

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 655 - Chapter 656: Trap and Kill (part two)

Chapter 655: Chapter 656: Trap and Kill (part two)

Finally, he reached out his hand and picked up his cellphone from the table. Looking at Daisy and Justin's broad smile on his mobile phone's screen, his ferocious eyes suddenly softened. He gently swiped the screen and dialed the familiar numbers. Then he put the phone to his ear and listened carefully.

Hello, it's me. Have you finished your business there? When are you coming back?" It took Daisy a long time to finish her shower because of the wound on her hand. She was about to start her work when she suddenly heard the phone ring. She quickly picked it up when she saw the familiar number flash on the screen.

I know it's you. Do you miss me so much that you are so eager to have me back home?" Edward was very slick in front of Daisy. No matter what, he would be happy as long as he took advantage of her. And that got Daisy pretty annoyed. She really wanted to strangle him to death now.

"Yes! I'm thinking of you now, thinking whether your face is thick enough to block the bullet of my gun." In fact, she missed him a lot, but she wouldn't let those words slip from her mouth. Otherwise Edward would feel as if walking on air. He would become too narcissistic to remember who he was.

"If you want, I don't mind taking the bullet for you again." This was how the narcissistic Edward was like. But he actually had the advantage to behave like that. Even if you were pissed off at him, you would rather bury your grievance in your heart than show it off to him. Because there was only one Edward in this world, if you missed him once, there was no second chance.

"Why should I care? It's not me who will take the bullet." She knew Edward was glib-tongued, so she had always told herself to be calm and take it easy with him. Otherwise the one to be pissed off would definitely be her.

"Honey, do you mean what you said? Are you sure this is what's on your mind right now?" Sitting there alone, Edward had already attracted the attention of many women around. And his playful smile wowed all the women there. They all laid bare their lustful desire for him. Women here were eager to pounce on such a sexy nobleman.

Yes, I'm one hundred percent sure. How come you have so much time to chat with me now? Did you finish all your work there?" Daisy carelessly bumped her injured hand, and she gasped with the piercing pain thereby dropping all the documents in her hand.

"What happened? Are you okay?" Edward frowned and asked with concern. He had a sharp sense and could notice even subtle changes in her breath.

"I'm okay, I just dropped my files. Don't try to change the topic. Have you finished your business or not?" Daisy bent down to carefully pick the documents one by one, still clinging on to the question she asked.

"Yes! Almost. Probably I will take the plane back home tomorrow night. Don't worry. I won't be late for the new weapon performance in the army base." By no means would Edward tell her what he was going through right now. Because it would do no good. On the contrary, it would only cause unnecessary trouble to her.

"You should know that I don't care about you attending or missing the performance." Daisy placed the files on the table. She felt helpless about his casual attitude. But she was desperately in love with him. She knew him as the man who appeared perfect in public, but he had numerous shortcomings in her eyes in private. If he was a soldier she was in charge of, she would definitely rub down the edges in his character and get rid of his bad temper.

"I'm joking. How could I not know that your real concern is my safety? Rest assured. I will soon come in front of you with my most handsome face." He never made a promise he had no intention to keep. If he made a promise, he would never eat his words. Just like the pet phrase he always used to say, this was due to his good moral standing.

Don't be garrulous. It's good that you know what I mean. You should get back to your own work now. Take care, and please pay due attention to your safety. I also have to work on a document that will be used tomorrow." Daisy didn't know much about B Country where Edward was currently in. But since he was out, it was always good to be careful. Moreover, he was not any regular guy. His identity was special so it was possible that people would target him.

"Okay, don't stay up late. If you can't finish it tonight, you can do it tomorrow." Edward kissed her through the cellphone and reluctantly hung up. Remembering Edward's arbitrary request of never hanging up the phone first, Daisy patiently waited for him to hang up first. She shook her head helplessly and placed the phone on the desk. After that, she got back to her work. Not sure why, but Daisy felt a little uneasy and couldn't concentrate on her work.

Like Edward said, KG was not that stupid to do anything to them during the broad daylight, so nothing special really happened during the day and they successfully got the rings. But that didn't mean they were totally safe. This was because night was usually the best time for any hideous crimes to transpire.

In the luxurious presidential suite, the sound of keys of the keyboard clicking could be clearly heard.

Edward quickly typed a series of numbers while checking the files in his hand, then he set several firewalls on his computer. Any man who was passionate about his work indeed look very charming. And by that logic too Edward was undoubtedly the most fascinating man in the world now.

