she was sure that Belinda was wealthy enough.

"Then I'll give it a try." Belinda raised her eyebrows to Daisy, visibly excited.

"Yeah! Go ahead! I'll look around for you." Daisy nodded. On her small face, there wasn't a hint of any emotions. She carefully examined the racks, discreetly making choices for Belinda.

A woman wearing heavy makeup walked in, her high-heel shoes knocking loudly on the floor. Her stunning curves frivolously glorified her beautiful body, drawing the attention of many bystanders.

"Miss Ouyang, you're here. The new collection you wanted a few days ago has arrived. Do you want to try it on?" The name Miss Ouyang gave Daisy a brief pause in her search for clothes, but she didn't react and continued searching.

Sure, bring it out.. Mary Ouyang arrogantly raised her head, glancing at Daisy. Mary acted with an expression of contempt and bewilderment, thinking how could a woman dressed like that can afford the clothes here. And the woman seemed so focused.

Since Daisy's back was towards Mary, Mary had no way of knowing that this was the very same Daisy whom she had arduously tried to banish from her family. Mary thought that the woman was just a nobody.

Miss Ouyang, here is your garment. The clerk attentively handed the garment to Mary who was as wealthy as it got. Common people could not think of crossing her.

"Yes! Mary gave Daisy another disparaging look and walked towards the changing room.

Chapter 102: Chapter 102: Your Despicable Act Make You Invincible

"Daisy, look, is this one OK? Ouch..."screamed Belinda. She was coming out of the fitting room in a hurry, and she accidentally bumped into a woman.

" Ouch... What the fuck! Are you blind?" cursed Mary. She took a few steps backward to regain balance and immediately blurted out offensive words without noticing who she was talking to. Belinda didn't answer back because she knew it was her fault. However, when she recognized the woman, she couldn't suppress her rage anymore.

"Hey, look, who it is? It's Miss Ouyang! Thank you for your generous hospitality last time! I truly enjoyed the dinner. How about you pay the bills again today?" said Belinda in a defiant tone. She smiled and thought, 'I did have fun last time. I guess she must have maxed out her credit card!'

"Belinda, it's you. Are you fleeing from somewhere again?" asked Mary.

She frowned and her eyes sparked with anger. She wanted to settle the score with Belinda right away.

"You're wrong, Mary. You are the one who needs to flee. After all, you have tried to steal another woman's man." answered Belinda. She arrogantly looked at Mary and thought, 'Humph! You always act weak and innocent in Edward's presence. Now you are revealing your true character?'

' "Who has tried to steal another woman's man? I don't know what you are talking about." denied Mary. Her face darkened when she heard the word 'steal' because that was in fact what she had been doing. "You know the answer. I am not going to say her name." said Belinda. She gave Mary a hostile stare. Humph! No one had ever been able to overcome her imposing manner.

"Belinda, I'm not afraid of you. Who cares if you are the CEO of the YS Group. I've got Ouyang Foreign Trade behind me, " said Mary arrogantly. She thought, 'Belinda said that I have tried to steal another woman's man. Did I steal her boyfriend? If I did, who was he?' She thought for a long time after that day, but she couldn't recall who Belinda was referring to.

"Ha, ha! You crack me up, Mary. How shameless you are to say you've got the Ouyang Foreign Trade behind you! Your last name may be Ouyang, but you are just a stepdaughter. In my eyes, you are nothing but a wicked woman who is stealing someone else's life." mocked Belinda.

She looked at Mary and thought, 'I don't like her. She is just a stepdaughter. But she considers herself to be the real daughter of the Ouyang's. Isn't she scared to assume the identity of another person...!'

On hearing this, Mary gave Belinda a fierce glance. Her identity had been a wound to her. She thought, 'I hate that Daisy is born with a dignified identity. That is why I insulted her and forced her to leave home. I hate it when people say I am of a humble origin, and this is why I have put so much effort to blend in with the upper class all these years. When I finally believed I had blended in, Belinda gave me a whop on the head.'

"Belinda, you can't hurt me by saying these words. Anyway, my last name is Ouyang now." Said Mary. She had to clench her fists real tight to stop herself from punching her in the face.

"Your despicable acts make you invincible, Mary." said Belinda. She sneered and squinted at Mary.

"Bitch, did you just say I'm despicable?" said Mary. She got so furious at that moment that she almost slapped Belinda on her face. Right then her wrist was grasped by a slender hand and she couldn't move.

"Mary, after all these years, you are still so rude." A cold and indifferent voice rose from her side.

"It's you, Daisy." said Mary. She was surprised to see her here. 'I thought she had disappeared since her wedding day. Why is she here now?' wondered Mary.

