

My Wife is a beautiful Officer Chapter 921 - Chapter 920: The Acquisition (part one)

Chapter 921: Chapter 920: The Acquisition (part one)

"Before I am your wife, I am a wise person first." Belinda smiled, suddenly recalling the previous cold Duke. Although he was very cocky and domineering, that kind of coldness attracted Belinda most at the beginning.

"Hah! Duke, she means that you are not a wise person yourself. Your IQ needs to be evaluated again!" Leena was happy to see the both of them quarrel with each other. This way, they were not focusing on her any longer. Leena immediately added fuel to the fire.

"Leena, I know that. You don't need to explain it to me!" Duke narrowed his eyes as he glared at Leena. Leena must have forgotten who brought her up! She had started to be partial to Belinda after he married her. This time, Leena even had the gall to chuckle at his setback. 'What an ungrateful girl!' Duke thought, with a cold expression on his face.

"Little girl, haven't you heard of that saying? Never interfere in the matters between husband and wife. Come and sit with me! Let's be the bystanders, in case you are swept away by their angry typhoon." Edward waved to Leena. It seemed that this girl did not realize how a couple played cat and mouse with each other. In fact, sometimes, a certain amount of quarrels demonstrated the love.

"You are right! I'd better keep away from them. Otherwise, they would kill me." As she said that, Leena stood up and moved to sit next to Edward to keep away from Duke.

"You roguish girl," Belinda uttered, clenching her teeth. "The reason why we are having a row is because of you! And now, you sit back, staying out of it!" Confronted with the embarrassing situation, Belinda did not know whether to laugh or cry. What on earth had she done just now? Making trouble for herself? Belinda widened her beautiful eyes as she glanced at Leena.

"No, no, no. How could I do that? I just wanted to give you and Duke some private spaces. That way, you can get into a fight without any concerns." Leena looked back at Belinda, blinking her innocent eyes. Even though she had worsened the situation, Leena was delighted to see that Duke and Belinda lived a happy and normal married life. Her initial plan of pushing Belinda toward her dear brother had not been a foolish one.

"Yeah, that's right! See! We are so considerate to you both that we are giving you more private spaces! Go ahead! We will not bother you." Edward echoed, raising his eyebrows at Leena. He almost wanted to give her a thumbs up for her bravery. She had challenged the cold Duke and short-tempered Belinda. He couldn't wait to see what would happen later. What an excited bystander Edward was!

"Shut your trap, you trickster. Fuck off. Do you think I don't know what you are thinking about?" Duke knew Edward and his real intentions very well. Edward was crooning with glee. He must be applauding himself in his mind.

Edward, this dish is delicious! You have to try it!" Leena took some food from the dish that was just brought up by the waiter and put it into Edward's bowl. She looked like a charming angel.

All right. Yes. It looks delicious! Thank you. You should eat the rest." Edward pretended not to hear what Duke said and ignored the fuming couple. He and Leena enjoyed the delicious food and tasted the morsels in exaggerated motions. Their actions irritated Duke and Belinda, who glared daggers at them. Before they could get back at them, a loud voice was heard from the outside.

"So sorry. I'm late." Tom came into the room in a hurry.

"Hi, Tom. How are you? It is not too late. You're just in time. Come and sit here." Leena shot him a greeting, with a pleasant smile on her face. Her smile was so sweet that it could warm everyone's heart. It was her signature expression.

"Leena. You finally came back. We missed you so much!" Tom gave Leena a warm hug. As they were the only child of their families, they all had taken Leena under their wings and cared for her like she was their little sister since the day she was born. It wasn't hard to imagine that if she got hurt, they would all be ready to fight for her.

"I missed you, too! I worked very hard to complete my thesis and graduated as soon as possible." Just as the guys considered her to be their little sister, Leena too considered them as her brothers. They had witnessed and participated in every step of her growth.