Chapter 656: Chapter 655: Trap and Kill (part one)

"Mom, Dad will get really mad if he finds out that you are injured again." Justin went upstairs with Daisy, displaying a gloating look on his round face.

Justin, why are you so happy to know that I will be scolded by your dad again?" Daisy said as she pinched his lovely round face. Had she been neglecting him recently? Why else would he favor his father instead of her this time?

"Yes. I'm very happy. You must be scolded this time because you never listen to him and end up getting yourself hurt time and again." When it came to Daisy's safety, Justin and Edward were definitely on the same page.

"Justin, do you still love your Mom?" Daisy felt sad just thinking about it. She worked really hard to bring him up. But he switched his sides so soon. Now, he was singing the same tune as his father. Daisy knew, if the father and son aligned with each other to deal with her, it would be a major disadvantage for her in the family.

"Of course I love you Mom! But more than that, I wish to see you healthy. I want to make sure that you always come back home safely." Justin said in a calm yet serious tone just like an adult. When Justin talked like that, Daisy had an illusion that it was not Justin but Edward sitting right in front of her.

I'm so sorry Justin. I got you worried again." Daisy gently embraced the adorable Justin into her arms. Despite the passage of the time and the change in the environment, Justin would always be the one to care for her the most.

"Mom, you should be okay all the time. Dad and I both need you." Justin took a deep breath, sniffing the unique fragrance coming from his mother's body. Although it was a mixed smell with a slight odor of sweat in it, he still found her fragrance to be the best.

"Don't worry. I will not leave you. To me, you are the most important people in this world. Without you two, my world will be full of darkness." If Daisy had said this to Edward, he would feel narcissistic. He would feel as if he was walking on the air. Daisy getting emotional or saying these emotional words was rare to them.

The sky in the B Country was very blue today. Edward woke up early to cater to the emergency here. But the thing was more serious than he had expected. It became tricky. He realized that the whole thing had got no where despite the whole ordeal of negotiation he had gone through during the day.

Mr. Mu, are you really going to agree to the demands of the KG company? You will give away half of our mining base to them?" Luke looked at Edward's sullen face with concern. Thinking about the argument that happened just now, he felt a little helpless. They were not in their home country so they did have a certain disadvantage in dealing with vital matters.

"Do you think that we will easily succumb? They are asking too much by demanding the half of the mining base. It seems that they don't know me very well." Edward smiled cunningly. He would never go onto grabbing things from other people's plate. But in no way would he let them take his share from the plate. If he couldn't handle such a trivial thing, he would fail to live up to the name of Edward Mu.

"But it is said that the CEO of KG is not easy to deal with and it seems that he has connections with the local gangsters. If we continue to stand firm on our decision, he might do something to harm us." Luke wouldn't be worried if he was here alone. But now Edward was with him. So, he had to take into account Edward's safety as well. Thus, it was required for him to carefully plan the whole thing.

"Huh! So what? Unless he plans to not step out of the B Country for the rest of his life, he would never do anything to harm us. He would take any action, only if he wishes a life-and-death battle between us. But, if that happens, I will really doubt his intelligence level and wonder how he acquired his solid position as the CEO." Wherever Edward went, he would be the centre of attraction. So he inevitably attracted attention from numerous admirers. This was especially true in an open-minded country like the B Country.

"Do you think it's possible that they will find someone to kill us and finish the matter once and for all?" Luke narrowed his sinister eyes, if it was really the case, they were now fully exposed to their enemy. Since one side was in the light, and the other one was in the dark, it was obvious the enemy had an advantage to win.

"Yes! So we should be more careful. Everyone we see from now on could perhaps be the killer sent by them." Despite understanding how dangerous the entire situation was, Edward did not panic at all. On the contrary, he ate all the food on his plate in a calm and composed manner.

"I know. Do we need to call to get some more people here for help?" Luke feared that he might not be able to ensure Edward's safety all by himself. He regretted not bringing more people with them.

It's too late now. They're too far away to be able to help us here. We'd better be careful by ourselves," Edward paused and said. No matter what, he would never get himself in danger, at least for the sake of Daisy.

"Are we still going to fetch the rings later?" Although he knew Edward would definitely go to get the rings, he still wanted to confirm.

"Of course, don't forget that I come here mainly for the rings." The rings were belated wedding gifts for Daisy. No matter how dangerous the situation was, he would not give that up.

