

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 555 - Chapter 555: Do You Know Who I am? (part two)

Chapter 555: Chapter 555: Do You Know Who I am? (part two)

"You're not leaving? Mark, call Mr. Yi to come here and take them to the police station himself. Yakira, you should be very proud of yourself! Picked up by the chief of Public Security Bureau. Luke, let's go." The corner of Daisy's mouth twitched, but the smile didn't reach her eyes. She walked to the door, supporting Edward with her hands. If they would rather ride in a police car than in a military vehicle, then let them be. She would let them know what using her position to settle a personal score really meant.

"Got it, colonel. Don't worry about it." To be honest, kicking two struggling women out was not good for Mark's image as a soldier. So what the colonel suggested was fantastic, and devious. He wouldn't need to do anything himself to get this task done. And why not? "Daisy, you will go to hell for treating me like this! Won't you even think of Brian's feelings? I'm his biological mother!"

Yakira didn't expect that Daisy would set her mind on sending her to police station, without even considering Leo's reputation. So eventually, she had to bring up Brian, to see if Daisy would change her mind.

"Brian? I'll explain it to him later. It's none of your business. Mark, watch them carefully. Without my permission, nobody can let them out." After she finished talking, Daisy paid no mind to what the woman and her daughter were saying, and left without even looking back. She helped Edward out to the car.

Mrs. Mu, where are we going? Home or hotel?" Once out of Sexy World, Luke asked hurriedly, he himself also felt sorry for Edward. Who would have expected that a proud man like him would be drugged by two women? It might be the first time that this kind of thing happened to him. He could only imagine how furious Edward would be when he regained consciousness, not to mention what kind of revenge he would take on both mother and daughter.

"A nearby hotel! Home is a little bit too far." Daisy knew clearly that she looked a little awkward right now, but she still kept the bearing of a soldier. And she also knew for a fact that Edward couldn't hold out any longer, judging from his state now.

"Then we go to our own hotel? It's only a few minutes' drive. And there is also Edward's own suite. So we don't have to worry about the rooms being all booked up." Luke knew that Sexy World also had guest rooms, but with Mrs. Mu being a soldier and all, she shouldn't be there, in case someone took a photo. So even if Sexy World was the nearest place to hole up, he didn't recommend it.

Okay! We will go there!" Daisy found that she couldn't contain Edward's actions any more. So she knew it must be the time of the full effect of the drug right now, which didn't leave her many choices.

FX International Group had many fancy hotels in the city. You could practically see its specific sign on nearly every busy street. One could say that it monopolized the economic lifeline of the entire industry. Of course, Daisy, who didn't care about FX International Group, didn't know this. Because all she cared about was just Edward, not the assets attached to him.

Once in the car, Daisy could finally run a hand through her hair that got messed up during his random actions. In return, she received a bunch of heated kisses from Edward. She couldn't worry about the presence of Luke any more, she just let him kiss her fervently. But she still paid attention to her clothes, in case Edward tore them up. Seeing Edward in this state made her eyes redden. So when they finally in the suite of Hotel Sofitel, Daisy didn't resist his moves any more, instead went along obediently with him, letting him leave a trail of small kisses on her body in his wake.

Edward, do you know who I am?" Though Yakira said that this drug would make him lose his mind in the end, she still wanted to see if he would recognize her. This was something that every woman wanted to know, to see if she was really the only one for him in his heart like his words said. Daisy was a woman, so she also wanted to know the answer.

But much to her disappointment, she didn't get any response. Even though in her heart she knew that he was under the drug's influence, she still somewhat felt injured. She saw herself as a tool, only for him to use as he pleased without a ounce of care for her. This realization made her much angrier at Yakira and her daughter, so when she later dealt with Yakira, she took it personally.

Don't cry, or I'll feel sad too." The kiss was soft. Even though he was surely under the influence of the drug, he could still smell the slight aroma of jasmines from her body and feel the familiarity. It was the instinct of love that made him know this was the woman he loved deeply in his heart. So he really didn't mean to be like this.

Honey, you know who I am." Daisy cried from pure joy. She didn't blame him for being rough. What she was worried about was that he didn't know who he was going to sleep with, and that was the reason why she suddenly felt so sad. Now hearing his comforting words, her heart started to beat for him again.

Woman, in your eyes, is the man you love really that weak? Don't you trust your judgement? Or don't you trust me?" Edward said softly, eyes full of unfocused affection.

