

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 650 - Chapter 650: Mary is In Danger (part two)

Chapter 650: Chapter 650: Mary is In Danger (part two)

"Never mind. It was common gossip that he once dated countless women. I knew this before too." Daisy stated indifferently as she looked up at the neon lights, staring blankly at the sky.

"Daisy, that's not true. You must have read them in papers, but Edward really was not a playboy. These were all false accusations. Please don't be mad at him, otherwise, he would blame me for it." Leena immediately explained, but Daisy didn't take it seriously. She bit her lower lip, falling into a depression.

"I'm not mad at him. Let bygones be bygones. I won't bother him with that." Daisy patted her shoulder to comfort her and gave her a friendly, reassuring smile.

"Great! If you get mad at Edward because of me, he will absolutely kill me!" Leena made a face and stuck out her tongue at Daisy.

"Rest assured. Edward dotes on you. He will never ever blame you for anything." Daisy pulled Leena back to avoid a speeding car.

"Well, he used to dote on me. But now, you are the person he loves the most. He has never cared about some woman like that, you are the first one." They chatted while wandering on the streets. Their pretty faces and Daisy's military uniform did attract a lot of attention.

"Leena, no matter how much he loves me now, you will always be his beloved sister. There is no two ways about it. So, please don't be sad."

The first time Daisy saw Leena, she could see how much Edward cared about her. She remembered that she got jealous of Leena too at that time. But now she knew that Edward treated Leena as his own sister.

"Come on, Daisy. I just want you to dote on me." Leena swung Daisy's arm and acted like a spoilt child, looking rather adorable.

"If I didn't dote on you, I wouldn't have found the time to have dinner with you. Come on! Be contented!" Daisy rubbed Leena's nose, feigning anger. But the affection in her eyes revealed her true feelings for Leena. In her eyes, Leena was a loving sister. She was also her best friend now. Every time she saw Leena's sweet smile, her heart softened and she couldn't help but let out a sincere smile.

"Ouch! That hurts, Daisy. I'm sure you don't love me! My heart just broke." Leena pursed her lips grumbling. She knew Daisy liked her childish behavior, and she didn't mind acting like a child to amuse Daisy.

"You are so delicate. If you were my soldier, I would train you hard!" Daisy made a joke. Leena had a good laugh. Whenever she hung out with Leena, she always felt joyful.

"Daisy, look! Isn't she the woman we saw at the restaurant just now?" The uproar happening at a distance attracted Leena's attention. She ignored Daisy's teasing and immediately stared at the woman.

"Which woman..." Before Daisy could finish her sentence, she saw several men dragging Mary towards a club. This was when she realized that she and Leena had left the downtown and reached some remote place. This place also belonged to the commercial area, but it looked much more desolate than those busy streets.

"Daisy, shall we go there and help her?" Leena asked with a worried look as Daisy's face soured at the scene.

"No! You leave now, and I'm going there alone." Daisy bit her lower lip and wondered, 'What is wrong with Mary? She was with them at the Westin Western Restaurant. How did she come here so soon? And who are those men?' They all looked weird to Daisy. Obviously, they were not some ordinary men.

"I can't leave all by myself. There are so many bad guys here. Let's call the police." Leena grabbed Daisy's arm, in an attempt to pull her back. If Daisy got hurt, Edward would blame her for not stopping Daisy from putting herself in danger. It was she who invited Daisy for dinner, so she must ensure that Daisy reached back home safe.

Relax! I'm a soldier. It's a piece of cake for me to knock down those thugs. Just listen to me and go back home. Otherwise, I would be distracted." Daisy patted Leena's shoulder and instructed her to be careful. Then she trotted towards them.

Let go of me! I'm not... going with you... I won't have sex with you... I beg you, please let me go!" Daisy could hear Mary's imploring all the way. Mary struggled hard trying to get away from them. Her face was flushed and her hair seemed disordered. She was not that arrogant woman from the restaurant anymore. She looked anxious and scared.