But, its more dangerous if we leave the hotel. Luke tried to persuade him not to go out. He knew the rings were really very important to Edward. However, he also knew that in comparison to that rings, it was Edward's safety that was more important to Daisy.

It's okay, it wont take too long. And they wouldn't dare to hurt me so blatantly. If something really happens to me, the prime suspect would be KG. They are not that stupid to dig their own grave. Edward took a napkin and gently wiped his mouth. Then he took as a small sip of the red wine and lay back on the chair. He was lost in his thoughts.

Chapter 657: Chapter 657: Trap and Kill (part three)

Edward suddenly heard a loud and rhythmic sound of someone knocking on the door. He stopped his work and raised his dashing eyebrows. But he still stood up and went to open the door. He thought it must be Luke who was back after buying some stuff from the market. So he opened the door without even checking who was knocking.

Unexpectedly, a beautiful lady with a soft and hot figure fell in his arms as soon as he opened the door. "Who are you?" Edward asked coldly while blocking her hands which were trying to envelope his waist. He could make out from her face that she was an Asian woman. But he didn't know which language she spoke, so he was not sure which country she was from. But undeniably, this woman was indeed a gorgeous beauty.

Handsome man, aren't you the one who called for the room service?" The woman reached out her hand and frivolously touched Edward's handsome face. She cast several amorous glances at him with her lovely eyes.

"Miss, don't tell me that you are the night snack for me tonight." Edward suddenly reached out his arms and held her slender waist with his hands slowly wandering on her back.

"That depends on whether you have the guts to eat me up or not." The woman's voluptuous body clung closely to his body and her fingers slowly caressed his strong bare chest. She brought her luscious lips near his ear and blew some warm air from her mouth to arouse all his senses.

"How do you know when I haven't given it a try yet? I feel honored to please such a beautiful woman like you." Edward put his hands on her lower body. His sexy voice had her spellbound, leaving the originally cold presidential suite burnt with passionate desire. Amorous air filled the whole room.

"You're so awful! You men are all good at saying sweet words!" Finishing her words, she approached his thin lips, but Edward escaped her with his casual move. She was a little disappointed, but soon she was mesmerised by his seasoned and passionate flirtatious movements.

"This is what you women like the best, isn't it?" Edward said with a sarcastic smile. His big hands reached to the inner side of her thigh under her skirt. He smiled disdainfully after he quickly got the thing he wanted.

The woman looked at the mini gun in Edward's hand, dumbfounded. But when she came back to her senses, it was too late, the gun was already pointed at her head.

"Go back and tell Joseph, next time he wants to trap and kill me, he better find a woman who is just as beautiful as my wife. In comparison to her, someone like you, is not even one ten-thousandth of her beauty." Edward sneered. He never called for any special hotel service tonight. Moreover, he was certain that Luke would never arrange for such a service for him. But this woman claimed that she was a call girl who came here for his special service. It was obviously fake. Edward believed in a notion that women with nice breasts had no brain. In this country, there was only one person who wanted to kill him. It had to be Joseph, the CEO of KG. This was because they had a major disagreement in today's meeting.

"Haha! Isn't it true that the CEO of FX International Group is a notorious womanizer? It seems that it is only a rumor. I believe I disguised really well, but it amuses me that you saw through my trick so soon. But since you know that someone is trying to kill you, do you think my master will only send one person here?" The woman didn't feel scared at all despite Edward had a gun pointed in her direction. On the contrary, she smiled coquettishly. This was because she was sure that Edward would not fire at her. Otherwise he would face a lawsuit in the country.

"It seems that you know a lot about me, but it is a pity that you don't really know me so well. If all the people sent by your master here are as brainless as you, why should I be scared?" Edward sneered. Was he so easy to deal with in their eyes?

"You... Don't you want to know why your bodyguard hasn't come back yet? Mr. Mu?" The woman was angered by his arrogant ways. But she soon calmed herself down and gloated. She narrowed her eyes and looked at him from the corner of her eyes.

"What did you do to him?" Hearing her words, Edward pushed the gun harder at her temple. But he also believed that Luke could not be tricked so easily.

"Huh! Are you afraid now, Mr. Mu?" Obviously, this woman was specially trained, otherwise, she would not be so calm even when being held at gunpoint. She was off guard now because she had underestimated Edward and was attracted by his sexual appeal.

"You don't answer my question? Do you really think I won't dare to do anything to you?" Edward said while fiercely bumping her head hard with the gun handle, showing no mercy to such a beautiful woman.

