

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 610 - Chapter 610: The City Was on High Alert (part two)

Chapter 610: Chapter 610: The City Was on High Alert (part two)

Daisy said with a frown. She had never shied away from her acts, be it good or bad. She wasn't afraid of admitting her mistakes. It was her nature.

"Nothing wrong? Your mistake is that you shouldn't have appeared in Ed's life with this kid. You ruined my relationship with Ed. He loved me so much until you showed up. You stole him from me! You're the other woman!" Jessica got very excited. She raised her hand and slapped Daisy. But Daisy dodged it quickly, although she was still weak.

"Jessica, are you done yet? Quit pestering. I have to go and deal with some business later. Listen up. You can't hurt them. Or I'll be very mad." Hero was now curious to know more about Edward. Why was Jessica so obsessed with him? How did he make an aloof woman like Daisy fall in love with him?

"I'm not pestering. You can't be biased in her favor. She has been bullying me all the time. She stole my boyfriend and destroyed Lin Group. Everything bad that happened to me was because of her. And now even you're choosing her over me. Is she that perfect? How come everyone is bewitched by her?" Hero's words triggered Jessica's pent-up rage. He was here to help her deal with Daisy. But he seemed to have forgotten it. Rather, he had become Daisy's ally. Jessica couldn't take such an embarrassing outcome.

"I've agreed to take her out of the city, even out of the country. What are you still angry about?" Hero wasn't a tolerant man. He had tolerated Daisy's rudeness solely because he was obsessed with her. She was an exception. Not anyone could do the same thing to him.

"I... I'm angry because you are protecting her." Jessica pursed her lips and lowered her voice. She knew well how cold-blooded her otherwise gentle-looking cousin actually was. When Edward arrived at the Tea Fragrance, he was too anxious to park his car in the parking lot. He got out of the car and walked up to Luke as quickly as he could. All this while, he had a terrified look on his face.

"Mr. Mu, I've asked around. This coffee house was open in the morning, but then suddenly it was closed. I wonder if it has anything to do with Mrs. Mu and Justin's disappearance." Luke was very worried. He would have broken into the coffee house if he were certain about its connection with Daisy and Justin's disappearance.

"Okay. Then let's wait for the police. We can't just break in. Ask the technicians of the technique department to hack into the telephone company's system to figure out all the people Daisy communicated with on the phone this morning."

Edward looked at his watch anxiously. On the face of it, he seemed a person doing everything by the book, but law and ethics actually didn't mean much to him. Daisy's call log could be accessed through the telephone company, but the process would be painfully tortuous and annoying. Hacking into its system would be much more convenient and efficient.

"Mr. Mu, why don't we go to the telephone company and ask for Daisy's call log straight away?" Luke looked at Edward in confusion. Once again, Edward chose an unusual method to solve a problem.

"Would you want to go through the complicated process of the telephone company? Do you think it will be faster than hacking into its system?" Then Edward started to dial a number on his phone. If he went to the telephone company, he would have to present a lot of ID credentials to get the call log. He preferred to settle a matter in the easiest and the fastest manner possible. Luke nodded. Edward valued efficiency. He wouldn't waste time on the lengthy procedure.

How is everything going? Are they really missing?" Kevin trotted over. He had been worried ever since Edward phoned him. He tried hard to convince himself that this was just a temporary situation, like every time she was on a mission and she would be in touch with everyone soon. But it didn't work. He left the army base early. Then he got a second call from Edward, saying Daisy's car had been found but she was nowhere to be seen. So he had come in a hurry.

"So far it looks like they have been kidnapped," Luke answered. Edward was still on the phone. At this point, the chief of Public Security Bureau, Mr. Yi arrived. Usually he didn't come to the crime scene himself. But this time, the people involved were significant and this case was sensitive for his own reputation and his career.

"Major General Gu, you are faster than me. Any new findings?" Mr. Yi asked politely. He was aware of Kevin's powerful family background.