"I just don't trust myself. Because I'm rarely this lucky. But I'm really happy that I'm lucky enough to have you." Daisy put her mouth on his thin lips, even bit lightly on those lips with a hint of anger. Her eyes were still full of tears, but this time, they were happy tears.

Chapter 556: Chapter 556: I Always Know That (part one)

"Honey, I love you," said Daisy. She looked at Edward and locked her beautiful eyes on him with great admiration and love. At this wonderful moment, she didn't want to spoil any of this happiness. She didn't want to ask for too much. All she wished for was simply to be with him, to be with the man that she loved so deeply. And she did hope that from now on, they could go through all the hardships and difficulties together, and they would never have to be separated again. She was grateful to him, for the thoughtfulness and gentleness that he had kept even when he was drugged, for the care and respect he had given to her even when his mind was controlled by such a strong drug. She would love to thank him with her love for the rest of her life.

"Sweetie, I always know that," said Edward. Sometimes, when love reached a certain state, they felt like they were becoming immortal celestial beings who lived in heaven. Their love for each other was so deep and great that they wished this perfect moment would never pass, and their minds and feelings had come to a level beyond perfection.

The night was long, but not as deep as their love. After experiencing all these hardships, they finally earned their precious love and happiness. They cuddled with each other and fell into a good night's deep sleep underneath the night's beautiful sky where stars were shining and reflecting each other.

When the first morning sunlight came through the curtain and shone on this happy couple, Daisy didn't wake up as usual. She was still sleeping sweetly, snuggling in Edward's arms, like a lazy kitten, so petite and so cute. Perhaps for every man on Earth, sex with their loved ones could never be too much, and their bodies would never be too fatigued to have more. So just as every time before, Edward was still the one that woke up first after their love making. He opened his deep and intoxicating eyes, and what he saw first was his petite wife who slept like a cute baby, which had made up such an enjoyable scene that he felt a very profound peacefulness coming from his heart.

Probably he had asked for too much from her body time after time last night, so she was too tired to wake up. Daisy was still sleeping quietly, and wasn't even slightly affected by her biological clock that usually woke her up early in the morning. For Edward, it was quite unusual to be with his petite wife that was not as cold and aloof as she had always been. So when her warm and soft body fell into his arms, being close to his own, he found it too cruel to disturb her. But still, knowing that she would have to leave for her work anyway, his heart ached. Then he thought of Yakira, and his eyes narrowed, his gaze indicating some seriously dangerous thoughts. 'Yakira, you had once used that little stupid trick on Leo, but how dare you use it on me again! If you succeeded this time, what would you want?

Would you try to threaten me with it?' Edward's lips moved a little and he gave out a cold sneer. The very person that could stay clear of his punishment after provoking him had not been born yet! Since Yakira had stepped over the line first, he would never let her get out of this easily this time. The mere mention of her divorce from Leo could make her react so strongly. What would happen if he handed Leo the evidence he collected? It would definitely be much more serious than a divorce!

He kissed Daisy on her forehead affectionately, then went naked into the bathroom to take a bath. When Edward finally got his entire body immersed in the warm water, he felt comfortable and his mind eased. The tension was driven away. Then he picked up his water-proof cellphone beside the tub, and dialed a number. The called was connected and Mark's lively voice came on.

"Hello! Who is it?" Mark answered the phone feeling a little uncertain. He tilted his head and thought to himself, 'It's an unfamiliar number. Who could that be so early in the morning?' After all, he spent almost the entire night in the police station last night because of what Yakira and her daughter had done. And since the Colonel wasn't there, it would have been impolite to leave there before the the chief of the police station left. He was still a little pissed now!

"Mark, it's me. Does your Colonel have any important things to attend to today according to her schedule?" Edward was a man who always kept his promises. So from the moment he promised Daisy, he had been doing his best not to interfere with her work by his personal issues. He had promised so, and he had done so as well. Because from his perspective, it was the bottom line that he kept his commitment to his loved one.

"Mr. Mu, it's you!" said Mark. "Colonel doesn't have any important things to attend to this morning, but she will have to attend a meeting this afternoon. But why would you ask me about her schedule? Isn't she with you right now?" Mark was feeling more confused now. He was such an innocent boy that he would never think about the intimate behavior conducted by Edward and Daisy last night. No wonder he didn't understand why Edward would ask him instead of Colonel about her own schedule.

