

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 1253 - Chapter 1251: The Media Was Being Troublesome (part one)

Chapter 1253: Chapter 1251: The Media Was Being Troublesome (part one)

The stage was an attractive place and all models were eager to walk on it. All the contestants knew that being on the ramp was a privilege that only a few people could get. Hence they put in all their efforts to ensure that they rocked the entire event.

The theme of the competition was "Dream City", so all the clothes that were up on display focused on that. They were a blend of grace, style and poise, so all models wearing them looked extraordinary too.

As one of the judges of the competition, Leena was being very serious about the whole matter. She looked at the clothes on the ramp and wrote her opinion about each. However, she didn't expect to see Louisa and Claire on the ramp, and that surely left her shocked.

Actually, Leena was not the only one who was surprised. Louisa and Claire were also surprised to see Leena on the jury so much so that they almost fell off. However, the two soon adjusted and became calm like before. They didn't want to mess up the competition because of her; otherwise, all their training would have been wasted.

"Claire, what's going on? Why is she in the jury?" As soon as Louisa came back to backstage, she asked angrily, thinking, 'She is a judge? Who has appointed her to judge me?' Apparently, seeing Leena there had definitely damaged Louisa's self-esteem.

"How do I know? Don't ask me. I don't know why she is here." Claire said anxiously, and thought, 'I told them I was going to the villa for a vacation, but now I'm on the ramp. They will know that I have been lying. How could I explain this to them?'

"What? That woman hates me. She must have probably given us a low grade on purpose in this competition." She didn't expect that she would meet Leena here, so she had forgotten everything that she had planned to do on the stage. Now, she was worried that no model agencies would be considering her for work. If Leena had given her a low grade, all her dreams and efforts would become wasted.

"Louisa, Leena is not such a narrow-minded person. You don't have to worry about that at all." Claire said in frustration, thinking, 'Kevin's going to be very upset when he finds out. It's all Louisa's fault. I have been rehearsing for this program for a long time, but I did not expect to be caught like this. It's so annoying.'

"What you said doesn't count. We'll know when the result comes out." Louisa said coldly. She thought her performance was perfect tonight, and the clothes Pola had designed were very different and novel too. 'If I don't receive a good grade tonight, it must be that bitch's fault only.' Louisa thought.

"Even so, you can't blame Leena. After all, Pola is not the only one who has excellent designing skills." Claire thought Louisa was not being logical, hence she supported Leena.

Don't speak on her behalf. You're all the same. Both of you are bitches." Louisa glared at her. Claire was now of no use for her, so she did not care to be a little mean with her.

"Louisa..." Claire said in surprise, widening her eyes. She didn't expect Louisa to say something like that, and thought, 'Aren't we good friends? Why do you say that to me?'

"Ha-ha! You are surprised? Claire, I can't tolerate you anymore. I don't want to be friends with you anymore. Now, you are of no use to me." Louisa sneered, thinking, 'Since you are not going to persuade Kevin to be mine, you are no longer of any benefit to me.'

"Can you tell me why you are saying that?" Claire said, with her head lowered. At the moment, she felt she had been such a fool. 'This is what I get for being such a loyal friend? Our previous friendship cannot turn out to be so fragile. For you, I have picked fights with Leena so many times. Have you forgotten?'

"You really don't know why I said that? You are such a big fool. People are willing to make friends with you because of your father's money and the fact that your brother is at a high post in the army. Otherwise, who would bother to talk to you even? Frankly speaking, you are nothing without your family's background." Louisa finally let out all that she had inside, feeling comfortable now.

"I know they think I'm just a fat cat who knows nothing, but I don't care what they think. It's just that I didn't expect you to be like them too. So our friendship abroad was false too?" Claire clenched her fist and tried to endure the disappointment and pain she was feeling in her heart. Nothing in the world was more painful than being betrayed by someone you trusted.

"Ha-ha! As you said, we were abroad at that time. Over there, I didn't know anyone but you, so I had no choice but to be friends with you, even if I didn't want to." Louisa said haughtily, feeling especially happy after having a look at Claire's sad face.

"Stop! That's enough! We're friends. We don't have to fight like this. Besides, the results haven't even come out yet. Let's stop arguing. A lot of people are watching us." Pola looked at Claire and then smiled apologetically. She thought that whatever Louisa said was mean, but she couldn't say so directly.

"Huh." Louisa snorted coldly, thinking, 'If Leena dares to oppose me, I will not spare her. I am a commander's daughter, I will not be afraid of her.'

Claire looked at Louisa coldly, as if she was trying to see through her. 'How could I be stupid enough to think that we are close friends? How could she lie to me so cruelly?' One thing Claire learned from this was that there were no true friendships in the world. In a relationship, the one who was more dedicated was the one who got more hurt in the end.

At the end of the competition, the competitors all got to know their results. Leena was surrounded by media persons from all the sides. They didn't care who was the newly crowned champion. They wanted to talk to Leena. She was an enigmatic person whose fashion sense was amazing. As soon as the media got close to her, they came to know that she was President Leng's favorite little sister. Few people in the city knew her identity, so no one knew that she was also Mignonne, the founder of LN FASHION.

"Miss Leng, can you tell us why you didn't disclose that you are Mignonne?"

"Miss Leng, are you coming back to S City to give your career wings?"

"Miss Leng, do you have a boyfriend?"

Miss Leng, are you now going to appear in public under the name Mignonne or your good name?"

Faced with such questions from the media, Leena was very troubled. She didn't want to answer their questions, and she didn't know which one to answer first either, so she looked very embarrassed about the whole matter.

"Miss Leng, I've heard that Bella only participates in international competitions. And in no circumstances would she participate in a small program like this. Bella took up the post as judge of this competition because you asked her to?"

Miss Leng, can you tell us something about President Leng and President Shangguan's married life?"

"Yes. Miss Leng, can you please tell us?"

Duke never gave interviews, so only a few people knew about him. The media finally managed to get this opportunity, so they wouldn't let it go from their hands.

"Look, Claire. Our work has not even entered the next round. Is it because of Leena?" Louisa angrily stared at Leena, who was surrounded by the media, and thought, 'Why? How does Leena get everything she wants without making any major efforts? Why can't I come even close to what she has achieved?'

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 1254 - Chapter 1252: The Media Is Being Troublesome (part two)

Chapter 1254: Chapter 1252: The Media Is Being Troublesome (part two)

"Huh! Didn't you see that? In addition to Leena, there are other judges also. Do you think only she can decide whether we should be shortlisted or not?" Claire had no idea that Leena was the designer of LN FASHION. No wonder she had a very good fashion sense and had the knack of finding the best piece as a winner.

"Huh! She is the designer of LN FASHION? So what? I will be definitely better than her.