"Not yet. Open the door. Let's go in and see if we can get any leads," Kevin said, lifting his chin.

"Okay, on it." Mr. Yi said to the policemen behind him without hesitation, "You guys, open the door. Smash it if you have to."

Yes, sir." The policemen rarely got a chance to meet a high-level official like Kevin. Seeing how much their chief respected Kevin, the policemen assumed he must be very important.

Picking a lock was easy for the police. Within several minutes, the door was open. To preserve the scene, they all went in carefully. There were traces of fights. Broken tables and chairs were lying around. Everyone was convinced that this place did have something to do with Daisy and Justin's disappearance.

Find out every little thing about this place's owner, including name, background, and social connections," Kevin quickly seized the key to the issue and said to Mr. Yi grimly. Then he called the army base to gather more man power to locate Daisy and Justin. Edward just got off the phone. He was the last to walk in the scene. At the sight of the mess inside, his face went deathly pale. He staggered in distress. His phone almost slipped from his hand.

Daisy and Justin's disappearance brought the entire city to be on high alert. Men in black, policemen, soldiers and military officers who were usually scarcely seen, were all mobilized to look for Daisy and Justin. Everyone in the city knew that something was amiss, but not many knew what was wrong.

Chapter 611: Chapter 611: Jessica Had a New Plan (part one)

"Mr. Mu, are you alright?" Luke helped Edward keep his calm. The messy cafe suggested that there was a fierce fight here. Unfortunately, they still didn't know if Daisy and Justin were fine or not. Luke could see how sad and anxious Edward was.

"I'm fine. Have you got any news? What is Paul doing?" Edward closed his eyes, trying to get rid of the darkness surrounding him. However, no matter how hard he tried, he couldn't overcome the fear gripping him.

Not yet. Paul went straight to the casino after meeting Brian last night. Maybe he is living a fond dream of getting rich overnight there." This is what all gamblers think. They are obsessed with some wild ideas that they may get rich overnight. However, they hardly realize that despite the hopes that gambling brings to them, it'll not take long for it to give them a fatal blow and make them penniless one day. In many cases, gambling is also known to bring death and destruction to people.

"What? He met Brian last night? So Brian has known the whole truth?" Edward heaved a sigh. Daisy tried hard to protect Brian by keeping the truth a secret from him. Sadly, he found it all out.

Yes. He went to the bar last night and got massively drunk. Our bodyguard had to send him back at last." The bodyguards who were sent to keep an eye on the movements of Paul told Luke about the meeting between Paul and Brian. Luke was afraid that Brian might do something extreme after knowing the truth, so he asked one of the bodyguards to follow him.

"Well done. Thanks." Brian was the only person in the Ouyang family that Daisy genuinely cared about. Edward disliked Brian. Sometimes Brian got him so annoyed that he would want to beat him to a pulp, but he never did that solely for Daisy's sake. Instead, he hoped for Brian's safety. If anything untoward happened to Brian, Daisy would be devastated. Edward could bear anything but Daisy's tears.

"Mr. Mu, I think Colonel Ouyang must have left under duress. According to all the signs of the fight here, Colonel Ouyang was definitely outnumbered. This may be one of the reasons why she could be controlled despite being so powerful. As for whether or not she was drugged, we need to do a test to find that out." With worry, Mr. Yi gave Edward the first-hand information he got in detail. Edward looked awful.

"What? Mr. Yi, you mean Daisy might be drugged? The cafe may be equipped with cameras. You have to check the cameras. Even if there are no cameras here, there must be traffic cameras on the road outside. You may be able to find out some clues from there."

Edward didn't dare to think about this matter any further. He tried hard to calm himself down. He worked out all the possibilities of finding his wife and son. Now they needed a good husband and good father who could save them from danger. They didn't want any incompetent man who would only go on blaming himself without doing anything for them.

