

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 290 - Chapter 290: Always A Member Of This Family

Chapter 290: Chapter 290: Always A Member Of This Family

"Mary, are you all right?" Yakira rushed over to support her falling daughter. She was so angry that the silver teeth in her mouth were almost crushed by herself. 'Edward, don't be so arrogant! Although your family is running the most powerful enterprise in the city, the Ouyang Group isn't small either. How dare you treat us like this?' she thought resentfully.

I ... I ..." Mary looked at Edward, with fear. Her lips were trembling. Perhaps she wasn't stunning, but she was pretty. How could Edward rough her up like this? She thought, 'Edward, the more you neglect me, the more I want you. You will love me the way you love the bitch Daisy. I won't lose you to Daisy, the worthless nobody.'

I don't care what you think. Daisy will always be a member of this family. I won't let any of you harm her. Play your dirty tricks on me! Don't you dare conspire against Daisy! Otherwise, I'll make your life a living hell! Don't believe me? I dare you to try!"

Edward twitched his lips, glancing at Yakira and Mary. The cold look in his eyes was like a sharp knife. He knew that meanies like Yakira and Mary would take out their anger on Daisy later, so he gave them a warning beforehand.

"Mr. Ouyang, you'd better leave with your family. I hope to never see you again. Since my daughter-in-law was thrown out of your house a long time ago, she has nothing to do with the Ouyang Family anymore. Please stay away from her and don't disturb her life. OK?" Jonathan said sternly, casually tapping the cup in his hand. The cold look on his face could have taken anyone's breath away.

"Mr. Mu, where is this coming from? When did we throw her out of the house? She hasn't contacted us since she got married. We thought she has forgotten her own parents." Humans were sensitive about their reputation. In front of an extraordinary man like Jonathan, Leo wouldn't let himself be humiliated.

"Yes, that girl is heartless. She forgets her parents as soon as she got married into a wealthy family." Even in such a precarious situation, Yakira still couldn't shut her mouth. It was a mystery how such a stupid woman had managed to set someone up. Most likely the person who she had plotted against was more stupid than her.

"Heartless? Who could be more heartless than you, Mrs. Ouyang? Hope you remember the car accident from 20 years ago." Cynthia hadn't intended to bring up the past, but she just couldn't tolerate Yakira's bitter remarks anymore.

Both Edward and Yakira were shocked to hear Cynthia's words. Edward felt that his Mom knew about the accident and he sensed a scheme from her words. But what had really happened? He decided to discuss it with his mom later.

"What car accident? I don't know what you are talking about." Yakira felt flurried. She wondered, 'What is this woman trying to say? Does she know about me plotting against Daisy's Mom? But that's impossible! The plan was flawless and I destroyed all evidence afterward. Even the person who had helped me disappeared after taking my money. So how did Cynthia know about this?'

"You don't know what I'm talking about? Oh, look at me. I just blurted it out. I'm sorry if I frightened you, Mrs. Ouyang." Cynthia was just trying to scare her. She didn't want to get into details of the so-called accident. It had been disguised perfectly. If it hadn't been for the powerful information network of the Mayfly, they wouldn't have suspected Yakira. However, they had failed to find any direct evidence to sue her, so she had been leading a comfortable and guilt-free life all these years. But if Yakira kept bugging her, Cynthia would put her in prison and make sure she stayed there for her remaining years. Cynthia might be warm and elegant, but she was no pushover. If Yakira pushed her buttons, the situation would become terrible for her.

Let's go home. Stop humiliating yourself." Leo had never been so embarrassed in his life. Today he not only made a fool of himself but also offended FX International Group, which was not his intention. Under such humiliating circumstances, his shame transformed into anger.

Mary gazed at Edward with admiration. Although he had been harsh on her, she was unwilling to let go of him. In her mind, only a distinguished man like Edward deserved her. By now, Yakira couldn't wait to leave. Thinking that Cynthia must have known something about her past, she was afraid to meet her eyes. She thought that Cynthia hadn't made the whole thing public because she had nothing against her. She was just using it to frighten her. When Leo asked them to leave, Yakira immediately grabbed Mary and fled the place, leaving Leo behind.