"If Mr. Mu, you think that I will succumb because of this hit, you're wrong. We are willing to venture our lives to finish the task right from the time we enter the business. Do you think I will care about suffering this little pain?" The woman smiled gracefully, irrespective of the blood streaming down from her head.

"Oh? What if I destroy this beautiful face? Will you still not mind?" Edward slowly stroked his fingers over her delicate cheeks. The more beautiful a woman was, the more she would care about her face.

And for some women, their faces were important than their lives. And Edward firmly believed that this woman was a typical example of one such woman.

Please don't! We didn't do anything to him. We only temporarily delayed his coming back to the hotel. It turned out that Edward was right. Hearing that Edward was going to ruin her beautiful face, the woman began to panic. It was obvious that to her, beauty was more precious than her life.

Chapter 658: Chapter 658: The Love Trap (part one)

"You better make sure that he gets back in a whole skin. Otherwise, I will let the whole KG company pay the price." Edward said in a cold voice, looking at the woman with flinty and cruel eyes. He considered Luke not only his bodyguard, but also his family. Like anyone else, he would indeed lose his temper if anyone came after his family.

"Alas! Do you think that you are still in your territory, Mr. Mu? It is not certain whether you can survive the night or not, let alone have a final say here." The woman smiled contemptuously. Now that they were in the B Country, which lay within her master's sphere of influence, she just couldn't be more arrogant. So she wasn't frightened by Edward's threat at all.

"If you don't believe me, let's give it a try and see what will happen, shall we?" Edward let out a wicked smile, approached her, and touched her face with his fingers lightly and flirtatiously. He looked like a total womanizer, a dissolute playboy. The woman was soon distracted, and before she could say a word, Edward suddenly hit the nape of her neck with his gun. The beauty then slowly sank to the floor. Edward seized the chance and rushed out. He took out his phone and dialed Luke's number while running at full speed. But the phone was not answered and the dial tone went busy soon.

Just like the woman said, Luke was pinned down at the moment. However, it was not his own safety that worried him, but rather Edward's safety. When he thought about his young master who had been left alone in the hotel, he tried to fight the most out of each and every attack with explosiveness in a hope to break free from the group of gangsters who had besieged him. But his enemies were not to be underestimated, for he failed to get rid of them even after fighting for a long time. To make things worse, he was now feeling both physically and mentally exhausted. As they narrowed the encirclement, he was driven into a tight corner, and fell into despair.

There was no prize for guessing who had sent these gangsters. So Luke knew it clearly in his heart that not only he was in trouble but Edward's life too was in danger at the same time. The problem was, he was held here while Edward was totally out of his reach. The fact that there was nothing he could do to save him now made him feel anxious and frustrated. He even feared that their enemies might have sent more people to assault Edward. If that happened, then the situation was even more intense.

In fact, the hotel where Edward had been staying was right in front of him, but he just couldn't get there. Bit by bit, he was now forced into a dark and narrow alley. This took him farther and farther away from the hotel. Worse still, it was a bunch of desperadoes that he had to tackle with, and he was hopelessly outnumbered. Being at a horrible disadvantage, he felt like a drowned mouse covered in blood with wounds all over.

"Damn it! How shameless it is to bully someone by the sheer weight of numbers. This is the most horrible thing to do. Go and teach them a lesson! Well, it looks like that they are foreigners...But so what? This can't be their excuse for bullying someone. Just take your time, beat them black and blue until nobody can tell where they came from!" Just then, Luke heard a girl's bossy voice ringing out from the darkness. The next thing he knew, several people joined him in the fight. Although their fighting skills were not as good as expected, they contained the enemies' actions, and allowed Luke to take a breather.

"Hey! How could you be here, Mr. Chilly?" Now, it finally occurred to Luke who these people that suddenly turned up were. He knew very few people who would swagger through the street in such a unique and conspicuous way, except that little bad girl, Michelle.

To be honest, Luke didn't recognize Michelle when he first set eyes on her. But later, the words Mr. Chilly somehow rang a bell. He thought hard to figure out the names of all those people who could possibly call him by this name. After a lot of thought, he finally recalled who that person was. Luke felt dizzy and almost passed out. He prayed in his heart that she would not mess things up for him this time. He didn't know what she was doing in this remote country. What was Michelle really up to? But he had no time to think further on this matter since he was dealing with so many gangsters at the moment. The most important thing now was to defeat them and get out of here alive as soon as possible. It was really not the right time to meet an old friend and catch up on each other's lives.