"We have already started checking the cameras. I believe that the results will come soon. God blesses the good people. Colonel Ouyang and your son will be fine. Don't worry too much. We will try our best to bring them home at the earliest."

Unlike the family members of the other high-ranking officials and magnates who would get all hysterical when they were kidnapped or missing, Edward was rather calm and sagacious. This quite surprised Mr. Yi. Instead of yelling at him, Edward calmly gave advice to him. Edward's strong leadership enabled him to run the FX International Group perfectly.

I hope so. Sorry, I have to answer the phone." Edward wouldn't plan for the worst unless he had to. He murmured to himself, 'Daisy, Justin, wait for me. I'll try every means to save you. I promise no one can hurt you.'

Hello. It's me. Just tell me the results." It was a call from the technical department of the FX International Group. Edward was eager to know who Daisy met in this cafe. Actually, when he got to know that Yakira was released, he did have a vague answer to this question. But he didn't believe that Yakira would dare to do that.

What? Are you sure?" After hearing what the caller said, Edward knitted his brows. He had guessed it right. He continued, "Okay. Thank you."

"Mr. Mu, they have got the answer, right?" Luke learned from Edward's sulky face that the technical department must have figured out something. He began to get nervous.

"Yes. Let's go to a place." Edward then left the cafe, ignoring Kevin and the others. At the door, he saw his parents rush over.

Edward, have you found anything?" Cynthia grabbed Edward's wrist and asked in a concerned voice.

Go ask the police. I have to leave." Edward wriggled free from Cynthia's hands and rushed to his car.

"Luke, where are you going?" Cynthia was flustered as Edward and Luke were leaving so hurriedly. She turned to ask Luke who was following Edward closely, hoping that he could tell her what was happening.

"I have no idea. But mom, don't worry. I'll give you a call soon." Luke didn't know where Edward was going. He got in his car in a hurry and went ahead with Edward.

"Look! They left again!" Cynthia pouted angrily and glanced at Jonathan. Jonathan was to blame. If he had driven faster, they could have arrived before Edward and Luke left. Then Cynthia wouldn't be so worried.

Don't worry. They'll come back soon. Do you forget the last trump card we have? The Mayfly has a vast array of contacts. They'll find Daisy and Justin soon. Let's go home. We don't have to wait too long before we get the news." Jonathan wasn't worried at all, because he was quite sure that Daisy wasn't a coward.

Edward drove all the way to Leo's home. Instead of ringing the doorbell, he pounded at the door in a violent rage.

"Mr. Mu, Leo and his family are involved in this?" Luke followed Edward closely. He was suddenly enlightened after they reached the destination.

"Yes. The last call Daisy made was to Mr. Yi. But before that, Mary called her. Mary must have been behind all this."

"Mr. Mu, what brings you here?" The steward was quite surprised to see Edward standing in the doorway. He didn't know why Edward came back again. He knew there might be some trouble following soon. He wondered if Edward would stir up another trouble today. The steward regretted answering the door hurriedly without checking via the camera who was knocking. He was scared that Yakira might scold him for this. As a result, he broke out in cold sweat with fear as soon as he saw Edward.

"I want to meet Mary." Edward went straight in with a wild look. He thought there must be a hidden story behind Yakira's release.

"Yo ho! Mr. Mu, you finally are thinking about my daughter Mary? You came here for her?" Yakira came out upon hearing the noise and taunted Edward at the sight of him.

"Tell me. Where is Mary?" With a malicious look, Edward went straight up to Yakira and grabbed her by the neck. Yakira didn't expect that. The arrogant look on her face vanished and she instantly turned pale.

"I... I... I have no idea." Yakira looked at the angry man in front of her with eyes wide open.

You have no idea why you were released so quickly? Edward further tightened his grasp on her neck. He was so furious that he might just wring her neck the next minute.