I'm going to make her bow to me. You just see!" Looking at Leena's smile, Louisa wanted to hurt her somehow, and she thought in anger, 'This bitch has stolen my thunder. No one pays attention to me. It's all because of that bitch. If she hadn't turned up, it wouldn't have been like this.' Thinking of this, Louisa started hating Leena even more.

Louisa, don't comment without thinking. People will laugh at you. It is better if you keep quiet at the moment" Pola gently tugged at her dress. She seemed very calm and did not show any dissatisfaction with the result. She knew that there were many people who were much better than her, so she believed in the fairness and impartiality of the result given. She also believed that Leena was not against them.

What do you mean? Now, are you going to make me angry, too?" As Louisa said, she looked at Leena in the limelight. Everyone was trying to get her attention, but Louisa didn't think she deserved so much importance.

"That's not what I meant. I just want to tell you that LN FASHION is an international brand and is popular even in European countries. A lot of people love this brand, including the so-called very rich class. This brand sells very well in the international market." To avoid getting scolded by Louisa, Pola tried to explain in a soft voice. She felt that maybe Louisa had no clue of the truth. She also thought, 'I'm not angry with Leena as a participant. Why did Louisa get angry? This is a designing competition, not a modeling one. This contest has nothing to do with her.'

"So what? Should I respect her just because she is a renowned designer at LN FASHION?" Louisa gritted her teeth. After hearing what Pola just said, Louisa became even more jealous of Leena.

Pola exchanged a resigned look with Claire, and then they both shrugged their shoulders together. They were very helpless, so they both thought it was better to stay quiet for fear that she would get angrier.

Leena was upset with the media, so she looked around. She wished that someone would come and save her from the media now. However, when she looked around, she found that all the other judges were also surrounded by the media, and the same for her mentor, Bella. It seemed impossible to ask Bella to save her.

"Miss Leng, are you looking for someone? Is the ring on your finger an ornament or a wedding ring?" As soon as reporters saw her looking around, they noticed the ring on her finger that they had not seen earlier.

"Miss Leng, where does your boyfriend work?" The media persons were trying to chase the wind and clutch at the shadows.

"If I were you, I wouldn't ask her such a private question in a public place. Do you realize that your actions could lead to the closure of your newspaper?" A cold voice was heard and everyone turned to see who it was.

President Mu." All the media exclaimed in surprise. Ever since he announced that his wife Daisy was the youngest colonel in the city, he had rarely come out in the open. Therefore, no one expected that he would suddenly make an appearance.

Don't you hear me?" Edward smiled wickedly and looked down. When he looked up again, his face was cold.

"We did not mean any harm. We just wanted to interview Miss Leng. I hope we can do that." Edward was extremely angry by now and one of the reporters was unable to decipher the change in his mood. The media knew that FX International Group was one of the organizers of the program but they did not expect Edward to come here.

"Tell me which newspaper you're from." Edward said, with a playful smile on his face. He did not seem to be angry. In fact, however, he was only pretending not to be angry. After all, when he had that kind of a smile, it meant something bad was about to happen.

"Edward." Leena nervously called out his name. She did not want him to fight with the reporters and cause damage to their reputation. Though FX International Group was too powerful to care about what the media would say. However, the news media had a big impact on the public, so Leena did not want Edward to offend them and in no situations because of her.

"Leave her alone. Otherwise, I won't spare you." Edward knew what had made Leena so worried, so he gave the young reporter a cold look and said nothing more. He glanced coldly at all the other reporters present, wondering who else dared to trouble Leena. The media knew that losing their job was a small thing, but if they could not get along with the rich class in this business, they were finished.

When the reporters heard him, they looked at each other and gritted their teeth as they parted from Leena. Even though they learned nothing from Leena, they dared not to disobey Edward. Without Edward's permission, they dared not go against his will even if they only wanted to know gossip news.

Thank you, Edward. I'm suffocating here. I didn't expect them to ask such tough, and direct questions. I can't even think right now, let alone answer questions." Leena said gratefully, thinking, 'I'm not really fit to face the public. I can't handle the media.'

"It's okay. You'll get used to it if you give more interviews to the media. You wait for me here for a moment, I will go and say hello to them, and then will come back to you." Edward reached out and gently squeezed her face, which was quickly noticed by the media. Edward and the Leng Group were known to be family friends; however, media always looked for such opportunities to gossip. They here could not help but think if there was an affair between both of them. Some senior reporters didn't notice this little gesture at all, because they all knew that Leena was like a sister to four celebrity men in this city.

OK! I'm going to say hello to Claire." Leena knew that Edward had scolded the media persons and they did not dare to interview her again. She was safe now and she could relax.

Okay. Go ahead." Edward gently smiled. He wasn't supposed to come here, but Daisy had called and told him that she was coming back from the company for a meeting at the army base. Since he was free at that time, he decided that he would go to see Leena. He knew she was looking forward to this competition.

Claire, didn't you say that you were going to be at the villa for a few days? Why are you here?" Leena did not even look at Louisa. She asked gently, trying not to show any anger in her tone.

Leena, let's go to the other side and talk." After what had happened, Claire no longer trusted Louisa, so she decided it was better that she did not notice them talking.

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 1255 - Chapter 1253: Leena In The Water (part one)

Chapter 1255: Chapter 1253: Leena In The Water (part one)

"Yeah! Let's go!" Leena reached out and straightened Claire's clothes a little. From a design point of view, the dress that Claire just showed was not bad, but it was not suited for the theme of this competition. And the chosen fabrics were not flawless, which negatively affected the texture of the dress. Even so, Leena still gave it a decent score with a slight bias.

"Leena, I can't believe that you're the brand designer for LN. But why didn't you ever mention this before?" Claire pouted and voiced her displeasure.

"It's not something worth bragging about. Why would I mention it? Though you should tell me why you are here at the competition!" The two walked by the pool as they spoke. Since the venue was specifically used for a fashion show, all kinds of set pieces were in place. The pool was entirely used as a background for something like a swimwear show. The design was made according to the standards of a model walkway incorporated with the water element.

"Leena, sorry! I lied. Actually I did this only as a favor for Louisa's friend. The models who promised to walk for her dropped out all of a sudden, so I filled in when they couldn't find any other models. I was afraid that my brother wouldn't agree if he found out. That was why I hid this from you on purpose," Claire said quite apologetically. She also chuckled at herself as she was not sure if she should still consider Louisa as her sister. After all their relationship was very much on thin ice.

"Even if that's the case, you should have told me! I really thought you were at the mansion, recuperating. That's why I didn't even dare disturb you." Leena was feeling down tonight. Last night, a man broke her heart. The hurt and pain were so much that they had lingered till now. Since then, she didn't hear anything back from him. Maybe because she was not the one he loved? Was that why she was never treated seriously? Since there was no love, why would he care for her feelings? And without love, why would there be any concern for her at all? A painful smile appeared on Leena's face. Although her heart was drowning in tears, she had to look up and smile.