"Why do you look thinner? Are you sick again?" Tom frowned slightly. Stretching out his right hand, he held Leena's left wrist, gauging her pulse. His action drew the attention of all the people in the room. They kept quiet, holding their breaths as they looked at what he was doing. After a few minutes, Tom withdrew his hand, breathing a sigh of relief. Fortunately, there was no big problem with Leena. She was just a little weak. That could be handled with a few medicines.

I'm fine. Thanks, Tom. I caught a cold before, in Paris. That is why I have been feeling a little weak recently." Leena fully understood her poor body. She never hid anything about her health, because she didn't want it to get worse. After all, the man who stood before her was a genius in the field of medicine. Even if she wanted to hide something, it was impossible not to be found out by Tom.

"I see. Come to my hospital someday and find me. I will give you some medicines." Tom added, finally letting go of Leena. He sat down on the other side of Edward.

Oh, no! Do I really need to take medicines?" Thinking about the bitter pills, Leena pouted. A sad expression came upon her face, as did a hint of panic in her voice. She turned to Duke for help, looking at her dear brother with big puppy eyes. However, Duke shook his head, turning a deaf ear to Leena's cry for help. 'What a mean brother Duke is!' Leena thought to herself. 'He must be angry about the quarrel I started between him and Belinda!'

Yes. your immunity has somewhat decreased recently. You have to take medicines. They will help you recuperate." Leena had been weak and sick since her childhood. Although she was in much better shape as an adult, her constitution was still delicate and she often got ill. That was why Tom paid great attention to her health.

"It's not serious, is it?" Edward was worried after hearing Tom's words. After all, they all knew of Leena's physical condition very well. To put it bluntly, the girl grew up with medicines when she was little. She only slightly got better after the age of ten. Then, with Tom's good and careful nursing, Leena experienced great improvements. At least she did not need to take medicines every day anymore. However, it did not mean that she was as fit and healthy as other people. This was the reason why Duke had rushed to take care of her last time, when Leena caught a cold back in France. Duke had been afraid that Leena's cold would get worse because of her poor health.

Chapter 922: Chapter 921: The Acquisition (part two)

"She is fine. It's not that serious. I will pay attention to her. Leena, you'd better not let yourself get drenched after autumn. Otherwise, it would be hard for me to nurse you back to good health." Even though Tom was confident in his professional skills, he certainly did not have the ability to make the dead come back to life.

Tom, don't scare me! Is it really that serious?" I have been good all these years. I didn't have any major problems. I even rarely get any colds." Leena got frightened by Tom's serious expression. At the same time, she felt that Tom fussed over her too much. As she pondered on that, Leena did not think it was too big of a problem. After all, she had been in good health all these years. She could hop, jump, and run as well as other people.

"Leena, that is because we have been taking good care of you. Just think! We never even let you get wet in the winter all these years. Tom also examines and prescribes you medicines from time to time. Do you think all those pills are candies?" Duke cast a sidelong glance at Leena. He was still angry with her and Edward for their little performance before Tom came in. However, when Tom commented on Leena's health, Duke could not help but pay attention, wondering what he could do to help.

"Oh, yes. I am sorry. Thank you, my dear brothers. I have been too careless and heartless to notice that!" Leena pursed her lips. She had always known that they spoiled her as if she would always remain a little girl. However, she did not truly realize how much she owed them.

"No, Leena. Don't worry about it too much. Just be your good and honest self. We don't ask for much; we only hope that you are in good health. Your safety is our priority." Edward patted her on the back, comforting the remorseful girl. He never considered Leena to be heartless. On the contrary, it was she who had given them some of their happiest moments in the past years.

Umm. Thanks, Edward. I know that now." Leena nodded her head obediently. Even though Leena was bold most of the time, she knew when to joke around and under what circumstances to be quiet and follow others' suggestions. Currently, the room fell into a dignified atmosphere discussing her health. She kept quiet and behaved well.

