

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 665 - Chapter 665: The Power of the Mayfly (part one)

Chapter 665: Chapter 665: The Power of the Mayfly (part one)

"I'll just ask you one thing, if you were me, would you sign a contract like this?" Edward didn't answer his question, instead, he returned a question to him. His gorgeous face now looked stone-cold. Did Joseph really think of him as a dumb schmuck who would do as he was told?

"I always thought that you, Mr. Mu, was a man who knew what was best for him, but now, it seems that I was wrong. I was overestimating your intelligence." Although Joseph knew that the FX International Group was a very powerful and strong company, he still paid no heed to it. He believed that the influence of this big company was within its own country, not here in the B country. So he didn't have anything to worry about.

"Don't flatter me too much. After all, I'm just an ordinary person in front of you." Edward remained calm. He even picked up the cup of coffee placed on the table and gracefully took a sip from it. Then he raised his head and looked straight into the defiant eyes of Joseph. A playful smirk stayed on Edward's face all this time, making him seem sexier and more enticing than ever. Even Joseph who was a male chauvinist, was dumbstruck by his sheer beauty. He couldn't take his eyes off him for a while.

"Are you really sure that I am going to compromise on this matter?" Joseph snorted in front of Edward's face. He then stopped staring at his charming face and looked somewhere else. He didn't bother to hide his ambitions at all.

"But I'm not the kind of person to compromise that easily. As for the mining base, I can give you 20% of the profits at most. But if you want half of the profits, then sorry, I can't help you." The reason why Edward was ready to give them 20% of the profits was because he still wanted to use their influence in the local area. If he could successfully get their support, other companies wouldn't dare to cast their greedy eyes on the mining base, thereby indirectly making them safer in this place.

"I can't help but wonder, why are you so confident that I will accept a cooperation plan like this?" Joseph threw the same question back at Edward. 20% of the profits, was this a joke? Did Edward consider him a beggar? In this case, why in hell did they put in a lot of efforts to get him to compromise?

"Of course, you can refuse the cooperation plan. But in that case, you won't even get 20% of the profits. To be honest, I'm sure you know that the FX International Group is a Fortune 50 company. We are very patient and not afraid to waste your time." Edward lightly knocked his finger on the table. His deep blue eyes gleamed with wisdom and calmness. His eyes were looking deep into the eyes of Joseph.

"Are you threatening me right now?" Joseph didn't back down, he didn't want to be the one to compromise first. So after listening to Edward's words, he coldly stared back into his eyes, wanting Edward to feel intimidated.

"If you consider this a threat, then you are awfully wrong. I'm just merely stating the fact." However, on negotiating table, Edward would never admit defeat. So how could he accept being treated like an animal by some random stranger?

But it didn't sound like you were stating a fact to me." The host always had his right to be arrogant. Joseph was no exception. But unfortunately, he forgot one thing, which was that there would always be someone more powerful than you.

Oh? If you are really this stubborn and think that I'm threatening you, then I have no idea how to change your mind. If you accept our offer of 20% of the profits, I will sign this contract right away, without any hesitation. However, if you still insist that you must have half of the profits, then I am sorry. I guess we can't come to an agreement then. And I will look for other companies to cooperate with me." He had already given them a very huge profit margin when they first signed the contract. But he didn't expect that his kindness would be taken as his weakness. Probably, this was why Joseph thought that he could gain more profits in this cooperation. And to be honest, it was partly his fault, that he was in a hurry to build this mining base at that moment, which was why he happened to pick a wrong partner to work with.

"Other companies? Haha! Except us KG, which company in the B Country do you think is competent enough? I believe that no other company here can hold such a big industrial chain apart from us KG." Joseph smiled, he was very boastful and truly believed that Edward had no choice but to cooperate with his company. And this was the primary reason why he included this term after the contract expired. It was clear that he became greedy and now wanted hefty profits.

"As far as I know, there is also a very strong and powerful company here in the B Country. To be frank, I don't wish to waste more time and money negotiating with you. I bet the other company will be pretty happy to have the chance to work with FX International Group. After all, any leader with a working brain knows for a fact that this cooperation will definitely increase in value in the future." Edward calmly stated these words with a smirk resting on his face all this while. And he secretly mocked Joseph's intelligence.