However, Luke never thought that his reaction would surprise or enrage her. She felt bad when she saw Luke ignoring her as always. Without a second thought, she bit her lip and reached out her fist in nobody else's but Luke's direction. Seeing Michelle prepare to throw a punch at him, Luke's heart missed a beat. What did this crazy girl think she was doing? Just as he closed his eyes and prepared himself for the punch, he heard someone groan close to his ear. He immediately opened his eyes, and found one of the gangsters lying flat on the ground. He then realized that she wasn't taking aim at him. But it was truly one of the most frightening moments of his life.

"See? Don't ever look down on me!" snorted Michelle. Born in a mobster family, it was very natural for her to know some basic fighting skills, so she was very well able to deal with those gangsters. Besides, she had gained a lot of fighting experience after dealing with several conflicts between different gangs over the years. This enabled her to easily knock people down with minimal effort. But this time, they were slightly inferior to the enemies both in terms of height and weight. So despite their help, they were unable to turn things around, and remained in a passive position.

Meanwhile, Edward was running and looking for Luke around the area. It surprised him that he had not been attacked again all along the way. So it seemed that the enemies really thought of him as a womanizer, and believed that they could take his life by merely sending a woman to kill him. They failed because they didn't know him well enough. It was true that he used to be a playboy, but it didn't mean that any woman would be able to attract him. Moreover, ever since he fell in love with Daisy, he had been away from his old ways. Now, Daisy was the only one in his heart. He had never looked at another woman from then on. That was the reason why their honey trap was doomed to failure.

Edward quickened his pace subconsciously when he vaguely heard sounds of fighting from a distance. The noise relaxed him a bit, for it proved that Luke was safe for the time being since he was still able to fight. Following the sound, he soon found the alley where Luke was surrounded by enemies. But his heart sank at the sight of the battle scene.

"Luke, are you all right?" Without any hesitation, Edward joined the battle. He came up to Luke as quickly as possible, and helped him knock out a gangster beside him. He then asked about Luke's safety with concern.

"I'm fine, Mr. Mu. I'm so happy to see that you are safe and sound," said Luke, who breathed a sigh of relief on seeing Edward. Edward's arrival provided timely support, and had tipped the balance in no time. He was not as strong as Daisy, but they were almost equally powerful. So he and Luke could cooperate very well and fight everyone around. In less than twenty minutes, the gangsters were defeated. Many of them fled from there to save their lives. Those who stayed at the scene kept moaning on the ground and had zero strength to run away.

"Ha! What a bunch of scums!" exclaimed Michelle while she gave one of the gangsters a good kick presumptuously. Being unable to fight back, the gangster glowered at her with hatred and anger. Michelle squinted at him, and forcibly stepped on him this time.

She just would not show any mercy to them, nor was she scared of looking at them in the eye.

What? Not you again. Edward frowned and sighed the moment he spotted Michelle. Like Luke, he just couldn't why they would run into her whenever and wherever they were in a trouble. But he actually thank her in his heart. After all, she had been such a big help again today.

Chapter 659: Chapter 659: The Love Trap (part two)

"Sorry to let you down, but yes, here I am." Michelle giggled. She winked at him with a bright smile, and stared straight at his face. What a handsome guy, she thought to herself. One just couldn't afford to miss the chance to appreciate his charming face.

"If I remember right, you are Michelle Mi, correct? We owe you a debt of gratitude today," Edward said. He mildly laughed it off when he discovered that Michelle was in fact lusting over him. She kept looking at him flirtatiously. Usually, it repelled him when he saw a woman act in this way in front of him. But he didn't take it seriously this time. Instead, he considered it as a demonstration of her frankness and sincerity.

"Not at all! I'm surprised that you remember my name. You are such a gentleman especially when I compare you to someone, who hasn't even rapped to me till now! What a cold person! Calling him Mr. Chilly is too good for him. I think he needs another name that suits him better. Probably, the zombie would do!" Michelle looked in Luke's direction while she was complaining. It was clearly evident that the person she just mentioned was no one else, but Luke.

However, Luke remained straight-faced. He gave no reaction to her words, as if it really had nothing to do with him. He only frowned and shot a glance at the gangsters lying on the ground. He was thinking that it would perhaps be better for them to leave this place right away.

You actually caused quite a stir back then, and it did leave a lasting impression on me," said Edward with one eyebrow cocked teasingly. But when he turned to look at Luke, his brows quickly wrinkled. He had not noticed that Luke was badly injured until now.