"Alright, it's all my fault. I apologize, okay? Say, my brother didn't come with you?" Claire raised her head and looked around. She couldn't see her brother, but she understood that it would not be convenient for him to show up on such an occasion.

"He's busy with some things. Come with me later! You don't need to go back to the mansion." Leena casually changed the subject. At this moment, she didn't want to talk about Kevin, though she was somewhat conflicted. She was really worried about him, yet she was afraid that anyone would bring the subject up to her. She felt like an ostrich burying her head in the sand.

Louisa was glaring at Leena with envy, but the more she thought about her, the angrier she got. Louisa couldn't bear the fact that Leena beat her both in love life and in career. Was it simply because of her beautiful, seductive face? Louisa couldn't stomach Leena's confidence. With that thought, she strode towards her.

"Leena Leng, you must have played some tricks just now, right? Otherwise it was impossible for us to be disqualified from entering the next round of competition. You must be making this personal to get back at me." Louisa intrusively stepped between Leena and Claire, staring at Leena in the most condescending tone.

"Louisa, do you think you are even worth my making it personal?" Leena raised her eyebrows, unfazed. 'Louisa is truly a mad dog biting whatever comes within her sight,' Leena thought. She wasn't provoking her in anyway, yet Louisa came forward looking for humiliation. Since Louisa made her choice, Leena was not planning on holding back.

"What's that supposed to mean? You're saying that I, a daughter of a military commander, am not as good as you, a lowly girl from a business family?" Louisa looked down and smirked. She wanted Leena to know that in ancient times, business people were nothing more than peddlers at the lowliest level of the totem pole of careers. It was unacceptable for her to see Leena acting so pompously.

"Ha! Louisa, the reason why I don't want to tussle with you is exactly my respect for your father the commander. I look up to the old man as a hero. He is my husband's superior officer after all, but that doesn't mean that you share that same respect. So don't always come in front of me looking for a fight. I'm going to be the hard pill that you wouldn't want to swallow." Leena always followed the rule of staying in her own lane as long as no one offended her. However, Louisa seemed to be oblivious to her own worst qualities. She was just so insistent on being disgraced, almost as if she enjoyed the humiliation.

"Tsk! Nobody asked you to respect him. What's more, my father is not a fan of hypocrites who suck up to him, so why don't you just save it? Stop acting so high and mighty." If it weren't for the reporters and the prominent figures in the venue, Leena would have ripped Louisa's nasty mouth off her face.

"If that's the case, then please leave! Do yourself a favor and stop squeezing yourself into places where you are not wanted." Leena didn't care that Louisa was barking. She might have been bitten by the bitch, but she was not going to bite back.

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 1256 - Chapter 1254: Leena In The Water (part two)

Chapter 1256: Chapter 1254: Leena In The Water (part two)

"Louisa, please just go! And keep it together. After all not everyone is as naive as I was, unknowingly manipulated by you like a fool." About her "friend" Louisa, Claire had figured everything out. So after she thought things through, she didn't feel bad about the current situation at all. On the contrary, she was grateful that she saw through Louisa before she could cause more serious damage. After careful consideration, Claire felt that this was instead most fortunate.

"What, you are drawing a line between us so quickly? Claire, with your intellect, even if I didn't manipulate you, somebody else will pick up the strings, so why don't you go home and buy a pig brain so you can have something to stuff in that empty head of yours? That's in case you're going to be clueless after some man has his way with you." With her arms crossed before her chest, Louisa lashed out with such mean words.

"Then, how come despite your great intellect, you went so low as to seduce a married man, bringing your father shame and disgrace?" Claire was tightly gritting her teeth. She couldn't regret more about helping this evil woman before her in hurting Leena so much.

"What did you say? I seduced a married man? Are you implying that I was a mistress? Don't you forget that you were part of that! I'm going to shut your bitch ass mouth up." Louisa lifted her hand as she spoke. She no longer cared about damaging her reputation and swung her palm towards Claire. But before she could hit her, Leena reached out and grabbed her wrist. An icy condemnation quickly followed.

Louisa, weren't you just bragging about being the daughter of an official? So this is how poorly an official's daughter would behave? Look around you. This is not the place for you to act out like this." Leena forcefully threw Louisa's wrist as she spoke, causing the latter to lose balance and falter back a few steps. "Who the hell do you think you are? This is between me and her. Since when did you have the permission to intervene? Aha! It looks like the two of you are ganging up against me, huh? Then so be it. Come on! The famous fashion designer is not afraid of being embarrassed, so why should I be?" Louisa was not going to take it all quietly, so after she finished, she lounged towards Leena like crazy with all the intention of starting a huge brawl.

"Leena, watch out!" Before Claire could finish, she heard a splash. Leena, who was standing by the pool, was knocked into the water by Louisa's wild charge. Claire barely held her ground and fortunately, did not fall into the pool with Leena.

The moment she hit the water, Leena could feel nothing but the bone-chilling cold surrounding her and soaking her to the bones. Actually she could have dodged Louisa's attack, but she tripped over her long gown, so before she could get out of the way, she was thrown into the water by Louisa.

"I... I..." Louisa panicked slightly. She didn't mean to do this. She only wanted to punish Leena a little out of anger, but she never wanted to push the latter into the pool and let her drown. After all, everybody around was watching. Even if Louisa really planned to take Leena out, she wouldn't have done it in front of so many people.

"Help! My sister-in-law fell into the water. Anyone of you, please help her!" After being stunned for a second, Claire screamed at the top of her lungs. Since she grew up in Capital City and far away from the ocean, Claire couldn't really swim. Under such circumstances, she could only yell for help.

"Someone fell in the water!"

"Seems to be Leena Leng."

"What do we do? Should we go and help?"

"No, I'm not sure. It could be someone else. Didn't you hear the name? The girl was yelling that it was her sister-in-law who fell. Leena Leng is way too young to be already married."

Despite having received Edward's warnings, there were a couple of reporters watching Leena from afar, but they didn't dare come close. They were just looking from a distance since no one wanted to offend the FX International Group.

"Never mind. I don't care who it is. Let's help her out of the water first!" Before they could make a move, a man had swiftly run towards the scene. He didn't even take off his jacket before plunging into the water.

Edward could not have expected that he would witness such a horrifying scene. He just said hello to someone else and was going to take Leena back, only to see her at the exact moment she was falling into the water. So he didn't think twice and ran to the pool as fast as he could and jumped in. Although he was aware that Leena could swim, he still couldn't help feeling shocked and worried.

Leena couldn't understand if it was the coldness that had made her forget how to swim, or it was Kevin's aloofness towards her that really hurt her. At such a moment, she didn't react, but instead she closed her eyes and waited for death to arrive. She thought that maybe this way, her pain and suffering would be alleviated somewhat.