"Hah! It's not up to you! Bitch! You'd better come with us. Otherwise, you'll be sorry." A man pulled Mary back heavily. She staggered and hit a car, wincing in pain.

"NO! We had a deal and I only have to be your drinking partner. I'm not a hooker!" The idea that she might be raped by these men scared her. She immediately recalled the scene of being raped by Hero's followers. She knew she wouldn't be able to handle that disgust all over again.

"Don't be so naive! Men come here only for fun. Have you ever seen a man who doesn't want to have sex?" Hearing Mary's words, the men laughed out loud as if she told them some funny joke.

"I beg you please. I am on my period. I'll find you some girls, okay?" Mary regretted deeply. If she knew what would happen, she would not have accepted their invitation to have a drink with them.

"We don't want other girls. We just want you. So stop throwing a tantrum and come with us. Otherwise, I will show no mercy." A man bent over, looked down at her and rubbed her big boobs with his large hand. Then he raised her chin and looked at her in the eye, trying to kiss her lips.

"HELP! Daisy, help me..." At this moment, Mary saw Daisy running towards her. She immediately cried out loud for help, overlooking how rude she had been to her in the restaurant.

"Wow! A female soldier! Are you feeling alone in the military camp? Are you out for some fun too? Let us satisfy you, huh?" A man whistled when he looked at Daisy from top to bottom with his dirty eyes.

"You will never be able to satisfy me. So, you'd better let her go. Otherwise, you'll end up in the hospital." Daisy narrowed her eyes, staring coldly at the men around her. She didn't take them seriously as she believed she could knock them out easily.

Hah! Bros, listen to her, she said we will not be able to satisfy her. It must be exciting to play with a soldier. I now have an itch to have a wild sex with her right away. A man reach out his hand towards Daisy's pink cheek. She dodge and grabbed his hand, breaking off his wrist. Ouch! The man couldn't help but howlas he experienced sharp pain in his wrist. All of this happened in a fraction of few seconds. Daisy stood still and seemed relaxed. In her eyes, these people meant nothing to her. After all, she was a tough woman, who had trained in martial arts.

Chapter 651: Chapter 651: The Fight (part one)

"Watch your mouth if you don't wish to end up like him." After Daisy finished her sentence, she threw the handsy man on the ground with a flick of her wrist. She raised her eyebrows and began to laugh at the others. She had thought that they could actually be a threat. But it turned out that she had been wrong.

"Hey! I don't believe that you guys here can't handle a little girl like her. Go inside and get more guys. Let's see how proud she can be." The men never wanted to lose to a woman. If they did, they would lose all the credibility on the street. So within a couple of minutes, they grew even bolder since they were on their own turf.

"What? Are you all piling on me?" Daisy smirked. As long as her opponents were just regular street thugs, she knew she could handle them irrespective of their number. It would only take a bit more time and strength, but the outcome would stay the same.

"Huh! Afraid now? You can still do as told." The cocky leader shook his body. He provocatively looked at Daisy as if he owned the world. The look in his eyes made it clear that he was definitely lusting for Daisy and wanted her right away.

Afraid? It's not even a word in my dictionary. I'm just going to say it one more time: let her go." Daisy's pretty eyes gave out an intense stare. She darkly chuckled like a claimer of souls from the underworld. The way she looked could make people shiver uncontrollably. The atmosphere around immediately turned unsettling.

"All right. Let's see who's going to come out on top. I don't think a woman like you can win us men. Guys, listen up. If you take her, then tonight's going to be a happy night for you all." The man was giving orders left and right. He was perhaps the local leader here. Otherwise the other guys wouldn't be taking his orders.

"Sen, we'll hold you to it. Haha! We've had all types of girls in the past, but we have never had the chance to play with a girl in uniform. Looks like tonight is going to be a great treat." When the group heard that they could take Daisy back as a winning prize, everyone cheered. People were whistling one after another, totally disregarding the fact that she was a soldier. It was obvious that they were all out of control.