Right!" answered Edward. "She's with me right now. If there isn't anything important for her to deal with in the army base, please ask for some time off for her this morning. She will attend the meeting this afternoon on time. And do NOT ask me for any explanations!" Edward said this quickly. Sometimes he thought Mark might be too innocent and it was impossible for him to explain the real reason to Mark. Besides, by comparison with Mark, Edward would look like an evil man who had too much erotic passion.

Yes, I know," said Mark. Then he looked at the cellphone that he had just been talking on. Mr. Mu had already hung up. He wondered confusingly, 'What's going on with that guy? Why did he call me so early in the morning for such weird questions? Is this the capricious Mr. Mu that Colonel has always talked about? And why did he get so angry in just a second?' But after he complained about Mr. Mu's weird behavior, Mark still had to obey his order. He called the army base and asked for leave for Colonel. Otherwise, if Commander couldn't find the Colonel, he might make a series of desperate phone calls, which would definitely get everyone into trouble.

After taking the cozy warm bath, Edward went out the bathroom feeling totally relaxed, without the tension and fatigue that had covered him since he woke up. He was completely refreshed now, even his mood got better. He took a look at the beauty on the bed, who was still in her sweet sleep, and he knew he did lavish love and affection on her, because he just couldn't help smiling when seeing her.

He opened the wardrobe, looking at all the clothes of different styles. He thought for a moment, and then decided to put on a casual looking off-white suit. It was his habit that every hotel under FX International Group would reserve a suit for him, and there would always be all kinds of clothing for various occasions in his suite, which would be much more convenient for him. But unfortunately, he forgot to ask his staff to get some clothing for Daisy in the wardrobe. It was his fault this time. Because after his reunion with her, he had never thought of spending a night with her in a hotel of this city. After all, their home was always much cozier and more comfortable than a hotel room. Even if this was his hotel, it still couldn't compare to their home, where he could feel the warmth of love.

Chapter 557: Chapter 557: I Always Know That (part two)

Edward opened the suite door gently to get out, then he closed it carefully as well. He was so thoughtful and considerate that he tried to make his movements as gentle as possible, not wanting to disturb his petite lady's sleep. He knocked softly on the door of the room next to his suite. Very soon, Luke came out and answered the door.

"Mr. Mu, you're up. Are you alright?" asked Luke. He glanced at his watch, and didn't expect Mr. Mu to be this early. He had assumed that because of what might have happened between Mr. and Mrs. Mu last night, Mr. Mu might get up much later than this.

"I'm fine. What about Yakira and her daughter?" What concerned Edward most was Yakira and her daughter. The moment he saw Daisy last night, the tension that had been tightened for too long in his mind had suddenly gone. Then he had fallen into some sort of disorientation. It wasn't until he saw the tears falling down Daisy's face that he gained his mind back a little. But he still didn't know what had happened to Yakira and her daughter. He assumed that since he had been set up this time, Luke would never let them get out of trouble easily.

"They were sent to the police station by Mark. It was an order from Mrs. Mu," answered Luke. Just like reserving a suite for Edward in every one of his hotels, there would always be a room next to his suite reserved for his bodyguards as well. So Edward could be sure that Luke was in this room, which was something he had been so used to.

"Oh! That's unexpected. But what was the charge?" Edward frowned, then he laughed playfully. He was quite curious about what kind of charge had gotten Yakira and her daughter in trouble with the cops.

"It's said that they were accused of intentionally injuring another person," answered Luke. He believed that such a charge was somewhat unsubstantiated too, for they had completely forgotten about collecting evidence at that time, and if Yakira and her daughter denied the accusation, there would be nothing else the police could do.

"Oh! That's pretty much like what she would do, as a soldier, solving these issues by law," said Edward. He didn't think as much as Luke did. In his opinion, the reason why Daisy had done this was quite simple. She had been trying to give Yakira and her daughter a warning, but she hadn't meant to actually put them into jail. After all, she still had a sense of kinship with Brian, so she couldn't just ignore his feelings completely. And as for Brian, Yakira was always his biological mother. No matter how well he got along with Daisy, he couldn't cut off his relationship with Yakira completely.

"Mr. Mu, have you got an idea that you'd like me to act on?" asked Luke. He had known Mr. Mu so well that he was sure Mr. Mu would never have come to him this early if nothing had happened. Now that he had come, there must be something for him to deal with for Mr. Mu. As for what the thing would be, if he didn't guess it wrong, it would have to do with what had happened last night.