Everybody saw the sweet smile on her face, but no one knew about her badly wounded heart deep inside. In all honesty, the endless waiting had made her a little tired, so Leena wanted to take a break from it all and start her journey anew. Hopefully, she would not make the same mistake of falling in love with someone before someone falls in love with her.

Just after Edward pulled Leena out of the water, Luke almost just as quickly got to the scene. He didn't expect Edward to show up in there either. When Luke left the house, Edward was still at home, so when Luke saw him just now, he was quite surprised. He was just thinking of resuming his guard duties after he finished other business. Yet he could not have foreseen such an accident.

"Mr. Mu, is she all right?" Luke took off his own clothes and quickly covered Leena with them. Because of the drenched gown that had clung to her body, Leena's fine figure was quite noticeable through the thin fabric.

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 1257 - Chapter 1255: Leena In The Water (part three)

Chapter 1257: Chapter 1255: Leena In The Water (part three)

"Call Tom immediately and ask him to send for an ambulance. And if he's at the hospital right now, then he needs to come along, too." After he finished, Edward laid Leena on a clean blanket that the venue staff brought them. He then started taking first aid measures. The more severe the situation was, the more his calmness and steadiness showed. Edward also kept telling himself that nothing would happen to Leena, otherwise he would never forgive himself. After all, it was under his watch that the girl got into this accident, which meant that it was because of his negligence that she got caught in such a humiliating incident.

Meanwhile at the army base, a shiver suddenly ran through Kevin's hand holding a hot cup of tea. Unavoidably, the spilled hot water burned him a little, so he instinctively let the cup go. The crisp cracking of the cup ensued when it hit the ground, shattering into pieces.

"Major General, are you alright?" Lee asked hurriedly, thinking that the man might have been too tired to even hold a hot cup of tea.

"It's OK, Lee. Why don't you drive me back tonight?" Kevin sighed gently and pinched the top of his nose bridge that was already in a bit of pain. He hadn't had a good rest for two days, so to avoid falling asleep at the wheel, he thought Lee would be better-suited to drive.

"Yes, Major General." In fact, even if Kevin hadn't brought this up, Lee was planning on taking the wheel anyway, so he agreed without hesitation.

When their car just exited the gate of the army base, Kevin's phone suddenly rang. He lightened up a little, subconsciously assuming that it was Leena who was calling. Did this mean that she had forgiven him? But when he took out his phone, it was his troublemaker of a sister, so he felt somewhat disappointed. But he still tapped the answer button quickly.

"Claire, what's up?" As he answered, Kevin was looking out of the window. It was pitch dark outside, but he could still see the icy frost on the trees. It was still visible even in the dark of night. Since this was the suburbs, it was not strange for frost to form at night. It also meant that the temperature would be especially low.

"Kevin, it's bad. Leena fell into the water. She's now being treated for possible trauma at Doctor Qin's hospital. She almost drowned. They're saying that her life's in danger." Claire kept choking up as she rushed out the words in between sobs. She was also fearfully watching Edward and his people and didn't dare come forward to them.

"What is this, Claire? That joke is not funny at all. Let's talk about something else, okay?" Kevin knew that Leena could swim, so he didn't believe his sister for one second, thinking that she must be pulling his leg. Or he reacted this way because deep down he couldn't accept such a thing happening.

"I'm not joking. You can turn on the TV if you don't believe me. Perhaps every channel is reporting on this right now." Claire sniffed her nose. Her sister-in-law's accident took place in front of the media and reporters, so she dared say that many news outlets were sure to report it. They might even add one thing or another to sensationalize the incident.

"I'm not around a TV right now. Wait for me there. I'll arrive soon. If anything comes up, call me." A sharp pang stabbed through Kevin's heart. His hand holding the phone began to tremble. His face turned ashen.

"Major General, are you alright?" Lee just realized that he had been asking this a lot lately. So apparently Kevin was not in a good shape these days, otherwise Lee wouldn't need to worry so much.

"Go, speed up, we're heading to Renxin Hospital." Kevin's voice was shaking. Because of Claire's words that "her life's in danger," his entire body felt weak.

"Yes, Major General." Lee didn't know what just happened, but he knew immediately that it was a life-and-death situation since they were going to rush to the hospital. So he stepped on the gas and sped towards the hospital.

Outside of the emergency room at the hospital, Edward was still completely drenched. He covered himself with a thick blanket that Luke brought him. Luke had been telling him to change his clothes, but Edward insisted on hearing the results first.

"Edward, you should go change! Don't you get sick by the time that Leena turns out OK. Don't forget the fact that you had a bullet wound before. You can't be careless with these things." Only at such a time that the mature and calm Rain emerged out of his usual playful personality. He seemed totally different, sharp and impregnable.

Yeah! Mr. Mu, please change into dry clothes first! Leena will feel upset when she hears about this." Luke joined in persuading Edward and brought up Leena in the hopes that she could motivate him.

"Hand me the clothes. I'll be out in five." Edward was always obsessed with cleanliness. Every time before he changed the clothes that came in contact with his skin, he would take a shower first. But he didn't care so much today. Edward snatched the clothes that Luke brought and quickly walked towards the hospital toilet. Luke followed him closely.

Right after Edward left, a discordant set of high-heel steps approached. Soon people saw Belinda staggering towards them. It was obvious how shocking the news was to her. Most importantly, Duke was not in S City at the moment. He said he was returning today, but he was probably still on his flight since he only boarded this afternoon. She wouldn't know how strongly he would react after learning something as serious as this. She didn't even dare picture the scene.

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 1258 - Chapter 1256: She Has No Will To Survive (part one)

Chapter 1258: Chapter 1256: She Has No Will To Survive (part one)

"Rain, how is Leena? What did Tom say?" The moment Belinda arrived, she peeped into the operating room through the glass window and asked for Leena's news. She was in no mood to make fun of Rain at this critical moment.

"Tom is giving emergency treatment to her. Don't worry. She's gonna be fine. We have Jerry. He's the best doctor in the world," Rain assured Belinda. But deep inside, he was worried about Leena as well.

"I hope so. What happened to her? How did she fall into the water? It's so cold this evening." Belinda walked up and down with unease. She was flustered and her mind was in great confusion. It was not until now that she realized how important Duke was to her. If he were here right now, she would not be in so much panic.

"I don't know either. I guess Edward knows what happened. He was the one who brought Leena here." They had been so concerned about Leena's safety when they heard the news that they forgot to find out what had actually happened. Leena was saved from drowning. However, they all knew that she could swim. So how did she almost drown?

Claire, you're here! Were you with Leena when she fell into the water?" Belinda finally registered Claire's presence and guessed that the latter would know something about this.

"It's all my fault. If I hadn't taken part in the Dream City competition, Leena wouldn't be in danger right now." Recalling what had happened, Claire burst into tears again. She felt guilty and repentant. If she had seen Louisa's true colors at the beginning itself, the latter would have had no opportunity to hurt Leena.