"Watch what you're saying. Or do you want me to help you clean your mouths?" Daisy frowned a little. She was somewhat excited as she hadn't been involved in a fight for quite some time now. She thought this one would be her exercise after dinner. Since a bunch of guys were throwing themselves at her, why would she deny them?

"Okay! Girlie, we don't mind you cleaning us at all! Haha! Just thinking about it is making me swoon." Now her ears were assaulted by nasty laughter and flirtatious words. Those men's wild behavior made Daisy stride forward without even thinking about it. With one quick swerve of her fist, she hit the leader on the nose, taking him by surprise. And then with a smart spin, she already stepped on top of the man with her heel.

"If you want to end up like him, come and try me." Daisy scanned the whole scene without even changing her countenance. Though her eyes rested for a moment on the thugs that came out of the bar, she was not afraid at all. Instead, a cold, scornful smile rose from the corners of her mouth. She looked like a ruler who had the world in her hands.

"Damn, what are you all waiting for?! All of you, just get her and teach her to watch her mouth! Oh, how I'd love to see her begging for mercy in bed." The man called Sen spat coarsely. Out of complete embarrassment and anger, he growled at his men who were standing there still. They were all deterred by Daisy's agility and strength. So, naturally, they couldn't react quickly or fight her back. On hearing Sen's angry roar, they were all back to their senses. They were now ready to fight Daisy. They left Mary alone and shifted all their focus on Daisy.

"Daisy, let me give you a hand." While Daisy was thinking about how to finish the fight as soon as possible, Leena approached her all of a sudden and offered to help.

Aha! Seems like luck's on our side tonight. One pretty girl followed by another. Hey girl, have your parents ever told you how attractive you are?" The sudden appearance of Leena stirred up the scene again. Now, the eyes of all the hooligans' fell on Leena's beautiful body.

"Leena, didn't I tell you to stay put? Why don't you just listen to me?" Daisy couldn't help but rub her forehead. She was now feeling a little distressed. A moment ago she thought that she had the game in her hand, but now this girl came along and the situation slipped from her hands. Now Daisy didn't just have to fight these thugs but also have to ensure that Leena didn't get hurt by them. Since now her energy and time would be divided, her efficiency and chances of winning came down.

"Sis, I just called the police and I believe they're going to be here very soon. So don't worry about me." Leena whispered in Daisy's ear, and she looked around sharply. Although she was quite certain about herself, it was the first time that she faced such a horrible scene. She could not help but tremble a little bit.

"Leena, if you already called the police, you should just stay there and wait for them to come. Now you're here to 'help' me, what will I do if you get hurt? How will I explain the situation to Major General Gu and your brothers?" In Daisy's eyes, Leena was like a little princess who had always been protected and showered with love. If Leena got hurt today in Daisy's presence, she really didn't know how she'd face those men who loved their sister too much.

"Daisy, I saw that they outnumbered you. I thought you might get hurt, so I came to help you without even thinking about the consequences. But don't worry, I won't stand in your way." Leena pouted. She understood that Daisy only wanted to protect her, but she still felt upset after being reproved.

"Hey girl, your skin looks so delicate. Why don't you just come to me? Don't be afraid, I'll take very good care of you." The sight of a beautiful girl like Leena tickled the senses of these vulgar hooligans, and they were all staring at her fair skin exposed in an obscene manner.

"You? You are unworthy even to tie my shoestrings." Leena was one mischievous girl and she wouldn't let anyone take advantage of her, not even with words. She lifted her pointed chin, and depicted her most arrogant posture.

"Stupid chick. Don't you dare to infuriate me. I see that you're still a young pullet and I'd be more than happy to do you a favor and take away your virginity. I don't usually waste my time taming inexperienced girls like you." Being ridiculed by Leena in front of his gang, Sen couldn't take it any longer. While he was still speaking, he attacked Leena all of a sudden. But Daisy immediately came to her rescue and stopped him.