"Yes, it's me. Are you scared of me?" asked Daisy. She let go of Mary and coldly looked at her panic stricken face.

"Well! Daisy, why would I be scared of you? You give yourself too much credit." answered Mary. 'Humph! She's the woman I saw earlier. Look at what she is wearing. I guess she's leading a mediocre life. I'm sure Edward no longer favors her. Otherwise, how can she, the CEO's wife of the FX International Group, dress so shabbily.' thought Mary.

"I have always thought highly of myself, and I look down on certain people." answered Daisy. 'If possible, I don't want to see or deal with anyone from Ouyang's family.' thought Daisy.

"Daisy, what makes you think you can contend with me? Look at yourself. Life must be tough for you after your parting with the Ouyang's Family!" said Mary. Mary arrogantly lifted her chin and thought, 'What I hate most about her is her aloof demeanor. I have tried to act like her, but it doesn't resemble her at all. Years have passed but she still looks nobler and more refined than me.'

"The Ouyang's family? I'm so glad that I've escaped from that place. Mary, without me there, you must feel like a fish in water!" said Daisy. 'Well! Family? It wasn't my family anymore after my mother died.' thought Daisy.

"What are you implying, Daisy? Do you think you were disowned because of me?" asked Mary. 'I did complain about her in the presence of Leo. But it was my mother who decided to cast her out. Not me.' thought Mary.

Miss Ouyang, I don't want to play blame games. Bygones are bygones., Anyway, I have nothing to do with the Ouyang's now. So please remember, I don't want to be link with you again. Because the very thought makes me sick, said Daisy ruthlessly. She thought, when I step out of the family that year, I told myself that from now on, I'm just an orphan without parents.

Chapter 103: Chapter 103: You Dared To Slap Me

"Haha... Daisy, do you think you are important because you're the wife of the CEO of FX International Group? Look at you. Even a wage earner wears better clothes than you! Do you think Edward married you because he loves you? Absolutely not. Edward was forced by his parents; otherwise, you would be nobody to him."

Mary smiled with much pride. Why did Daisy get all the good things in the world? She was born in a good family; even when she left home, she was fortunate enough to get married to a nobleman. She didn't deserve it! Mary thought. "Doesn't matter if he loves me or not, I'm his wife now. Other women can only dream about him and look at him from a distance." Daisy's face grew a little pale because Mary had struck a raw nerve. Edward was, in fact, reluctant about their marriage. His parents forced him, so he felt repulsive and angry with her. "Really? It seems that you don't know! He had a child with another woman. Do you still think you will be his wife for good?" Mary said with a wicked expression. She enjoyed seeing Daisy's misery. She waited to see how Daisy would lose her feigned composure.

"Miss Mary, if you are saying such things to embarrass me, let me tell you, it's useless. I don't care about his matters. And I don't have time to care." Daisy sneered and said. If she was concerned about everything Edward did, it wouldn't be possible for her to remain so calm and composed and lead such a peaceful life.

"Daisy, it is because you are not worthy. Do you really think you deserve to have an excellent man like Edward in your life? He should be with a competent woman like me." Mary looked at Daisy in contempt. She despised her.

"So you think only you deserve to have an excellent man like Edward? Don't you feel shameless saying these things?" Belinda smiled lightly. She was surprised by Mary's brazenness. Last time when she met her, she had observed what was on Mary's mind. But still, she felt surprised that Mary dared to say it out loud.

"Belinda, don't think that I'll always stand silently and take your offensive words. I often wondered why you dislike me. As it turns out, it is because of this maid who was expelled from our family! Birds of a feather flock together, that applies to you two!"

Daisy was indeed the family's maid. Mary remembered that Daisy was more humble than the maid in the family! "Pa!", A distinct sound of a slap attracted everyone's attention. Mary covered her red cheek with her hand, shocked. It was painful. She glared at Daisy who had dared to smack her in the face. Her first reaction was to retaliate. She raised her hand and was about to slap back. But unexpectedly her wrist was held firmly by Daisy.

"Mary, do you think that I am still the weak girl who used to live at the mercy of you bullies? You'd better brush your teeth and clean your mouth before you come out of the house next time. Your foul mouth has polluted the atmosphere of this place. If I hear any rude remarks from you next time, I will show you what terrible things can befall on you when you dare to irritate me! Daisy firmed her grasp on Mary's tender arm and then harshly flung it away. Her stern look and cold demeanor froze the air around her, daunting everyone from coming close to her.