"Dream City competition? What is that?" Belinda asked with a frown. Worry was etched across her face.

"I know about it. It's a fashion design competition. FX International Group is one of its sponsors," Rain said, rubbing his brow. If he had known that Leena was one of the judges, he would have attended the competition instead of leaving it to his subordinates. Then this might not have happened.

"I don't care about the competition. All I want to know is why Leena fell into the water." Belinda shook her head anxiously.

Um... We had a fight with Louisa and she accidentally bumped into Leena. That's how Leena fell into the water." Even though Claire had fallen out with Louisa, she still absolved her friend of responsibility subconsciously. She said "accidentally", as if Louisa's actions had been unintentional.

"Louisa? Who is Louisa?" Belinda asked. She had never heard of this woman before.

"Louisa is the daughter of the Commander, my brother's superior. We used to be friends." Claire was quite nervous, for Belinda looked rather frightening.

"Why did you have a fight? Leena is very easy to get along with. I don't think she would have a fight with anyone." Belinda was certain that Leena was too reasonable to start a fight.

"Um..." Claire bit her lower lip, not knowing how to explain everything. Too many things had happened.

"Just spit it out. I also want to know what happened," Edward said. His clothes got wet when he saved Leena from drowning. He had changed into something dry and felt much better now. He stood in front of Claire as his eyes bored into her, dark as ink.

"I-I..." Claire stammered. She was too frightened to say anything and took several steps back, biting her lower lip. Edward's face had soured since saving Leena.

"Loosen your tongue, or I shall have to find other ways of making you talk." Edward had met Louisa once and even bought a new laptop for her. She had failed to make a good first impression on him.

"Here's the thing. Louisa has a thing for my brother and has hostile designs against Leena. She tried to drive a wedge between Leena and Kevin many times but failed. She has a strong grudge against Leena. She also failed in the competition tonight. Since Leena was one of the judges, she clearly exploded with the rage that has been simmering in her for quite some time. They had a fight by the pool and Leena fell into the water," Claire said. Edward was so frightening that she didn't dare conceal the truth. She hoped that he would be not too hard on Louisa later on.

"Ha! Louisa Ye, right? Luke, where is this woman?" Edward rubbed his wedding ring. 'The daughter of the Commander? So what? Even if she were the Commander, I would not spare her if she hurt Leena,' he thought.

"Mr. Mu, we've taken her to the Security Department of FX International Group. We're waiting for your instructions now." Luke lost no time in getting Louisa under control. As Edward's right hand, Luke knew he would not let Louisa off so easily.

Keep an eye on her. I'll let her know the consequences of hurting Leena." Edward curled his lips into a cold smile. Luke couldn't help but shiver at this cruel expression. 'Woman, you bit off more than you could chew!' Edward thought.

"Count me in," Rain said. He was an obstinate and unruly man and was not afraid of offending a commander. Anyone who dared to hurt his beloved sworn sister would be punished by him. He would show them no mercy.

"Calm down guys. Let's wait until Leena is out of immediate danger first," Belinda said. She was in no mood to care about their revenge. All she cared about was Leena's safety. Leena was Duke's beloved sister. Belinda couldn't imagine what he would do if something happened to Leena. Duke loved his sister so much that it even made Belinda jealous. 'Why do women always suffer when men make mistakes?' Belinda thought, sighing.

Claire stared at everyone's dark expressions and felt both lucky and scared. She was lucky that she changed her attitude towards Leena in time, otherwise she would have ended up in the same grave as Louisa. She was scared because she didn't know what Edward would do to Louisa. Judging from their fierce faces, Claire knew Louisa would come to no good end. Suddenly, a burst of rapid footsteps broke the silence. A man in military uniform appeared before them. Kevin had rushed here to see Leena. Lee followed him inside the hospital.

"Kevin, you're finally here." Claire heaved a long sigh of relief upon seeing Kevin.

"How is Leena?" Kevin asked in a hurry. He had never known it would take so long to reach the hospital from the military base. He had been in deep suffering all along the way.

"The doctors are still working on her." Claire lowered her head in shame. She felt that what happened to Leena was her fault.

"Kevin Gu, you should pray and repent before God. If something happens to Leena, I will make you go down with her." Edward grabbed Kevin's collars and stared at him with dangerous eyes.

Major General Gu!" Seeing Edward's actions, Lee reached out in an attempt to pull him away, but Kevin stopped him. Lee stepped back, watching them helplessly.

"If something bad happens to Leena, I would not forgive myself either. You should wait until they operate on her," Kevin said in a cold voice. He freed himself from Edward's grip easily. All he cared about right now was Leena's safety; he was in no mood to be gentle to Leena's sworn brothers and face their accusations.

"Bah! Kevin Gu, I am telling you bluntly that if Leena doesn't make it this time, I will have you and I buried along with her," Rain sneered, casting a scornful glance at Kevin. Resolution was written all over his face. Apparently, he had no interest in living any longer. Annie's disappearance had been a huge blow to him. There was nothing to keep him in this world now.

Come on, guys! Are you cursing Leena? Or do you not believe in Tom?" Belinda cast the three of them warning looks. Why were men so volatile? They were in the mood to fight even in such a critical moment!

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 1259 - Chapter 1257: She Has No Will To Survive (part two)

Chapter 1259: Chapter 1257: She Has No Will To Survive (part two)

Listen man, you better pray for Leena now. If she doesn't come out of this fit, I won't spare you, no matter who you are!" People said that Edward was a heartless man, but in actuality, he was extremely loyal and affectionate to the people he cared about.

"Edward! Stop behaving like a spoiled brat!" Daisy's cold voice came from behind them. They didn't know when she had arrived. Maybe it had been when they were quarreling, so nobody noticed her.

"Ha! Senior Colonel Ouyang. Did your heart break when you saw him being threatened?" Edward had been going crazy worrying about Leena and began to scold anyone who dared to defend Kevin, including his beloved wife. Leena had been in the operating room for more than an hour. He had no idea what was going on in there.

"Edward Mu, you bastard! If you continue to act like this, I will cuff you up to calm you down. You're the CEO of a transnational corporation! Why are you being so ridiculous in such a vital moment?" Daisy cast a stern glance at her husband. She had just got off work and was about to go home, but was informed of the bad news. When she arrived, she saw the three fighting with each other like brats. She couldn't believe her eyes. 'Are they really looking after Leena in this ridiculous manner?' she wondered.

"I told them not to fight but they just didn't listen to me. I wonder what's going on in there. I'm so worried about Leena," Belinda said, still pacing up and down. Why was Tom still in there?

"Belinda, don't worry. Come and sit down. Take some rest. You should take care of yourself. After all, you're..." Daisy reached out and helped Belinda sit on a nearby bench. Belinda was pregnant and Daisy didn't want her to lose the baby because of Leena's emergency. Belinda hadn't been to the hospital yet to check out her situation, but she had bought early pregnancy kits which told her that she was pregnant.