"Do me a favor, huh? You call that a favor? I've never seen anyone as shameless and brazen as you." Leena was glib. Nobody could defeat her in an argument. Moreover, she was really clever. She was doing all this on purpose. She wanted to talk as much as possible so she could stall the situation till the police arrived. However, attacking people with words couldn't really be considered as a wise way to fool men like them. One would only be more infuriated by her biting comments. Just then, the men who were resting, got instructions from Sen again. They were all ready for a fight one more time.

Foolish girl, you asked for it. Let's see how you'll fool around with me later. No man could allow a girl to trample on his pride. So before his gang could take any action, Sen came after Leena. He failed to understand how somebody like Leena who look so delicate and sweet could be so sharp-tongued and exasperating.

Leena didn't expect these people to suddenly turn hostile and became so scary. She was stunned by their actions. She only recovered from the shock after she was pulled back by Daisy. There was no time for her to think anything through. She instantly raised her fist to knock down a man who tried to touch her. Leena wasted no time and kicked the man with her long legs and trampled on him with her high heels. She no longer looked like a sweet fragile girl. Now, she was the evil mistress who could take anyone down.

You know how to fight? The kicked man was distracted by the skirt when she raised her leg. He asked in a dumb tone.

Chapter 652: Chapter 652:The Fight (part two)

"5th dan judo and 6th dan taekwondo. What do you think?" Leena proudly laughed. Being a daughter from a wealthy family, she had to be prepared for all kinds of emergencies. Duke was not the kind of person to be persuaded by her begging and pleading. He sent her to tough training sessions when she was little. There was no getting away for her.

"What, you have learned those?" When Daisy heard Leena, she was actually a little surprised. She got so distracted that she was almost hit by a guy with a wooden club. No wonder the girl did come around without fear. It turned out that she could handle herself pretty well. She was trained young, so she could reach such high dan ranks! Daisy thought that Leena was just a princess spoiled by everyone, but she didn't expect her to have secrets like these. This made Daisy look at Leena in a completely different way.

"Daisy, be careful. I'll explain later." Leena was scared for a moment when she saw Daisy almost being hit by a wooden club. She couldn't afford to be careless. Though, she could fight, she had very little combat experience. Besides, she was wearing a skirt, so she was much more restrained compared to the flexible Daisy.

Originally, the hooligans thought that their number could be an advantage. But they didn't think these two women would be so good at fighting, especially the one in military uniform. Not only did she know all the moves, she also had the efficiency to overpower her opponents. So within just a few minutes, half of the attackers were put down to the ground. They were so badly bruised that they couldn't stand up or fight back. Daisy was a truly decisive and resolute woman.

Mary watched when the fight was on. She was shocked to see them fighting like that. In this moment, she felt a slight change of emotions in her heart. Given the damage she brought in Daisy's life, Daisy could have completely left Mary alone in a situation like this. But Mary was surprised that Daisy came forward without thinking twice. Did she help her because she was a military officer? Or did she step forward because of Brian? Or was she just a very good human being? This was a question that Mary needed to figure out at this moment. But no matter why Daisy helped her, Mary was indeed thankful to her for her rescue.

"Damn, you bitch. Are you all dead? You couldn't even handle two women." Looking at the downed lackeys all around him, Sen was furious. It made sense that they couldn't overpower the soldier, but how come his guys couldn't even take care of the frail-looking girl. If this defeat went out, they would no longer be able to stay on the street with any dignity.

However, what Sen didn't know was that whenever Leena was in any danger, Daisy would swiftly and easily help her out. In the very moment, a maniacal thug came swinging his knife around to stab Leena. Daisy, with no regard of her own safety, swept her long leg under the guy while dodging another assailant who was trying to exploit her. She then took a super quick swing and prevented Leena from being hurt.

As a soldier, Daisy knew clearly that she should not hesitate when fighting with the enemy. Moreover, she shouldn't underestimate her opponents either. Since she was exerting herself with every move, she planned her moves efficiently. If she could knock someone out with one punch, she wouldn't waste another kick on the same person.