"Has Leena always been in poor health?" Belinda's eyebrows knitted as she whispered to Duke in a low voice. Although they had quarreled just now, lovers' tiffs could be easily resolved in a short time.

"That was the case when Leena was a child. She got much better after she grew up, but she still requires close attention. That's why we are always anxious when it comes to her." Duke explained to Belinda, with his gaze fixed on Leena. When Leena noticed her brother's eyes on her, her lips curled upward and she gave him a warm smile.

Oh, okay. I see." Belinda nodded in understanding. She pondered over how Duke loved and cared for his sister. Belinda had known that Duke played both the role of a brother and caretaker for Leena, after they lost their mother at an early age. She understood his responsibilities. She didn't feel jealous about that. Truthfully, she wanted to be able to share these responsibilities with him. She wanted to look after his little sister too. Besides, Belinda adored Leena's kindness and charm.

As they discussed Leena's poor health in this room, they did not know that she would once again come into close contact with cold water, during the following winter. The accident would almost take her away from them.

During their lunch this afternoon, the topics of discussions always concerned Leena: her health, her studies, and her life. It was not hard to figure out the importance of Leena in their lives. The constant worries put immense pressure on Leena. She did not know how she could reciprocate their love and attention.

The good friends bid each other adieu after lunch. Leena had come with Edward and had to go back to FX International Group. Her car was at the company's parking lot. Their conversations over lunch made Edward ponder over his recent actions. He finally made the decision on the way back to the office and put an end to all matters concerning the Kompass Group. The longer he waited, the bigger was the possibility that unexpected troubles would occur.

Edward, what are you thinking about?" Leena asked upon seeing his serious expression. She wished she could help Edward. Leena knew that if he could not solve a problem, she too would be helpless at it. But she was willing to let him know that she was available for help.

"Oh, no. It is nothing of importance. I was just thinking about some work. Don't worry about it." Edward smiled at her reassuringly and turned his eyes back to the road, concentrating on his driving.

"Okay." Leena did not say anything else. She knew Edward well. If he wanted her to know something, he would tell her even before she asked. On the other hand, if he did not say anything, it meant that he did not want her to get involved. 'It is pointless that I ask him again.' Leena assured herself. In any case, Edward was like God to her. Nothing could hold him back. Leena put her worries on hold, looking outside the car's window.

Edward worked efficiently. After he arrived at the company, he called a management meeting and announced that he wanted to purchase most of the shares of the Kompass Group. Within minutes, all top executives and technicians at FX International became extremely busy.

On the other side of the town, Shaun received news of Edward's acquisition. However, two hours had passed since Edward's announcement. Although he wanted to take action, it was too late for him to fight back. Even if he had gotten the information earlier, he could not have come up with solutions. Shaun was no match to Edward when it came to business. Not to mention, Edward had been well prepared for the purchase.

However, Shaun was too arrogant to think so. In his opinion, he had plenty of shares of the department stores that were subsidiaries of the FX International Group. He didn't think he was in much trouble. If worst came to worst, he could exchange the shares with Edward. What puzzled him most were Edward's actions. What was his plan? If Edward wanted to purchase the shares of the Kompass Group so quietly, he must have known that Shaun was buying the shares of the department stores. However, Edward had not taken any response measures. He acted like he had given up the stores.

"Shaun, what will you do? Will your company close down because of this?" Melissa felt anxious about the current situation. Shaun had been her last resort. If he failed, she couldn't imagine the situation she would face.

Chapter 923: Chapter 922: The Acquisition (part three)

"Do not worry, Melissa. Don't forget that we hold 60% shares of MY Mall. We don't need to be afraid. He couldn't really acquire Kompass Group." Shaun said through gritted teeth. Those damn fence-sitters! How could they sell the company shares secretly! He would give them a good lesson after he went back. Did FX International really think that if they held 40% of the shares, they would make him give in? It was impossible! They must have forgotten that he had the majority of the shares. In any case, he was the biggest stakeholder of Kompas Group. Even if Edward purchased the remaining stakes, what could he do? It was pointless. It was obvious to Shaun that he was in charge of the company as he held 60% of the shares.