Mary's face was pale. She rubbed the hand which was hurt by Daisy's firm grip. She felt terrified. 'When did this bitch become so terrifying. Look at her sullen face. I am sure that if need be, she will act on her words.' Mary thought. There were no other customers in the store except for them. Otherwise, they would have attracted many spectators. The store assistants stared at Daisy, flabbergasted. They were wondering how such a graceful woman could have such strength and make everyone terrified.

"Daisy, you dared to slap me! Today, I will destroy you!" While saying it, Mary pounced on Daisy, angry and red-faced. She didn't expect that Daisy would slap her in public. It made her feel humiliated. She was determined to take revenge and turn the tide.

Daisy sneered. Mary was too sure of herself! Daisy slightly dodged, and Mary fell to the ground. She didn't expect that Daisy would evade her attack. She lay on the ground, feeling more embarrassed.

"Haha... Mary, what are you doing? Are you showing us a rendition? To explain to us how a dog eats shit? Oh! Don't you think it's disgusting?"

"Belinda laughed out. Mary was quite stupid. She dared to fight with Daisy. She was too naive. Was she still considering that Daisy was the little girl who used to take all the insults? She was totally wrong! Daisy was a young and competent female colonel in S City now! Mary bit her lips and pushed the shop assistant away who was trying to lift her up. She walked towards Daisy and Belinda with rage. Her arrogant and aggressive manner at the beginning faded away entirely. "Daisy, don't be proud of your little trick! Just wait, I will make you regret what you have done to humiliate me today! And you too, Belinda. You can laugh as loudly as you like now. But don't forget that I will make you cry one day."

Mary said and took a cold glance at them. Then she turned around and walked out without trying any clothes in the store. She looked like a proud peacock.

"Huh! Who does she think she is? She's just a silly woman who has nice breast shape but no brain! I will wait and watch what she will do to us!" Belinda said and laughed. It seemed to her that Mary could not learn to control her temper. She was an aggressive woman who always liked to challenge others.

"Just forget it. She's not our concern. Let's continue to try the clothes. Don't let her spoil our good mood." Daisy said with a smile. She didn't want to be bothered by Mary. That would be asking for trouble herself. "Yes. It's unnecessary to argue with such a shallow woman. By the way, did you find any clothes you like in the store?" Belinda asked while smiling softly at Daisy. She quickly forgot the unpleasant matter that occurred moments ago.

"I'm okay. You just pick some clothes for yourself." Daisy looked at the dress Belinda was wearing. It looked good on her. Daisy nodded with satisfaction. Speaking of clothes, she thought of her wardrobe which was full of designer clothes that Edward had bought for her. She already had too many clothes. Daisy thought.

"Why not? It's my treat. Get all the clothes you like here." Belinda said while tapping on her chest to show her generosity. But at the same time, she stuck out her tongue when she hurt her chest. She had used too much strength on herself. "I don't need you to pay. I can pay for myself if I want to buy clothes. Huh! Do you think I can't afford these clothes?" Her salary was nothing compared to Belinda's wealth, but she certainly could afford to buy some clothes for herself. Daisy thought.

"I didn't say that you can't afford them. I just want to buy some clothes for you." Belinda said while making a face. Then she laughed and walked into the changing room.

Chapter 104: Chapter 104: My Brother Will Definitely Marry You

Daisy pursed her lips. She fully understood what Belinda was trying to say. They had been friends for years!

"Sis, is that you?" Leena dashed in. She couldn't believe her eyes. As it turned out it really was Daisy.

"Hi, Leena. Are you here by yourself?" Daisy was surprised to meet Leena here. But she liked her because Leena always seemed cheerful and lively as if nothing in the world could upset her.

"No, I came here with a friend. But she left earlier because of some urgent work. I didn't expect to run into you here. Did you come here alone sis?" Leena held Daisy's arm fondly. It was clear that Leena also admired Daisy.

"Oh, I came here with Belinda." Daisy replied. She was looking forward to seeing how Belinda would react when she saw Leena.

"What? My sister-in-law is also here!" Wow! That's great. I will ask her when she'll be free and invite her to my house." Leena smiled snappily. It was a rare opportunity, and she knew she must seize it.

"To your house? Why?" Feeling confused, Daisy raised her eyebrows.

"To meet my father! The daughter-in-law must meet her prospective parents-in-law officially, don't you agree?." Just this morning Leena had mentioned Belinda to her father, and Duke didn't seem to have any issues with this. So that could be counted as an implied consent.

Daisy couldn't help laughing out when she heard Leena's words. It was the first time that she behaved so improper in front of people. It was all because Leena was extremely funny.

"Leena, are you sure Belinda is going to marry your brother? What did Duke say?" Daisy calmed herself and asked while looking at Leena who seemed quite excited now.