Chapter 612: Chapter 612: Jessica Had a New Plan (part two)

"Mr. Mu, let her go! She can't answer you like this." Luke rescued Yakira from Edward's grip. Edward was boiling with rage. He wouldn't mind killing this woman right now.

Cough... Cough..." Yakira stepped back with fear. What lousy luck! Everybody was seizing her by the neck to kill her these days, she wondered.

"What happened? Have you found Daisy? What are you doing here?" Brian rushed down from his room. He wanted to go out, but his mother instructed him to stay at home so he was still here all this while.

"Brian, drive them out! Their fierce looks scare me." Brian's appearance made Yakira feel protected. She walked up to him hurriedly.

Your timing is just right. Where is Mary?" Edward spluttered. He kept calling Mary while he was on his way to Yakira's home, but the automated voice on her phone told him that her phone was switched off.

She was smart. In order to prevent the signal from being tracked, she turned off her phone.

"I don't know. I haven't seen her since morning. Did she do anything unforgivable again?" Brian frowned. Something serious must have happened, or Edward wouldn't be so angry.

"She called Daisy before Daisy went missing. Do you know why she called her up?" Edward looked at Yakira with a scowl. In his opinion, all of this was done to get Yakira out and take revenge from Daisy.

"What? Daisy is missing?" Brian originally thought that Daisy left home as she was mad at Edward, but now it sounded completely different. He turned to ask Yakira, "Mom, what the hell is going on? What do you know?"

"I know nothing. I just came back from the jail about an hour ago. How can I know what happened while I wasn't here? Don't point the finger at me. I know nothing. There are dozens of people who hate Daisy. Maybe one of her enemies have kidnapped her to take revenge. My daughter is innocent!"

Yakira gloated over Daisy's disappearance. She didn't care why she was missing or where she was. Anyway, it was a good thing for her.

Are you sure of that? Yakira, if I find out that Mary is behind all this, I swear I'll kill her!" Edward was disappointed. Mary wasn't at home, and Yakira seemed to know nothing. As she said, she was just released from the police station. Edward believed that she really didn't know the ins and outs of the entire matter. However, Mary's call did arouse his suspicion.

As Edward thought, Mary was afraid that her phone signal might be tracked, so she turned off her phone. But, why was she stupid enough to call Daisy from her own phone then? She was now on the top of the crime list.

Mary felt that she fell into the trap that was set up by someone else. She underestimated Jessica. She mistakenly thought Jessica was meek, but she turned out to be vicious.

"Mary, don't you want to take revenge? Why are you silent now?" Jessica tossed back her wavy hair and looked at Mary coldly.

"I'm a mere appendage to you. Jessica, I didn't expect you to be so vicious." Mary sneered at Jessica. She did hate Daisy to the core, but she only wanted someone to teach her a lesson. She never wanted Daisy's death. That was not her plan.

"Mary, it was your idea, and you asked her out. Don't pretend to be nice now." Jessica uttered a snorting laugh. She had nursed the thoughts of revenge for long. Even if Mary didn't come up with that proposal, she would have looked for another opportunity to retaliate against Daisy and take her revenge.

"You were only using me from the very beginning! Jessica, you must be happy with yourself now." It was not too late for Mary to realize that she was being used all this while. "Ha-ha! You're not stupid. In the beginning, I was really pleased as everything was going according to my plan. However, I did get a little impatient and that was when things went out of control. Now, I've also fallen into someone else's trap."

Jessica gritted her teeth. She felt sick in her stomach when she thought about it. She could have chosen to sit idle and enjoy the fruits of others' labor. However, now she was put in a tight spot. She let out an exasperated sigh.

"Ha-ha! Jessica, are you willing to give it up? As far as I know, you never give up so easily." Surely Jessica refused to give up. She would never agree if Hero took Daisy away without making her suffer.