"That is true. However, we will have to exchange the Kompas Group for MY Mall. In any respect, it seems that we are losing." Melissa did not find comfort in Shaun's words. She knew Edward better than anyone else. She had experienced first hand his skills in business. It was well-known that he was an expert at offending others, but no one could take the slightest advantage of him. Melissa calmed down, suspecting that letting Shaun purchase the shares of MY Mall had been Edward's intention. Did he deliberately turn a blind eye to Shaun's acquisition so that he threw in all his investments? This way, he could cut off Shaun's cash flow, giving him no opportunity to collect back the stocks of Kompas Group if need be. Shaun would be stuck in the middle, with no room to move around.

"Hmm. No. That is impossible. Things have not come to a head yet. It is too early to predict who wins and who loses." Shaun smiled coldly. It seemed that the war between him and Edward was out in the open. They both knew the other's objective.

It is not easy to handle Edward, Shaun. I advise you to be careful. Once he starts, it won't be easy to detect his ruse and fight back." Melissa was fully aware of the ruthless measures that Edward undertook. He took possession of her own company in a matter of few days. It was not difficult to ascertain how cruel Edward could get when he was angry.

"How come you know him so well? To me it seems that he is not your enemy, but your former lover!" Shaun gazed at her with a puzzled look on his face. Every little thing revealed that the bone of contention between her and Edward was not a mere family feud.

"How is that possible!. You think too much. If I knew him that well, why would he not recognize me at the department store that day?" Melissa could not look into Shaun's inquiring eyes. She would not admit that they had been together before. The first time she had sex with Shaun, she pretended to be a virgin. If Shaun knew what had passed between her and Edward, her previous efforts to make Shaun fall in love with her might come to naught.

That's true. But I sensed that his words had another meaning behind them. Are you sure you don't know him before?" It was no wonder that Shaun suspected Melissa. From her words, it seemed that she was well-versed with everything about Edward. Shaun did not want to be the fool, so he had to ask her this question.

"Why are you still asking me? Don't you believe me?" Melissa frowned as she gazed at Shaun coldly. There was a hint of displeasure on her face as her heart thumped loudly.

"Why would I not believe you? Dear, let's not quarrel about this. We must get back to H City immediately. Otherwise, my father will tear me to pieces if he gets to know what happened." Shaun called up his technical team, instructing them to stay and continue looking for opportunities to acquire the shares. Meanwhile, he had to go back to H City and save his company from Edward's clutches.

"What? Get back to H City? Right now? What about MY Mall? You want to give it up? We have worked on it for such a long time!" Melissa spluttered. Why did Shaun want to give up MY Mall, which he already had half the shares of? If so, would her dream of being the wife of MY Mall's President just shatter into pieces? And if that was the case, why did she bother doing all that hard work in the beginning? Melissa smiled sadly. No matter how much she tried, she was unable to fulfill her long-awaited wish. She felt depressed. Would she experience the failure of her company once again? It was hard to look back on that difficult time in her life. She could do nothing but rely on Shaun.

I have called my staff and instructed them to purchase the rest of the shares. They would handle it well. However, I must go back to H City. The 60% of the shares I hold at Kompass Group are at stake." Shaun did not want to ruin the company his father had set up with his blood, sweat and tears. He must go back and fight for it.

"But I don't want to go back to H City! Shaun, can't I stay here and wait for you?" She had only returned to S City to stage her revenge on Edward. How could she just run away and lose once again?

Dear, listen to me. Let's pack our bags. I promise you, after I stabilize the company's stock price, we will come back." Shaun kissed her on the lips gently. Keeping aside some things that bothered him, he really liked Melissa. He just didn't know how long such a liking could endure. After all, only a handful of rich people were faithful to their lovers.