"If you are smart enough, you will not do that. Because if you do that, you will have to start everything over. And it would mean a lot of money and manpower would be wasted." After hearing Edward's words, Joseph stopped and thought for a second. But he quickly calmed himself. As a successful business man, he surely knew what was best for him. He believed that for Edward, it must be the same.

"I'd rather start all over than be restrained by you. After all, FX International Group doesn't count on it to make money." What Edward meant was that he had the money to burn, and he didn't give a damn about it. But if someone wanted to have a piece of his pie, then sorry! He didn't have any obligation.

Haha! Are you not afraid that we will take the complete mining base?" Now that the gloves had already come off, Joseph didn't have to pretend to be nice and hide back his real ambition anymore.

You? To be honest, you really don't have the game." Edward didn't plan to be vague with him anymore, so he directly showed his disdain for him.

"It's not you who can decide whether I have the game or not, it only depends on the gun in my hand." As soon as he finished his words, Joseph took out his gun and pointed it directly at Edward. And at the same time, there was also a gun pointing at Joseph's forehead in the blink of an eye. The entire move was so fast.

"I thought that 20% of the profits would be enough for you to hide your ambitions. But it seems that I was awfully wrong. You are indeed insatiable. You want more than I can give. In this case, I guess that we can't continue our cooperation anymore. So now, let me tell you, the cooperation between FX International Group and KG ends right now. Originally, Edward wanted to choose the easiest way to solve this problem, and then hurry back to the S City as soon as possible. But he didn't expect Joseph to be this awfully difficult to communicate. It seemed he really had to look for a new partner to cooperate with in order to prevent any more problems from happening in the future. Even though this would take a lot more time and money, it was still better than being restrained by others.

Chapter 666: Chapter 666: The Power of the Mayfly (part two)

"Do you really think that you can walk out of here alive?" Joseph didn't expect that the people Edward brought with him would be this good. This did leave him a little shocked for a moment. But once he thought of the killers he had brought with him in advance, he became arrogant all over again.

"Yes, of course. As long as I want to, I'll definitely walk out of this room unscathed." Edward sneered at Joseph's words. He was certain that the helpers that his father sent were definitely very good, so he didn't worry if they would be trapped here.

You can try with all your might." Joseph put down the gun that he pointed at Edward and lightly clapped his hands several times. Then all of a sudden, a lot of men dressed in black swarmed in the room. All of them seemed to be very well equipped and trained.

"Joseph, right? Do you want to have a bet with me? To see if we can get out of here in one piece or not." The man that pointed his gun at Joseph also put his gun away, and glanced at these men in black in disdain. In his opinion, these men were just some roughnecks, and it was a piece of cake to take them down.

"Why would I bet with you? There's no point in that. We all can see clearly who has got the upper hand." Joseph looked at him in suspicion, and right at this moment, his eyes suddenly widened in surprise. He couldn't believe what he was seeing. All of a sudden, a look of utter fear appeared all over his face.

"It seems that you finally have an idea of who we are. In this case, do you still think that you have any chance to win?" The man lowered his voice on purpose. He was aware that Joseph saw the badge he intentionally revealed to him. On seeing the badge, Joseph got really scared.

Edward looked at the change of expression on Joseph's face in surprise. He wondered what that man told Joseph that got him this frightened all of a sudden. Joseph no longer was his arrogant self.

"Mr. Mu, I accept your offer of the 20% of the profits. So can we sign the contract now?" Joseph said these words in a trembling voice. He quickly glanced at the man with a badge and then turned his eyes back to Edward. A smart man would know when to bow down. He didn't dare to anger the Mayfly. After all, it was known to everyone that this group had its men in every corner of the world, and they were all the best of the best. No wonder Edward was so calm. Who wouldn't be rest assured if they were backed by the Mayfly? But it was said that the Mayfly wouldn't help just anybody, if Edward could bring these many people with him all at once, then what was his true identity?

"Huh! It is too late now. Let's go." Edward didn't want to know how this man made Joseph change his mind. He didn't even care. Because if his father had sent these people to help him, they surely had their unique ways to solve the problems.