"You know me well. Since my cousin isn't willing to do anything to that woman, why not get Wolf to * her? If that happens, we can make her slutty look public. Then everyone will be able to see through her real face." Jessica displayed a sinister smile. Since Wolf always wanted to have sex with Daisy, he would never say no to this plan. However, before that happened, she had to teach Daisy a lesson, lest Daisy might think that she couldn't do anything to her on her own.

Aren't you afraid that your cousin might kill you once he comes back? He asked us to stay away from Daisy before he left." Mary wanted to teach Daisy a lesson personally, but she was afraid of Hero.

"Are you afraid? What is done is done. He cannot undo things after he comes back. Do you think he will ignore the kinship between me and him just for the sake of this woman?" Jessica raised her eyebrows proudly. She didn't think Hero would punish her. Daisy was just an ordinary woman. If Hero really wanted a woman, he could choose from a sea of women who were much better than Daisy in every respect.

"So you have made a new plan already." Mary was interested in Jessica's new plan. The two began to discuss the details of the plan in a low voice.

Justin had been looking for an opportunity to call for help. Unfortunately, after Hero left, he and his mother were tied up again. What was worse, there were two men watching over them now. So, it was almost impossible for him to do anything. He couldn't turn on his phone or even reach out for his backpack.

Edward and Justin were very alike in character. Justin didn't resign himself to death. He took out the blade hidden in his watch and tried to cut off the rope around his hands quietly. Soon he cut off the rope, but his hands also got hurt in this. To avoid catching the attention of the two men watching over him, he still hide his hands behind his back. He couldn't act rashly till he had total confidence of success.

What Justin doing made Daisy's heart ache. She knew that this little boy liked playing with some gadgets, but she didn't expect that he would hide such a sharp weapon in his watch. His watch must be unique or how else could he hide a blade in it without hurting his hand?

Daisy tried to gather her strength, and she was surprised to find that she had regained most of it by now. It seemed that the effects of the drug were now beginning to wear off.

She was overjoyed in her heart, but she still remain cold. They were still in danger, so she couldn't get excited unless they were both safe.

Chapter 613: Chapter 613: The Cellphone (part one)

In all fancy love novels, the macho hero would eventually come to save the love of his life but Daisy didn't count on Edward to appear out of the blue and rescue her from here. She was a smart and realistic woman. She didn't believe in such coincidences. Daisy knew that she was her biggest savior every time she was in danger. But, today she didn't feel the danger approaching her yet.

"Daisy, don't you feel good being tied up like this?" Immediately, she saw some people walk in the room, followed by Jessica.

"You can have a try if you want to know how I feel. Be my guest, don't be shy." Daisy sighed secretly. She had no idea what was on Jessica's mind.

"No, I'm not interested in being stupid. I don't wish to dig my own grave. Now, I need something more exciting." Jessica reached out her hand, shaking her finger at Daisy and sneering.

"Sorry. I'm not a fan of your insane tricks. You may have to find another person to play with instead." The prospect sent a chill down Daisy's heart. She was a bit scared now.

"No, you're wrong. You can be a good player in my games. You have a pretty face. It would be a shame if we didn't do anything to it." Jessica rubbed Daisy's cheeks with her long fingernails.

"Bitch, don't touch my mom." Justin looked at Jessica, frightened. He was scared that this crazy bitch might hurt his mom by accident or on purpose. Although he knew Edward would still love his mom no matter how she looked like but he still was worried for Daisy.

"Bastard, shut up, or I'll cut your tongue off." Unexpectedly, Jessica turned around and slapped Justin on the face. Her act numbed his face. He was shocked at Jessica's retortion. Justin now became extremely angry. He knew he would strike back at the first opportunity he got.

"Jessica, shame on you. How could you hurt a kid? Are you out of your mind already?" Daisy's heart was aching for her son. She wouldn't have been so hurt if Jessica slapped her instead.

"Take it easy. I won't forget to teach you a lesson." Jessica smiled wryly, and swung her arms to relax her muscles. She didn't realize how cruel it was to hurt a kid. It seemed that she was cold and stone-hearted. How could she even qualify as a good mother, if she went on hurting kids like that?