Leo nodded to the Mu family and then turned around to leave. He smiled bitterly. It was because of Daisy again. Every time he was humiliated, she was involved. 'Daisy, why aren't you my daughter? I have always loved your Mom. But you and your Mom are so alike that every time I see you, I am reminded of her betrayal. Therefore, I agreed to your leaving many years ago. Staying in he house wasn't in your favor. So your leaving was a relief for both of us.'

Justin, enjoy your meal. Don't let those people affect your appetite." Justin seemed absentminded at the table. Cynthia was a little worried. She regretted that the hatred between adults had affected him and the words they had said had been violent.

"Yes, Grandma. You too. We won't take offense at the likes of the scum." Justin wasn't thinking about the words the adults had said. He was feeling sorry for his Mom. Having seen the mean old woman, he could imagine what kind of life his Mom had led. Living with a hideous stepmother, a venomous stepsister, and a father who barely cared about her, in that loveless family, she wouldn't experience the luxury of being spoiled at all. Nevertheless, that was OK, because now she had him and his Dad. They would give her the warmth and love she hadn't felt before. Justin resolved to make her the happiest woman in the world.

Edward's heart was aching. Although he wasn't close to his parents, they cared about him at least. He thought, 'Leo, you really think Daisy isn't your daughter? Are you so ashamed of her? Fine, if I can prove that she is your biological daughter, you'd better not regret what you did, because by then, I won't let her go back to that filthy family again and accept you as her father. You abandoned her. Remember that. So now, just get out of her life!'

They were all not in the mood to have a nice meal. Everyone was quiet and thinking about something. It felt dull and depressing. Even Rain who was usually funny didn't know what to say. He didn't know much about Daisy's past, so he decided to remain silent and listen.

The sultry weather and the blazing sun in early fall were insufferable for Edward. Stepping out of the restaurant, he frowned and escape from the heat into his car as soon as he could. Justin was with his grandparents in the restaurant. Edward needn't worry about him. Rain laughed at Edward behind him while shaking his head, and then he got in the car and left with him.

Chapter 291: Chapter 291: Are You Miss Jessica (part one)

A plot was concocted secretly. In the booth of a coffee house, Jessica sneered. 'As long as I have money, nothing is impossible. Huh! That Daisy, or Colonel, I will wait and watch how long you can enjoy this glorious title. Let's see how long Edward will stay captivated by you without this honorable label. Soon you'll see Edward return to me, ' Jessica thought.

'Are you Miss Jessica? Did you ask for me? You are a rare beauty indeed.'" Hank's eyes brightened at the sight of Jessica. Her charming demeanor was as beautiful as blooms, Hank thought. It was a pity that she lacked Daisy's aloof style. Otherwise, he would have attempted to win her over.

'So you must be Hank, the man who got in touch with my detective.'" When Jessica saw Hank, she frowned. There was a trace of despise in her eyes. She detested men with such dreadful looking. Even the uniform he was wearing failed to conceal his foulness. He didn't deserve the dignified uniform, Jessica thought.

"Yes, it's me. I am surprised to know that Daisy has offended such a beauty, " Hank said while glaring avariciously at her plump breasts. His eyes were glowing with excitement. He imagined being in bed with her. He wondered if it would be as mindblowing as he thought.

"Sit down, please. We need to come up with a perfect plan." If Jessica wasn't desperate for his help, she would have left immediately. The guy was obscene. She felt annoyed by his lewd gaze. But this kind of behavior was expected from him. A nice person, wouldn't participate in her plan, Jessica thought.

"Why did you come to me for help?" Hank said while brazenly gazing at her breasts which were moving with the rhythm of her breath. His amorous look was nasty. If he was not a soldier, he would have knocked her down and savored her immediately. His heart was already burning with desire. But his identity as a soldier required him to control himself.