Her agility could be seen by the hooligans. Whether it was with a duck or with a jump, she was closely evading all possibly fatal strikes. Although it was already late autumn, she was sweating all over. Daisy couldn't afford to take care of her bruised shoulder. She dragged a guy to her side and used him to deflect another person's knife attack. Her once bright eyes were now red.

Leena, I'll cover you. Grab the first opportunity and get out from here. Do you hear me?" Daisy frowned a bit. Even though Leena knew the moves, she lacked actual fighting experience. So she might unknowingly put herself in a dangerous situation. Daisy had to protect Leena from those situations, as they were affecting her own performance. Things got worse when the attackers began taking out weapons one after another. The girls could easily get hurt. So Daisy had to make sure that Leena was safe before she could let loose.

"Okay, Daisy. You be careful." Leena was not brainless. She quickly realized that her presence was constricting Daisy, so she voiced no protest on Daisy's request.

"Good!" Daisy puckered her lips. She was wondering why the police hadn't come yet. Why had taken them so long? It seemed that she ought to talk to Mr. Yi. With such terrible efficiency, any other person must have been dead by now. Leena found an opening and quickly ran away. A few hooligans saw her and tried to catch up, but Daisy stood in their way. Now with Leena away from the scene, Daisy could be quicker with her moves and more violent in her actions. Every strike from her was however only enough to knock people down and not actually kill them.

"Do you want to keep going?" Daisy panted, standing on top of the thugs she just dropped on the ground. She coldly glanced at the man they called Sen. Beads of sweat slowly fell from her forehead.

"Screw you! Damn bitch, you sure know how to fight. But if you want to get away from here, let me tell you, not a chance. My men haven't had a chance to taste you yet!" Sen spat on the ground, glaring at Daisy with his raging eyes.

"Stubborn as a mule. If that's what you want, then I'll have you taste jail in just a minute! I guess prison sounds really good to you." Daisy hated the most when others threw out obscenities. So she no longer wished to talk to Sen and went straight after him. Wasn't there a saying "cut off the head and the body would die"? If that was the case, she would have to subdue this unruly bastard first. But right before she could get to him, the man caught hold of Mary from the side and used her as a shield in front of him. Daisy almost couldn't hold herself back and hit Mary instead.

"Ah! Daisy, help." Mary didn't expect to become the hooligans' target once again, so she immediately screamed out. She was also pleadingly staring at Daisy.

"What do you say? Are you ready to submit, or should I kill this woman? Make a choice." Sen said creepily, putting a knife against Mary's neck.

"What if I choose neither?" Daisy closed her eyes, angry. She wondered if Mary was stupid. The girl had a good chance to escape earlier, but she had to stay here and become a helpless hostage. Daisy had no idea how Mary came up with all those conspiracies against her in the past.

"No, you will have to choose one. Don't forget that you are wearing a military uniform. I don't have to remind you about upholding the honor of the military and loving the people, right?" Sen didn't expect Daisy to be so good at hand-to-hand combat. Without any knowledge of ranks, he had no idea who she really was and treated her like a regular soldier. Perhaps, this was the reason why he treated her so lightly.

"You don't have to remind me. All I know is that the police will be here in any second. And then, none of you will be able to get away from here. This is not an empty threat." If it were not for Brian's sake, Daisy would have just turned around and left. But just like Sen said, she hadn't forgotten what she was wearing, so even if someone other than Mary was captured here, she was obligated to step forth as a soldier defending her country.

Shit, you guys called the cops." As Sen complained, he pressed his knife harder onto Mary's neck. Mary was so scared that she didn't dare to breathe, in fear that her delicate neck would be cut open by the knife. Just then, the police siren could be heard from a distance. Daisy was certain that the police was heading closer to the location.

Chapter 653: Chapter 653: Daisy Got Hurt (part one)

"You should have expected that from the beginning," Daisy sneered. The police didn't arrive until half an hour later. It seemed that a tea with the chief of Public Security Bureau was inevitable.