I warn you again, don't you dare to hurt my mom, or I'll kill you, bitch," shouted Justin angrily. He refrained from sobbing and getting weak. He stared back at Jessica. He very well knew how important beauty was for every woman. He didn't want Jessica to do anything to his mom. All this noise and mess gave him an opportunity to pull his bag closer to himself. While he was staring at Jessica, he simultaneously fumbled around in his bag and looked for the mobile phone.

"Haha! Are you threatening me? Don't be so naive. I will hurt your mom so bad that she would beg me to show some mercy. Furthermore, I will force her to sleep with many men. As for you, somebody will deal with you. I don't want to waste my time on you." At this moment, Jessica thought of herself as the queen of the universe. She believed she was in charge of controlling the lives of other people.

"Jessica, have you ever considered the possible consequences of what you are doing right now?" Daisy secretly rubbed the rope around her wrists, trying to break the rope to free herself. This was the tactic she learnt from her army training. Suddenly, Jessica took out a sharp knife, wielding it dangerously in front of Daisy's face. Now, Daisy had a clue of what this crazy bitch might do next.

Consequences? To be honest, right now I'm only curious about why Edward likes you so much? Is it because of your pretty face? or your sexy body? How can I get my answer? Tell me or should I go ahead and find it out myself?"

Jessica smiled as charmingly as a whore. Her potential success of getting rid of Daisy and her son made her feel highly elated. Now, she was more adept at wielding the knife.

"What do you want?" Getting a cut wouldn't frighten Daisy. She was more afraid of other horrible and unacceptable actions of this insane woman.

"Don't worry. I am soon going to find out what's hidden inside your beautiful body." With these words, Jessica wielded her knife and scratched hard on Daisy's cheek. Blood dripped down her face. The sight of blood made Jessica laugh more wildly and loudly.

"Bitch, you'll pay the prices for your actions. You're doomed." Justin shouted desperately, while he took this chance and pressed a button on his mobile phone. Then, without looking at the phone, he turned the volume down to the minimum. After that, he couldn't help but stand up. He then, immediately rushed to Jessica and knocked her down with his body.

"Ouch! Go catch this bastard. Why hasn't he been tied already? How could he free himself and assault me like that?" Jessica stepped back. She was supported by somebody standing right behind her. Then, she regained her balance. Looking at Justin, she got so angry that she wanted to kill Justin without hesitation. She had no mercy left for this kid.

Jessica, don't you dare hurt my boy. If you do that, I promise I will hunt you down. You know the consequences. I'm not joking." Daisy had no time to feel sad for her facial wound or the blood dripping down her cheek. Justin's safety was her only priority right now. She looked at Jessica in the eye, thinking that she had to act before it was too late.

Leave this little man to me. I'll make him accountable for all the damages he has done to me. Mary's hatred for Justin was only adding up bit by bit. From the day she joined in FX International Group, Justin had been challenging her. He always cracked a joke on her. She was forced to swallow her anger and hatred for Justin all the time. Now, it was time to seek revenge, punish him and make him suffer for his deeds.

Chapter 614: Chapter 614: The Cellphone (part two)

"Mary, you can't do that. You can take revenge on me. But please do think about Brian once? He will be really disappointed." Daisy tried to invoke some goodness in Mary by persuading her to do something good for the sake of Brian, after all she was his sister. She hoped that by doing this, Mary might find a twinge of conscience and correct her wrongdoings before it was too late for her.

"Brian? Haha He has never treated me as his sister. All he cares about is you. Why would I even care about how he feels? Daisy, you're so naive. Are you scared already? Why didn't you see it coming when you argued with me?" Her face was distorted hideously with anger and jealousy when Daisy mentioned Brian.