"I have my ways. I have heard that you and Daisy don't get along, is that right? I have ways to help you get rid of her, will you cooperate with me?" Jessica smiled gracefully. She knew how to ignite the fire of desire in a man's heart. Hank's lustful actions renewed Jessica's confidence which was torn apart by Edward.

"Well, that depends on how you want me to cooperate with you. " Hank looked wicked, but he had a sharp mind. Although he wanted Jessica badly, he was only thinking about it. He didn't intend to act on it yet.

"Do you know the CEO of FX International Group, Edward Mu?" Jessica took a sip of her coffee and squinted at Hank with raised eyebrows. She was very clever, that was why she didn't share everything with him at once. She was holding back.

"I live in this world not outer space! Edward is the headline of S City, how can I not know him? But why are you mentioning him?" Hank was a man with a broad vision and FX International Group was a famous multinational corporation. It was impossible for him not to know anything about it.

"Okay, that's great. He's my fiance, but he has been enthralled by Colonel Daisy. Does the troop allow their soldiers to destroy other people's family? Will they stand by and allow their soldiers to step into other people's marriage?" Jessica was determined to destroy Daisy, therefore she had thoroughly investigated military rules and regulations.

What? You are Mr. Edward's fiancee? But I've heard that he is single." Hank looked at Jessica doubtfully. The more closely he examined her, the more he felt that he had seen her somewhere before. Then he suddenly realized something. He tapped on his lap and his eyes suddenly flashed, 'Isn't she the same woman who is often seen in the newspapers with Edward? No wonder she looks so gorgeous, she's Mr. Edward's woman. Only someone as pretty as her could win Mr. Edward's heart, ' Hank thought.

"I'm sure you might have seen me with Mr. Edward in the newspapers. We are supposed to get married soon. Are you aware of this?" Jessica didn't reveal that she was dumped by Edward. Neither her pride nor her self-esteem allowed her to bring it up in front of others.

Oh! I remembered that now. But are you sure that the Colonel is seducing Mr. Edward?" Hank remembered that recently luxurious cars were often seen outside the military base to pick Daisy up. He had thought that the man must be some fat old ugly fellow who became rich overnight. It never occurred to him that the man who picked up Daisy would be the handsome and charming Mr. Edward. Therefore he felt doubtful of Jessica's words.

You don't need to doubt it. It's the truth. Otherwise, I wouldn't make trouble for her? This is the letter of accusation written by me. You just need to hand it over to the concerned department at the military base. And I will handle the rest. Don't worry." 'Daisy, do you really think that I will believe that you and Edward are married? Let me tell you, I'm not that stupid. Just wait for your punishment. I hope you will like my surprise. Haha!' Jessica thought.

"Are you sure this will work?" Hank picked up the letter Jessica handed to him and sneered suspiciously. It wasn't that he didn't believe Jessica, the main concern was that the Commander and Major General were Daisy's supporters. If the plan failed, he would be accused of framing Daisy. He was concerned about the consequences of the accusation. If it became serious, He didn't want to make any rash decisions at the risk of losing his career.

Chapter 292: Chapter 292: Are You Miss Jessica (part two)

"What do you think, Hank? Are you in? I am only asking you to find a way to deliver it. I am not saying that you should hand the letter to your leader by yourself. You only need to mention Daisy's unethical conduct to your leaders at the right time. You won't get into trouble. Besides, what we are saying about Daisy are true facts. Then what are you afraid of?" Jessica said firmly. No matter what happened, she was determined to win this time. Otherwise, she would not know what to do with her unborn child. She couldn't imagine being an unmarried mother. It was ridiculous! She would not keep the baby if it weren't for Edward. Her excellent figure was ruined because of the pregnancy. But it was worth it if she could win back Edward.

"Don't be ridiculous. Who says I'm afraid? But why should I do this? It will take a lot of efforts and I will get nothing in return." Hank had coveted Jessica's beauty. But since he knew that she was Edward's woman, he gave up the idea of getting her. He didn't dare to ruffle Edward's feathers.