"Joseph, I will make it very clear for you, so please listen very carefully. FX International Group is under our wing, so if you ever have the chance to meet them in this industry again, don't you dare to cause any problem to them, understand? Or you will face the consequences for riling the Mayfly." Although the man didn't understand why his leader wanted him to convey these warnings to Joseph, he did hear this order from his small earpiece and said it out loud word to word. In fact, he himself wanted to know why his leader would spend all the time spying on this entire process of negotiation. But as far as he knew, Edward must be very important and special to his leader. After all, there was never a case like this before that caught so much attention of his leader. His leader had participated in making the whole plan. He even picked the squad himself.

"Well, umm, could you please tell your leader that I really had no idea that FX International Group is under your protection. Tell him, to not do anything to KG, please?" The Mayfly was too strong and powerful, so Joseph couldn't help but worry about KG, his company. And at the same time, he was also mad at himself. He deeply regretted that he didn't accept Edward's offer in the beginning. Well, now, not only did he lose the chance to cooperate with Edward and make a lot of money, but he also got under Mayfly's scanner, which was the most frightening group.

"Do you really think that we can see our leader that easily? I'm not ashamed to tell you, I haven't even seen him in person till date. So good luck with that!" After finishing his words, the man didn't spare him a glance and quickly walked out behind Edward and his people. It seemed that this was easier than he expected, so he really couldn't understand why his leader sent out so many of his best people here.

How could this man guess why Jonathan made such an effort? In fact, he was just a father who was worried about his own son. So in case anything happened, he had to send his best men in order to protect his son.

Edward didn't expect this would turn out like this. He was not only surprised but also very delighted with the way things turned out to be. But thinking about the next plan of action, he felt a little sad once again. He knew it was not easy to find a new company to cooperate, and it surely would take some time.

"Mr. Mu, are we going to look for a new partner?" As soon as they were back in the hotel, Luke hesitantly asked Edward. He, too, was not very familiar with B Country. He didn't know much about it except that this country was among the 10 countries that abounded in diamonds. Besides that, he didn't have any crucial information about this country or the people here.

Yes, we are. But I have to go back to S City today, so for now, this plan has to be postponed. After saying these words, Edward slightly frowned. Because from here to S City, it would take him at least 20 hours, even by plane. So if he wanted to make it to the new weapon performance in the army base, he had to leave right away.

Chapter 667: Chapter 667: The Power of Mayfly (part three)

"Mr. Mu, our leader said that for this plan, you can cooperate with the Mayfly. In this case, you don't have to spend anymore time and money on this. We can help you lead all these onto the right track." The man told Edward the latest order he received from his leader. Now, his suspicion relating to Edward's identity was intensified. He knew, Mayfly, wouldn't gain anything out of this cooperation. Despite knowing all this, his leader was determined to participate in it. All these things confused him further.

"What? Cooperate with you?" Edward also felt very surprised at their offer. He didn't understand what his father wanted from this.

Yes, with us. Our leader meant it." Although the man was quite confused himself, he didn't dare to question the decision of his leader. So he just did as he was told by him.

How about this? I will just call him first and discuss it directly with him." After saying these words, Edward took out his phone and started walking towards his guest room. He had to think it through very carefully. Although the Mayfly was a group that was just and wicked at the same time, it still had its side of gangdom. Did he really want FX International Group to cooperate with The Mayfly? In this case, FX International Group would be pushed into another situation by him, and that was not the kind of result he wished to see.

Hey! Dad, can you explain to me what is going on in your mind?" Edward didn't have any doubt. He knew for a fact that his father was spying on everything that was happening around him, or else he would not know every detail related to the deal this fast.

"Aren't you unfamiliar with B Country? So I'm just leading the way for you at the moment. Of course, the Mayfly won't participate in your cooperation, so don't you worry about that. I'm merely helping you to get on the right track, that's all. So be rest assured, FX International Group will not get involved with the Mayfly. This is just a cooperation at the very beginning. Once we finish our task, we will back down immediately." Jonathan knew clearly what his son was worried about. So he definitely didn't intend to cause him any trouble. He was just trying to help him out in this difficult situation.