"If you want to punish me or kill me, I won't fight back. But if you plan on hurting my son, I beg you not to do that. Isn't this what you want all this while? Me begging you like this?" Daisy closed her eyes. She could smell the blood on her face. She had no time to think of the blood or her facial wound at the moment. She was rather focused on finding a way to get Justin out of here unhurt. She knew that if anything happened to Justin today, she would never be able to forgive herself for putting her son in such extreme danger.

"Daisy? Are you begging me now? Should I give you a chance to be good and make me feel satisfied?" Mary giggled. She had known it her whole life that no matter how hard Daisy had tried and irrespective of all that she had accomplished, a housemaid would never be able to outdo her master,. When it came to the very end, the housemaid had to lower her head and beg for mercy from her master.

"Mom, don't beg. If we're to die today, we'll die together and bravely. Death won't frighten me. Believe me, those bitches will have worse endings than us, because Dad surely will take revenge on them," said Justin bravely. His childish voice sounded so innocent and sincere. As far as he was concerned, his Mom was a colonel with pride and credibility. He would never let her compromise on that, even for his safety. Although Daisy was ready to make sacrifices for her son, he would never allow her to beg for his sake. He had to protect her safety and honor at all cost.

Well done. You're such a badass. Hasn't your slut Mom taught you how to beg? We're about to find out whether you're as brave and courageous as you sound or not." Mary pinched his pink and soft cheeks. The pain he was experiencing was further aggravated since he was slapped by Jessica minutes back. However, he clenched his teeth, and refrained himself from making a sound. He stared at Mary, frowning and challenging her. At that moment, he looked exactly like a younger version of Edward.

"Well, do it quickly. There'll be trouble if my cousin comes back." Jessica frowned. That ferocious Hero always frightened her to death. However, she was determined to make Daisy suffer.

Edward called Daisy incessantly, but she never answered. He thought for a few moments and decided to call Justin. Unexpectedly, Justin's phone had been turned on. He was elated. However, his elation disappeared when Justin didn't answer the phone. He was getting more worried now.

He knew he had to do something. He used his head to think harder. Then, he got on his car quickly, started the engine and pulled away. He rushed back home. On the other hand, Luke looked confused and intrigued. He followed Edward's car as quickly as he could. On the way back home, Edward kept calling Daisy and Justin. But neither of them answered. He couldn't understand what was wrong, He wanted to reach them and find out what was happening. But he was also afraid that if he repeatedly called Justin, the battery in his phone might be exhausted and his phone might be powered off. Moreover, his repeated calling might also put him in danger, if they were kidnapped. More importantly, he was certain that Justin wanted to send him signals but it might be too dangerous for him to expose himself and answer the phone. So, for the sake of their safety, Edward had to find another way to reach them.

When he got home, he found a lot of people waiting for him, even those who weren't supposed to be seen at his house.

"What's up?" asked Edward casually and absent-mindedly, as he rushed to Justin's bedroom. He knew Justin was really good at computer, and he might have connected his mobile phone to some of the applications on his computer. This was his only way to find out more about his wife and son's whereabouts.

Edward, have you got any news about Daisy and Justin?"

Duke had been more and more worried since he received a strange phone call from Edward. He thought that instead of letting his imagination run wild, he would rather come here and find out what had happened.

"No, I haven't," answered Edward. Edward found Justin's laptop. He turned it on immediately. It was getting hard for Edward to control his anxiety. He was continually praying for his wife and son's safety. Meanwhile, he was wondering what he could do, if the laptop too didn't lead him to anything concrete.

Edward, you left the office in a hurry this morning to find your wife and son? Why didn't you tell me about it?" Rain complained. He hadn't been told about Daisy's disappearance until Duke called and explained to him briefly.

Even if I did tell you, could you be of any help to me? You're not a policeman nor Sherlock, answered Edward nonchalantly. When Edward required to enter the password before he could review Justin's laptop, his mouth twitched slightly and he smiled wryly. He knew Daisy did this. It seemed that she wasn't just doing small talk with Justin.