"What if you also get something in return? You just need to send the letter for me. You won't be involved in the matter, " Jessica said while placing a cheque for 5 million dollars in front of Hank. She was sure that he would take it. Money makes the mare go, and Hank was a hypocrite.

"Are you trying to bribe me?" When Hank saw the number on the cheque, he couldn't deny to himself that he wanted it. But this concerned his career, so he needed to be pretentious.

"Oh! Hank, don't say that. It's just a small token for buying some good tea, don't take it too seriously. Besides, it will be our little secret. No one will know about it. And we didn't know each other before so no one will think that we are connected, " Jessica said with a lovely smile. Her beautiful face became more attractive with the charming smile. She really had something to attract Edward, otherwise, she would not have stayed with Edward for so long.

Okay. Since you said that, it would be impolite if I don't take it. But I will only help you to send the letter. I'm sorry that I can't help you more." Hank kept the cheque in his pocket with a cunning smile. In fact, he had already planned to go to the pickets of the army to accuse Daisy of unethical conduct. It surprised him that someone else shared his views. He was more than happy to encash this opportunity to bring Daisy down and there was another person to take responsibility for this. It seemed like he was helping Jessica, when in fact, Jessica was helping him. He believed, as long as Daisy wasn't standing in his way, he would easily climb up his career ladder.

That's all right. You just need to finish this task. I hope we can have a good partnership!" Jessica sniffed at his actions. His behavior was an insult to the dignified uniform he wore. If she weren't in need of his help, she would be reluctant to speak with someone like him.

Okay! I hope we can collaborate successfully, too. And I also hope Miss Jessica can get what you want." Huh! Before the result came out, nobody knew who used whom. No one knew who would be the real winner. He who laughed last, laughed best.

"Okay. So it's a deal. After I leave here, we'll be strangers. I hope you can keep that in mind." Jessica had her own concerns. If the plan failed, she feared that Edward would know that it was her doing. But she couldn't hold back the desire to get back with Edward, so she took the risk and acted on the plan. She believed that Daisy's way of life was unbridled. She was a fault-finder, so she felt righteous in scheming against Daisy.

"Of course. Even if you didn't say it, I will follow this rule. If we meet on any other occasion, please pretend that we don't know each other." Hank also had his own plans. He had been paying special attention to Daisy recently. He had gathered many photos showing different luxurious cars picking her up to and from work. He also captured some pictures of her kissing a man at the gates of the military base. He decided to send the letter as well as the photos to the leaders, and it would be more convincing. He was eager to see whether Daisy would be able to win against such convincing evidence.

"I'm leaving now. Hank, wish you have a good career! Goodbye." Jessica heaved a sigh of relief. Now she only needed to wait for the good news to come. But before the plan succeeded, she decided to keep a low profile. She also felt the need to keep a safe distance from Edward in order to avoid the possibility of raising any suspicions. If Edward came to know about this, it wouldn't end well for Jessica.

"Thanks! Miss Jessica. You must leave first. I will go later." Hank decided not to leave with Jessica. They needed to play safe to avoid any evidence for accusation.

Jessica gave a thoughtful smile. It surprised her that although this lecher seemed offensive, he was very careful. When he suggested that he would leave later, she immediately realized what he meant. She walked gracefully out of the booth, her slender waist twisting with her pace. Just as she left the place, a plot was brewed, and the target was the aloof beauty who was sitting busy with her work at the military base.

Chapter 293: Chapter 293: To Lose Herself In Edward's Love (part one)

"Colonel, the commander wants to see you." Mark suddenly burst in and reported to Daisy; he had always been this thoughtless. Luckily, Daisy was used to it, so she wasn't surprised. "Okay, did he say why he wants to see me?" Daisy asked, fixing her eyes on the report in her hands. She hadn't finished the report, and so she made no moves.