"Shaun, let me think on it for a while. How about you go back first? I will stay here for a couple of days more and meet you at H City later?" Melissa was unwilling to leave. She failed in taking her revenge. And now, she had to evacuate this place like a loser! It was hard for her to accept this reality. It was so embarrassing to realize that Edward and the others had figured out her identity. Otherwise, Daisy would not have called her by her name that day! Melissa did not want to give up yet. She wanted to stay and plan her next steps.

"Why do you even want to stay here? Give me a reason! I'll consider it if you can persuade me." Shaun's casual tone faded as he regarded her seriously. 'Is she hiding something from me?' he wondered.

Chapter 924: Chapter 923: Jessica (part one)

"Cousin? When did you mention that to me? Why can't I remember?"

Shaun looked at her in bewilderment. He wondered since when had he got such a bad memory.

Ah! Haven't I told you? My bad. I must have forgotten to do so. Can you go home on your own today? I want to visit my cousin. I have been away from this city for so long after all. I miss her so much," said Melissa as she rested her hands on Shaun's hips in a flirty and charming manner.

Alright. You can have some fun with your cousin. But listen, don't try to seduce other men. Are we clear on that?" In reaction to what she did, Shaun grabbed one of her breasts and looked at it lustfully. Then, he started to play with her plump bosom wickedly and presumptuously.

"Don't be ridiculous. I love nobody but you, sweetie." The lady raised her eyebrows seductively before wetting her lips with the tip of her tongue.

"I know. How can I allow any other man to touch your pussy, enter you and satisfy your sexual desire?" A confident laugh escaped from Shaun. He could feel his flesh getting harder as he looked at Melissa intensely.

"Watch your mouth, Shaun. Otherwise, I'm gonna get angry." Melissa glowered at the man with her lips puckered. She might be bold and open but she wasn't as vulgar as him. It was embarrassing. It felt like her reputation was getting compromised whenever he talked.

"Well, you are not that innocent whenever you lie in bed with me and beg me to fuck you hard." He didn't treat Melissa's disapproval seriously and continued to talk dirty.

"Stop. How dare you talk to me that way." Melissa's face blushed in shame. The lecherous man was getting uncontrollably worse. However, he was the one she had to rely on for now. She couldn't push him away even if she wanted to, could she? She was clearly aware of where she stood. She was a penniless woman with no family or friend to watch over her back but with an enemy to fight with.

"Don't you see that I'm obsessed about you? You should be happy because I just like you too much. That's the only reason why I don't allow you to flirt with other men." One thing for sure was that enchantment was different from love. Though Shaun was totally into Melissa, he pretty much knew that he wasn't in love with her yet. Thus, he said 'like'.

"Do you like me that much?" On the other hand, Melissa was smart too. So she used 'like' rather than 'love' as well. Love would be too strong to describe their relationship.

She and Shaun were no more than two people using each other. She managed to remain calm and reasonable about that fact and avoided relating such emotion to their affair.

"Why not? Don't you believe me? Only those eunuchs will ignore you once your voluptuous body is on the bed." The lewd man lecherously smiled. He reluctantly withdrew his hand from her breast for fear that he might not be able to keep himself from having sex with her again. He wouldn't even bother to control himself in normal situations. The only thing he cared about was satisfying himself. Today was an exception though. He had to return to H City as soon as possible, otherwise, Kompass Group would be taken over by others. The commerce world was as treacherous and dangerous as battlefields. Anything could happen within just a second.

"Fuck off. Don't touch me again." Melissa wished to laugh out loud but stopped on second thought. According to what Shaun said, he just liked her sexy body and her wantonness. That perception both angered and confused her at the same time. 'Am I really that bad? Can I ever be loved by any decent man?' Her thoughts went on and on. For Pete's sake! Even the most wicked and irresponsible man, Shaun, couldn't stomach to love her. A sudden surge of jealousy hit her nerves over Daisy's luck. How on earth did she capture Edward's heart, enchant her cousin, and even steal Shaun's attention?