"Bitch, you wait. I won't let you off." Sen was on the verge of losing control of his emotions. The dagger pointed at Mary's neck dug deep into her skin. She was bleeding.

Hearing the word bitch, Daisy squinted her eyes grimly at Sen.

Please don't. Don't kill me!" Mary begged, trembling. Feeling the pain in her neck, she feared that Sen would slit her throat the next second.

Be quiet! Or I'll kill you!" The police were getting closer. Sen kept a close watch on them and was on the alert against Daisy's ambush at the same time. Mary's pleading disturbed him a bit. Daisy took the opportunity and approached him swiftly. She grabbed the blade and got Mary out of his embrace. She kicked Sen hard in the balls and struck him with her elbow. Sen was caught, yet Daisy was cut by the blade and her hand was bleeding profusely.

Sis Daisy, are you all right?" Leena came back with the police. She had intended to call the police again, but then she ran into them before she could run far away from here.

"It doesn't matter. It is just a scrape." Daisy indifferently looked at Mary, who was sitting on the ground. The pain in her palm made her frown.

Ah! Sis, you are bleeding. Hurry. Let's go find Tom." Leena screamed at Daisy's bleeding hand.

Excuse me. Are you Colonel Ouyang?" A policeman asked, head tilted. He felt that he had seen this female military officer before. She looked like the colonel who had been to their bureau several times to see their chief.

"Yes, I am. The police should arrive at the crime scene within five minutes. Why did it take you half an hour to get here?" Daisy peered at the man with a calm face. Yet the calm was just a prelude to a burst of rage.

"Sorry. We didn't know it was you who called the police. And there was an accident on our way here, so..." Once the policeman confirmed Daisy's identity, he kept his head down and didn't dare to look at Daisy in the eye.

"Do you mean you would have come here earlier if you had known it was me? I see. Take them to the police station and interrogate them. And tell Mr. Yi that I'd like to have a tea with him someday," Daisy said grimly. It was time she helped the police establish some discipline in their work.

No, Colonel Ouyang. That's not what I meant." The policeman rubbed his head nervously. He felt Daisy had misunderstood him but he couldn't clear the misunderstanding and had made it worse.

"It's no use explaining. What's done is done. I'll leave everything here in your charge. I have something else to do. I won't go to the police station to do the statement." Daisy didn't like to use her power, but she hated the police's sloppy attitude. To her, they were just making excuses.

"Yes, Colonel Ouyang." The policeman let out a long exhalation. He wished he weren't the one on duty tonight. It had been an eventful evening. They had left the station the second they got the call. However, at an intersection two cars crashed terribly, they had to stop to save people, so they came late. As a result, they got late in reaching the crime scene. Unfortunately, the caller was the well-known Devil Trainer Colonel Ouyang. Since Daisy refused to hear him out and told him she would drink tea with the chief, the policeman sensed trouble was around the corner.

Daisy squeezed her fist. Seeing blood, she knew that she had to go to the hospital and get the cut bandaged. She was certain that if Edward found out about her new injury, he would get really angry.

"Sis Daisy, let's go. I called Tom. He's on his way." Leena's eyes were wet. She was worried and frightened.

What? You called Tom? We can just go to a general hospital. I've troubled him so many times in the past. I'm embarrassed to trouble him again and again." Daisy felt sorry that Tom had almost become her personal doctor of late.

"Daisy, wait!" Mary suddenly walked up to her when she and Leena were ready to leave.

"If you want to thank me, it's not necessary. I just did what I have to as a service woman. If you want to humiliate me, I'm sorry I'm in a rush right now," Daisy said coldly without turning her head.

Why should I thank you? You owe me that much! If you hadn't had my mom arrested, I wouldn't have ended up like this. So I won't thank you for tonight!"

Mary gazed at Daisy's injured hand. Her fists were clenched and released. She had gathered all her courage to say thank you to Daisy. But hearing Daisy's remarks, she lost her courage and turned hostile again.