"He didn't. I bet it's something good." The commander wore a big ear-to-ear grin when Mark saw him; hence Mark figured that he must have some good news for Daisy, probably something to do with the military exercises! Every one in the army base was talking about how marvelous Daisy had been this time. It didn't matter if they meant what they said or were just trying to be polite, Mark still felt thrilled when they praised his colonel.

"Okay. I'm going there now." Daisy put the report aside and tidied herself up before leaving for the commander's office. To be honest, the military exercises was a big success, but she didn't think there was anything worth bragging about -- she only did what she was supposed to. She still remembered Hank's words earlier in the morning. She had decided to pay no attention to his teasing; but somehow she still felt uncomfortable when she thought of their conversation.

It was roasting in the afternoon. Daisy frowned and looked up at the burning sun in the sky as she stepped out of her office. The bright light stung her eyes; she closed her eyes for a while and walked towards the commander's office.

Standing in front of the commander's office, Daisy took a deep breath before knocking at the door. She knew anything behind a closed door was private, so she would never barge in without permission.

"Come in." A vigorous voice called out from inside. Daisy curled into a smile, once again tidied her uniform and pushed in.

"Haha! Daisy! Come on in! Come over here and have a cup of tea with me!" Judging from the grin on his face, the commander was genuinely happy to see Daisy.

A cup of tea? Daisy's face twitched. There was no way that she would believe that the commander simply invited her over for tea. He must have something to tell her.

Where's my tea then? I don't see it." Daisy raised her eyebrows and asked. Gazing at the benevolent old man sitting in front of her, Daisy couldn't help feeling sad. It seemed the commander would be retired soon. To be honest, Daisy would be sad to see him leave the army. He was a generous man who took care of her. Besides, he always seemed casual and carefree, but the truth was he could always get things settled before people realized.

"I'm waiting for you to make tea for us. I've boiled the water. But it's cold now since it took me ages to finally get you over here." The commander had always treated Daisy as his own daughter, he enjoyed teasing her on occasion. It delighted him to see some other looks other than cold ones on Daisy's face. She was a young woman with a great life in front of her, she shouldn't be wearing a stony face all day long.

"So you invited me over for tea, and I have to make it on my own?" Although Daisy retorted sourly, she sat down in front of the tea table and started making tea for them. She was not an expert; she only knew the basic rules of serving tea because she was a big fan of tea ceremony. She once made tea for the commander, and he loved it. Daisy was pleased that the commander was a fan of her tea-making skills. He would frequently invite her over to make tea for him, and he wouldn't take no for answer.

The commander smiled as he quietly watched Daisy wash the tea pot. A few moments passed in silence, and the gurgling of water was the only sound. Then, he finally piped up with the real reason that he invited Daisy to his office, "I heard that the military exercise this time is a big success. What do you think?"

"Indeed it is. But I presume all the praise belongs to Major General Gu. After all, he was the one who achieved tremendous breakthroughs." Daisy answered calmly while filtering the tea. She looked stunningly beautiful when she was focused on something.

Major General Gu is indeed a brave and tactical young man. But your coolness under fire played an important role. I've received lots of calls expressing their admiration for you! I'm sure you will be promoted in no time. Speaking of which, you should be more discreet. You're already the talk of the base because of the military exercises. Don't let anyone have something to use against you."

The commander didn't just say it without reason. He heard some rumors about Daisy. He had no idea whether there was any truth in those rumors or not, but he did remember that Daisy no longer lived in the dormitory the army base prepared for her. Anyway, he thought he'd better alert Daisy before things got worse.

"Discreet? What do you mean by that?" Confused, Daisy asked with a frown. She didn't know why the commander suddenly brought this up. He had never cautioned her about this kind of things before, so why now? Did she misbehave and not realize it?