"Yep! Send all the information we have about Yakira to Leo. I'd really love to see how he's going to solve this problem this time." Edward gave Luke a wicked smile when telling him what to do. Edward had ideas alright. Since there was nothing he could do with Yakira right now, why not give Leo a chance to mess up with her plans a little? Probably by doing so, he would be able to gather some useful information against Yakira.

"OK. I understand. But what about Paul?" asked Luke. At the same time, he also picked up his coat and was ready to go out. Luke was always a dutiful man who would give whatever Mr. Mu had told him to do the highest priority. He would complete his tasks as soon as possible.

"Paul? Just release him! But you'll really have to send someone to watch him closely, even the slightest movement of his! I'd like to know if he will contact Yakira as soon as he is released." Some sort of slyness could be seen in Edward's eyes. There was no use detaining Paul forever. After all, he was not the police, and he couldn't convict Paul. So instead of keeping him here, why not let him go and get him into the mess as well, making the situation even more troublesome for Yakira? Stir up the clear water. Edward was looking forward to seeing how Yakira would handle all these sudden events.

"OK. I'll get on this right now. And would you like me to call someone over to help?" Luke was a little concerned. He knew that Mr. Mu would definitely have exhausted Mrs. Mu last night. So in case of any emergencies, he believed it would be safer for them to have some bodyguards with them.

"It's alright. I don't need them. Don't forget about the officer by my side. No matter how exhausted she was, she would be able to beat up most villains. No one could hurt us easily." Edward was strongly confident of Daisy's fighting skills. Plus, he himself was not bad at fighting either. So there was no need to sweat the small stuff.

That's true. Then I'll leave now," said Luke. Then he walked out of the room. And at the same time, he didn't forget to make a call to ask for a car to wait here for them, so that when Mr. and Mrs. Mu needed to leave here later, the car would be here already and they wouldn't need to wait for the car to come, which could save them some precious time. Luke was a careful man and he always took care of the little things. That's why Edward had trusted him all the time.

After watching Luke get into the elevator, Edward got back to his own thoughts. He was quite excited about what would happen next. What kind of show would they be playing for him to watch? But before the showtime came, he would have to ask Daisy to release Yakira and her daughter first. Otherwise, if these two leading roles of the show were absent, how could the show go on? To be honest, Edward had to admit that he was quite an evil man from his point of view. He could always punish those who had offended and provoke him without getting his hands dirty or leaving a clue. This time, however, he would see if Yakira and her daughter were strong enough to take his punishment.

Edward headed back to his room. He had thought that his petite wife would wake up now, but instead he saw her still sleeping quietly, which made him laugh at himself a little. It seemed that he exhausted her last night, or she wouldn't sleep for so long without even the slightest sign of waking up.

Chapter 558: Chapter 558: Just a Petty Official

Edward moved over to the bedside and looked at Daisy with a tender expression on his face, as if she were a painting he never got tired of looking at. He was afraid that he would lose her one day. Daisy was always giving him surprises. He was touched.

Edward pinched her nose lightly. Daisy woke up, batting her long beautiful eyelashes. When she saw Edward, she closed her eyes again before suddenly sitting up in bed. But she had to lie back down because her body was so sore and numb.

"Slow down. No need to be so excited to see me." Edward joked with a charming smile, but Daisy wasn't attracted.

"Edward, what time is it? Why didn't you wake me up? Damn it. I'm late," Daisy said angrily. Edward seemed relaxed while she was sore all over. She felt a lot more tired than usual after training. She just wanted to keep lying down and not move at all.

"It's okay. Go back to sleep. I already asked for leave for you." Edward sat on the bed and comforted her. He patted her shoulder as if she were a baby.

Really? Okay, I'll just sleep a while more. Then I'll go to work." Daisy mumbled. She held Edward's waist and stroked his arm. Feeling peaceful and safe in his presence, she soon fell asleep. Edward sat still helplessly. He wouldn't be able to keep the same position for long. After a while, his body would become stiff.

He sighed and climbed onto the bed. He lied down next to her and settled her head on his arm. He watched her quietly, feeling grateful to have her in his life. Otherwise, he would never have known what true love was. Yakira and Mary spent the night in the police station. Every person who went in and out looked at them curiously. The intense humiliation they felt made them hate Daisy even more.