"Whatever. All I want to say is that I won't be around every time you are in trouble. You look out for yourself." Daisy took her leave. Whether Mary listened to her or not, there was nothing else she could do for her. She did all she could.

"Excuse me, police officer. Who's that woman? She sure can fight and looks powerful," Sen asked the policeman as soon as Daisy was out of sight. With the handcuffs on, he didn't dare to be insolent anymore.

How stupid are you? She's the youngest colonel of our city. Who gave you the nerve to mess with her? And you claim to be the head of a gang? Now even I am in trouble because of you! I wish I could just kill you with the stock of my gun." The policeman hit Sen hard on the head with the gunstock.

"She is the colonel everybody's been talking about? No wonder she can fight." Sen swallowed some saliva. He had been wondering why the woman was so arrogant, it turned out she was a high-level military officer.

"You are lucky she didn't make you a cripple. I admire your courage, though. Have a good time in jail!" The policeman shook his head speechlessly. It was a horrible thing to be this ignorant in life. The moron had started a fight without even checking on Daisy's identity. Even if he didn't know who she was, couldn't he see her epaulets? On seeing the hooligans lying or sitting here and there, the policeman could know that there had been a fierce fight here a while ago. Daisy had handled all those hooligans on her own. Her bravery and strength was indeed impressive.

Sis, the bleeding is not stopping. I'll call Tom again and asked how far he has reached. Leena was sobbing. She blamed herself for suggesting Westin Western Restaurant. If they hadn't been to that restaurant, they wouldn't have been involved in this fight and Daisy wouldn't have hurt herself. Edward would be very furious enough to kill her.

Leena, don't worry its nothing. Im used to this kind of small cuts and bruises. Looking at Leena's disheveled hair and tearful face, Daisy tried to soothe her. This must be her first time to experience something like this. She was frightened.

Chapter 654: Chapter 654: Daisy Got Hurt (part two)

"Look at how you are bleeding. The cut must be deep. It can't be a small one." Leena sniffled. Then she bent over, ripped the lining of her skirt, and bandaged Daisy's cut with it, hands trembling. Although it didn't stop the bleeding, it slowed down the flow of the blood.

"Leena, thank you. Now I get why they all spoil you. You're such a sweet girl." Daisy reached out her other hand and stroked Leena's hair. Who wouldn't love such a kind and thoughtful girl? If only Kevin could see that and forget the past.

Sis Daisy, don't make fun of me. Tom said he was near. Why is it taking him so long to get here?" Leena wasn't cheered up by Daisy's praise. She looked at the traffic on the street anxiously.

Leena, relax. You're too intense. I am afraid you'll faint before I do." Daisy patted her shoulder. With the torn skirt on, Leena looked embarrassed. As a carefree girl, this kind of situation was new to her.

"Here comes Tom. Tom, here!" Leena waved at a Maybach and finally smiled.

When Tom got Leena's call, he had just finished a seminar. When he heard that it was Daisy who got injured, he immediately rushed over without eating anything. He didn't want any delays when it came to Daisy. When Leena called, she was only crying. So, all Tom could hear was her mumble. Fortunately, Tom had been very close to where they were. So he drove there as fast as he could.

Daisy, are you okay?" Seeing Daisy standing, Tom was relieved that the injury wasn't severe. At the sight of Leena, he took off his coat, tossed it to her, and said, "Wear it around your waist."

Leena bit her lip and did as told. She assumed that Tom must have noticed what was wrong with her skirt.

"It's nothing serious. Just a small cut from a dagger. I'm sorry to trouble you at such late hours. Leena shouldn't have made a fuss about this." Although Tom and Edward were good friends, Daisy felt bad about getting free treatments from him.

Don't mention it. Get in the car so that I can have a close look at the cut." Tom got his medical kit from the trunk. Then he opened the back door to let Daisy in. Leena sat in the passenger seat.