"Okay, I see. Thank you, dad!" Edward took a deep breath. Now that he could get help from his father, there was no reason for him to refuse the offer. So he set his heart at rest and handed over all his work here to the people of the Mayfly. This saved him a lot of time, energy and money. Now, he was happy to be a free rider. After all, his father would never do anything that would be bad for him.

Things didn't go very well during this trip to B Country. Edward still had many tasks that were waiting to be accomplished. This might be the biggest failure during his incumbency of the CEO of the FX International Group. But there was still one thing that made him really happy, which was the pair of diamond rings in his hand. He knew that his little woman didn't like anything too fancy or garish, so the design of the two rings was simple yet elegant. And the most important thing was that this pair of diamond rings showed his deep love for Daisy.

The sky in S City was very blue, and the air here was also fresh. But Daisy didn't have the time to care about all these things, because she was really busy now. All morning, she was busy doing her job, and didn't even have the time to drink some water. Right now, after hurriedly eating a quick lunch, she had to get back to her job again. With all the strenuous rushing around, Daisy was sweating profusely and her shoulders were aching.

"Daisy, will Mr. Mu come here today?" Just when Daisy found herself a moment to rest a bit, the commander walked up to her to enquire about Edward.

"Well, I'm not sure about that either. Right now, he's on a business trip to B Country. Last night, I called him, but his phone was off. So I don't have a clue if he was on the plane or he didn't finish his work yet."

Daisy then had a sip of water. It was all her fault. Last night she was working so intently that she didn't notice her phone had been off for a while as the battery had run out. She didn't realize this matter until late last night. And when she turned on the phone, there were dozens of missed calls, all from Edward. But when she called him back, his phone was off. So she really didn't know if he could make it on time or not.

"That is okay, business first. I'm just a little bit disappointed, nothing more. But hey, there's still half an hour before the performance. I personally hope that he can still make it." After all, this group of weapons were totally sponsored by FX International Group, so no matter what happened, the commander hoped that Edward could see that his money wasn't wasted.

"Commander, don't worry! He promised you that he would be here. I don't think that he will break his promise. Maybe he will arrive a little bit late but I am sure, he'd come." Daisy said these words not only to comfort the commander, but also to console herself. After all, her previous night was spent in consistent worry and insomnia yet again.

"Haha! After hearing your words, I'm much more relaxed. Now, I'm going to say hello to the leaders of the army group. You can get back to your work!" After finishing his sentence, the commander made his way to the rostrum. But his joyous laugh made Daisy feel a little uneasy.

Taking a deep breath, Daisy took out her phone from her pocket. Staring at the phone in her hand, she gently bite her lip and thought for a little while. In the end, she still couldn't help but dial the number she had been thinking about. But right at this moment when she was about to move the phone to her ear, someone called her name. So she had to hung up in an instant and run to a place where she was needed.

And at the same time, in front of the international airport of the S City, a handsome man look at the phone that only rang once before hanging up. His eyes were full of puzzle and worry. But in the end he didn't say a word, instead he got in the Lamborghini that had stop in front of him. He left the airport immediately to go to the army base where Daisy and others were waiting for him.

Chapter 668: Chapter 668: Edward Is Back (part one)

The minutes ticked past and the new weapons were undergoing trials. Since all of those were high-end weapons for the army, some of them couldn't be tested at the scene, and their functions and performances had to be demonstrated by a lecturer, who was none other than Daisy.

"Now, you're looking at the newly-manufactured armored vehicle with brand-new radars. It is equipped with world's leading navigation system, positioning system, electronic system and digital command system. As a result, its capabilities in navigation, positioning and filtering friendly forces from enemies have been greatly improved. It can deal with two objects at the same time both during the night and in the daytime. The digital command and control system provides the real-time data link between the vehicle and the headquarters,"

Daisy lectured on the vehicle's performance in a confident, smooth and brief manner. It turned out that she did well in the army. Edward now thought more of her. However, he didn't come over to her. On the contrary, he stood there quiet, and stared at the charming Daisy with admiration and happiness. He was really proud of her.