"Are you asking about Mr. Cold? What else can he say?" Leena wrinkled her beautiful nose and looked at Daisy with confusion in her eyes.

Fine! Daisy was speechless. Was Duke hoping to ask Belinda out? Or the whole thing was made up by Leena? Daisy wondered.

"Hi! Belinda, my sister-in-law. Nice to meet you again!" As soon as Leena saw Belinda coming out of the changing room, she ran to her before she got any remark from Daisy. She smiled brightly at Belinda and held her arm as if they were close friends. Belinda pursed her lips and raised her eyebrows at Daisy, trying to figure out what was going on.

Daisy shrugged. 'It is exactly what you see here.' Daisy tried to express.

"Well... Leena... You can't randomly call someone your sister-in-law. Are you doing it purposely, so that no man would think about marrying me?" Belinda felt helpless. She wondered what she did wrong to earn this misery. Why was she being grabbed by this dainty girl? She wondered.

"No, that won't happen. My brother will always love you. Rest assured, my brother will definitely marry you." Leena said. She was quite ignorant. No matter what happened, she was convinced that her brother and Belinda would become a couple.

Belinda was worried. She came to realize that Leena was a godsent troublemaker. God resented that her life was too easy and comfortable. That's why he's doing this to her, Belinda thought.

Daisy looked at Belinda's sad face and Leena's innocent smiling face, she thought this whole episode was quite funny.

"Could you please stop linking me to your brother? We are not even friends!" Belinda pleaded with Leena who was much enthused by this topic. She felt annoyed.

"Oh! Really? But he offered to drive you home yesterday, and this is very strange. As far as I know, he has never driven any women home before. He doesn't even take a look at them."

Leena gazed slyly at Belinda's face as if trying to get some clues which would reveal her real feelings.

"How would I know! I'm not your brother. I don't know what he was thinking. You can assume that he was daft yesterday." Belinda said and blushed. She remembered that she felt something when Duke held her hand yesterday night.

"Wow, sister-in-law, you are blushing. Something must have happened between you two last night!" Leena said and smiled slyly. She began to imagine all kinds of scenarios in her mind.

"Leena, I tell you for the last time, you can't call me your sister-in-law. Why are you so stubborn?" Belinda stared at Leena and said in a high pitch. She had been tactful in such cases in the past, but today she felt tongue-tied with this girl.

"Okay, you can stop now. Everyone already knows that you're a loving family." Daisy said to them. It was unlike her to make fun of others. But she couldn't help it today; they were too amusing!

"Daisy, what are you doing? Are you mocking me? I can see Edward's influence on you. You have become as wicked as him!" Belinda stared hard at Daisy who was still smiling lightly. 'What was wrong with Daisy? She didn't help me out; rather she's deliberately trying to stir up the mess.' Belinda wondered.

"Daisy, you have the same idea that we are like a family, that's so wonderful!" Leena said in a delighted tone. Leena sincerely hoped that Belinda would marry her brother and become her sister-in-law. She had lost her mother when she was quite young. She always felt that Belinda's good looks and temperament were a perfect match for Duke's cold demeanor.

She knew her brother wasn't cold and distant from the inside. He acted like this because he needed to protect her from being bullied by others. And gradually, he became as cold as ice in people's eyes. She sympathized with her brother. Because their mother died early and their father had to take care of the business, her brother took up the responsibility of looking after her. But, in doing so, he forgot that he was also a child who needed care and love. So she felt guilty that her brother had become such a cold person.

"Emm... I am not sure if I have said that..." Daisy replied. She has received Belinda's angry stare. She didn't dare to say anything further to agitate Belinda who was like a wildcat and was about to flare up. She'd better play safe.

Belinda sighed with relief and gently smoothed her lovely curly hair. Then she raised her eyebrows at Leena, indicating her to release the grip on her arms. 'Oh, now she will give up.' Belinda thought.

But Lenna would not be herself if she behaved as Belinda had expected. What she said afterward made Belinda and Daisy's jaw drop.

"Sister-in-law, when are you free to meet my father?" Leena took her hands away from Belinda, but she was still gazing firmly at her.

Chapter 105: Chapter 105: Just A Public Servant

"Why should I go visit your daddy?" Belinda was surprised. What was going on? Why did Leena suddenly bring that up?

"To discuss wedding plans, of course!" Leena shrugged as if she were talking about the weather.

Belinda sighed deeply. She turned to Daisy for help, but she was also stunned by Leena's unexpected speech. Could it be any worse than this? Belinda could not recall a time when she and Leena's brother got along well enough to get married with each other. Leena couldn't be serious about this. Or could she?