"Do you really want me to leave?" said Shaun while staring at her. "Oh yeah! You mean it. Goodbye." Then he burst into laughter. He packed his things and walked out without even a single word. Outside his assistant was already waiting for him. Seriously, if he hadn't anticipated another quick sex with her, he wouldn't even have stayed there until that moment, as he'd better hit the road as soon as possible.

Melissa sank into the couch tiredly after she saw Shaun leave. 'Am I doing the right thing by seducing Shaun and pretending to live a splendid life?' she asked herself. 'I could get myself killed by that cruel Edward. He never shows mercy to those who dare to provoke him and defy his authority.' Giving up sounded like a good choice at that point but then she was aware that she had already burned too many bridges. She couldn't go back.

"Mr. Mu, I was told that Shaun had already gone back to H City," said Luke. He came there to report to Edward as soon as he got the news. He knew that time was gold in the business world and he didn't dare to harm their CEO's interest with something as simple as negligence.

"Yeah? Has he gone back already? Everything is under control. Aaron, go and purchase the shares of MY Mall. Be careful, the share prices should be stabilized so that Shaun won't notice any change or abnormality," Edward turned to the other guy inside his office and said. His eyes were filled with disdain as he talked. He was a beautiful mixture of both evil and wise.

"Consider it done. By the way, what should we do about Kompass Group? Shall we continue to purchase their shares? It might be difficult to do that since sixty percent of their shares are owned by the Gao Family. They are not easy to deal with." Aaron frowned. He knew that those people from the Gao Family weren't that stupid to just sell their shares.

Stop overthinking for now. We should concentrate on purchasing every inch of MY Mall. As for Kompass, we'd better become its major shareholder. That would be fun." Edward was all fired up with his ideas. However, he still hoped not to make the results too bad and embarrassing for the former president of Kompass, Shaun's father. Business-wise, he had a not bad relationship with the old man. Therefore, he still wouldn't want to make an enemy of him just because of his worthless son.

"What? Do you really want to work with him?" Aaron was confused. He wondered why would Edward do such a thing. Hadn't Edward known that the Kompass Group was headquartered in H City?

Didn't I mention it to you before? I have a cousin who lives here. I would like to visit her before leaving. I will go to H City later and see you. Is that fine?" Melissa explained cautiously, watching his expression.

Chapter 925: Chapter 924: Jessica (part two)

"Why not? Isn't it supposed to be fun? I'm desperate to find out how will he behave in front of me." Edward didn't intend to do this before. However, he changed his mind upon witnessing Shaun's foolishness and arrogance. Now, all he wanted was to make a fool out of the man. He didn't mind sparing time and setting up traps for him. He even thought that a direct confrontation with Shaun would be very amusing.

I see." Aaron nodded thoughtfully as he realized Edward's real intention. "For your amusement. I'm gonna do it for you, Mr. Mu." He turned around to leave. He couldn't help but wonder if it was a good thing to have such a mischievous boss as he walked out of the room.

"Mr. Mu, Melissa is not leaving with Shaun. She is staying in the presidential suite of Kate Hotel. Shall we take actions against her?" Edward felt a bit worried after hearing that Melissa wasn't with Shaun. He silently wondered if she was playing another trick.

"What? Why didn't she go with Shaun?" His brows furrowed. He never thought that Melissa would do that.

"I have no idea. Shaun was seen walking out of the hotel with his assistant. We didn't spot Melissa with them." Luke raised his head to look at Edward. He was curious about how he would respond.

"You guys keep your eyes on Melissa and watch if she's up for any trouble. Send some reliable people to protect Daisy and Justin. No harm should come to them. Do you understand?" A slight smile cracked Edward's lips as thoughts began to cruise his mind. 'I don't care if your name is Melissa or Jessica. You will face the worst if you dare to hurt any of my beloved. You'll suffer and beg me to kill you. I promise that you won't get away from this as easily as you did last time.'