"Now, let's move on to a main battle tank. It can fire while it moves. This one is capable of destroying its enemies from over 4.5 miles away. It can accurately fix positions on its enemies on the battlefield and deliver dialogues at any time. Besides, it can hardly be penetrated by any shell. It's known to be the best tank you can get in the world."

Although Daisy was stared at by a massive crowd, she got really excited to lecture on the weapons,. She seemed to have forgotten everything, including herself. Only those weapons mattered to her at the moment. However, she felt a hot glance lingering on her. But she didn't dare to let herself be distracted by it and make any mistake in front of all those superiors.

Edward had never seen Daisy that way. She confidently demonstrated her rich military knowledge and spoke with fervor and assurance. Edward knew Daisy love her job. This was why, despite his worries over all the following years, he never asked Daisy to give up her sacred career as a soldier.

Mr. Mu, Mrs. Mu is awesome. She's really good at expounding on the performance of those equipment in details." Luke rarely had any words in praise of a woman. However, at that moment, he did speak highly of Daisy.

"Of course, my wife's indeed awesome, isn't she?" said Edward cheerfully. His mouth twitched slightly and then he smiled. He just couldn't look away from Daisy who looked so brilliant and brave in her army uniform.

Hearing those words, Luke felt a little embarrassed because Edward claimed all credit for himself and became really arrogant. Edward had the audacity to take over the merit of his wife's success. 'Shame on him,' Luke thought to himself.

"What's up? What's wrong with you?" asked Edward. Edward turned his gaze from Daisy to Luke when he heard no reply from him. Edward looked so intimidating that if he dare say anything against him, he might be a dead body.

"Nothing. You're right. I can't agree more," answered Luke. Beads of sweat appeared on his forehead. Although he had already been accustomed to Edward's arrogance and capriciousness, Luke was still under pressure when Edward stared at him intently and threateningly.

Now, we finally understand each other, don't we?" said Edward, sneering. Tired as he was, Edward was happy, handsome and charming. He drew the attention of the soldier who brought them in and also the others present in the room.

"Hello, Mr. Mu. When did you arrive? Why didn't anyone tell me about it?" The sound attracted attention of soldiers sitting in the quiet hall. At the moment, the Commander also noticed the presence of Edward.

Just minutes ago. Please don't blame them for my intrusion. I asked them to not interrupt your work. That's all," explained Edward patiently and respectfully. Edward glanced at Daisy and saw her surprised look when he came over to exchange greetings with the Commander. A smile appeared on his handsome face.

Edward's sudden presence distracted Daisy's lecture for a few seconds. Then, she withdrew her gaze from Edward and looked back at the audience again. She started talking, her heart was pounding hard in her chest. 'He is back on time, with the wry smile that I missed so much. He's still the guy I'm so familiar with,' thought Daisy in her mind.

Come here. Come here. Sit with me," said the Commander, who invited Edward to sit with some generals. All those generals were acquainted with Edward. So, undoubtedly, pleasantries were exchanged once again. On one side, some soldiers who had never seen Edward before, were guessing his identity. 'Why is he here to attend this event?' they thought. On the other side, other soldiers who had seen Daisy and Edward together before, looked at Daisy, and were looking forward to her response on seeing Edward.

Daisy took a deep breath in front of those soldiers who shot admirable glances at her. Fortunately, she was done with explaining those complicated questions. Other trivial matters didn't need her explanation or lecture any more.

She walked to Edward slowly and avoided eye contact with him as much as possible. She threw her eyes on him quickly, and looked away before anybody could notice it. Then, she once again looked ahead, pretending that nothing really happened.

Daisy, well done. You did your homework well," said one of the generals. He spoke highly of Daisy not for the purpose of giving Edward an impression that he treated his wife well, but because Daisy really did a good job.

Thank you," replied Daisy humbly. She had never been a people's person, although she wasn't extremely timid nor shy. So, she accepted the praises from others gladly and elegantly, which was her way of showing politeness.

Edward smiled wryly. 'Daisy, how dare you pretend to not know me. If you like things this way, I'll play with you. Actually, I can enjoy some fun here," thought Edward.

"Colonel Ouyang, nice to meet you," said Edward. He stretched his hand and pretended that it was the first time he was meeting Daisy. Being a husband was never going to be easy. You had to be considerate, and yet know how to play with your wife. You should be good at playing, or else you might give your wife away and embarrass her.