"Mom, it's morning already. Is that bitch really so ruthless as to keep us here all night? Forget dad. You are Brian's mom. He has always been good to her, she shouldn't have thrown us here! We're not even allowed to post bail. What the hell? Does she think we know nothing about the law? What's wrong with the legal counsel of Ouyang Foreign Trade? I called him so many times but he never answered the phone. Is he trying to get fired?"

Mary gritted every word through her teeth. Edward had been a sitting duck to her, but then Daisy came and ruined everything. After a night in the police station, her hatred grew. She had said those words to provoke her mother's hate for Daisy. She wanted Yakira to hate Daisy as much as she did, because Yakira was not a forgiving person. She would get back at whoever offended her. In that case, Yakira would still be Mary's ally and would keep helping her get Edward.

"Shut up! As my daughter, how can you be so dumb? Not only can you not hold onto a man, but also you're not perceptive at all!" Yakira was furious with how Mary had answered the police officer's questions. She had been stupid enough to admit to drugging Edward. She even asked how the police knew about it! Thinking of her foolish actions, Yakira couldn't help but snap at her.

"What about you? If you hadn't offended Edward, he wouldn't have hated me so much." Mary pursed her lips. She didn't find anything wrong with what she had done, and blamed it all on Yakira.

"Mary, when will you grow up? Look at how successful Daisy is, then look at yourself! Should I go on?" Yakira now realized the importance of fame and power. Daisy didn't even need to show herself in person, just a call from her could make the chief of the Public Security Bureau immediately come over and pick them up himself. Even Edward would not be able to do that. Compared to Daisy, Mary not only had no skills but also didn't know how to adapt to the changing situation. Suddenly, it hit Yakira that she and Mary had been beaten by Grace and Daisy. Her face became extremely hideous at the thought.

Mom, how can you praise your enemy and belittle your own daughter? Daisy is just a petty official. No big deal. She might have traded herself to get that position. Who knows?" Mary didn't think that Daisy was better than her. She only had a better family background and good luck.

"At least she's beautiful. Look at yourself. What do you have?" The imprisonment made Yakira anxious. No doubt that Edward would retaliate against her. The first person that he would find and ally himself with would be Leo, which would put her in a very tight spot. Helplessly locked up in the police station, she didn't have a chance to explain herself to Leo.

Yes, I have nothing while Daisy is outstanding in every way. But don't you forget, like mother like daughter. I got my looks from you, so don't blame me for my appearance." Yakira was a good teacher. By her example, Mary had become as calculating and vulgar as her.

Be quiet!" A policeman shouted just as Yakira was about to yell at Mary. Yakira and Mary dropped the argument in surprise. Seething in anger, they refused to talk to each other and fell into deep thought about different things. The harder it was to acquire something, the more valuable it appeared. Mary was thinking about Edward. She couldn't get his handsome face and distinguished presence out of her mind.

Meanwhile, Yakira was thinking about how to deal with Edward's retaliation. Since Mary was so obsessed with Edward, Yakira had planned to let Mary take the fall for everything if their plan failed. Then she could get more time to figure out her next move. Ironically, Daisy showed up and sent them to prison. It seemed that time had made Daisy ruthless. She was no longer a weak girl anymore.

Excuse me. When can we be released? We've been kept here all night. If they want to file charges against us, don't they have to present the evidence?" Seeing her mom wasn't in the mood to talk to her, Mary turned to the policeman with a charming smile on her face.

How should I know? I was told by my superior that you offended someone important. It's up to her when you get released." Actually, the policeman was also confused about the situation. There had been no interrogation since Yakira and Mary were brought in, but they couldn't be released anyway. And the chief had picked them up himself. Everything left him puzzled.

"Important? She's just a colonel. Who cares?" Mary assumed that a colonel was similar to a manager in a firm. There was nothing to be afraid of.

"What? Just a colonel? Tell me, what kind of position do you think is important enough?" The policeman stared at her in disbelief. He couldn't believe his ears. These were the most ridiculous words he had ever heard. How could they be so arrogant? Were they more powerful than Daisy?

"How powerful is a colonel?" Mary asked. They weren't going anywhere and she had nothing better to do anyway. She took the opportunity to find out more about Daisy and why she was so haughty.