"Shh! I'm okay. Don't tell them the news yet!" Belinda whispered in a hurry, interrupting Daisy. She didn't want the others to know about her condition yet, for she wanted to double check it at the hospital first. Moreover, this was not the right time to announce the news.

Edward gnashed his teeth together and stared coldly at Daisy, but the latter just ignored him. Blue veins popped out on his temples. 'Fine! You must be spoiled by me. How dare you ignore me? You even scold me in public!' he thought.

Kevin walked toward the operating room door, zipping back and forth. He had already been exhausted after not having taken a break for the entire day and night. His expression grew dark when he thought about Leena's condition. He was in no mood to find out how she fell into the water or what Edward would do to him. All he wanted was his wife to be safe and sound.

The clock ticked away. None of them tried to speak. Their eyes were fixed on the lit up red letters above the door, that said 'In Operation'.

After a long time, the light went out and Tom marched outside. His face looked tired and his eyes red. His eyes scanned the hall as he heaved a long sigh of relief.

"Doctor Qin, how's Leena? Is she out of immediate danger?" Kevin was at the forefront of the crowd. His eyes were bloodshot and his voice trembled. The moment he saw Tom come out, he rushed over to him.

Tom, I trust you. She's gonna be okay, right?" Edward clenched his fists with anxiety. Like Kevin, he was afraid bad news would come out from Tom's mouth.

"She's out of immediate danger, but her situation is overwhelmingly negative. You know that Leena has had poor resistance all these years. She was suffering from a bad cold before drowning. She breathed in a lot of cold water that aggravated her condition. Leena has a serious pulmonary infection. On top of that, she seems to have no will to survive. I don't know when she will wake up. That depends on her willpower." Tom cast a meaningful glance at Kevin when he mentioned that Leena had no will to survive for he believed that Kevin was the reason for it. Kevin must have done something wrong which disappointed Leena.

"What? She has no will to survive? Kevin Gu, what did you do to her? Why does she have no will to survive?" This time, it was Rain who grabbed Kevin by the collars. He knew exactly what kind of sorrow caused people to not want to live. Since Annie left him, he too had no will to live in this world.

"Rain, stop it. Let's listen to Tom first," Daisy said in anger, pulling Rain away from Kevin. These men doted on Leena and cared about her so much. No wonder they lost control upon hearing that Leena had no will to survive. It was fortunate that Duke was not here at the moment, otherwise there would have been a huge fight.

"Leena will be transferred to the ICU soon. She's out of immediate danger but she still needs to be under observation all the time. We don't know whether she will suffer from complications." Tom looked calm and composed but he was under greater pressure than his friends. He was a doctor, and if he couldn't save a person he cared about so much, he would be gravely affected by it. He would refuse to serve as a doctor again.

"Complications? Oh no!" Daisy felt dizzy and staggered backward. Luckily, Edward caught and steadied her. Daisy knew how dangerous complications could be. When Edward had been shot, he too had suffered from complications at that time. It had scared Daisy to death.

Well, don't worry too much. She is under close watch. If complications are spotted, we would give her emergency treatment. But she has been suffering from poor health for years and I have a bad feeling about it." Tom frowned. Leena had been in a very dangerous situation in the operating room. Her heart even stopped for a while. Luckily, Tom had snatched her from the clutches of death. He decided not to tell his friends, otherwise they would go berserk.

"Please tell us what we should do next. We'll do exactly as we're told," Edward said in a calm voice as he held Daisy's waist. Only Daisy knew that Edward was not as calm as he looked. His hand around her waist was shaking.

"Just be silent as much as possible. No matter how angry you are, you must stay calm until Leena wakes up." Tom sighed with profound resignation. 'I hope she will find the meaning of life again, otherwise even if she recovers physically, she might not wake up at all. She has shut her mind from the outside world. I hope someone can convince her to open her heart and mind again,' he thought to himself.

"Doctor Qin, can I go in to see her?" Kevin pleaded, an expectant expression on his face. He knew why Leena had no will to survive and was seized with remorse. 'If I knew she was so bothered by the hug between me and Michelle, I should have called up and explained everything to her as soon as possible, no matter how busy I was. She wouldn't have ended up like this then.'

"We'll transfer her to the ICU first. Only one person is allowed to go inside. Remember, do not talk too much to her. You can decide who will go in." As a doctor, he could only do as a doctor should do. He wouldn't make the decision by himself, so he asked the others to decide who would go in.

Everyone wanted to be the one to go in, but they knew the only one who was qualified for it was Kevin. He was Leena's legal husband. More importantly, he was the person Leena was most anxious to meet. This was the reason why Leena's sworn brothers disliked Kevin so much.

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 1260 - Chapter 1258: You're Just Tired (part one)

Chapter 1260: Chapter 1258: You're Just Tired (part one)

"Kevin should be the one to go inside. Leena might not want to see us." Belinda managed a bitter smile. She had to admit, if she were Leena, she would only want to talk with her husband at this time. That was beyond doubt.

"That's right. Major General, Leena needs your encouragement. I guess she has lost all hopes of living, due to some misunderstandings. Right now, her heart is broken. You should try to explain yourself to her and lift her spirits." As far as Daisy was concerned, if a woman felt her life was hopeless, the man was to blame. In Leena's case, Kevin must be the bane of her miserable life.

I understand. Thank you," said Kevin while looking at the two women with gratitude. Without their company and sincere advice, the damage could have been greater. He knew that he himself could even be badly hurt. Edward and his group cared for Leena so much that they wouldn't refrain themselves from punching Kevin to death. However, even if this was an unfair circumstance and he was beaten up, Kevin wouldn't complain. He failed to protect his wife, which was an undeniable fact. Consequently he deserved all of this.

Kevin's heart skipped a beat when he went inside the room and saw Leena lying on the bed, her face drained of all colors. Although he had already imagined such an image in his mind, it still came as a shock to him. He had to grab a corner of the desk for support to prevent himself from collapsing in a heap.

Are you ok?" asked Tom with concern. He frowned. Among all those men who loved Leena, Tom was the only one who didn't consider Kevin a repulsive man and did not hate him. He didn't think that Kevin was completely to blame for what happened.

"I'm fine. Don't worry." Kevin smiled apologetically at Tom. Then, he walked quietly towards his wife, sat beside her bed and carefully stroked her face.

"I need to do some medical tests on her. If you want to tell her something, do it now. You can't spend too much time here." After saying these words, Tom started a thorough examination. Every now and then, he would look up at the bedside medical equipment and write something in his notepad.

Although he had so much to say to his wife, Kevin was suddenly at a loss for words. Without thinking, he wrapped Leena's cold hands with his, and put them on his cheek to feel her soft palms. A sense of pity and fondness dimly flickered in his eyes.