"Nice to meet you, Mr. Mu," said Daisy, shocked. She quickly regained her composure and shook hands with him. Both of them behaved normally in front of the people who barely knew the truth. But, other insiders did get confused. They looked at each other and tried to figure out what's wrong with this couple.

Luke's mouth twitched. He found the entire scene funny. He was wondering why Daisy would play with him. Was it because Daisy had developed some of Edward's traits after living with him for so long? But how come he hadn't been deeply affected by his master yet? Luke wondered.

Are you..." asked the Commander in bewilderment. He got confused by this couple exchanging courtesies formally, like two strangers.

Well, I just said hello to Colonel Ouyang," explained Edward absent-mindedly. His attention was drawn by something else now. He had only been away for a couple of days. However, Daisy got injured again. It seemed that she never listened to him carefully.

I get it. You two have a special way to be together," said the Army Commander amusingly after he heard the manner in which Edward talked to Daisy.

Sorry, Army Commander." In moments like this, Edward tended to show his other side of macho bravado and become very considerate, defending Daisy who already felt very embarrassed. Thus, he had to drop his thought of playing with his wife in front of so many soldiers.

You don't need to apologize. Young people are supposed to have fun. However, Colonel Ouyang really surprised us by being so energetic and funny," said the Army Commander amiably. He stared at Daisy and mused on that charming Daisy who had always been a cool and aloof girl and would only display her affection sometimes.

You're right. As far as I'm concerned, Daisy's always serious. It's good to see her solemn face break into a smile, for a change," said the Commander, echoing the Army Commander's words. Then, the topic returned to Daisy again, which brought a warm flush to her face.

Chapter 669: Chapter 669: Edward Is Back (part two)

"I can't agree with you more. A smiling and funny Daisy will be much closer to our soldiers," said another officer. All of a sudden, they seemed to have forgotten the lecture, and became thoroughly interested in Daisy and her husband, Edward.

"I'm sorry to interrupt your conversation. But I hope that Daisy can love me much more than her soldiers." 'Are you guys kidding me? I hate you for staring at my wife. Don't you dare think that you can touch her," thought Edward to himself darkly.

"Haha... Edward, I never thought that you could be so sentimental. Daisy, you better watch out, otherwise your husband will be really jealous," said the Commander. He roared with laughter, which successfully drew the attention of all those soldiers sitting in the hall.

"I should apologize again. I'm pretty serious about loving my wife. No offence," said Edward. However, he didn't look very apologetic. Loving and protecting his beloved wife wasn't embarrassing at all to him. Other people's judgments didn't worry him, since he couldn't love Daisy more and would do anything for her at any costs.

"None taken. We know your love stories and your duties as a responsible husband. Besides, we really appreciate your company's support for the army. So, thank you for everything that you have done for us." The Commander nodded in approval. He felt content to see Daisy have a husband who really loved her.

"You're welcome. We have indeed done very little for you," answered Edward politely. Edward always maintained a low profile in this respect, so he rarely got smug, which made him different from many other businessmen.

"Well, Since Colonel Ouyang is done with her lecture, the rest of the work can be finished by others. So, Daisy, go and show Mr. Mu around. Your presence here isn't required right now. But don't forget to make a speech on the stage in a while." The Commander knew that Edward just got off the plane so he needed some time alone with his wife. Young people always cherished those sweet private moments. The Commander and his peers were reluctant to come in between them, so they chose to leave them alone.

"I appreciate your kindness, Commander. See you later," answered Edward cheerfully. Edward appreciated the Commander's understanding, since he urgently needed to know how his wife got hurt again.

"Alright, let's go and leave them alone. They can enjoy some fun when we're away," said the Commander. Army Commander was quite considerate. He heard that Edward went abroad and might not be able to attend this event earlier. However, Edward still came here on time. So, the Army Commander was very pleased to meet him again and was more than willing to make things convenient for him and his wife.

Daisy thought she had never felt so embarrassed before. Then, as soon as her superiors walked away, she shot an angry look at Edward. She might have even slapped him on the face, if it were possible.