"It just needs a bandage. It's not as serious as it looks." Daisy extended her hand. The lining of the skirt was already soaked in blood. It was horrible to see.

"It's not looking good. I'll stop the bleeding for now but you must go to the hospital and get stitches." Tom's forehead furrowed as he opened the lining. The look in his eyes was complicated. He knew from Rain that Edward was abroad on a business trip. Once again, Daisy was hurt when he wasn't around. Edward treasured his wife like his own life. Whoever did this to Daisy was going to pay.

"You hear that? I told you it was bad." Leena was relieved to have Tom around. To her, Tom was omnipotent.

Leena, you drive. To the hospital," Tom said to Leena as he bandaged the cut, looking thoughtful. "Okay. No problem." Leena sat behind the wheel quickly. She started the car and drove toward Tom's hospital.

As soon as they got to the hospital, Tom began to hustle and bustle. The cut was wide. Daisy got a dozen stitches for it.

Daisy, it's all done. Please don't get the wound wet until a scab forms." Tom smiled gracefully.

Thank you, Tom! I've put you into so many troubles." Daisy smiled back. She had become much warmer than before.

"We're friends, so don't mention it. If it was Edward, I would accept his thankful words. But that's impossible. I just wish he could stop playing tricks on me." Tom finished his words with a shiver, as if Edward was standing next to him with an evil smile on his face.

"Tom, you're speaking evil of Edward in front of Daisy. I'll tell him about it and you'll be in trouble." Leena smiled complacently and raised her brows at Tom.

Go ahead, but don't count on me to treat you if you get injured next time." Tom flicked her head and put his medical kit away.

"Okay, okay. I won't. I'm sorry. Tom, can you drive Daisy home? My car is still parked at Westin Western Restaurant. I have to go get it." Hearing Tom's words, Leena gave in. She was afraid of needles and Tom was one of the best doctors in the city. It would be her loss to offend him.

Don't bother. I can take a cab. It will spare us all some trouble," Daisy said in a hurry. She didn't want to take up much of Tom's time. Besides, she wanted to keep her injury from her family. If Tom drove her home, it would alarm her family and worry them.

Daisy, come on. If Edward knows that I let you go home alone in a cab, he will kill me. So it will be in my best interest to drive you both home. There's nothing I can do about it. I'm always the one getting bullied." Sandwiched between Edward who loved his wife and Duke who spoils his sister, Tom dared to offend neither of them.

Half an hour later, the Maybach arrived at the Mu's villa. It was late in the night, so Tom and Leena left after Daisy got out of the car. It was exactly what Daisy wanted. Now, she wouldn't have to worry about alarming her family anymore. Nonetheless, when Daisy walked into the living room. Jonathan, Cynthia, and Justin were all sitting there, waiting for her.

"What happened? Why are you hurt again?" Cynthia looked at Daisy's hand, which was thickly bandaged in gauze. She was terribly worried.

Mom, were you on a mission today?" Justin raised his mom's hand and blew on it gently, as if it would make the pain go away.

"No. Something happened. The cut is not deep. Tom has already taken care of it. So no need to worry about it." Daisy looked at Cynthia apologetically and stole a glance at Jonathan. Then her gaze fell on Justin's face. She had been injured a lot lately. It worried her family badly. She felt sorry about that.

It's late. Let her go upstairs, freshen up, and get some rest," Jonathan said. He could see that Daisy was tired. And she looked like a mess after the fight. She could use a good night's sleep to relax herself. Hearing Jonathan's words, she looked at him gratefully.

Right, right. I'm too worried to think about that. Justin, go upstairs with your mom. I'll ask Mrs. Wu to make some soup for her. She's too thin. And now she has lost so much blood. Poor kid!

Cynthia worried a lot, just like every other parent would. Seeing Daisy's injury, she started to bustle around. Yet, Daisy was faced with a dilemma. After Daisy's last injury, Cynthia had made her a lot of soup to help her recover. Daisy was still having that soup hangover to this day. Not again, she thought!