Yakira's mouth moved, as if she had something to say, but in the end nothing came out of her mouth. Daisy had made the chief of the Public Security Bureau pick them up himself, but her stupid daughter still couldn't see Daisy's power. Mary thought Daisy was only a petty official. Since Yakira was too pissed to talk to her, she decided to remain silent and let the policeman explain it to Mary.

"What do you think? She doesn't even give a damn about our chief, you can imagine how powerful she is. It's not your fault that you can't understand all this. After all, you're not a politician. It's bad luck that you have offended her, though!

Pray for yourself. The policeman sighed and shook his head. He was rendered speechless by Mary's ignorance. He decided to go back to work. It was always wise to talk less and do more work. He didn't want to get into trouble.

Chapter 559: Chapter 559: Don't Look At Me Like That

"Really? Is it really that serious? I don't think so. You must be exaggerating. Mom, what do you think?" Mary found what the policeman said a little hard to swallow. She didn't expect that Daisy could wield such tremendous power. She was always eager to be superior over Daisy. But Daisy was born with a silver spoon in her mouth and was happily married to Edward who loved her dearly. On the other hand, Mary was a single woman from a poor family. Moreover, Daisy was a colonel, while Mary was an ordinary woman. In short, Mary was inferior to Daisy in every aspect. The harsh truth was devastating to her.

"We're currently detained in the police station. Why are you still asking such a stupid question?" Yakira replied angrily. She shouldn't have offended the lawyer of the Ouyang Foreign Trade a while back, or she wouldn't be suffering bitterly here. But she would never beg Daisy for mercy. She would rather stay here than ask Daisy to release her. She wanted to keep her dignity.

"Why did you yell at me? Wait and see. Daisy will pay the price soon." Mary displayed a vicious smile. A lot of people hated Daisy, and Jessica was at the top of the list. In that case, they could find a chance to cut Daisy down to size. They had to destroy Daisy. Then she couldn't pretend to be pure and noble anymore.

Yakira looked at Mary with a frown. She didn't understand what Mary meant, but she knew her daughter like the back of her hand. Mary was an impetuous person and always acted without careful consideration. Overcome with rage, she would go to any length to get what she wanted. At the thought, Yakira couldn't help but heave a sigh. She didn't ask Mary about her plan. As a result, Mary would repeat her mistake later.

Daisy ignored all the members of the Ouyang family, but because she cared about her younger brother Brian, she didn't want to make any trouble. After waking up, she called the police station and told them to release Yakira and Mary. Deep in her heart, she didn't want Brian to know that he had such a shameless and despicable mother. He would be heartbroken. She couldn't bear to see that, so she decided to hide it from him and protect him from the painful truth. Brian was her only brother. She couldn't afford to lose him.

"Is it done?" Edward looked at Daisy tenderly. She didn't open her eyes until noon, which surprised him. Instead of waking her up, he went back to sleep with her. When she woke up, he asked her to release Yakira and Mary. He had a bigger surprise prepared for them.

Tell me. Why did you want me to release Yakira and Mary?" Daisy narrowed her eyes at Edward, wondering. She just wanted to teach them a lesson, but Edward's request was contrary to how he usually behaved. She didn't know why he asked her to release them.

"I'll tell you tonight. Don't you have to attend a meeting this afternoon? Let's go have lunch. But before this, I think you need a bath." Daisy's cleavage was partly visible under the blanket. Edward stared at it with a wicked grin.

"Don't look at me like that!" Daisy blushed. She pulled the blanket to cover her body and glared at Edward disapprovingly. Edward shrugged his shoulders in response.

"I can't control myself. As a regular man, how can I turn a blind eye when there's such a gorgeous woman in front of me? If I ignored you, I would appear sexually incompetent." Edward wagged his slender finger at Daisy in a flirtatious manner. With a mischievous smile on his face, he looked more enchanting.

You know what? You're a vulgar man. Get out. I'm going to take a bath." Daisy gripped the blanket to her tightly. No matter how skilled she was, she was at a disadvantage. Since she was naked on the bed, she had to protect herself.

"Why should I go out when you take a bath? Relax. I won't do anything to you. Even if you want to have sex now, I'm too tired to do that." Although Edward knew that it was not what Daisy meant, he still teased her. Her flushed face made her charming and cute.

Edward, shut up. I didn't mean that! I'm not a sex maniac!" If Daisy weren't naked, she would get up from bed and hit Edward. She didn't want to have sex. Edward was the one who always had a desire for sexual intimacy. How could he turn it around and blame it on her?