Colonel Ouyang, don't you think you should explain yourself first?" said Edward in a casual manner. Meanwhile, he looked around and seemed to be looking for something.

"Why should I do that?" asked Daisy and a deep furrow appeared between her brows. She stared at him wonderingly and then noticed the inquisitive glances of some soldiers standing nearby.

"Forget it. If you don't love yourself, what can I do to save your ass?" Edward sighed. He didn't intend to argue with his wife while so many strangers were looking at them. However, he indeed felt gloomy and thought what he cared about meant nothing to Daisy.

Don't be stupid. Why are you talking such nonsense?" Daisy had completely forgotten the wound on her hand. So she couldn't guess what Edward was referring to. As far as she was concerned, that minor wound was nothing.

Yeah, I'm stupid to worry about you. Forget it," answered Edward ironically. He was thinking about her all the time. But he was yet again repaid with ungratefulness and misunderstandings. If Daisy really cared about him, she should have taken good care of herself and must have avoided getting injured. Seeing those injuries, Edward felt extremely bad. He couldn't help but blame himself for being an unqualified husband who always saw his wife getting herself into dangers but yet couldn't do anything about it.

"Are you mad?" Daisy's brow furrowed in bewilderment. She looked at the solemn man standing in front of her, and ignored those inquisitive glances from those soldiers who looked all curious. She wanted to get a hint from Edward's face as to what really was going on in his mind right now.

"Is it necessary?" Edward proposed a rhetorical question. Actually, he said that more to himself than to his wife. Was it really necessary to get mad at her because of this petty affair? Since when did he become so possessive and unreasonable? Hadn't women always offered themselves to him? If those physical injuries meant nothing to her, why should he care?

"I don't know. You have always been paranoid." Daisy was sure that her husband was mad at her for some unknown reason. But she had no time to argue with him at that moment. So, she chose to patiently wait and find it out later when they got home.

Colonel, Mr. Mu. The Commander has asked you to join them," a young voice was heard. When neither Edward nor Daisy agreed to nudge, Mark came over and conveyed the Commander's words, which temporarily postponed their dispute. Relieved, Daisy knew that Edward could never be controlled, and nobody could predict what he would do next. Although he loved and cared about her, his bullying and peremptory characters still existed. He might be scary when he lost his temper.

"I know. We're coming," said Daisy. Daisy looked back at the hall, and found her superiors sitting on the stage. Then, it suddenly occurred to her that it was time for her to deliver her closing speech on the stage.

"Let's go. You might be asked to speak offhand." Her mouth twitched slightly. She stretched her hand to pull Edward's arm. When she saw the bandage on her hand, she finally realized why Edward was mad at her. However, right now, she didn't have any time to explain herself to him. So, she smiled at him apologetically.

Edward removed his hand from hers, and walked towards the stage, leaving Daisy behind. Daisy knew her husband was pissed off. She shook her head helplessly, and followed him closely, wondering how to resolve this fight.

"Now, be quiet. I'm pleased to announce that the performance of the new weapons is now over. Next, let's all welcome our sponsor of these equipment, the CEO of FX International Group, Edward Mu to make a speech." As soon as the Commander stopped, the thunderous applause was heard in the hall.

"Hello, comrades, I appreciate what you have done for our country. Your commitments and sacrifices are making you great soldiers. Thank you for your services." Edward stopped, he then turned to look at Daisy, and continued.

"Now I'm going to cut the long story short and come straight to the point. If I have guessed it right, some of you are more curious about my relationship with Daisy than anything else." Edward's eyes ran down the soldiers sitting off stage. He thought that some of them had never met him, although he had been here once in the past. Probably, this is why they were continually looking at him ever since he entered the hall.

Are you interested in Daisy's private life? I know a lot of you people have made all kinds of assumptions about her. Now, let tell you something. As you just saw, I have established a really delicate relationship with Daisy, because I'm her husband.

With Edward's those astonishing words, the audience roared in surprise. A few moments later, they all calmed down, and curious glances at Daisy. Now it was clear why Daisy never came out in public about her marriage before. Her husband was not any ordinary man. But something must be wrong here. If she did have a husband who happened to be the CEO of an international company, why did she still leave a lonely life with her son all those years.