Leena, you're just tired and you need a sleep. I got it. But you have to wake up, do you hear me? Otherwise, I'll order you to complete 10 laps as your punishment for leaving me alone in this world." Kevin's face and eyes reddened, and he had to refrain himself from breaking down and bursting into tears. Although he had involuntarily fallen for her, he hadn't got the opportunity to tell her that, let alone to love her with all his heart. It was not until this moment when he was told about Leena's critical condition that he knew she had already become an inseparable part of his life. His heart had never felt so much pain, not even when he tried to give up his love for Daisy.

It just took a moment to fall in love with somebody. However, in other cases, more time and experience were needed. Partners needed to see each other from a new perspective. Kevin and Leena were just one of those couples, learning to love each other only after living together for a long time. At first he felt nothing for Leena. All he could give her was his word to fulfill his duty as a responsible husband. However, as time passed, everything changed. He could no longer ignore Leena's existence, and he had increasingly become dependent on her. Her feelings and emotions mattered to him. For her sake, Kevin was most willing to let his guard down and expose his softened heart. He smiled for her and wept for her. His sheer persistence and love wore him down in the end. Seeing Leena looking pale and sick, Kevin's heart bled and he surely would do anything to help her recover, to make her smile again, to get her back.

However, as time passed, everything changed. He could no longer ignore Leena's existence, and he had increasingly become dependent on her. Her feelings and emotions mattered to him. For her sake, Kevin was most willing to let his guard down and expose his softened heart. He smiled for her and wept for her. His sheer persistence and love wore him down in the end. Seeing Leena looking pale and sick, Kevin's heart bled and he surely would do anything to help her recover, to make her smile again, to get her back.

After a thorough examination, Tom gave Kevin a last sympathetic glance. He shook his head, sighed and made a quiet exit, leaving them alone. Tom didn't really understand what happened between this couple, and he certainly couldn't provide any feasible solution. Only Kevin and Leena knew what they wanted deep down in their own hearts. As a doctor, Tom had the power to allow them to spend a little more time together. He believed that Leena could hear whatever Kevin would say, and hoped that it would help Leena wake up.

Leena, haven't I told you that... you're such a lovely but annoying angel. Your love's torturing me. You came into my life unexpectedly and challenged my mind. Without you, whom should I blame? I don't care if you're in heaven or in hell, I'll find you and bring you back. You know that?" Kevin smiled, with a mixture of fondness for his wife and deep resentment at his failure to keep her from danger. He glowered at her, as if to say that if she didn't listen to him, he surely would take actions and kick her ass immediately.

Leena felt her way apprehensively in the dark. Suddenly, a halo appeared in front of her and a gentle and beautiful woman waved at her. For a moment Leena thought this woman was the mother whom she had never met before. She had only one of her mother's photos and used to spend a great deal of time staring at her and imagining their first meeting. And now Leena's imagination came alive. She was more willing to come forward and hug her mother. Before she could take a step forward, she heard a familiar voice. A voice she longed to hear but couldn't remember clearly. Her mother kept waving at her and smiling at her. But the voice said otherwise. The voice wanted her back, begged her to come back to his life. Leena's heart was struggling, and being torn to pieces. She looked around, trying to find out where this voice was coming from and who it belonged to.

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 1261 - Chapter 1259: You're Just Tired (part two)

Chapter 1261: Chapter 1259: You're Just Tired (part two)

"Babe, our fates have been entwined since the day you got drunk and came to me. You stirred up my life and you should take the responsibility. Are you listening? How dare you pretend to be asleep and keep avoiding me?" Kevin was pouring out his feelings of love for Leena. At that moment he regretted having not done it earlier when he had the chance. Human beings couldn't realize mistakes until the very last moment. Regret always came last.

In Leena's subconscious, her mother was looking at her intently with a gentle, comforting face, and calling out to her in a loving voice. However, she had been waiting too long, and ended up being badly hurt. She needed her mother's shoulders to lean against and her mother's soothing voice to repair her broken heart. She longed for everything related to motherhood, her maternal warmth, care and calmness. She started to walk towards her mother who, she knew, would never hurt her.

"Christ! Her heart beats are getting weaker and far in between, we're starting to lose her. Call Doctor Tom, right now!" said an assistant calmly but with a noticeable panic in her voice, picking up speed with her every movement. In response, a nurse rushed outside the room, looking for Tom. The atmosphere in the room got more and more tense, with the monitoring machines and their beep sounds going faster.

Kevin looked around him, confused and scared, not knowing what was happening. But he knew that it wasn't something good. He gripped Leena's hand more firmly. Life or death had never been a big deal for him. However, for the first time, he was scared by the prospect of losing the only woman he really loved and cared about.

"Nurse, prepare for defibrillation. Kevin, go out now!" said Tom hurriedly and in a commanding voice. He rushed into the ward, took a look at Leena, and snapped out his orders. Time was of the essence, and he had got no time to babysit Kevin's feelings.

"Tom, please save her," said Kevin in a pleading voice. Kevin's lips trembled, and his face looked drained of blood.

"Don't worry! I'm doing my best," replied Tom. "Now go!" Tom frowned. He must save Leena's life at all costs. He didn't need anyone, not even Kevin to tell him that.

"One more word with Leena before I go." Kevin then whispered in Leena's ears with infinite love. Then, he turned round and left, looking back at his wife. At such a critical moment, he must have faith in Tom, and allow him to do his job as a doctor.

"Start the defibrillation, 360J, one time." Tom couldn't bear to do this to Leena, his beloved sister. However, to save her life, he had no choice. If she had enjoyed good health and had a strong will to live, falling into water would never kill her. However, things did become unpredictable sometimes and there was nothing that anyone could do about it. To make matters worse, she might have developed complications.

"Do it again. 360J twice." Tom's handsome face changed colors. Looking outwardly composed, he was actually in a state of utter panic. He actually had doubts in his own skills and Leena's will to survive was worrying.

Suddenly, "Doctor Tom, she is responding!" an assistant cried with joy. She couldn't believe that this woman's heartbeat came back to normal only after two doses of defibrillation.

"Don't be overjoyed just yet. It's better to err on the side of caution," said Tom, barely concealing the pure relief and happiness in his heart. Tom read the electrocardiographic oscillogram, and cast a quick glance at the door. It was weird that Leena's heartbeat returned to normal so quickly. Kevin's whispers must have greatly strengthened her will to fight for her life. As for what had Kevin told her, Tom could only guess.

As soon as Kevin strode out of the ward, all eyes were fixed on him. Clearly, all of them wanted to know what happened inside and why Tom was called back suddenly and in a frenzy.

"It's fine. Everything's under control," replied Kevin, putting on a forced smile. Kevin said this either to comfort himself or to relieve other people's worries. On top of that, he refused to look pessimistic about Leena's conditions. He knew deep down that he and Leena had a long life ahead.