"Consider it done, Mr. Mu. But then, please consider that Mrs. Mu is very smart and sensible as well. She will find out about us following her very soon. I wonder whether she'll get angry." Luke knew Daisy well enough to know that she hated the idea of being followed around.

"Don't worry. I'll explain it to her and try to talk some sense to her." The CEO knew what Luke meant. Nevertheless, he had to do that for the sake of his wife's safety even if it would make her mad. He couldn't bear to think about the possibilities of losing her or their son. Therefore, she had to be protected round the clock, regardless of her protests and grudges.

"Then, I'll leave you alone," answered Luke. He walked out of the room after he received Edward's guarantee. He had many things to do on his list. He should tail Shaun and Melissa and send some professional people to protect the most important people for Edward.

Melissa dressed up and drove to where Coco lived after Shaun left. She had to pay her a visit because her mother lived there temporarily.

"Cousin, why did you come here? Haven't you told me that you won't show up for a while?" A curious Coco said. She was surprised about Melissa's sudden appearance in her house. Didn't her cousin say that she would avoid making any contact with them for fear that she might get exposed? However, she came there out of blue. Had something happened? Did she feel it necessary to come here?

"Things changed. My identity has been known to Edward. I never admitted it though. By the way, where's Mom? Is she alright?" asked Melissa worriedly. It was undeniable how concerned she was with her mother's health.

"Aunt's fine. Don't worry. We're treating her well. However, she has bad times and good times. Nevertheless, she's slowly recovering." Coco knew that 'Melissa' was Jessica's adopted name after she had cosmetic surgery. Actually, it was her that accompanied Jessica to go through all those. The surgeries had been extremely painful but the results were awesome as Jessica's face ended up stunningly beautiful. That was one thing she was happy about since they were family.

"What did the doctor say? Will mom recover from her illness?" asked Jessica nervously. Speaking of which, it was Jessica who caused her mother to get sick. If the events and disasters she had been through hadn't occurred at all, her extremely-ill and bedridden father wouldn't have died. Her mother wouldn't be clinically depressed if that was the case.

The doctor said that her recovery was barely possible. He also said that we should stop clinging on to false hopes. I'm really sorry to tell you that. What about you? How is your plan going? Is everything alright Jessica, listen to me. Forget about your fucking revenge. It's a hopeless and hilarious dream for us to bring FX International Group down. Look around you, have you gotten anything useful to achieve your goal? None. You got nothing." Coco looked at Jessica with concern. She knew the consequences of going against Edward. Jessica would eventually get herself killed.

"I know I'm more likely to fail. However, I can at least make trouble for them and be a pain in their asses." Jessica bit her lips and felt like a fallen woman. That was how it felt for her to fool around Shaun and let that bastard touch her body. She would not even bother to throw him a glimpse before. That would be absolutely unbelievable and unbearable.

"Are you sure that you won't get yourself into trouble? We're doing fine. We don't own your Lin Group anymore but we still have Xue Family's company to support us. We can live a prosperous, care-free, risk-free and comfortable life if you stop taking revenge." Coco wasn't sure why she felt as restless as ants on a hot pan. She could sense that something terrible was happening but couldn't figure out what it was. It was also a puzzle to her why her cousin couldn't just abort her mission.

If you were standing in my position, would you swallow the anger, pretend to live a care-free life, and allow your enemies to laugh and be happy?" said Melissa sternly and harshly. She hated Edward and his whole family. If it weren't for them, her father would not have died and her mother would have been healthy. On the other hand, how dirty and wanton could a woman be if she was ready to leave a tolerable life and choose to sell her body to a filthy bastard man? To be laughed at and even be tortured by him?

If I were you, I would let it go. After all, you also made some mistakes, didn't you?" Coco recalled the quarrel between Jessica and Daisy in the restaurant. She could have applauded for Daisy if only she hadn't chosen to take Jessica's side. After all, Daisy was such a wonderful and admiring woman.