"Well, it's my fault. I'm sorry for smearing your reputation as a colonel. I'll leave now. You can do whatever you want." Edward stood up. He was very fastidious about his clothing. He went back to bed in sleepwear earlier, so he decided to get changed before he left the room. He took off his clothes and took out a suit without any wrinkles from the wardrobe in front of Daisy. It was the casual clothes that he liked to wear when he didn't go to work, because it made him look more easygoing, energetic, and friendly.

"Where are you going?" Daisy asked Edward questioningly with a frown. She tightened her grasp on the blanket. Edward was too shameless. He took off his clothes in front of her, and she was too shy to look straight at him.

"Didn't you tell me to go out? Don't you want me to leave now?" Edward looked back at Daisy as he put on his trousers, displaying his impressive abdominal muscles. Daisy didn't think that Edward would suddenly turn around. She blushed in embarrassment, making her look attractive.

"Get out. Go wherever you want. Don't show off in front of me." Daisy shot Edward a reproachful pout as she spoke angrily. Her words were contrary to her thoughts.

"Okay. I'm leaving. Don't regret it." Edward gave Daisy a sly grin. Then he swaggered away, giving her a view of his handsome back. Daisy was left alone in the room. She began to regret throwing him out.

Although Daisy knew that there was no one else in the room, she ran into the bathroom with the blanket wrapped around her. But before long, she walked out because she forgot to bring her clothes with her. She rushed to the wardrobe to see if there were any clothes suitable for her. But the closet full of men's designer clothes disappointed her. Edward had good taste. All his clothes were popular brands. Unfortunately, there were no women's clothes inside. Daisy was pleased because it meant that Edward didn't bring women here. Looking down at the blanket wrapped around her, she was at a loss with what to do.

Daisy bit her lip and finally decided to take out a shirt with a frown. She allowed herself a wry smile. Edward's shirt was long enough to be a one-piece dress for her. She had no choice but to wear it now, like the female leading role in romantic fiction. She didn't think it would ever happen to her, but now it seemed that she was wrong. The world was constantly changing, and no one could predict what was waiting for them.

In the past, Daisy lived in the army base. She didn't have a bathtub because the bathroom was too small. Moreover, because she was devoted to her work, she didn't want to waste any time in the bath. But now, she found it was pleasant to sit in the bathtub. When she submerged her sore body in the warm water, she felt completely relaxed and forgot everything in her comfort.

Daisy was an intellectual woman who was outstanding in both intelligence and appearance, but she was never arrogant about it. Instead, she kept telling herself not to be self-conceited. Nobody was perfect. Everyone had to experience a lot of things before they understood the essence of life. This was why she always improved herself to achieve what she wanted. Since she never relied on anyone, she was afraid that she would become obsessed with the feeling. Even though she enjoyed the excellent conditions that her husband provided, she felt constantly uneasy. After the bath, Daisy's skin became crimson and smooth, which gave her a delicate and glamorous look. Moreover, she looked petite in Edward's baggy shirt. She felt like she was naked, and it made her uncomfortable. She kept pulling down the shirt, but no matter how much she pulled, the shirt didn't become any longer. She was frustrated.

Edward was greeted with the amusing scene when he pushed the door open. He couldn't help but burst into laughter. He didn't expect Daisy to be so adorable. This was a rare and good chance to see the brilliant Colonel Ouyang so charming and adorable in private.

"Do you need my help?" With a gentle smile, Edward put the paper bag in his hand on the bed. Crossing his arms over his chest, he looked at Daisy with a mischievous look in his eyes. He couldn't move his gaze from Daisy's slender legs.

"No, thanks. Get some clothes for me. I can't go out like this." Daisy covered her thighs with her hands in embarrassment.

You look good. Don't worry. No one will laugh at you. Edward walked up to Daisy and gathered her into his arms. Looking at the woman in his shirt, he couldn't help but plant a kiss on her forehead. She was the first woman to wear his shirt. Her stunning look fascinated him.

Your laughing at me. Don't make fun of me. Daisy angrily pinch Edward's waist. Edward was neatly dressed. But there were no women's clothes in the wardrobe, so Daisy had to wear his shirt. She desperately wanted to wear her military uniform. But because Edward had violently torn the buttons off it last night, she couldn't wear it anymore.