Chapter 294: Chapter 294: To Lose Herself In Edward's Love (part two)

"Nothing. I'm just saying. Now tell me -- how's the report coming? Make it a brilliant one! I really want to see you get promoted before I retire." The commander didn't continue because he wasn't sure what was truth and what were simply rumors. Daisy still had an important report to finish, and he didn't want to distract her. He decided to drop it for now. He'd already cautioned Daisy about potential problems, so his job was done. 'Be discreet' was a good advice for anyone.

"I'll do my best. I don't really care about the promotion. I do what I have to do and leave no regrets." Daisy realized that the commander must have heard something about her, otherwise he wouldn't just say something like this out of blue. Since he didn't want to continue, she didn't push him. She would never force anyone to do things they didn't want to do.

"Don't say that! Be more ambitious and look at the bigger picture! Is this about what Hank said earlier?" The commander couldn't help sighing heavily. Hank had never thought Daisy was a good officer. Whenever he challenged her, he ended up humiliated. He got desperate enough to make things up in front of the commander, trying to ruin Daisy's reputation. But the commander knew Daisy; he trusted that she was a decent person. However, Hank didn't think so. He simply believed that the commander favored Daisy and ignored her faults.

"No. I just ignore his words. I think I've arrived at a satisfactory height. I've worked really hard to get where I am. I'll have to push even harder if I want to move up in rank. I've been doing this for years. Frankly, I'm really tired and I think it's time for me to stop and have some rest, "

Daisy said in a calm voice. She knew how many people had been watching and doubting her ever since she came here. That was why she did her utmost to fight for honors, and to justify herself to others.

"If you say so. But still, I don't want you to waste this opportunity. Do you know how rare it is to have someone as outstanding as you in the army these days? I want you more involved in your career, for the good of the army." The commander really appreciated Daisy. She earned her position with her own ability, rather than family connections. She was exactly the multi-pronged talent that they needed. It would be such a waste to put her on the shelf only because of some stupid jealousy.

"Commander, have some tea. It smells good." Daisy forced a smile and deliberately changed the topic. Since when was she not obsessed with pushing herself forward anymore? Probably it was because she had Edward. She used to be the kind of soldier who cared for nothing but fighting for their honor; however, medals and awards seemed less appealing to her at this point. Daisy knew the commander wanted the best for her. But being a woman, after years of fighting alone, the only thing she craved for now was to enjoy the love from the man she loved. She wanted to lose herself in Edward's endless love and care.

"Of course! I stole it from my friend. It cost him a fortune. I save it especially for you. How does it taste?" The commander smiled cunningly while reaching for his tea cup. He didn't mind telling Daisy where the tea came from, the rogue!

"I guess there's no tea for me, since you save it especially for our Colonel Daisy." The two of them both turned around and saw Kevin leaning against the door idly with a smirk on his face.

"Haha! You come just in time. Daisy has just poured a cup of tea for me. Did you follow the scent and come all the way here to my office? Your nose is surely more functional than our patrol dogs!" The commander sipped his tea while making fun of Kevin. He was another brilliant young man on this army base! Kevin came from a military family, but he had never used that to his advantage. He earned what he had just as Daisy did -- with his own ability. Though he kept a low profile, someone found out about his background anyway. So there were many people afraid of offending him by accident and tanking their careers. But Kevin was not that kind of person.

"Commander, next time you want to do something under the table, do remember to leave Colonel Daisy behind; otherwise Mark will make sure the entire army base knows about it within 5 minutes." Kevin retorted sourly while shaking his head violently. He didn't have a dog nose, alright? He knew they were here simply because Mark told him.

Kevin suddenly felt lucky that Mark wasn't living in wartime, otherwise he would definitely betray his country -- not out of maliciousness but because of his big mouth. Daisy burst into snickers when she heard Kevin. Mark was a careless young man; he loved to poke around and shared the gossip with Daisy. Daisy knew Mark didn't mean anything bad by it, and he knew exactly what he should say and who he should say it to; therefore she didn't give it much attention. Anyway, all he could pry from others was nothing but fluff. Others were not stupid; they would joyfully gossip with each other, but they also knew to keep their mouths shut when it came to something critical.