A hush descended over the waiting crowd. They gazed at one another, and then kept quiet. Fear clutched at their hearts. A few moments later, when they saw Tom coming out from the room, they all cast inquiring glances at him, hoping to hear something from him. Any news was better than nothing.

"What is the situation?" asked Edward. Even Edward felt helpless and irritated at this moment, knowing nothing and having nobody to explain anything to him. The waiting outside had become unbearable.

"She's stable for the time being. You can all go home and have a rest now. I'll stay here and take care of her. No need for all of you to waste time waiting here. Go home, take a shower and hope for the best," said Tom in a tired voice. He rushed to the hospital from an academic seminar, after he received Luke's call. It had also been a long and exhausting day for him.

Kevin felt relieved when he finally got some positive news from Tom. He felt calmness return to him, and smiled his thanks. He knew Leena must have heard his whispers and decided to fight her way back to him.

"I have got more important things to do than rest," replied Edward coldly. 'Commander, it's not my fault. First of all, your daughter has crossed the line. Didn't she know that Leena's my sister and my family? Even I don't dare lay a finger on her. But your daughter easily put her life in danger. Shouldn't I have a nice talk with your girl?' thought Edward inwardly.

"Where are you going?" asked Daisy alertly. Daisy saw Edward's face contort with anger. Deep inside, she knew that something was wrong.

"Can I go with you guys?" asked Rain wickedly. Since Tom had asked them to go home, staying in the hospital wouldn't help. Knowing nothing about medicine, Rain knew he was no use if Leena needed further medical attention. Instead, he had determined to go out and avenge Leena.

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 1262 - Chapter 1260: You're Just Tired (part three)

Chapter 1262: Chapter 1260: You're Just Tired (part three)

Wait! Where are you going?" repeated Daisy, standing in front of them and blocking their way. Until Leena was clearly out of the danger zone, she didn't want any other disturbances created.

"We're going to drag the culprit in and deal with her," Rain blurted out. He was too furious and excited to notice that Edward kept shooting him warning glances.

"Whom are you guys referring to?" Both Daisy and Kevin arrived at the hospital later and didn't know who put his wife into the critical condition she was in.

"For this, you must ask Edward!" Rain met Edward's angry stare and immediately realized that he was being stupid by telling Daisy such things. Daisy, beyond doubt, would stop them from bringing Louisa to justice.

"Mr. Edward Mu, I don't believe that you're hiding it from me," said Daisy, raising her eyebrows. Strict discipline was imposed on soldiers, which meant that they couldn't deal with things using questionable means. Under all circumstances, she would try to prevent them from lynching Louisa. Being court-martialed was the last thing she wanted. Besides, tolerating this kind of wrongdoing would make her an accomplice. More than that, she was afraid that Kevin's name would get dragged in the mud if Louisa was hurt. After all, both she and Kevin were special and they couldn't talk their way out of this.

"Damn! Listen to me. It's rumored that it's the commander's daughter who pushed Leena into the swimming pool. Now, she's being held by Luke in the FX International Group building." Belinda was well aware of the potentially severe consequences of this. So, she didn't dare to keep their scheme from Daisy. Imprisoning Louisa, they had already broken the law.

"What? It's madness. Release Louisa right now," Daisy demanded. Her brow furrowed in disgust. What a world of madness! Didn't they know the possible consequences which their recklessness might lead to? If Louisa really committed a crime, she surely would be punished according to the law. It was not their place to judge and decide her punishment.

"Senior colonel, do you have any idea of what you're talking about? Release her? You must be kidding. Leena's still lying in bed, possibly dying. How can you make such an order?" Edward and Daisy exchanged furious glances. Leena was still struggling for life, and how could the culprit walk free after all this? Daisy could turn a blind eye to this, but Edward couldn't. He was determined to seek justice for Leena.

"I clearly know what I'm doing right now. But your behaviors confuse me. We're living in a society under the rule of law. If everything gets out of control, what a chaotic world it would be. Do you really want your children to be born and grow up in such a mad world?" Daisy protested in a cold and serious tone. Reason told her that illegal detention of a civilian, already taking directly from the word "illegal", was terribly wrong. She wouldn't allow them to deliberately and knowingly break the law.

"Aha! Sometimes the justice system fails to treat the victims fairly," Edward retorted angrily. Gritting his teeth, Edward knew deep down that it would be decided and pronounced in court as an accident if Leena really died of drowning. And a shrewd attorney would help Louisa out of it effortlessly.

"It's your prejudice playing with your mind. Luke, I order you to release Louisa right now. Stay away from this farce if your master can't think straight." Daisy gave Luke a hard stare. She still stayed calm and reasonable even though Louisa's actions were definitely unforgivable.

Luke, don't do that." Edward tilted his chin proudly. He refused to give in to Daisy for the first time. Things changed. He couldn't bear to see his beloved sister suffer while standing around and doing nothing.

"Mr. Mu, please show mercy. I'll take the responsibility for whatever she has done," said Kevin imploringly. Kevin was fuming with indignation. His warning had no effects, and failed to prevent Louisa from losing control.

"Haha! Don't make a fool of yourself. Correct me if I'm wrong, but Louisa is one of your jealous lovers." Edward fully vented out his feelings in a violent outburst. Kevin had been the bane of Leena's disaster. The very man who should have protected Leena nearly killed her.

"Keep quiet and quit arguing. You're standing in a hospital and the patients here need rest." Tom rarely dared speak to Edward in this brave way. However, he was extremely worried about Leena's conditions, while Louisa's situation didn't concern him.

Look here. Since Louisa is the daughter of the commander, please let him be the judge of his own child. I trust him and believe that he'll be fair and impartial," promised Daisy. Then, Daisy picked up her mobile phone to call the commander. She knew she could do nothing to stop them, but she really needed them to calm down. They were well-educated civilians, and not some gangsters so they should do things by the book.

"You do trust her. Fine, I will let her go, but not tonight. She has to pay the price of hurting Leena." Edward wasn't going to give in. No matter what, he had to make that woman suffer.

"Ok, I can promise you that. But you must keep her alive, and not hurt her one bit. Otherwise, it would get quite ugly." Daisy knew Edward too well. He always paid his debt. The use of torture on the imprisoned Louisa was inevitable. Daisy didn't care whether Louisa was to be flogged or not, as long as she was alive, it was fine. She also felt Louisa's arrogance and self-will repulsive.

"I will keep her alive and conscious all the time so that she can have a taste of those gruesome tortures and beg for mercy." Edward took no effort in hiding his true thoughts. He had learnt a thousand methods of torturing a man without killing him.

"Don't overdo it. Even though you don't mind pissing off the commander, please put me and Kevin in your mind." Daisy pursed her lips and wondered whether she had followed a bad example. Otherwise, why would she choose to turn a blind eye to these things that she considered terribly wrong?