Can I take it as a compliment? Well, it sounds more like a criticism to me." Michelle stroked her chin with a confused look on her face. Soon enough, she read between the lines and found out that Edward was probably making fun of her.

"Definitely not. I'm afraid that you might be thinking too much. Anyway, thank you for your help today. Now, I think it's time that we get out of this place. After all, Luke's wounds have to be treated as soon as possible." Luke quite agreed with Edward. It was not wise to stay here for long, for their enemies could come back any minute.

As far as I remember, there is a hospital nearby. I can show you the way if you need. I am free now, anyway. Besides, I am quite familiar with this place." Michelle offered to help. It was a coincidence that she was here in the B Country to visit friends with her parents. So she was not new to this place now.

Great. I would like to thank you in advance." Michelle's help came just in time to meet Edward's pressing needs. He was not at all familiar with this country. Although it wasn't his first time here, he had been here only for business so he never got any time for sightseeing.

"Don't mention it. Just take it as my acknowledgment for the Colonel's kindness. She really helped me out last time in a traffic accident. I have long been wanting to express my gratitude to her but never really got the chance to do that." Michelle replied with a casual wave of the hand, showing the kind of generosity and errantry that only the martial community could uphold.

"Traffic accident? What traffic accident? Well, forget it. We can talk about it some other time." Edward managed to restrain his curiosity. Generally speaking, anything that concerned Daisy could easily intrigue him. But he was well aware of his priority at present, and realized that it would be inappropriate to ask about it right away.

"Mr. Mu, there is no need to go to the hospital. They are only some minor cuts and bruises, I bet I can deal with them back in the hotel. Moreover, I don't think it is really wise to go to the hospital now." Given the present scenario, Luke feared that even the hospital was not a safe place to go. Now that their enemies knew Luke was injured, they would definitely expect him to go to the hospital for treatment. It was very likely that an ambush was there waiting for them, thus they would have to consider greater risks if they had to go there.

"Luke is right. We should plan our moves very carefully under the given circumstance. So may I ask you one more thing, Miss Mi? Could you please get a doctor to our hotel? Just contact me when you reach, here is my number," said Edward while passing a visiting card to Michelle. Luke's words made a lot of sense. Edward also thought that their enemies might have set up a trap for them at nearby hospitals.

"No problem! How about this, I can call my dad's friend right now and see whether he can send his family doctor to us. That might probably be a safer choice, I presume. And one more thing, don't call me Miss Mi, just call me by my first name. I will feel uncomfortable otherwise." Michelle said with alacrity after pondering for a short while.

It couldn't be better. Let's get out of here first." Edward nodded and said. It was best if they managed to find someone they could trust to attend to Luke at the moment. At least that was how Edward saw it. He had learnt how important it was to have a reliable doctor like Tom around from his past experiences.

When they finally got back to the hotel, they found that the woman who was sent by their enemies was still in a coma. It was thus clear that Edward pulled no punches while hitting her. He then completely ignored her and asked the receptionist of the hotel for a room change both for him and Luke. He believed that if they changed rooms, even if Joseph sent his people here again, they could buy some time and increase their chances of winning.

Fortunately, the family doctor arrived soon. It turned out that he was a foreigner rather than a Chinese who could further bring them sense of security, but his arrival had really helped the situation. After all, beggars can't be choosers, and it was unrealistic to expect and find a Chinese doctor so easily in a foreign land.

"You, get out." Michelle heard Luke demanding when the doctor had to take his clothes off to check his wounds. It was rare to hear him speaking to Michelle. He then looked away, with shyness passing fleetingly and unconsciously across his grim yet handsome face. Michelle didn't notice it, but Edward already saw it. Edward looked at him with a sly grin. It seemed as if he just discovered something interesting about Luke.

I beg your pardon, Mr. Chilly? So this is your attitude towards someone who just saved your life? You seriously are something, sir. Now listen, I am staying, and I don't think there is anything that you can do about it. She was fuming with rage on hearing Luke's words. After all, she was the one who help him drive those gangsters away, and she was the one who found him a doctor. But did he ever express his gratitude? No, he hadn't even said a word to her. And the first thing he said to her now was "get out". Enough was enough! Now she decided to show him a tougher face.

So you are not getting out? Asked Luke, casting a glance at her coldly. When he saw that Michelle still standing at the same spot, he had no choice but to undressed in front of her. He remained calm and peaceful during the whole process, as if nobody was watching him. But Michelle freak outby the scene. She gave a loud scream, covered her eyes with her hands and immediately ran out of the room.