"Leena. You're not yourself. Are you sick? Feverish, maybe?" Belinda pressed her forehead weakly. If only she was fainted!

"No. Fit as a fiddle!" Leena smiled sweetly. She even took Belinda's hand and put it on her forehead to assure her that she was fine.

Daisy couldn't help giggling. The thought came to her that Leena would be the bane of Belinda.

"Daisy, do you have your gun? Just shoot me!" If Leena kept it up, it would only be a matter of time that Belinda married into the Leng clan. Belinda thought she might as well finish herself off before that day came.

"Alright, Leena. Quit making fun of Belinda. You're driving her crazy." Daisy had to smile and interrupted them before Belinda exploded. She took Leena away from Belinda immediately.

Belinda gave Daisy a grateful look. She really didn't know what to do with Leena. That girl was so whimsical, so unpredictable. Were she and that cool man really brother and sister? Belinda doubted it. They couldn't be more different.

"No, Daisy. I'm not making fun of her! I'm one hundred percent serious. Why don't you believe me?" Leena was depressed. It seemed that she had to work harder before Belinda officially became her sister-in-law.

"Leena, Come on. We're here for shopping. Anything you'd like to try on?" Daisy tried to distract Leena again.

"Me? I've already picked something. They'll send them to my house later. What about you, sis?" Leena asked, tilting her head.

"I don't need to buy many clothes. I barely get the chance to wear them." Daisy gently stroked Leena's head. She was such an adorable girl. No wonder that Edward would dote on her. How could she have been so wrong about what she saw between her and Edward?

"What do you mean? Sis, are you an office worker? What exactly do you do?" asked Leena curiously.

"Well. Just...a public servant." Daisy had no interest in showing off. She always kept a low profile about her job.

Just then, Daisy's phone rang. The ringtone was also a passionate military song. Daisy cast an embarrassed look at Leena and reached for her phone. However, her lips twitched when she saw the name on the screen. All of a sudden, she could only stare blankly at her phone.

"What's wrong, sis? Aren't you going to answer that?" Leena was surprised by Daisy's ringtone. A military song? Was that some kind of retro fashion?

"Y-yeah! Of course." On the screen were Edward's number and the name 'Husband'. When on earth did she make that change in her address book? She couldn't recall.

1

"It's me. What's the matter?" Daisy frowned and picked up the phone. She didn't realize that her voice went soft when she spoke to him.

"That took you awhile to pick up. Where are you? Justin and I will swing by and get you." Controlling the steering wheel with one hand, Edward put the earpiece in his ear with the other. He tapped the steering wheel anxiously until Daisy finally answered.

" Well, I couldn't hear the phone in my purse. Are you done so soon?" Daisy whispered while touching her hair. She slowly stepped towards a nearby bench and sat down.

"Soon? Do you know what time it is? It's almost six o'clock. Now tell me where you are. I'm on the road now." Edward pulled over and waited for Daisy to tell him where she was.

"I'm at the MY Mall, I think. I'm not sure. Do you know where the mall is?" replied Daisy while glancing at her watch. Indeed, it was about six. How strange! They had only been to a few places. She thought it had maybe been an hour only.

"MY Mall? Alright. Wait there. I'll come get you." Edward curled his lips. He knew where it was. He owned the building. Daisy probably had no idea that she was shopping at his mall.

"You don't have to come here. I can get a ride home." Daisy hesitated for a moment. She really wanted to spend some time with Belinda. She was going back to work in a few days, and that meant less time with friends.

"Just wait for me. I'll be there in no time." Edward didn't give her another chance to say no. He hung up and sped up towards the MY Mall.

Daisy was speechless. Couldn't he just hear her out? How could he just hang up on her as he had told her not to do that to him before?

"Daisy? What's wrong?" asked Belinda, noticing that Daisy didn't look well.

"Nothing. It's Edward. He's coming with Justin to pick me up." Daisy smiled, embarrassed. They had to call it a day. "What? Justin's coming? Really? I'm so excited. I've never met him before! Should I prepare a present? What does he like?" Belinda's face light up when she heard Justin's name. She was sputtering excitedly like a little girl waiting to open her Christmas gift.

Justin's coming here? Wow! Cute little boy! I wanna play with him! Leena loved Justin. She especially like the contrast between his chubby face and indifferent expressions.

Daisy didn't know what to say. Was her son simply a life size doll to Leena?

" Yeah. Edward's bringing him her. In the end, Justin would go shopping with them.

Daisy's phone buzzed again. She answered and heard Edward on the other end. His words came at her in a deep and anxious voice.